Senate Resolution No. 10.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Slater:

Relative to the death of Frank C. Jordan, Secretary of State of California.

Since the Senate of the State of California met in regular session death has stepped in and called California's most beloved public official, the late Frank C. Jordan, for twenty-nine years Secretary of State of California and by reason of continuous service the dean of the Secretaries of the several States.

Very genuinely happy were the associations maintained throughout the years between the members of the Senate and our devoted friend, who was at all times glad to render any assistance possible to promote the best service not only of his department, admirably conducted as it was, but involving every avenue of State government. Consequently the members of the Senate and the people of his beloved State, deeply mourn his passing.

A prince in the realm of friendship, a man who counted his friends by the thousands, a life freighted with happiness and its bestowal of like fellowship universally, a devoted public servant and whose office was always open to the humblest person who sought entrance there; these are but a few inspirations which are indelibly written upon the pages of Memory, bright inscriptions which neither time nor death can efface.

So that the Journal of the happenings of this body may contain a lasting note of affection, which will indicate to future periods in California history a token calling attention to the great and good man in public service; be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That when we adjourn this day we do so out of respect to the memory of the late Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan and thereby manifest a last note of appreciation of a splendid official and friend and; be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate cause this resolution to be entered upon our minutes and an illuminated copy thereof be forwarded to the family of our beloved friend.

Resolution read, and on motion of Senator Slater unanimously adopted by a rising vote of the Senate.

Presentation of Governor Culbert L. Olson.

Hon. Gordon H. Garland, Speaker of the Assembly, presented Governor Culbert L. Olson to the Joint Convention. The Governor delivered the following message:

Governor's Message to Legislators.

Members of the Senate and Assembly of the California Legislature:

Your special session, called to convene on this date, is held in accordance with your own plans at the conclusion of the regular session last year in recognition of the fact that the funds you appropriated for unemployment relief would be exhausted at about this time and of the State's inescapable need for new revenue, which you failed to provide at the regular session.

Unemployment Relief.

In considering and determining the amount of your appropriation to the Relief Administration and the Relief Commission for continuation of unemployment relief during the remainder of the present biennium, it is my duty to present to you the following information and carefully considered estimates:

During the 90th fiscal year, ended June 30, 1939, there was expended for unemployment relief the sum of $42,577,872.71. The corresponding figure for the first six months of the current fiscal year was $27,152,279.75. The unexpended balance of the $35,000,000 appropriated for relief at your regular session last year, as of December 31, 1939, was $7,847,720.25. Although this balance is sufficient to carry a portion of the present case-load for the next twenty days, because of the time required for administrative operations, audits and check writing by the State Controller, no new intake or further relief payments can be made after February 5. If your appropriation of funds for the remainder of the biennium can not be made before that date, it will be necessary for me to ask for an emergency appropriation.

Based upon carefully prepared estimates of need, an appropriation of $95,500,000 for relief is necessary to carry on for the balance of the biennium. This estimate is predicated upon the continuance of the same basic rules of eligibility as to destitution and residence and the same minimum budgetary standards that have been in effect since the inauguration of the program pursuant to the Unemployment Relief Act of 1935. It is also predicated upon a continuance of the present scope of Federal W.P.A. employment and all other factors involved.

While the total sum to cover existing needs for which this appropriation is urged appears large, it should be understood that approximately 350,000 persons within the State draw their entire subsistence therefrom. This large proportion of our population faces starvation unless these funds are provided.

Only 4 per cent of the entire amount of the appropriation required is proposed for expenditure upon our works program designed as an attack on the whole dole system by way of gradually making the unemployed self-supporting.

Economies in administering the program have been instituted. Others are in the process of development, such as a continuous independent audit of the relief rolls by the Department of Finance, which I am recommending, and the efficient functioning of the S.R.A. Personnel Standards Board, which I have recently appointed.

From time to time restrictions have been urged with a view to decreasing the total cost of unemployment relief. Included among these have been the fixing of a ceiling of $65.00 for monthly family budgets, the establishment of a three year State residence requirement for relief, and the establishment of still more rigid rules for eligibility than have heretofore been adopted. Should the Legislature adopt all these restrictions, I am advised that a saving of as much as $30,000,000 may be effected. If this should be your action, the appropriation necessary for the remainder of the biennium will be $66,000,000.

However, I submit that no such reduction is possible without causing untold misery and hardship.

These estimates are shocking to me, as they no doubt are to you. In my budget message last January the total amount estimated for unemployment relief during the current biennium was $73,660,000. That estimate did not contemplate the drastic W.P.A. curtailment which followed, throwing back onto S.R.A. 30,000 case-loads. The W.P.A. case-load was thereby decreased from 67 per cent to 46 per cent of the total unemployment relief load of the State, while the S.R.A. case-load further augmented by all normal increases due to population rise and from other employment, has increased from 33 per cent to 54 per cent of the total aid. On December 14, 1938, its case-load was 59,000; on December 13, 1939, it was 100,000.

We would all condemn any laxity in accepting relief cases; any relief generosity inspired by political consideration; any waste or inefficiency in the administration of relief. But, obviously, if sporadic instances of such things are found by our intensive drives to prevent them, the total of increased or unnecessary costs attributable to such instances would be negligible and infinitesimal. They can not truthfully be considered a factor in accounting for the tremendous increase in the S.R.A. case-load and in the cost of unemployment relief.

As to costs of the administration of relief, I have insisted that continuous effort be made to reduce the same to not more than 15 per cent, which is considerably below the cost thereof during the previous administration. Progress has been and is being made in lowering the administrative costs to that level or below it. I do not believe the cost of administration need be higher. As an aid in keeping the cost within that limit, I recommend that provision be made in your appropriation that the costs of administration shall not exceed 15 per cent.

In considering the extent to which the relief load may be decreased by a pick-up in business activities and employment opportunities, we should bear in mind the highly important fact that the number of unemployed who receive relief is the smaller part of the total number of employable unemployed men and women in the State who are seeking jobs. Available statistics show that on November 30, 1939, approximately 176,000 cases, representing 228,000 workers in California, were receiving unemployment relief from all unemployment relief agencies—the S.R.A., the W.P.A., and the Farm Security Administration. At the same time there were in the State between 550,000 and 600,000 unemployed workers, approximately 350,000 of whom were receiving no relief at all.

It is these unemployed workers, not on relief, who are the first to return to private employments during any upswing in industrial activities. Their resources are generally greater, which is one important reason they are not on relief; their employment records are more recent, their health is better, and in a general way they are more employable than those on relief and thus have the advantage in competition for a limited number of jobs.

The State's Need for Additional Revenue.

The State's need for additional revenue is, of course, well known to you, as it is to all persons familiar with the fiscal condition of the State. We face serious financial problems in meeting the fixed charges of the Constitution, the requirements of the laws passed by the Legislature, the operating expenditures which you have budgeted, and your appropriations for unemployment relief.

On June 30, 1939, the General Fund deficit was $38,711,723. Since adjournment of your regular session last June without providing additional revenue, that deficit has been and is still increasing at the rate of $2,400,000 per month.

An appropriation for relief of $66,000,000, the minimum and inadequate figure already mentioned, when added to budgeted appropriations and fixed charges now in force, will bring authorized General Fund expenditures for the 1939-1941 biennium to a total of $397,797,173. Existing revenue laws, on the other hand, are estimated to yield only $351,486,923 to the General Fund during the same two year period. This leaves a current budget deficiency, or shortage of revenues, with which to meet required expenditures for this present biennium amounting to $46,310,250. This sum, added to the carry-over deficit of $38,711,723, inherited from previous administrations, means unless you provide new revenue at this session, that on June 30, 1941, the State would be confronted with an accumulated deficit in excess of $85,000,000. This would be by far the largest deficit in the history of the State and would seriously threaten its credit.

Thus far the deficit has been financed through the sale of General Fund warrants to banks and other financial institutions. Nearly $92,000,000 of these warrants are now outstanding. It is expected that the total will mount as high as $108,000,000 by the end of the biennium, unless you enact new revenue measures at this session. I am competently advised that we are rapidly approaching a saturation point beyond which it will be difficult, if not impossible, to find a market for the State's warrants. If our warrants can not be sold under the present system, the State will be forced to return to the procedure of issuing registered warrants to each of its State employees, and to merchants, contractors, and other individual creditors, who would find difficulty in converting them into cash, except at heavy discounts. Such a situation in the State's financial affairs would be chaotic.

Moreover, the interest charges alone on this mounting registered warrant debt constitutes a heavy burden on the taxpayer. Such charges will amount to $3,800,000 during the present biennium, equivalent to the entire receipts from the State's tax on beer and wines.

Ordinary prudence and common business sense in the management of the State's fiscal affairs imperatively demands that measures be adopted now which will at least balance the budget for the current biennium and prevent any further increase in the accumulated deficit. Common sense should indicate the wisdom and economy of immediately adopting a relatively moderate additional revenue program rather than facing the necessity of making the radical increases which would be necessary eighteen months hence, if you continue this mounting deficit.

Estimates by the Department of Finance of receipts to be derived under existing law have been carefully prepared. Every effort has been made to foresee probable trends of economic conditions and to make allowance for continued improvement in California business. It is anticipated that tax receipts under existing laws will be the largest in the history of the State. These anticipations agree almost exactly with forecasts made independently by the State agencies administering the respective taxes, and are considerably in excess of estimated General Fund revenue receipts as projected by the State Controller. It is possible, of course, that a marked and prolonged increase in business and prices above the levels of 1937 would result in greater revenue than is now estimated. There is no positive assurance at the present time, however, that the business pickup will attain any such proportions, unless induced by demands arising out of intensified war activities abroad. In the latter event the State should prepare for the inevitable dislocations which would accompany the cessation of such a war. We should husband any additional receipts occurring by reason of war-time prosperity, to wipe out all past deficits and to cushion the certain shrinkage in the State revenues that would result from an ensuing depression. Those who claim the State's budget will be balanced through increased prosperity must prove their case. They must be prepared to take the responsibility for any policies adopted as a result of accepting their views. Responsibility for failing to balance our budget can not be escaped by accepting assertions made in behalf of those who would avoid their just share of the tax burden. It is unstatesmanlike and unbusinesslike to gamble with the financial soundness of the State.

I, therefore, emphasize that you are called in this special session to enact such revenue measures as will produce, in the remaining seventeen months of the current biennium, receipts sufficient to balance the 1939-1941 budget, and to reduce the carry-over deficit by approximately $4,000,000. On the basis of the minimum mentioned as your possible appropriation for unemployment relief, additional revenue amounting to $50,000,000 in the present biennium would be required to accomplish that objective. If you make provision for any further appropriations at this session, as for instance further old age security assistance, the amount of additional revenue required therefor must be added to these figures.

Before suggesting or recommending to you definite sources of new revenue and specific measures to obtain it, I wish to restate my concept of the fundamental principle which should control taxation. Taxes should have a direct relationship to ability to pay. Governments should, so far as possible, avoid those levies which fall with particular severity upon low income groups, and should utilize taxes which increase in accordance with the income of the taxpayer. In keeping with this principle, it is obvious that the State of California should not increase its present retail sales tax nor enact a general gross receipts tax. It should not levy a property tax for State revenue. Each of these possible means of raising additional revenue would throw the State tax system further out of balance on the side of regressive taxation. It would operate to further curtail consumption, and increase unemployment.

Sound, equitable and progressive principles of taxation require that additional revenue, needed to continue the essential services of government and maintain the State's credit, be obtained through adjustments in: net income taxes; a severance tax on the depletion of our rich and irreplaceable natural resources; levies upon luxuries and non-essential items of consumption. Such measures, together with legislation to close loopholes in our existing tax laws, and increases in horse-racing license fees, will provide ample revenue to meet the State's current fiscal emergency. Therefore, I suggest to you the following revenue sources and recommend the enactment of tax measures which will yield therefrom the funds necessary to balance the current State budget.

In order to expedite your consideration of such measures I have had bills prepared for introduction, specifically responding to the suggestions outlined in the following paragraphs.

Personal Income Tax.

Adjustments in Rates.

A comparative analysis of State personal income taxes in the United States shows that the tax imposed in California upon annual incomes of $50,000 or less is well below the average tax in other States. Today the California taxpayer with $5,000 of taxable net income pays a State income tax of only $50. This is extremely low when compared with the $245 required in Oregon, $210 in New York, or $139 in Minnesota and Iowa. An adjustment can be made in the present rate schedule sufficient to produce from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 a year in additional State revenue without placing an undue hardship upon the citizens and residents of California.

Personal Deduction.

The present income tax law allows the taxpayer a flat exemption of $1,000 if a single person, or $2,500 if married or the head of a family, and a credit of $400 for each dependent. Personal exemptions and credits for dependents are, of course, entirely equitable features of any income tax. However, under our existing law they operate as a deduction from net income in computing the amount subject to taxation, with the result that the smallest taxpayer is granted a reduction in tax liability equivalent to $10 if he is single, or $25 if married, and the equivalent of $4 for each dependent. The largest taxpayer, on the other hand, is granted a reduction in tax liability of $150 if single, $375 if married or head of a family, and a credit equivalent of $60 for each dependent. California might well follow the lead of five other income tax states by providing a credit against tax in the amount of $10 for each single person, $25 for each married person or head of a family, and $4 for each dependent. If this change were made, all taxpayers would be treated impartially, and the State would receive from $2,000,000 to $7,000,000 additional tax revenue per year, depending upon the rate schedule adopted.

Under the present law many taxpayers are allowed to take large deductions on account of interest and taxes with respect to the purchase and ownership of expensive pleasure yachts and cars, valuable jewelry, and expensive residences and estates, thereby greatly reducing the amount of income taxes they pay. Such expenditures are personal or living expenses and should be disallowed as are other personal or living expenses in the computation of income taxes. In order positively to assure that the equitable feature of this change in the law would not operate to impose additional burdens upon the ownership of homes by persons of moderate means, any taxpayer should be allowed a deduction from gross income in the amount paid out for interest and taxes, but not to exceed $500 for any taxable year. It is estimated that this revision in the law would produce approximately $700,000 additional revenue per year under the present rate schedule, and substantially in excess of this amount if the tax rates were increased.

Treatment of capital gains and losses is a perplexing problem in determining an equitable method of taxing incomes. Approximately $900,000 in additional taxes could be obtained by amending the present law to provide that gains from the sale of capital assets shall be accorded the same treatment as other gains, that capital losses may be deducted from capital gains, and that the excess of losses over gains in a particular year may be deducted from gains in a subsequent year. While immediate additional revenue would result from such a change as that outlined, it should be observed that a decrease in revenue below that obtaining under the existing law would result during periods of great financial crisis and deep depression. At such a time losses would offset gains, with the result that the State would receive little revenue from investment operations of its income taxpayers.

Two further amendments to the personal income tax law should be considered, although in each instance the amount of additional revenue realized would be extremely small as compared with that which would result from the changes above outlined. Income from trusts established by parents for the support of their minor children should be taxed to the parent; and deductions for gifts and donations should be limited to gifts and donations actually made during the taxable year, and, where consisting of property, the deduction should be limited to the cost of such property to the taxpayer. The former amendment will close one of the loopholes most frequently utilized by wealthy taxpayers; the latter involves only a strengthening and simplification of the present law with respect to gifts and donations. Sufficient information is not available from which an accurate estimate could be given of the additional revenue that might be thus realized; but its amount would be comparatively small.

It should be pointed out that any upward adjustment in the present rate schedule would result in corresponding increases in the income to be derived from these loop-hole-closing amendments.

Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax.

Tax Rates.

Banks and corporations operating in California pay a franchise tax in accordance with the amount of net income earned on their operations. In keeping with the principle of taxation according to ability to pay and in view of the present financial needs of the State, the Legislature should re-appraise the present rates imposed under this tax law. An increase from 4 per cent to 5 per cent in the rate on general corporations and from a maximum of 8 per cent to a maximum of 9 per cent in the bank tax rate would produce approximately $5,000,000 in additional revenue annually.

Minimum Tax.

Under the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, corporations, regardless of their size and the extent of their operations, are required to pay a minimum tax of only $25 per year. With such a provision in effect, if no net income is realized, a corporation having an investment of many millions of dollars in this State pays the same for its operating franchise as a small firm with an investment of only a few thousand dollars. The privilege of doing business as a corporation is of immense value to the company with large holdings, regardless of the temporary condition of its current income. It is recommended, therefore, that the minimum tax provision of the franchise tax act be amended to require a minimum tax of $25 per year or an amount equal to one-twentieth of 1 per cent of the corporation's assets situated in California, whichever is the larger, but such minimum tax in no event to exceed $10,000. This change in the existing law would result in additional taxes amounting to $2,200,000 per year.

Loop-hole-Closing Amendments.

Three loop-hole-closing amendments should be considered with a view to strengthening the present Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act. These, in brief, are as follows:

1. Provide that inter-corporate dividends should be treated in the same manner as other income in computing the franchise tax, except where the subsidiary corporation is at least 95 per cent owned by the taxpayer corporation. Present provisions of the law with respect to the taxation of dividends received by corporations present one of the most vexing problems of administration of this tax. An amendment such as that outlined not only would produce approximately $400,000 additional yearly revenue at the present tax rate and $500,000 with a 1 per cent increase in rate, but also would materially reduce the cost of administering this tax.
2. Disallow the deduction for interest on notes or other evidence of indebtedness if the obligation to pay interest upon such indebtedness is conditioned upon or measured by the amount of earnings or profits of the taxpayer corporation, or if the evidence of indebtedness has no fixed date of maturity.
3. Strengthen the existing law to prevent avoidance of tax by contractual arrangements between affiliated corporations.
4. Amend the franchise tax act with respect to gifts and donations as outlined above for the personal income tax.

No accurate estimates of additional revenue that may be realized from the last three amendments itemized are available.

Alcoholic Beverage Taxes and License Fees.

In comparison with similar taxes in other States the present State excise taxes on distilled spirits, beer and wine are very low. An increase in the tax on distilled spirits from the present rate of 80 cents per gallon to the national average of approximately $1.00 per gallon would produce an additional $2,000,000 per year, while an increase in the tax on beer from 3 cents to 5 cents per gallon (the national average) would result in $2,400,000 more revenue than is now received from that source.

With respect to the tax on wine, the present California rate is below that of any other State. An increase to the lowest rates in effect elsewhere, namely 5 cents per gallon on dry wine and 10 cents on sweet wine, would produce annually $1,300,000 more in sorely needed State revenue. Certain of the present liquor license fees can be adjusted with equity. It should be possible to obtain at least $1,400,000 per year for the State General Fund through adjustments in the charges for these licenses.

In connection with the increases recommended here, it should be noted that these excise taxes and fees are levied upon non-essential items of consumption from which the taxpayer may well abstain, at least to the extent that he believes his indulgence is overtaxing himself.

Inheritance and Gift Taxes.

An amendment of the inheritance tax law involving a moderate increase in the rates on all inheritances except those under $25,000 received by direct heirs was proposed at the regular session last year. This recommendation merits reconsideration, and if adopted, it would produce additional revenue to the extent of $2,000,000 per year.

The gift tax enacted in 1959 should also be amended to provide rates paralleling those now recommended under the inheritance tax. If this is done, at least $175,000 more can be anticipated from this source.

Severance Tax.

Petroleum, natural gas, and natural gasoline are our richest natural underground resources. They are fugitive substances subject to capture and drainage from the reservoirs and structures containing them wherever they extend. They are irreplaceable and will be exhausted in a comparatively few years, probably during this generation. The consumer now pays heavy sales taxes on gasoline and other petroleum products, but the producer and royalty owner pay no tax to the State in the exploitation and depletion of these natural resources. The principal argument of representatives of large oil producing interests, even before legislative committees, in opposition to a severance tax on oil, natural gas and natural gasoline, has been that it can not be passed on to the consumer. All recognized authorities on taxation approve severance taxes on mineral resources, such as oil, natural gas and natural gasoline as a sound and equitable tax base. Nineteen States now have severance taxes on one or more of their natural resources, and in many of these States this is the source of a substantial amount of revenue. With one exception, all other major oil-producing States have a severance tax on petroleum production. California is the second largest oil- and gas-producing State. A 2 per cent tax upon petroleum, natural gas and natural gasoline as produced, would yield revenue amounting to approximately $6,000,000 per year, while a 3 per cent tax would amount to $9,000,000.

Tobacco Tax.

In selecting sources of additional State revenue, consideration should be given to the enactment of a cigarette and tobacco tax in California. At the present time, twenty five of the forty eight States have imposed levies either upon cigarettes alone or upon all tobacco products. It is estimated that a tax of 2 cents per package on cigarettes, 1 cent per ounce on smoking tobacco, 1 cent on each cigar retailing for over 5 cents, and varying rates on other tobacco products, would return $8,250,000 in State revenue per year. Of this amount, approximately $7,800,000 would come from the 2 cent tax on cigarettes and the remainder, $2,450,000 from the tax on other products.

Motor Vehicle Transportation License Tax.

The present 3 per cent gross receipts tax upon motor carriers applies only to operations upon State highways and does not extend to operations conducted within city limits. This appears to be an entirely arbitrary limitation, and this tax might well apply to all commercial operations in the State. In addition to the $1,200,000 of annual State revenue which would be obtained by extending this tax to city carriers, the administration of the existing law would be greatly simplified with respect to the determination of tax upon operations partly within and partly without city limits.

Insurance Gross Premiums Tax.

In view of the fact that the existing tax was established in 1921 and revisions in taxes upon other types of business have been made since that time, the insurance tax should be analyzed with a view toward obtaining an increase in the yield. This could be done by raising the existing 2.6 per cent tax rate or by eliminating certain deductions allowed under the existing law. An increase in the present rate to 3 per cent could yield approximately $1,300,000 annual revenue. At present, insurance companies offset taxes paid upon real property located in California against the gross premiums tax imposed by the State. The original intent of this provision was to encourage and assist California insurance companies. In actual practice, however, the larger part of the benefit accrues to out-of-State companies having extensive real estate holdings here. Furthermore, this benefit accrues to relatively few companies. In view of this fact, it would seem logical to amend the State Constitution to eliminate the so-called real estate offset. Although no additional revenue would be received during the current biennium, if this constitutional amendment were approved by the voters, approximately $1,500,000 more General Fund revenue would be received annually in subsequent periods. It has been held that dividends paid to policy-holders may be deducted in computing taxable gross premiums. An amendment to the law disallowing this deduction would result in a $250,000 increase in the annual tax.

Horse Racing License Fees.

At the present time the license fee for conducting horse race meetings is 4 per cent of the money handled in the pari-mutuel betting pools operated in connection with such meetings. The revenue from this source is expended principally for the support of agricultural fairs throughout the State, and for the maintenance of agricultural schools. At your regular session last year, it was recommended that the State obtain a part of its needed General Fund revenue by imposing a graduated fee ranging from the present 4 per cent to 8 per cent, depending upon the volume of money handled at any particular race track. It is estimated that a graduated fee of this type requiring 8 per cent of all amounts in excess of $10,000,000 would return approximately $1,500,000 in revenue for the General Fund each year, and if the State takes all or any part of the "breakage," this return would be further increased very substantially.

$50,000,000 in New Revenue.

From the sources here outlined, a tax program to yield the $50,000,000 necessary to balance the State budget during the current biennium can be obtained without violating the principle of taxation according to ability to pay and without having an unduly burdensome effect upon business or upon taxpayers generally.

Golden Gate Exposition Appropriation.

In order to assist the exposition on Treasure Island, in San Francisco Bay, to continue in 1940, I recommend that an appropriation be made to the California Commission for the Golden Gate International Exposition. The only way, perhaps, that any of the $5,000,000 appropriated and already expended by the State in the building and conduct of this fair will be realized, is in increased revenues from sales, gas, and other taxes which are augmented by the expenditures of fair visitors. There remains unexpended the sum of $750,000 of the $5,000,000 originally appropriated for this exposition. The commission has presented a budget which calls for an appropriation of $591,756 in addition to this balance on hand of $550,000.

I am convinced that $430,000 in addition to the balance on hand is sufficient, and recommend such appropriation, and also an additional $85,000, which the commission may expend for maintenance and operation of county exhibits which the county budgets have not included this year. These recommendations are made with the proviso that sufficient revenue be raised to meet such appropriations.

The San Francisco Convention and Tourist Bureau and other interested civic and business groups have requested me to allow the consideration of an additional appropriation to the commission to be expended for the purpose of bringing political conventions to the State during the fair. I am informed that an appropriation of $150,000 for this purpose might result in the success of their efforts to bring such conventions to San Francisco. I am assured that this would undoubtedly bring large numbers of people to the fair, contribute to business activities and aid the fair's success in 1940. Such an appropriation, if made, should be ear-marked so that it will be returned to the General Fund in the event a convention of either of the two major political parties is not held in California in 1940.

Old Age Pensions.

Another subject submitted for your consideration is that of amending our old age security law so as to cancel and remove authority to secure liens or other claims against the small property holdings of recipients of old age assistance.

The present provision authorizing boards of supervisors, in administering this aid, to require agreements imposing such liens when exercised is, I am advised, of little net value to the State, county or Federal government, considering costs of its enforcement. Besides it places an unnecessary hardship upon many elderly persons deserving and eligible for old age assistance.

I am advised that not more than 20 per cent of the eligible applicants for old age assistance have any interest—present or prospective—in any real property. Such interest, when found to exist, usually consists of doubtful equities held by those who have lived thrifty lives only to see their savings lost as a result of economic depression. Such persons cling tenaciously to the hope that changed conditions may take them out of the class of eligibles for old age assistance.

I, therefore, recommend appropriate amendments to our old age assistance laws, so as to eliminate the lien on property agreement provisions found in sections 2226 and 2229 of the Welfare and Institutions Code.

Liberalization of Old Age Assistance.

There is submitted to you also the question of reducing the age qualifications for the aid granted under our old age security law. The granting of such aid is now generally accepted as both a social responsibility and sound public policy.

Old age assistance in California was first authorized by an act passed in 1929. It has been amended and liberalized by amendments adopted in the legislative sessions of 1931, 1935, 1936, and in your session of 1937.

Along with its phenomenal growth in population, in social improvements and industrial development, California, because of its marvelous climate and other natural advantages, has attracted elderly citizens of other states who come here to retire upon the savings of their productive years. In the decade prior to the depression of the past ten years, chambers of commerce and representatives of commercial and promotional activities, through systematic advertising urged such people to make their homes here and enjoy California's climate and agreeable environment. As a result, there was an influx of elderly persons with resources adequate for their maintenance the rest of their lives. During the depression of the past ten years many of these elderly people lost their resources, incomes and their investments made in California.

This fact, added to the displacement from private employment of people of advanced age, and the hard-bits, want and suffering generally resulting from unemployment, has caused this State to take the lead in expressing sentiment in favor of old age pensions and the liberalization of existing old age assistance acts.

The fact that this sentiment has at times been seized upon by self-seeking demagogues or racketeers primarily interested in propagandizing for and securing contributions of huge funds in the promotion of unworkable schemes offering promises for payment of pensions to the aged which could not possibly be fulfilled, should not prejudice the principles of social justice. These call for liberalization of the Old Age Security Act to the maximum of the public's financial ability to pay. The tremendous support thus aroused and the sincerity of that support should rather be considered as a manifestation of conditions of hardship and destitution in which our elderly people find themselves and as their attempt to articulate their demands for relief.

The platform on which I was elected declares: "For purposes of uniformity, old age pensions, in their entirety, should be financed and administered by the Federal government. Until that is accomplished, we shall favor State provision for the aged to the extent that public finances will permit."

Up to now Congress has failed to provide for Federal financing and administration of old age pensions, still leaving it to the several states to determine whether they shall match or exceed the amounts presently given by the Federal government to the respective states toward old age assistance. This aid, as you know, now amounts to $20 per month. The State and counties of California are required under our present act to pay an equal amount on the basis of need to eligible persons who have reached the age of 65 years.

On the basis of need and merit and from the standpoint of social justice senior citizens between the ages of 60 and 65 years are equally entitled to this assistance with those who have reached the age of 65.

It is anticipated that the present session of Congress may at least extend to all eligible needy over the age of 60, the aid now given eligible needy who have reached the age of 65. I urge the Legislature to memorialize Congress to take that action.

For California to do likewise and provide $20 per month to those over 60 would require approximately $12,000,000 per year, and remove many relief cases from S.R.A. Approximately 75 per cent of our present old age assistance cases comprise citizens who have resided in California more than 15 years. The door for this aid is not open to newcomers.

In view of the tax burden now carried by the counties and the clamor by the counties for the State to aid them in carrying their share of the amount required to meet the present old age assistance provisions, the counties can not very well be expected to carry a larger old age assistance tax burden at the present time. Any amendment made to lower the age limit from 65 to 60 should therefore provide for the payment by the State of the full amount of assistance given to eligibles coming within that category.

This would mean that if $20 per month is immediately paid for old age assistance to those between 60 and 65, State revenues to the extent of $12,000,000 must be provided. If you provide for this additional revenue, which I recommend, in addition to revenue needed to balance the current budget, I also recommend that this liberalization of the present law be made immediately.

If you do not provide for revenue to presently meet the requirements of such an amendment, then in any event I recommend that such an amendment be made, to become effective whenever the Federal government shall furnish the State the same Federal assistance for old age pensions to those between 60 and 65 as is now furnished to those over 65.

In addition to such legislation and memorial, I also urge the passage of a memorial to the President and the Congress of the United States, asking that the Federal government take over the financing and administration of old age pensions in their entirety and provide, on a basis of need, at least $60 per month for all eligible citizens who are over the age of 60 years.

State Housing Authority.

Another subject submitted for your consideration is legislation to create a State Housing Authority; to undertake slum clearance and projects; to provide dwelling accommodations for persons of low income and to take advantage of the provisions of the United States Housing Act of 1937.

There is now pending in the Congress of the United States a bill which doubles the present $800,000,000 program of the United States Housing Authority. It specifically earmarks $200,000,000 of said funds for the assistance of projects to provide housing for families of low income in rural areas. The State of California will be eligible to receive $80,000,000 of these funds for low cost housing, if this bill is passed. It is important, therefore, that legislation be enacted immediately to enable California to fully participate in this program.

As you all know, the existence of unsafe, insanitary and unfit dwelling accommodations, particularly for migratory workers, has produced an alarming economic and social condition in the State of California. From both our urban and rural districts have come the documented stories of the menace of the slums to the health, safety, morals and welfare of the citizens of our State.

Our housing problem, in its most acute form, is essentially a problem of rural housing.

Contrary to most public opinion, the State government, as such, is already deeply involved in the housing problem. The Relief Administrator is spending millions in rent for the most miserable housing for relief clients.

In the San Joaquin Valley counties alone, the State is spending from $100,000 to $125,000 a month for relief client rents; for shacks, hovels, cheap auto camps and tent camping space. The fruit of these rent payments is this: rural slums have become highly profitable to their owners, while demoralizing and destroying the health of their occupants.

For a great many years, most of the seasonal agricultural workers, numbering from 175,000 to 200,000 people, were aliens who left the rural valleys at the conclusion of the season. Today, as a result of the Dust Bowl influx, and many other causes, a very large percentage of these workers are Americans who are trying to settle down. Thousands of them have taken root and have become residents.

These people have been housed in labor camps, shack towns and auto camps. Last year there were some 4,500 farm labor camps with a population of 145,000. As the name implies, these camps are designed merely for temporary, seasonal occupation and are wholly inadequate for permanent housing. Last year the cotton camps were 60 per cent to 70 per cent occupied throughout the winter. The overcrowding was appalling, with as many as eight persons living in a one-room cabin.

Many of these workers, not permitted to remain in the labor camps after the season, have moved into shack towns adjacent to the valley cities and towns. These shack towns present a most distressing problem because they are located, for the most part, in areas not subject to adequate public regulations. They are mushroom communities, flimsy, unplanned, unregulated and uncontrolled. For the most part, they are devoid of sanitary facilities. They are located on river banks, ditch banks and other unlikely spots. The housing is primitive, consisting of shacks, tents, lean-to's, and dugouts, shockingly overcrowded.

Because of the peculiar origin and nature of California's rural housing problem, the only practical approach possible is from the point of view of the State as a whole. A housing authority predicated upon decentralization with initiative and responsibility assumed primarily by cities and counties serves very well and we already have a few very active housing authorities operating under the authority of our enabling acts passed in 1938. But, where rural housing is the major element, I find that it is the State, rather than the counties or towns, that must assume initiative and responsibility. This is true for a number of definite reasons.

In the first place, the rural counties of California have shown no indication that they realize the seriousness of the problem, or that they accept the responsibility for doing anything about it.

In the face of a growing housing shortage, which has been acute since 1935, no functioning authority has been established thus far in any of the rural counties. This demonstrates the necessity for State action.

In the second place, for the purposes of planning, the State is in a much better position to view the problem in its broadest aspects and to plan on a much more comprehensive basis than any one county could possibly hope to do. The State is in a better position than any of the counties to analyze this problem and to locate housing projects where they are to be of the most benefit.

In the third and final place, for the purposes of administrative economy and efficiency, a State Housing Authority offers many advantages over a number of separate, uncoordinated, independent county or small city authorities. Once a project has been constructed, administrative expense becomes very important, because it has a direct bearing upon the amount of rent to be charged. A single State agency can manage many projects with much less overhead cost than if each project be a separate unit under a county authority. Likewise, the State can attack the job of construction with mass production methods, and build more cheaply, because of the larger scale of operations. The program, in other words, can be supervised as a whole, and the relation of every project to the other can be carefully weighed and considered.

A State Housing Authority would operate essentially in the same manner as city and county authorities operate under the Housing Authorities Law of the State of California. However, the State Authority would not be empowered to function in any city or county in California where a local authority is authorized to function and is functioning. I wish to make it clear that it is not the intention, in submitting a State Housing Authority bill, to permit interference of any kind with existing local housing authorities who are functioning, or who expect to function, under the provisions of the present Housing Authorities Law of California.

The State Housing Authority should be composed of five members appointed by the Governor. Aside from the administrative expense for the first year of operation, the State would assume no direct obligation. All other funds would come from the United States Housing Authority.

Practically no expense to the State is contemplated in this proposed legislation. The United States Housing Authority has informed me that the legislation, in the form in which it is to be introduced, meets the necessary Federal requirements. Therefore, I wish to caution against any changes in the form of the bill submitted, without the approval of the United States Housing Authority.

Proposed Amendment to Central Valley Authority Act.

By the narrow margin of two votes you failed to pass amendments proposed at your regular session last year to the Central Valley Authority Act which would enable California to keep faith with the Federal government and perform its duty to the people in the development of the Central Valley Project.

I have considered carefully whether such legislation could be further delayed until the next regular session, without injury to the public interest and without ignoring requests received from the Federal administration. I am convinced that can not be done and that the need for this legislation is so urgent that it would be a dereliction of duty on my part if I failed to include it in the subjects submitted for your consideration.

The Federal government will surely complete this project if California will do the things needed to be done and give the people its full benefit in the delivery to them, at the lowest possible cost, of the water and power from this project. That objective can only be obtained through public distribution.

I have received messages from President Roosevelt, from the Secretary of the Interior, from the United States Commissioner of Reclamation, and others representing the Federal government, urging that the State place itself in a position to do just that in the discharge of its responsibilities in connection with this project.

In addition, the State Director of Public Works and the executive officer of the Project Authority have advised me that such enabling legislation should be enacted at this special session.

Immediately after the defeat at your regular session last year of the so-called Pierovich Bill (Senate Bill No. 863) containing such legislation, United States Reclamation Commissioner John C. Page proposed that State and Federal representatives, together with local groups, continue consideration of the matter.

During the fall numerous conferences were held and letters exchanged between the State and Federal governments concerning this needed legislation. Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes already had urged that the State concern itself with providing distribution facilities for the water and power from this project, and President Roosevelt telegraphed his endorsement. These conferences culminated in a two-day meeting in Sacramento in December, attended by Federal, State and local representatives. As a result of this meeting an amendment to the Central Valley Project Act was again drafted. That proposed amendment in simple language would free up to $50,000,000 of the $170,000,000 of revenue bonds authorized in the present act to be used by the State in carrying out the purposes and objects of the act itself. It would place the State in a position to contract with the Federal government for distribution of the electric power developed by the project, instead of leaving the Federal government and the people to be served at the mercy of a private power distribution monopoly which would be its only purchaser.

Federal government officials are well aware of the need for haste in having this legislation enacted. They know the inevitable delays which follow if the distribution and marketing features of a project are left untouched until the project is completed. The Federal government and the people suffered loss from delays in providing for public distribution of power upon the completion of the Bonneville project in the State of Washington. Such a condition in California should be prevented by your action at this session.

Providing the means for public distribution of the water and power from the Central Valley Project should go hand in hand with the construction of the project, if the people are to realize the full benefits of both the water and the power furnished by this project.

In the last few weeks I have received many communications from all parts of the valley, urging that I include this necessary legislation in the agenda for the special session. Only last week a meeting of two hundred farmers from the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys, many of whom were officials of irrigation and reclamation districts, unanimously adopted a resolution urging this action on my part. In view of its importance to the people of the Central Valley, to the Federal government and the State as a whole, I hope you will enact this proposed bill.

Liquor Control.

I am submitting for your consideration and recommending a constitutional amendment and fitting legislation transferring the administration and enforcement of laws relating to the licensing, regulation and distribution of alcoholic beverages from the Board of Equalization to a new State agency to be created.

The Board of Equalization was originally created in 1879 to equalize property valuations for taxation purposes, as between the counties; to assess the value of certain public utility properties, and generally to supervise tax law administration.

Since that time other duties have been assigned, and the administration of other laws have been committed to this board, including the collection of gasoline and sales taxes, motor vehicle transportation taxes, etc., also that of administering and enforcing liquor control and liquor license laws.

There is now a strong public demand that all liquor control administration be removed from the Board of Equalization and vested in another separately constituted State commission, exclusively devoted to that work. This will, I believe, accomplish better liquor control administration. It will also insure that the entire attention of the Board of Equalization may be devoted to its other manifold and important duties.

During the past year this demand has become more general and more emphatic because of evils which have become very apparent in the board's administration of the liquor laws. Since the board members are directly elected by the people, various liquor interests spend huge sums of money to influence their election. As a result there have been recurring scandals in such elections as well as in connection with the performance of the administrative duties of the board.

Furthermore, the vast amount of time and attention required in properly handling the administration of the liquor control laws and the perplexing problems in connection therewith, so as to maintain honesty and efficiency in the service and carry out the provisions of the laws intended to minimize the evils of the liquor traffic, makes it essential that these duties be performed by a separate State agency or commission. Naturally the other work and tremendously important duties of the Board of Equalization can not be handled as efficiently as they should be unless the board be relieved of the administration of liquor control laws.

I therefore strongly urge that this be done, and that a separate State appointive commission be provided for to take over the entire administration and duties of administration of all State liquor control and liquor licensing acts.

San Francisco Harbor Operations.

Recent and previous protracted tie-ups of the San Francisco Harbor, due to strikes and the inability of the waterfront employers and certain groups of their employees to adjust their differences, have resulted in huge losses to the public generally.

In order to avoid such recurring interruptions of the normal movement of commodities shipped through the State's harbor facilities at San Francisco, I strongly urge you to enact legislation enlarging the powers of the Board of State Harbor Commissioners by permitting it to supervise, regulate and control the receiving, handling, custody, and delivery of merchandise on the wharves and piers of San Francisco Harbor and on the property within its jurisdiction, to license and require bonds of ships' agents, and to do all things necessary for the direct operation of San Francisco Harbor facilities by the State of California.

The Port of San Francisco is one of the few ports in the United States that provides facilities only and that does not provide services necessary in connection with cargo movement. Shippers located long distances from ports require certain services in connection with their shipments and, because of the fact that they are not present to arrange for them with various agencies, require that they be performed by one authority with complete control and responsibility. That authority, of course, must be the harbor authority. It has become increasingly important that all harbors perform these services in order that cargo handling may be more efficient and economical. If the Port of San Francisco is to be placed on a comparable basis with other ports, it must be in a position to perform these terminal services.

There is nothing new or radical in this proposal. Terminal services of this character are performed in various degrees by most of the ports of the world. Oakland, under its city charter, is permitted to and does perform terminal operations. The harbor of Long Beach, also under municipal control, has the privilege of doing all the things asked for in these amendments. Seattle, Portland, New Orleans, Camden, Houston and Galveston, and other important ports are permitted to and do perform such terminal operations.

In 1922 the Philippine Legislature passed an act conferring similar authority in the Manila Harbor Board. Manila soon became the most efficient and economical port in the Orient and is recognized as one of the most efficient in the world.

If the Port of San Francisco is to hold its position among the ports of the nation, it must be able to provide complete services. Necessary functions in the handling of cargo must be concentrated in order that duplication of effort may be eliminated.

It should also be borne in mind that the revenues of the Port of San Francisco have decreased recently because of the withdrawal of ferry services, the falling off in water-borne commerce generally throughout the country, and are seriously reduced by recurring strikes and lockouts which the services authorized by this proposal would help to restore.

Statement Regarding Fire Marshal.

A survey has shown that appalling fire hazards exist in the State institutions due to over-crowding, inadequate buildings and equipment, and lack of trained fire protection personnel. Experience has shown that institutional fires almost always result in the death of a high percentage of inmates. A fire of major proportions in one of our State institutions would result in a tremendous loss of life and the destruction of millions of dollars in State property. The whole subject of the correction of these conditions should be taken up by the Legislature as soon as possible. I believe that it is imperative that legislation be enacted at once to furnish trained persons at each institution to supervise fire prevention and fire fighting in order to minimize the danger. At present this important duty is left to nurses, janitors and others inexperienced in fire problems. I have, therefore, asked you to consider the subject of the furnishing by the State Fire Marshal of fire prevention and protection service at the State institutions and providing an appropriation therefor.

I have also asked you to consider the subject of providing an adequate salary for the State Fire Marshal. The present law provides that he shall serve without compensation. Until recently, the State Fire Marshal was paid adequately by the fire insurance companies. This practice has been discontinued.

The office of State Fire Marshal, entailing as it does the enforcement of the fire prevention laws relating to some 900 theaters, some 6,000 cleaning and pressing shops and countless other establishments and institutions in addition to the supervision of fire prevention and safety education, requires the full time of the person holding the office of State Fire Marshal.

A public official should not be dependent upon either private corporations or individuals for compensation for services rendered to the State; in fact, it should be unlawful for an official to receive compensation from private sources for his services. In order to secure the proper administration of the laws, provision should be made for a salary commensurate with the duties of the State Fire Marshal.

Amendments to Vehicle Code.

The Department of Motor Vehicles is faced with the necessity of making many adjustments in order that it may operate more efficiently and economically. In this connection, a legislative program has been prepared which, it is believed, will enable the department to operate within its budget for the first time in several years. This program includes relieving political subdivisions from the payment of fees on vehicles operated but not yet owned by them; the creation of an Interim Motor Vehicle Advisory Committee composed of three members of the Senate and four members of the Assembly; the stabilizing of expense of collection of the in lieu tax at a figure in keeping with actual costs; the regulation of furnishing information relative to the physical condition of drivers; setting a charge for furnishing information to commercial concerns and a per diem charge for bonded persons who search department records; the sale of registration information to interested parties; relieving the department from the duty of mailing to legal owners notices of successive renewals of registration; authorizing officers of the California Highway Patrol to accept bail upon service of warrants; providing for the collection of a single fee for motor vehicle engine changes; abolishing non-resident permits and authorizing the issuance of certain license plates to law enforcement officers and agencies.

Salary Readjustments.

At the regular session of the Legislature in 1939 there was eliminated from the budget bill for the present biennium the estimated necessary moneys for the salary and wage adjustments prescribed in the State Civil Service Act, for employees in State departments supported from the General Fund. It has been impossible to make these adjustments from other moneys appropriated, with the result that during the last six months only those employees in State departments supported from special funds have received the adjustments to which under the law all are entitled, provided their merit rating is sufficiently high. With about one half of the employees receiving the adjustments and the other half not, a situation has been created which is most confusing and demoralizing, and should be remedied with an appropriation to eliminate these inequalities.

Considerable time and effort have been devoted in stabilizing and equalizing State salary and wage ranges and in making provisions for normal advancement within those ranges on the basis of merit, and certainly if this principle is to be preserved, provision should be made to that end by an appropriation to take care of the employees in departments supported from the General Fund.

I recommend that this be done if sufficient additional revenues are provided therefor by measures passed by you at this special session.

Proposal for State to Drill Oil and Gas Wells on State Lands.

I am also submitting a measure empowering the State, through the State Lands Commission, to drill for oil and gas in State lands subject to certain safeguards and conditions.

The immediate problem prompting the inclusion of this subject in the call has grown out of a situation at and in the vicinity of Rio Vista, California. A little more than two years ago dry gas was discovered in that locality.

Through this field runs the Sacramento River, the bed of which is owned by the State of California. While the limits of the field are not now definitely known, it is estimated that the State may control as much as 15 per cent of the field.

The State, through the State Lands Commission, has power now to lease such lands for oil and gas production and, in certain circumstances, may enter into compensatory agreements. Both of these methods involve a substantial payment of the proceeds to the particular lessee operator. Whereas, were the State to drill its own wells in proven areas such as the Rio Vista gas field, the cost of drilling the well or wells would be negligible and the risk definitely minimized. I am informed that a gas well in this field may be drilled for as little as $45,000. Were the State to enter into a lease or leases at the prevailing royalty in the field of 12½ per cent, the State's return would approximate $700,000. On the other hand, were the State to drill its own wells, its gross return could amount to as much as $4,000,000, from which the cost of drilling and small operating costs would need to be deducted. On this estimate alone there appears to be a difference of $3,500,000, less, of course, drilling and operating costs.

For several years I have studied proposals to enable the State to do its own drilling and have actively worked for the passage of legislation to accomplish this program. During this period I have never heard a logical argument voiced against the proposition. Everyone is familiar with the powers of the State with respect to its own property. It is now and for years has been empowered to sell, lease, and deal generally with its property in the same manner as an individual and as all know, it may lease private property for its own use and when it has a surplus space it may lease that to private parties. It seems there remains only this power for the State to further protect itself.

Other Subjects.

There are included in the proclamation a number of items to allow you to consider ratification of charter amendments, validation of bonds, legislative printing, submission of proposed constitutional amendments, technical amendments of acts recently enacted, and a few like items such as the one to consider a soil conservation act which was passed at the 1938 special session, but which was held by the Attorney General to be of doubtful constitutionality because passed under a supplement to the proclamation calling the special session.

There are also a number of items to allow you to consider other measures which will substantially affect the welfare of large groups of people or subdivisions of the State. I have been assured that they are extremely urgent measures and of such well-recognized merit as will not unduly extend this session. Needless to say, the items included are but a small percentage of those urged for inclusion. I have been forced to refuse a large number of requests from sincere people, including members of the Legislature, that additional items be included. These must await the regular session of the Legislature.

Conclusion.

I realize the hardship which a prolonged special session would impose on individual members, attributive to the fact that their compensation at the rate of $100 a month is insufficient to meet their expenses and that their legislative work takes them from their usual employments upon which they rely for their personal and family needs.

In preparing the agenda I have had this in mind and it is far from my purpose to compel a prolonged session. In fact, it was far from my purpose to compel any special session at this time. As already stated, this session is called in accordance with your own plans at the adjournment of the regular session last year.

Because new revenue to meet your appropriations was not provided and the appropriation made for unemployment relief was made to cover only the period now expired, these are the major subjects contained in the official call, and you will observe upon careful analysis that there are not more than five other subjects that should occupy your time for any considerable period in determining your action thereon. As already indicated the remaining 57 subjects refer for the most part to routine and urgently needed technical amendments, charter ratifications, etc., which would not require any prolonged session.

Many other matters for important legislation should receive your attention without delay, but are not included in the call because of my purpose to limit the agenda to matters of emergency and utmost need for immediate action.

This situation emphasizes the need for a change in the constitution of our legislative branch of the government so as to provide not only for adequate compensation to members sufficient to command their entire time, but also to provide for a one-house body which will meet every year for as long as it is necessary to act upon legislation requiring statutory changes, and constructive measures for the progress and welfare of the people of the State.

Respectfully submitted,

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

Report.

The following report was received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

Preliminary Report of Senate Interim Committee on Relief.

During the closing days of the regular session, the Senate appointed an interim committee to study the problems of relief which had been very much before both houses during the entire session.

No money was provided for the work of the committee and, under a decision of the Supreme Court, was without the authority of holding an investigation with power to subpoena or to receive under oath such information as might be given it.

The committee felt that it might profitably study the report of the Governor's Commission on Reemployment, of which Mr. John R. Richards was the chairman, and a meeting was called in San Francisco early in the fall. However, before the date of the meeting, it was learned that the so-called Richards Report was not ready and consequently, while the chairman met with one member of the committee for luncheon, and another for dinner, no formal meeting was held.

The committee met Saturday, January 27, 1940. At that time there was presented to it information regarding conditions in the State Relief Administration and concerning its handling of the relief problem, which information had accumulated in the hands of the chairman of the committee.

Obviously, in so short a time it is impossible for the committee to evaluate this material. It can be said, however, that the material may not be ignored.

Therefore, this committee recommends:

(1) That the committee request permission of the Senate to print in the Senate Journal the report, which has been presented to the committee by its chairman, dated November 7, 1939, "In re State Relief Administration" signed by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates, and the statement of resignation of H. Dewey Anderson, State Relief Administrator, dated August 14, 1939;

(2) That the committee meet early in the week following this meeting for a further discussion of the material submitted and for the purpose of determining whether or not it shall recommend to the Senate a thorough investigation of the accuracy of the statements in this material.

PHILLIPS, Chairman.

Statement of Resignation of H. Dewey Anderson, State Relief Administrator—August 14, 1939.

MY DEAR GOVERNOR: In leaving the State's service I wish to make certain observations concerning my stewardship of the State Relief Administration and the circumstances which compel me to sever my association with your administration. In doing so I am motivated by a warm personal attachment to you and a high regard for many things which you symbolize.

As you and other leaders in the Olson administration and the Democratic party well know, I have been a progressive in political faith and social viewpoint for many years. I took an active part in the Olson campaign; being a member of your State-wide Coordinating Committee, a member of the State Democratic Convention, and the person to whom was assigned the task of drafting the party platform upon which you were elected to office. To that platform both you and I have professed our political allegiance. Its significance as a progressive document can not be minimized. It records the attitude of mind and the aspirations of those who cherish democratic principles of self-government and sincerely seek to have such principles translated into practice by their public officials. I repeat, that party platform and its principles have my sworn allegiance. It is because I believe them to be seriously jeopardized by certain acts of your administration that I feel it necessary to voice my opinions in a critical but what I believe to be a constructive manner.

The Office of Relief Administrator.

May I recall to you the conditions under which I was induced to become the Administrator of Relief in California. After your election in November your regard for me was sufficiently high that you asked me to become your budgeteer, sitting with you during a month of budget hearings prior to your induction into office, in order to construct a budget of State services which could be offered the Legislature in January. I freely gave that service, for which no compensation was asked and none received. I did so, motivated by my sincere belief that for once California would be given an administration so strongly committed to sound and progressive principles that we could make those strides forward which are necessary to give the people the kind of government which meets their needs. I appreciate to this day that close daily association with you and the privilege of rendering a service to my fellow citizens.

You will remember that during the month of December you and our mutual friends repeatedly made insistent demand upon me to accept the post of Relief Administrator, and that I, who had made an intimate study of the unemployment problem in California and the operations of the SRA, was thoroughly convinced that no one could assume administrative responsibility for the SRA with even small hope of success unless his Governor laid down certain immutable essentials of administration, and wholeheartedly supported the Administrator in the practice of such essentials. These considerations were placed before you. They included the Administrator's complete control over operation of the SRA as established by law, the strict adherence to the nonpartisan merit system in the appointment and retention of administrative personnel, and that under no circumstances would spoils politics enter into the operation of or the service rendered by the State Relief Administration. Guided by the high purpose which controlled our administration in the beginning days in January, you assented fully to these requirements, and it was only after such complete support being assured by you that I accepted your appointment as Relief Administrator.

It is hardly necessary for me to point to the vital importance of the State Relief Administration in the life of our State. You have, yourself, on more than one occasion given voice to your conviction that the relief and unemployment problem transcends in urgency and consequence all other problems of your administration. The SRA is the most important single department of State Government, because it spends the enormous sum of approximately five million dollars per month, has an employed staff of 6,000, extends to practically every community, and prevents the starvation of 300,000 people. It is a difficult department to administer, not only because of its size and financial importance, but because it deals most intimately with the personal destinies of so great a number of men, women, and children. The work is made more difficult by the fact that funds have never been available to care for more than half of all these needy unemployed who apply. It began as an emergency agency during the trough of the depression and has never had a continuous program or a continuity of administrative control. Consequently, its operations are uneven and, at many points, ragged. Although difficult and technical to administer, to the outside public and uninformed citizens generally the administration of relief is considered a simple matter which anybody can do. Its staff is unprotected by civil service and is, therefore, exposed to political patronage and the spoils system. It is the weakest link in the entire administrative organization, and consequently the object of both internal pressure and external politics.

During the past eight months it has been necessary for me to devote almost continuous time to legislative aspects of the State Relief Administration. I was forced to appear before the Legislature upon numerous occasions and to secure three appropriations from that body in order to carry on the cash relief program of the SRA. The Legislature was by no means always friendly or cooperative in meeting our needs. Yet we were successful in securing an appropriation at the end of the biennial session for a period of six months or more, which, if judiciously spent, will keep destitute unemployed families from starvation. We have also made considerable gain in solving some of the more serious problems of administration.

Much yet remains to be done, however, in this direction, and the State Relief Administration today is by no means a smoothly operating, well-administered organization. For this I do not propose to take the blame, as the two months which have elapsed since the Legislature closed is too brief a time in which to correct all of the principal administrative defects of the SRA. Furthermore, there has not been a week since I took command in January when pressures of a political character have not harassed us in time-consuming ways, seriously interfering with the operation of this administration.

Are We to Stand for Spoils System Control of the SRA?

The most serious of all problems, however, and the one which makes necessary this resignation, is my refusal to accede to certain demands made upon me to play partisan politics with the administration of the SRA. I call your attention once more to the fact that I assumed the responsibilities of Administrator with the very definite understanding that there would be no partisan politics in relief. I proceeded upon that premise, and from January until late in March the 1,400 administrative employees required by a rising caseload entered the employ of the SRA strictly upon the basis of merit and their ability to do the jobs assigned them.

However, the insistent demand of political followers for patronage was answered by you in placing Mr. Walter Ballou, then Secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, on my administrative staff to have responsibility for the political clearance of employees. You will recall my refusal on several occasions to place Mr. Ballou in charge of the Personnel Department of the SRA, as that department had been operated for several years as a technical personnel division in which job standards and the merit system prevailed in the selection, dismissal, transfer, promotion, and demotion of employees. I was convinced then, as I am now, that Mr. Ballou was not qualified either by training, experience or outlook to administer the Personnel Division of the State Relief Administration. My conviction finally prevailed in a meeting between yourself, Mr. John R. Richards and me, held in your rooms at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, the day before you left for Los Angeles in July. You agreed with me then that Mr. Ballou was not qualified to conduct the operations of the Personnel Division and that I should relieve him of any such responsibility. This I immediately proceeded to do, placing in charge of that division Mr. Walter Chambers.

However, you did hold tenaciously to the demand that Mr. Ballou be retained as an administrative assistant of mine, and that under him political clearance be made of applicants for positions in the SRA and of employees within the organization.

When you went to Los Angeles you were waited upon by members of the Democratic County Central Committee who urged upon you a hearing concerning my conduct of the SRA, and while you apparently refused such a hearing, a conference was held in which I was present, when twenty-six members of the Democratic County Central Committee laid before you and me their insistent demand that the State Relief Administration personnel be subjected to political clearance and that new appointments be made from the ranks of the Olson Democrats only. You will remember that on the day following that conference you had a meeting with Mr. John R. Richards and myself, and that I indicated at that time my unwillingness to accede to this demand. I wish to set forth in some detail my reasons for taking this position, believing them to be of great importance to you, to the success of your administration, and to the Progressive Movement.

In the first place, I regard the State Relief Administration as a department of government. Its emergency character has long since passed, and its presumed emergency character is the only reason advanced for the fact that its personnel has not as yet been included in the Civil Service. The State Relief Administration is engaged in a vitally important work which requires impartial, fair, and efficient application from all its administrative staff. This work is connected with the life and death needs of hundreds of thousands of people. It requires the expenditure of vast sums of taxpayers' money.

I presume there is no lay person in the State of California more conversant with the operations of the SRA under the Merriam-Pomeroy regime than I. My criticism of that administration was based upon the fact that I did not agree with its policies nor with its program of meager debt relief. However, I know positively that as bad as the Merriam-Pomeroy regime became, it never established a system of political clearance in the appointment of its staff. As a matter of fact, we now know that the vast majority of the staff, even under the Republican administration, were registered as Democrats. So far as I have ever been able to ascertain, no person seeking work in the State Relief Administration was ever asked his party affiliation. This I believe was due to the fact that the first Relief Commission, acting under the domination of the Federal Government, established working relationships with the State Personnel Board and laid down principles of Civil Service, which made for a nonpartisan staff of qualified personnel. These Civil Service principles still govern in our many cooperative activities between the Federal and State relief and unemployment agencies. It is my profound conviction that the introduction of the political spoils system into the SRA will have far-reaching damaging effects on Federal cooperation and assistance, to the great detriment of the people needing relief, and resulting in greater financial burden for the State. It is to the ability of SRA personnel and its devotion to service that the credit must go for California never having had a major relief scandal in all the years since the trough of the depression.

This background is essential to an understanding of the problems which now confront us. As you are well aware, there are two divergent points of view concerning the staff of the State Relief Administration. One is that the SRA, being a department of government, which expends public funds, must be safeguarded in its operations by the application of the Civil Service principle and the merit system. That is the point of view which I maintain is the only sound and defensible one. I further believe it to be best practical politics and the strongest defense which your administration can erect. The other point of view is that expressed recently in an official communication to me by Mr. Sam Houston Allen, Director of SRA in Los Angeles County, appointed to that position by and through you. In seeking to establish as district directors politically prominent persons untrained in social welfare work, in the fourteen districts under his control in Los Angeles County, Mr. Allen advances the following justification of his point of view:

"In trying to sound out social service workers' reactions to this proposal I have met with only one fear on their part, which is the fear of relinquishing to 'patronage appointees' a control which they have so long safeguarded from political machination.

"I have two things to say about the above, firstly, it has been safeguarded so well that the resentment of the people is very high because of the utter exclusion, which has resulted in a loss of respect for social work methods; and secondly, that social workers have shown a lack of understanding of the fundamental economic structure, which is undeniably a structure based on a spoils and patronage system, not only in politics, but in business and in social activities. It is certainly impractical and shortsighted on the part of social workers to want to safeguard just one aspect of our living from such influences, when the whole structure is infested with it.

"They have no reason to be more inordinately fearful of the effects of patronage administration in this setup than in any other. The people's demands for their turn to share in the spoils of the last election is a real social phenomenon. This plan will show recognition of this by releasing some of these controls to those whom the people think they should be released to, and at the same time holding on to a social service standard. If this is not done, and the gesture does not come from us as a compromise, we can not even hope to preserve this aspect."

I wish to go on record as standing definitely opposed to the principle and practice urged in the last two paragraphs quoted above. In my opinion, they run counter to the program you, as Governor, stand for. Furthermore, they have been discarded by every efficient and successful administrator of large affairs in government and private business.

I maintain that this spoils system approach to the operation of the State Relief Administration will prove disastrous. It is vicious sophistry to presume that it is possible to staff the administration of the SRA on a partisan political basis and not have it reach down to the masses of relievers with most harmful results in discriminatory and wasteful practices.

We have had some experience, since Mr. Ballou was inducted into our service, in the partial operation of a personnel division under the influence of partisanship.

Let me recite what has occurred. I have caused a check study to be made of a hundred persons placed in our employ since January 1st as a result of political indorsement and clearance. Following strict personnel procedures, these hundred workers, now on the State payroll, were judged by personnel technicians as to whether or not they possessed the minimum qualifications necessary to satisfactorily perform the functions of their occupations. Of the hundred, twenty-four had such doubtful experience and educational backgrounds as to be judged unsuited for their work in the SRA.

Another important fact which was brought to light in this study was that because of the insistent demand for employment and the pressure exerted through political channels, insufficient time was given the employing officers so that only nine of the hundred had had their references checked before they were put on the payroll. Subsequently, we have learned that a number of the persons on the list had actually falsified their statements concerning educational and experience background.

Another example of the fact that partisan approach to the personnel problem in the SRA can not result in anything other than a lowering of efficiency of the staff is to be found in the selection of county directors. As you are aware, county directors are the key to the sound operations of the State Relief Administration. They are the employing officers within their counties, and have under their jurisdiction all matters pertaining to the operation of the State Relief Administration in their territory. Immediately upon the insistence of political clearance in the appointment of county directorships, several county committees and political groups have advanced the names of politically prominent persons in their community, seeking to replace with their candidates county directors long in the SRA service. As a matter of fact, it often occurred that political factions within a given county each advanced a candidate, so that the resultant confusion and dissatisfaction not only added greatly to the problems of the SRA but have brought conflicts to the party itself which can not be resolved.

As you are aware, the State Relief Administration is engaged in a social welfare program, the administration of which requires technical qualifications and social welfare experience. When I assumed the directorship of the SRA in January, I found upon examination that every county director in California had had long experience in the SRA and most had come up through the ranks from case aide positions, so that they were quite familiar with all the operations of the organization. However, when political appointments have been made to county directorships, these experienced workers have been lost to the State service and were replaced with inexperienced directors, with a consequent lowering of morale and operating standards. Nor has there been any indication to date that the persons sponsored for county directorships as candidates of political groups are comparable in educational background and social welfare or professional experience to the incumbents in those positions.

May I call your attention to one appointment already made as indicative of what has occurred and what may likely occur in a political approach to the problem of staffing the counties. I refer to the dismissal in Imperial County of the county director and the appointment of his successor. The former director had his degree in social science from Pomona College and a master of arts in social work from the University of Southern California. He had had three years of social case work and two years of administrative experience as an SRA director. From the professional and technical standpoint and the efficient, business-like operation of his county, there had never been established a valid criticism of the former director. Yet with the political approach introduced, delegations waited upon you and me and succeeded in having him removed. The person whom you selected to replace this man is Chairman of the Democratic County Committee of Imperial County. While we did not have time to check his references before placing him, his application blank indicates that he had three years of high school, had had no public welfare or private welfare experience of any kind, that he had begun as a clerk in a grocery store and finally had become salesman and owner-manager of a grocery and candy store in his county.

This illustration is made in no disparaging manner, but in order to pointedly demonstrate that while the administration of the SRA is distinctly social welfare, the director appointed in Imperial County has had no experience even remotely connected with such operations. Yet upon him will depend decisions concerning the eligibility of persons for relief which are embodied in law and regulations; decisions which can only be made satisfactorily by one who has long experience and possesses an impartial, professional point of view.

Another reason why I am opposed to the partisan political approach in staffing the Relief Administration is that that approach inevitably results in intrigue and pressure brought to bear by political groups or cliques to dismiss persons who have been in administrative positions in the State Relief Administration for several years, and who for that reason are regarded by outsiders as persons owing their allegiance to the former Republican regime. You will remember that I have already called to your attention a glaring example of such intrigue, directed at the head of the Surplus Commodity Division of the SRA, a man who has loyally and ably served the Relief Administration for more than five years. The intrigue began in an attempt of a subordinate employee, who had political connections, to use them to secure the replacement of his chief by himself. Every conceivable pressure, including defamatory and libelous charges, was brought to bear until the matter finally came to the attention of the Federal authorities, who insisted that they would take drastic action were this competent administrator removed. This is but an illustration of several such instances which have already occurred, and a harbinger of what will happen if the SRA administrative staff is subjected to the spoils system. The bad effect of such political intrigues upon the day by day operation of this important administration can not be calculated.

Not the least objection to partisan politics as the method of placement of administrative officers in the SRA is the fact that those so placed owe their allegiance not to their superiors in line but to the political groups who have sponsored their candidacies. When an appointment is made of one who has come with direct clearance from the Governor himself, then the situation may become unusually bad, as witness the example of the assistant director in Los Angeles County, who has been repeatedly insubordinate to her administrator in her working activities. It is not long before such insubordination has an effect upon the staff associates of these politically sponsored appointees who owe a likelier allegiance to their political affiliations than they do to their own administrative officers. This sets up in the State department an intolerable situation, and one which had much to do with the repudiation by the people of the spoils system in American public affairs. It inevitably means the loss of morale and working efficiency within the State Relief Administration.

I have said earlier in this statement that the SRA is a department of State government. It is not the adjunct or servant of any political party any more than is the Department of Public Works, of Education, or of Social Welfare. The party in power has a responsibility in determining the policies of the department, but the administration of the SRA must be carried on in a businesslike and impartial manner. There is no room in modern government for partisan administration. It is wasteful of public funds and destructive in its accomplishment. The party and party leadership have no right to interfere with the internal affairs of any State department, yet when partisanship is used as a basis of selection of SRA staff, inevitably groups and cliques make it their business to resolve internal problems of the administration.

You are well aware of the fact that the Civil Service Act, overwhelmingly voted in California by the people in 1934, placed all departments of State government except the Emergency Relief Administration under Civil Service regulations. The only reason for not including the SRA was that it was presumed to be an emergency agency which would disappear within a year. Had there been any thought of it being permanent in character, there is no doubt that it would also have been included in the Civil Service. As it became clear that it would be a permanent department, there was soon developed a Civil Service approach which staffed the SRA according to standards laid down by the State Personnel Board and which protected the SRA in a contract between the State Relief Administration and that board. You, Governor, have seen fit to refuse the continuance of that contract. To this I have objected most strenuously, and my objection rests in the fact that by the Civil Service contract we have had an impartial board reviewing job standards and pay, which has kept the 6,000 jobs available in the SRA in line with sound Civil Service practices and in keeping with the merit system. Continued refusal to resume this contractual relationship can end only in a lowering of standards.

As you well know, both your office and mine is besieged daily with numerous job seekers; fine people who served loyally in your campaign but for whom there are no available positions. In fact, something more than 20,000 applications are on file, but among that mass there are too few qualified persons making application for the kind of work which is done by the SRA administrative staff. Yet the pressure for jobs does not lessen, and unless the impartial Personnel Board of the State continues to be the judge of job standards, there is no question whatsoever that the horde of job seekers will only be satisfied by a lowering of the standards of employment in the administrative positions in the SRA.

The spoils system has already entered the State Relief Administration, and is particularly noticeable in a jockeying for positions and a frantic attempt on the part of old employees to retain their jobs. Every county director knows that without the protection of Civil Service, regardless of his long years of faithful work, he is subject to summary dismissal. Some county directors who maintained their work on an impartial and professional basis all through the Merriam administration are now forced for the first time, and in a Progressive administration, to seek political protection to maintain their positions. I call your attention to the vigorous activity in this direction of the Director of the SRA in San Bernardino County who has found it necessary for the first time in his professional career to obtain political support to keep his job. Such activity inevitably will break down the level of performance of the administration of the SRA. If not summarily stopped it will result in a spoils system which will be reflected in a sharply rising case load with many people receiving relief who should not have it, and a general inefficiency of administration which will be indefensible before the citizens of the State of California.

Once having launched upon a partisan approach in staffing the SRA, it is inevitable that a "clean-up" be made, resulting in the dismissal of many workers who carried on during the years of the Merriam-Pomeroy regime. There is likelihood that this "clean-up" will take on the proportions of a purge. I call your attention to the fact that one of the first moves made by Mr. Hallou when he entered our employ was to make an analysis of the registration of all persons on the administrative pay roll of the SRA in San Francisco County. This analysis was brought to your attention, and disclosed a fact of great significance; that at the time of the registration for the gubernatorial election of last year, among those registered to vote in the SRA staff, 82 per cent were registered Democratic, 12 per cent Republicans, and 6 per cent other parties. This is incontrovertible proof of the fact that the previous administration of SRA was not staffed on a partisan basis.

This scrutiny of political affiliations of present staff has gone to such an extent that a recent communication from the Governor's office indicated pointedly that in the medical staff employed as certifying physicians in Los Angeles County there were several physicians whose places might well be taken by deserving Democratic M.D.'s. This, my dear Governor, is a charge which has been vigorously advanced by leaders in the California Medical Association and the American Medical Association of what may well occur when any aspect of medicine is subjected to political control. It is a dangerous step to take, for there is no such thing as a partisan approach to the problems of medicine.

You and I are wholly in accord in the belief that only a loyal staff in SRA can administer a program. Loyalty, however, cannot be determined save by a careful process of working closely together with persons whose loyalty is being tested. There is no rule of thumb method of proving loyalty, and the partisan determination of loyalty is impossible to make. In fact, such an approach is precisely the one employed by the Gestapo in Hitler's Germany and the OGPU in Soviet Russia. In an enlightened Democracy, loyalty to progressive principles and a progressive program for the unemployed cannot be subjected to any such control. Loyalty of a staff can only be won by any Administration by fair treatment, strict adherence to the merit system and the development of a program in whose aims they share.

1 Sound Workable Personnel Policy for SRA.

I wish to go on record positively with respect to a personnel policy which I consider the only workable one for the State Relief Administration. In the first place, the Administrator must be given complete charge of all personnel transactions within his department. This is necessary for the effective and efficient administration of the SRA. It is impossible to operate a statewide program unless all appointments, removals, and disciplining of personnel come from and are subject to the Administrator. Pressures exerted by political groups upon appointments in this one non civil service department of State government can only lead to demoralization and a breakdown of administrative efficiency. The only possibility of successfully resisting such pressures is for the Governor to forcefully and publicly declare to all political groups that the Administrator is in charge of every personnel transaction in his department and that neither the Governor nor any one individual in the State will interfere with such transactions.

With respect to personnel now on the staff of the SRA, it is my belief that they must be retained if they are efficiently and competently performing their duties, regardless of their party affiliation. So far as I can see, the establishment of a works and reemployment program, as you and I have advocated for so many years, is not a matter of partisanship. I know many progressive Republicans who are more devoted to such a program than are some of our Democrats.

Present personnel must be continued if they are wholeheartedly carrying out the policies and program of our new administration. The State of California has an investment of thousands of dollars in the selection and training of the SRA staff now employed. It is wasteful in the extreme and one of the worst aspects of the spoils system to throw aside this trained personnel and subject a none too efficient administration to the double task of training a new staff and maintaining high standards of performance.

This is especially true in face of the fact that within three months the State Relief Administration must make a defense of its operations before an antagonistic Republican dominated Legislature. To my mind it is foolhardy politics to attempt a wholesale change of staff under such circumstances. I predict that if this is done the State Relief Administration will present such an unwholesome and inefficient character in the next legislative session as to warrant very severe criticism at the hands of the legislators.

No person now employed in this staff should be subjected to the pressure of charges of inefficiency or sabotage from without the department. Any criticism of staff members should be handled through administrative channels and by their superior officers in an appropriate manner such as prevails in the civil service. Only this protection will enable a staff to carry on its work in a decisive manner without fear of reprisals or political attacks.

The personnel policy with respect to new appointments should be likewise clearly defined. New personnel should be recruited only when there is actual need for their services in the operations of the program. This will necessitate a definite resistance of political pressure. I call your attention to the fact that during a period of declining case-load, which means a period of declining business in the Los Angeles SRA area, when 385 administrative workers were released, political pressure insistently demanded and obtained the appointment of forty-one persons to the staff. These employments and their attendant pay roll represent a waste of public funds and maladministration.

New personnel must be approved for appointment by the Personnel Division of the SRA entirely free of outside domination and based upon competence and a recognition of ability to perform the duties of the positions for which they are selected. Employees must be selected as a result of an impartial analysis of their qualifications, education, and experience, and such determinations must be made by the Personnel Division of the SRA.

The growing list of applicants for jobs, whose appointments are pressured by people in strategic political places, must not be used by the State Relief Administration unless positions are available and unless the applicants meet all qualifications. Such applications should go through regular channels of administration, and if placed in positions, people should be made to understand clearly that they must observe all administrative lines, rules and regulations of the SRA. If, for any reason, they are declared unsuited for their work, they are subject to the same dismissal procedure as any regular employee.

It is my sincere conviction that this summarizes a practical policy of personnel which will work for the greater efficiency of the State Relief Administration. Only such a personnel policy and practice will command the respect or deserve the support of the public. Only such a nonpartisan, efficient, professional operation of the State Relief Administration will assure the relief recipients of impartial, fair treatment, and protect the taxpayer in the expenditure of the vast sums of money which the SRA distributes. It is a certainty that no Republican dominated Legislature will place in Democratic party hands a war chest in the guise of a State relief appropriation to build a political machine of State relief personnel.

It is my sincere conviction that the people of the State of California, voters in both major parties, have declared themselves against patronage by enacting the civil service law. You must be aware that any spoils system or narrow partisanship in the operation of the State Relief Administration will result in awful misery to the unemployed and thoroughly discredit the party. Witness what occurred in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

I sincerely urge that you, Governor Olson, save the Olson administration and the liberal movement within the Democratic party from self-destruction. I know your nobility of purpose and your sincere desire to alleviate the misery of the unemployed. Please do not subject them to a partisan spoils system in the administration of relief.

Edwin N. Atherton & Associates Investigations.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, November 7, 1939.

Preface—In re: State Relief Administration.

This firm was retained to conduct an investigation of the State Relief Administration to determine conditions existing in its administration of relief under the State Relief Act.

This administration will be referred to hereinafter as the "SRA."

The SRA is a vast and complex organization. It operates over the entire State and it employs a great number of people.

Due to the limited investigation time available for the work covered in this report, it was not possible to make a thorough and complete investigation. Likewise it should be borne in mind that numerous conditions of an adverse nature are complained of in this report and are indicated to exist in numerous instances, limited time did not permit the obtaining of more specific data either to positively prove or disprove the indicated adverse condition. In considering the information contained in this report, it should also be borne in mind that a large number of the employees of the SRA who furnished information were disgruntled and that it is possible that in at least a few instances that their personal feelings influence their statements.

Relief is a heavy burden on the taxpayer, a tax which is constantly increasing; this is common knowledge. No effort was made to go into the financial facts. Such facts are obtainable from published State reports. However, the following excerpt taken from a recent State report shows how rapidly these costs are increasing.

The report referred to shows that: From 1933, when the Relief Act was adopted, to the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1939, there has been a steady rise in the amount of relief money expended in California. The report sets forth that all told, including State and Federal expenditures, more than seven hundred million dollars has been spent on unemployment relief during the period named. To this alarming statement is added: "The current estimate of employment would indicate that nearly 1,700,000 persons are affected. This figure represents 560,000 heads of families; 140,000 dependents who are gainful workers and 1,000,000 dependents who are not available for work; that is 25 per cent of our population is directly affected by unemployment."

While considering the burden on the taxpayer, the fact can not be lost sight of that many persons due to conditions over which they have no control, are destitute and on relief and entitled to such relief.

Because of limited time, this investigation has been confined to ascertaining, as fully as possible, conditions prevailing in the administration of relief funds. With that objective, the effort was made to discover whether the SRA is being administered economically and efficiently; whether all applicants for relief are accorded the same treatment; whether there exists pressure groups within the organization which influence or dominate the personnel; whether new appointees to the SRA are qualified by experience, education, training and character for the position to which appointed; and to bring out in the open such abuses and irregularities as may be found to exist, and that correctional remedies may be instituted.

Attention is directed to many matters uncovered in the course of the inquiry where further investigation is indicated, but which could not be developed fully because of limited time. Memoranda have been furnished in which facts obtained from interviews are set out. These memoranda also indicate where further investigation appears necessary. Restricted time has made it impossible to develop many leads of apparent material value—leads which if developed would bring to light many conditions not yet touched.

This report merely seeks to present an outlined summary, with sufficient detail, to call attention to prevailing conditions. Much of the information has been obtained from persons now in the employ of the SRA. Such information is necessarily confidential. Employees, dependent on their jobs for a livelihood and knowing what would follow talking, have insisted and have been promised that their names would not be used.

Synopsis.

Information has been obtained indicating that unions and politicians exert a strong voice in the control of SRA; that certain of these from without which have been termed as "radical" are able to dictate appointments to the SRA of persons without fitness or experience, apparently the only qualification required being loyalty to their sponsors. The SCMWA (State, County and Municipal Workers Alliance), a CIO union, whose membership consists of SRA employees, not only usurps an unwarranted influence in establishing the policy of the SRA but also intimidates the personnel into joining the union; that another CIO union, the Workers Alliance, which works closely with the SCMWA, and which appears to be more or less closely connected with the politicians or political factions, apparently wields sufficient power to have its members placed in key positions, thus enabling the Workers Alliance to persuade relief clients to join their unions by promising preferred attention in securing relief; that many employees of the SRA are reported to have extremely liberal, if not radical, ideas, which they discuss with relief clients, attempting to and often converting them to their cause.

There also is evidence that the SRA has adopted an extremely "liberal attitude" in granting relief with the result that the administration has lost sight of—forgotten—the purpose of the Relief Act, namely "relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment."

This "liberalizing," informed employees say, has placed on the relief rolls many who are not eligible to relief under the law. Employees say eligibility has largely been lost sight of; that many deserving are denied relief because of technicalities, whereas others obtain relief with ease. Apparently with many, relief has become either a business or a racket; to work, foolish, to live off others, a virtue.

There is evidence indicating the breaking down of morale. This appears to be due largely to internal dissensions and jealousies; to constant changes in personnel and in policy; to the appointing in supervisory and key positions of inexperienced persons, lacking the necessary qualifications to direct a business of the importance and magnitude of the SRA. The effect of this is the breaking down of morale in practically every department.

Many of the case workers interviewed appear not to know what is expected of them. This is largely due to the uncertainty of their employment and to knowing from years of experience that the directing heads are both ignorant of and indifferent to their duties. Instructed to do things repulsive to their conscience, they comply because the pay check is necessary to their livelihood.

Developed evidence indicates that many of the so-called "Professional Welfare Workers" are more interested in the theory of social welfare than in the practical application of allocation to required needs. Sentiment, sympathy, and theoretical ideas as to who should receive relief and the amount of relief in their opinion the applicant should receive, governs where practical application of the Relief Act is demanded. The cost of relief is not considered.

Evidence was found indicating that many "intake" and "field" workers are lax or indifferent in their work. There is information that clients have been certified as eligible at the behest of pressure groups. Also it is stated that in numerous instances no thorough investigation is made of the resources of the client; that no actual investigation is made to establish the amount of real or personal property the applicant may own or may acquire while on relief; that altogether too frequently no serious effort is made to investigate applicants' income from other sources or the willingness or ability of relatives to aid in the applicants' support.

An explanation for this may be the large number of cases (said to be from 80 to 100) field workers are called upon to handle. A further explanation offered is: the larger the case load, the more employees. Another reason advanced is the constant change in policy.

The discretionary latitude allowed and the apparent fact that decisions of the staff are accepted as the basis of authority to initiate and continue aid may be the cause of much laxity and confusion. Only a complete investigation and an examination of case files would determine such delinquencies, if they exist. Obviously, to examine all cases on file would be a lengthy and expensive task. A spot check, however, would indicate existing conditions. In this investigation, no opportunity was had to examine case files.

There is a large turnover of personnel due to seasonal fluctuations in case load. Replacements under prevailing conditions appear to be made at the demand of pressure groups. This has resulted in an inadequately trained staff. Many instances have been found where trained, capable employees, have been removed under pressure and their places filled by inexperienced persons whose only recommendation appears to be loyalty to the pressure groups demanding the appointment. Other instances have been found where employees have been dismissed allegedly for economy. When their places have been filled it has been found that several employees have been hired to do the work formerly satisfactorily done by the one employee discharged.

A dangerous condition indicated is the increasing number of people who think in terms of guaranteed support by the State; people who have lost pride and independence and demand they be permitted to live in idleness. Many may be termed "professional relievers" who successfully adopt every possible means of remaining on relief. Partly, if not largely at fault is the "liberalizing" policy adopted by the SRA. Another factor is the failure of field workers to properly investigate cases; to the sympathetic attitude of many of these workers who aid ineligible in getting on and in continuing on relief; to the alleged policy of the SRA to increase case load that increased personnel may follow and finally to the persuasive teaching and influence of the Workers Alliance.

Details.

Within the limited time allotted, as many as possible of the present and former employees of the SRA have been interviewed. Practically all interviewed say the SRA is inefficiently managed, and is increasingly becoming less efficient. The lessened efficiency is attributed by them to these major conditions: (1) the indefinite, uncertain, constantly changing SRA policy; (2) personal bickerings and jealousies among the personnel due to factional discord between the "liberals" and the "conservatives" within the organization; (3) pressure groups within SRA which try to and too often succeed in dominating personnel and in dictating policy; (4) "political" and "pressure" groups which obtain dismissals and name replacements without consideration of merit, experience or qualification. Employees say they no longer have security of employment; that dismissals are made without explanation other than that they are "for the good of the service"; and that inexperienced, unqualified persons are employed in their places. This condition, they say, has broken down morale. There is no longer interest, coordination or cooperation.

There follow interviews had and statements made by persons closely connected with the SRA. From intimate knowledge and association, they are qualified to speak. Their names omitted for reasons previously stated.

A reliable, experienced employee in the Alameda County office said: "The entire office is disrupted by friction; capable and efficient employees have been replaced by inefficient and inexperienced people who had strong political influence; this influx of political appointees has caused endless confusion, distrust, and suspicion." "Today," informant said, "more than ever is pressure getting greater until social workers don't know whether or not they will be working tomorrow." This employee added, "There are about two-thirds more administrative orders coming from the State office, and countless more forms to fill out in Alameda County than in any other I have worked in." This opinion of the employee, apparently shared by others, is that these additional orders and forms are purposely employed to so confuse and encumber the office routine that additional personnel will be necessary and "thus the SRA can be used to pay off political debts."

In the Alameda office this information also was received from an employee: "There is a constant change in office procedure and personnel and even though the case load has increased, there is no need for all these additional people and the confusion they cause lowers the office efficiency." "The worst of it is the obvious attitude of indifference of these political appointees and their lack of sincerity to SRA." This informant says she was told by her superior, when making evaluations of new appointees, "Just see that they are evaluated as capable; be more lenient than honest."

An Alameda County employee vouches for the following: "One of the earlier appointments to supervisor was * * * who did not belong to the union (SCMWA). On May 5, 1939, she was demoted to case worker. She immediately joined SCMWA and two weeks later was reclassified back to supervisor. She has no A.B. degree, which is the prerequisite to getting a job as a case worker."

Another Alameda County employee, after discussing the pressure groups within and without asked this pertinent question: "How can you expect an organization to function smoothly when there is constant friction, quarreling, a terrible turnover of political appointments in personnel, and rapid changes in administrative procedure?" There is a constant fear of losing one's job and it is impossible to expect any man or woman to work conscientiously and give his best to the job."

A director of relief for a Jewish agency said, "Political influence has always been present in a government program." "But," he said, "never have I seen political pressure so obvious in my entire experience in social work (15 years) since the start of this last administration." Elaborating on this pressure, he said, "Not only the relief clients being pressure through their union, the Workers Alliance, but the workers themselves are introduced into SCMWA, and they have brought pressure with increasing demands to such an extent that they have been successful in pushing their members into higher classifications at increased salaries, whether or not they be qualified or capable enough to properly execute the duties of such position." Further, he said, "It has become a question of political clearance as a prerequisite for a job with SRA, rather than good training and experience in social training; fully experienced people are removed without notice from their jobs which they have capably performed, and inexperienced persons with strong political party connections substituted." "The SRA," he claims, "has become a means of building a political machine and a means of paying political debts."

The following is from an Alameda County employee: "The nuisance pressure of the union (SCMWA) is instrumental in keeping the office in a turmoil." " * * * and * * * (a), strong union members, are continually neglecting their work and gathering in groups to talk union affairs during State office hours." "The union meets weekly with Gallagher, the county director, on State time for hours on end." "The union is constantly soliciting the membership of new employees with promises of shorter hours, new classification and quick raises." " * * * is working in the record room at $130 per month." "Other girls doing the same work get $80 per month." "In the record room alone, where ten did the job properly, there are twice that number now and the job suffers because they are green political employees."

This is from another employee: "There is no job security and the workers are taking an indifferent attitude toward their jobs." "Political appointees fill the file room; they are incapable and inefficient and get in everyone's way." "Social workers fresh out of college, full of ideals, dead in unemployment; see unemployment and are afraid of their jobs, so give relief when possible to keep up the case load."

A prominent social worker in San Francisco, who has been engaged in the work for the past ten years, and who is constantly in touch with the SRA, from experience named the following "definitely existing evils in the State relief program": "These evils," the informant said, "strike at the very foundation upon which this program is based." There are: "The evils of political appointment of inefficient, incapable workers in all the positions of capable workers; the pressure of the workers' union, the SCMWA, and the clients' union, the Workers' Alliance, have resulted in loss of time, effort and money, and a general disorganization and inefficiency." "The improper attitude of social workers, who, well trained in theory, lack the practical application thereof, and lean over backwards in an effort to sympathize with the client with not too much attention to where the relief money is coming from." "The jobs are filled by persons who are politically certified." "Ability is no criterion." "These politically clear persons haven't the vaguest idea about social service." "To permit politicians to deal in human life is a terrible thing." "This picture is not exaggerated, the public will not stand for it." This informant said from conversations with Administrator Walter Chambers it could be said, "Mr. Chambers is an idealist; he is a trained social worker, sincerely interested in seeing SRA become a properly run organization." Chambers, she said, told her: "You have to expect people to be fired when the Republicans have been in control so long and now it is the Democrats' turn in office." Chambers also said to her, "I suppose you have heard rumor that Edwin Cooley (San Francisco county director) is on the skids." "That is ridiculous; do you think I want a mess in San Francisco like in San Houston Altair's district in Los Angeles County?"

An "intake worker" in Alameda County said, "The SRA office is in a turmoil. There has been an increase in workers, yet a drop in case load. Many of the workers have been sitting around smoking cigarettes and talking on State time. It is an inefficient, disorganized administration that is steadily getting worse. The file room, originally run with a dozen persons, has had its personnel doubled. There is no harmony, nothing but distrust and suspicion. There is no security of position, and the feeling of terrorism is not exaggerated." "Never have I seen such inefficiency; these political clerks haven't the faintest idea about the work." This informant said also, "Cases that come in for relief, if appointment cases, are made for a certain time for them by the Workers' Alliance. The Workers' Alliance contacts * * * (a), grade 2 supervisor, who in turn sees these clients are given preference and are immediately taken care of."

A supervisor in the SRA, Alameda County, said she objected to a new appointee sent to her department because the new appointee was inefficient. She was told: "You have only the right to people who are politically cleared." The inefficient appointee remained.

A well known employee of a San Francisco welfare board, speaking from close contact with the SRA, said: "Without honest administration it is impossible to combat a disorderly program of relief; a program of waste; a program pitted with political hangers-on; a program that is the breeding ground of subversive activity." "The case workers for the most part are honest. It is the insincere people in supervisory positions that cause pressure to be brought upon case workers which hinders them in their work. Workers, dependent on their salaries, are pressured and coerced by the clients' organization, the Workers' Alliance, from without and by their own union, the SCMWA, from within. Case workers have found they had to join the SCMWA or lose their jobs." "The burden falls on the poor relief client, and adds to his suffering, as well as on the taxpayer by adding to his expense."

A director of charities, connected with relief and social welfare work for more than 16 years said, "The relief program today is in a deplorable condition; it is filled with an untrained personnel of political appointees, chosen not for their ability but political strength." "A victim of subversive activity and union pressure, the SRA has lost efficiency and effectiveness." "The very core of SRA is rotten; the roots dead, and the basic fundamental structure of the program unsound." "This condition has been effected largely by persons who selfishly have been seeking personal gain, pushed themselves into the organization and sought to live off the misery of others; also by 'pressure groups' both inside and outside the organization, namely, Workers' Alliance and SCMWA." "Political clearance seems the primary requisite for an SRA appointment."

From an employee in an administrative capacity in the SRA State office, the following information was obtained: "There are in the offices of the Personnel Division of SRA, Los Angeles, card files upon which are indicated not only qualifications of SRA employees, but their political clearances and party strength and service, such as: 'This man can get 200 votes'; 'This man did valuable work on campaign for Olson'; 'This lady has political clearance and strong financial backing.' "SCMWA has become so active in the office and during State time that this activity interferes with the efficiency of the office." "The State equipment (mimeograph) is used to print SCMWA literature during State time." He says: "Sam Houston Allen, SRA Director, Los Angeles, was heard to say: 'even though the State office is moving down I am going to run things my own way'; 'I'm a power down here, they can't order me around'; 'If any office space is needed I'll fire employees to make it.'" He says also he was told by a buyer in the Purchasing Department, Los Angeles, that he was approached by a contractor seeking a contract for electrical work. When informed the job had already been let, the contractor said: "The hell you have, Walter Ballou promised that job to me." He says also that "Walter Ballou, Governor Olson's executive secretary, and on the payrolls as such and not on the SRA payroll, has his office at 180 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco." His opinion is that "every administrative appointment, not necessarily the major ones, has to be approved by Ballou." "Recently in Los Angeles," this informant says, "a call was made for additional help." The Personnel Department was asked for applicants for junior clerks. Only one application was received. When asked for more, that an efficient choice could be made, the information was given: "We haven't any more that are politically clear."

An Oakland employee says the SCMWA assessed individual members 10 cents each to aid in the Harry Bridges' Deportation Defense.

The following is from an "Intake Qualifier," Alameda County. She has direct contact with SRA clients as they come off the street and determines their eligibility. Briefly, her statement is that when clients have been properly declared ineligible for relief "they go to the Workers' Alliance and are instructed how to fill out applications and directed how to answer the questions asked them by SRA qualifiers." "If rejected a second time they go back to the Workers' Alliance. The Alliance phones certain Supervisors within the SRA and the applicant gets preference in another hearing." "It doesn't follow," she says, "that the applicant is given eligibility, but the applicant is given preferred consideration." "Remarks like this," she says, "are frequently heard: 'Everyone in the office will be made to sign up with the Young Democrats.'" In addition to political and union pressure, this informant thinks one of the causes for inefficiency is "the heavy case load (100) workers have to carry."

An employee in the SRA Contra Costa County office is of the opinion that a check of cases would disclose startling information. He cites a few that have come to his notice:

(1) * * * *<sup>(a)</sup> Richmond. While in receipt of direct relief from SRA, also while on WPA, * * * had $1,200 cash in the bank. This case was supposed to have been properly investigated, but a neighbor informed informant he knew * * * had money in the bank, also had stocks and bonds. Informant investigated and found this to be true. In addition to the money in the bank, * * * had a son working for $100 per month who had been receiving this amount all during the time * * * was on relief. The son also had a bank account averaging from $125 to $400 at all times during the father's receipt of relief. On

He says, "The attitude of relief clients four years ago was that of embarrassment at having to ask for relief. Experience shows now, just four years later, they demand it." "Social workers are in a frame of mind that clients are entitled to and are due relief." "For the most part the clients appear to know as much or more about the SRA manual as do the employees themselves." (This tends to support the contention of others that a large percentage of clients are "repeaters" and are well versed in the rules and regulations covering relief.)

A case worker gave the following information: He said he is a former member of the local SCMWA; that he "was never so disillusioned as I was after attending the union meetings and actually finding out it is run and controlled by the Communist party." He said there is "altogether too much stress upon the rights of the employees and not enough stress upon the duties of the employees." He says the present administration has allowed "all left wing activities to blossom into flower." "There have been times when the Workers' Alliance representative would tell the single men who were about to be taken on the bus to the single men's camp that they did not have to go there; they could get assistance through SRA here in town." "In one instance the driver was stopped by Workers' Alliance representatives and not allowed to take the truck out for awhile." "There is no harmony nothing but ill feeling, dissension and doubt on the part of all." "The union realizes that all statement of policy comes to the Intake Department first, and in this Department the union has carefully placed its own people. This is the place of first contact with relief applicants." "Union dues are $12 a year—$1 a month. Of this 75 cents goes to the International CIO Treasury in Washington, D. C.; 10 cents to District Treasury here, controlled by Harry Bridges; balance of 15 cents is left with local chapter of which 2½ cents goes to Labors Non Partisan League. The Executive Council is composed of powerful CIO leaders, representatives of the Communist Party, and presidents of local chapters of CIO and SCMWA. At these meetings, instead of discussion and effort being put forth to improve working conditions of the workers, time is spent in determining to whom telegrams and letters should be sent regarding any bills in any way affecting the Communist Party, either in the State Legislature or Congress." "Every indication of these council meetings is that the objectives of the Communist Party and the interests of the Union are first." "SRA is the Refuge of the Misfits. When a client comes into the SRA office, with a grievance, a representative of the Workers' Alliance seems always present to stir up dissension and trouble. The Workers' Alliance always has representatives in SRA offices." This informant says also he has been told that "it is not his job to investigate these cases and that he is to give relief to the applicants whether they are eligible or not." "Time and again," he says, "applicants come into the office drunk—so drunk they can hardly sit on a chair while being interviewed; police are never called—social workers will not permit calling the police; that would be wrong psychology to be used on a client. The interviewer must take whatever treatment the applicant wishes to inflict, and give aid." Informant estimates "80 per cent of the cases are repeaters; 7 per cent to 10 per cent are chiselers." He says he "believes many prostitutes are getting checks from SRA." "The relief set-up is ideal for people who work at some trade at night. Too many applicants when called on during the day are found asleep." No thorough check is made. "Interviewers are not allowed to make any such remark as 'you shouldn't use relief money for liquor'." "SRA workers from Contra Costa County, San Jose, and all offices at least fifty miles from San Francisco come into State Standards Committee meetings of SCMWA every Thursday, taking time from their jobs, regardless of the work that is waiting to be done at their desks." "They meet on State time at State expense."

Informant who he knows case workers who work on the theory: "If they (applicants) are not eligible make them eligible."

An informant in the Nutrition Division said: "Until this year, the Nutrition program was sponsored by the City and County of San Francisco, costs of projects being divided approximately 40 per cent by the City and 60 per cent by SRA." "When the project came through this year, about September 1st, SRA informed the City that they (SRA) would take full responsibility." Informant was told "to have all the local Democratic backing she could get in order to hold her job." "The names * * * (a) * * * (a) * * * (a) were suggested." According to this informant, * * * (a) "is the clearance for SRA jobs in San Francisco, and it is common talk that there is no use applying for SRA jobs unless you are an Olson Democrat."

An employee of the SRA Accounting Office said: "Relief program today lacks proper administrative supervision in the social, administrative and supervisory angles, such as I have never experienced and I have been with the program since 1933. Most of this is the result of the insistence on the part of someone to make appointments without consideration to ability or background of the individual appointed." "It is natural to attribute this to political appointments, and that is the consensus of opinion. Besides, there never has been a time when the subversive organizations and tendencies have been so much in evidence as now."

An official of the Accounting Department, San Francisco, expressed the following opinion: "The social workers have too much theory and are definitely lacking in practical knowledge, or the value of the dollar, or the source of the relief dollars. The case workers go on the prerogative that they are hired to spend the money; in fact, to give it away, just as fast as possible. There is split responsibility between the County and the State, and a deliberate attempt toward evasion of obligation by both."

The following statement was made by an informant who for several years has been connected with "State camps": "The growers' camps are for the most part well supervised. There are very few tents used now except at the height of the season." "The growers are very cooperative. The workers, if left alone, would work for the wage offered." "Capitalizing on ignorance is the practice. The farmer would like to pay more. Sometimes he makes less than the picker." "The workers spend a great deal on gambling and drinking, and do not plan for the lean season. In many cases they are paid off Saturday night, and have no money Monday morning for medicine and food." "There are cases where migrants make a pleasure trip for relief and then go back home." "When I began working with camps in 1929, almost the entire camp population was Mexican. Perhaps 60 per cent to 70 per cent are now Americans—Dust Bowlers and Share Croppers."

At Marysville this statement was made: "If relief were not so easy or if the differential were not so great between WPA and farm wages, more would work. Farmers can not pay the wage. The price comparison is 30 cents per hour as against 60 and 70 cents on WPA." "They work during the season then go on relief—don't try to save."

At Marysville, it was found that a man and wife and three children, among other items received from Surplus Commodities: one pound of butter each day (seven pounds a week); 100 pounds of flour a week; 45 pounds of oranges a week.

Informant says this is a positive fact, adding, "This family gave butter away to friends. They had difficulty in getting rid of the flour—supplied neighbors, friends. There was so much flour the woodrats moved in for their share." "Such waste continued because no item could be changed on the commodity list." "Taking something for nothing, whether needed or not, has grown into a habit." "One family had on hand 12 sacks of flour and several cases of canned tomatoes." "One man offered a job said, 'Why should we work if we can get something for nothing?'"

At Marysville this opinion was expressed: "Agitators get relief. Former workers are on relief. A status of California bums has been made." "Why? Politics is behind the whole thing. As long as votes can be secured through this method not much can be accomplished. In these two counties, Sutter and Yuba, there are 600 to 700 SRA and WPA clients. At election time there are 1,000 to 1,500 cases. Roosevelt and Olson want relief money. They are capitalizing on human weakness and misery." "Appointments to SRA personnel are made on the basis of Olson connections, not on ability."

Another informant at Marysville said: " * * * encourages them to stay on relief. No job is suitable for them. SRA clients do not ask for work until pressure is brought, and they have to go through the pretense of applying at employment bureaus. But jobs and salaries do not suit them." "SRA does not send men to apply for work when they should, and then no job will do." "The trouble is relief has become a business." "It is easier for lazy, undeserving people to receive help than for those who have no relief record. Just because you have something it is rated against you." "People receive SRA aid who should not have it. The office people tell the clients exactly when they will call to make an inspection. This information enables the dishonest one to be prepared and to hide certain possessions." "It is made easy for people to lie." "New applicants for SRA relief (in Marysville) are never accepted or refused at the moment. While they wait for a decision on * * * part, Workers' Alliance and CIO representatives who wait in the corridors, or some place close, approach the applicants and suggest membership to ease their cause along. Membership is a definite aid toward relief."

An employee of the Surplus Commodities Distribution Division, SRA Los Angeles, said: "Because of existing corrupt political conditions and Communist activities within the State Surplus Commodities Distribution in Los Angeles County, it has been heard the Federal Government contemplates cutting the issue of Federal Commodities in Los Angeles County area 90 per cent and that possibly all supplies will be discontinued; also that the resignation of the present head is demanded." This informant said that "during the past week over 60,000 cases of spoiled commodities—foodstuffs, including spaghetti, macaroni, etc., had been removed from the Los Angeles Commodities Distribution Warehouse on Santa Fe Avenue, and had been discreetly disposed of." He added that "the next week, beginning October 23d, additional amounts of commodities running into several thousand pounds will also be disposed of in a like manner." No opportunity was had to investigate this statement.

This interesting fact occurred in Los Angeles. It was noised about that it was practically impossible to obtain a position in the San Fernando Valley SRA unless the applicant first joined the Workers' Alliance, and that it was first necessary to secure the approval of a man named * * * (1). The would-be applicant, in the presence of an agent of this office, contacted * * * (1), * * * (1) who was acquainted with the would-be applicant, said, "Well, Jimmie, I know you don't belong to the Workers' Alliance, and unless you sign up with us I won't be able to do a thing for you. However, if you will sign up with us, I guarantee that I will be able to have you placed back in the SRA out here in the valley in some capacity, maybe not with your old job, but anyway I will get you back on the pay roll." The applicant then said, "Well, if I really thought you could do that, I might consider joining up with your outfit." * * * (1) said, "I can do it all right; you see, I work direct with Sam Houston Allen who is at the head of the SRA in Los Angeles County, and our organization has an agreement with Allen whereby Allen will not allow anyone to be appointed into the SRA unless the applicant first joins up with the Workers' Alliance. Consequently, if you'll join up with us I can do something for you." The applicant left saying he would think it over.

A former official of the SRA says a man named * * * (1) was appointed in charge of the commissary as senior manager. * * * (1) refused to do any work and on many occasions boasted openly that he was handed his appointment as senior manager while in the Lincoln Heights jail on a wife beating charge. Because of his drinking, refusing to work, etc., * * * (1) was sent back to SRA headquarters, Los Angeles, to report to * * * (1) who was instrumental in having * * * (1) appointed. "Soon thereafter," informant says, "I received a phone call from * * * (1) and another call from * * * (1) advising me I was 'overstepping my bounds' in interfering with * * * (1)." Informant says, "* * * (1) came back to work with the smell of liquor on his breath, and continued to refuse to work." Informant added that "* * * (1) assignment chart shows he is a foreigner, but that his citizen's affidavit is on file."

* * * (1) is one of the few interviewed who would permit his name to be used. He said he "would be willing to testify to all I know about the new and old regime of the SRA during my five or more years of service." He said, "It is a well established fact that can be proved by competent witnesses that politics is the first consideration in not only the appointment of administrative heads and other employees plus their status with the radical organization of the Workers' Alliance, which does not plead for help for its members but demands and receives more than is required or legally allowed."

Speaking more specifically, * * * (1) said, "Before Allen came into power in the SRA in Los Angeles County, it was the practice to pick employees for jobs from the relief clients after they had displayed their ability and competency. This not only helped the worthy and those qualified to earn at least a living wage, but took them off the relief rolls. The practice now is not only not to relieve the rolls, but to increase the case load and employ incompetent administrative help, and also to swell the staff with unnecessary employees. In every division of Los Angeles County, where heads have been dismissed by Allen, two and three 'politically cleared,' but otherwise unqualified individuals, have been appointed in their places, and in practically every instance with an increase in salary." He cited one instance where one man of long experience and capable, was dismissed in July after six years of experience. Seven men have been employed to do this work, formerly done satisfactorily by one man. "There are other instances," * * * (1) said, "where the new staff has been increased more than 100 per cent to give jobs to men whose only 'qualification' is a political clearance."

A confidential informant says, "The SRA is permeated with Communists, and the Dies Committee has affidavits proving this fact."

A former director of the SRA, San Diego, made this statement: "The case load has greatly increased under the present management, while the Workers' Alliance dictates the eligibility." "Under my administration," he said, "75 per cent of the recommendations of the Workers' Alliance were rejected, while now the figures are reversed and 75 per cent are accepted."

A gentleman holding a position of responsibility in the San Diego SRA said, "When Olson was elected, politics entered and is becoming stronger all the time. The Workers' Alliance deals directly with Olson's office. Roe, the new manager, has had no experience. They have been appointing only politicians and those approved by the Union. Relief workers have had no experience, and the rules have been stretched to the broadest point possible with the result that at least 30 per cent of those on relief are ineligible and should not be on. All are instructed to liberalize the rules as much as possible. The result has been a great increase in case load and in the cost of administration." Summarizing, he said, "A year ago there were 1,500 relief cases, now there are 3,000. Politics is rampant; the unions are dictatorial; there is waste and inefficiency; no system; no coordination; the personnel are dissatisfied; all have the jitters not knowing what is coming and all in all there is chaos and confusion."

A president of a Democratic club in Los Angeles said his "personal files contain considerable information regarding SRA 'red' activities, which information was obtained as a result of investigations made by the members of my club." He said all of this information, which included sworn affidavits showing that SRA officials were active members of the Communist Party were turned over by him to Dies Committee agents in Los Angeles. He described this evidence turned over by him as "strong and sufficiently comprehensive to eliminate any doubt as to the activities of these SRA officials with the Communist Party." He declined to discuss in any detail the nature of the evidence obtained by his group because of the fact, as he explained it, that this information has been turned over to an official government agency and he did not believe it would be fair to the Dies Committee to disclose the information at this time.

* * * (a) a former employee in the Surplus Commodities Distribution of the SRA, Los Angeles, in a signed statement says: "About August 1, 1939, I attended a political meeting of the Latin American Young Democrats of Southern California. . . . The temporary chairman, a * * * (a) was speaking. The substance of his speech was as follows: Sam H. Allen appointed * * * (a) to an administrative position with the SRA for the sole purpose of having * * * (a) place individuals in positions with the SRA which individuals were due for political rewards for their services in helping to build up the Allen machine; that * * * (a) will get jobs for these men regardless of how he has to go about it. We are building up our own political machine and contemplate getting the jobs from the Social Service workers and they (naming such men as * * * (a) * * * (a) and * * * (a)) will see to it that men from our machine get the jobs."

In another signed statement * * * (a) tells of going to the home of * * * (a) at * * * (a) request. * * * (a) showed him letters from Governor Olson thanking * * * (a) for his cooperation and assistance. * * * (a) avers he was also shown two letters from Mr. Richard Olson, a son of the Governor, addressed to * * * (a). In substance these letters thanked * * * (a) for the services he had rendered and promised that he (* * * (a)) would be taken care of in the near future. These letters made no reference to SRA or the Workers' Alliance and were apparently thank-you letters which * * * (a) exhibited to impress * * * (a). "After I read these letters * * * (a) told me he had shown them to me to prove he had 'inside connections' and was 'in the know.'" * * * (a) then told me he was going to be very frank in what he had to say; that if I didn't join up with the Workers' Alliance organization I would be out of a job in a few months. I asked by what authority the Workers' Alliance made that statement and wanted to know what they had to do with the administration of the SRA. * * * (a) answered that the Workers' Alliance was so strong that people were hired and fired at the will of the organization. He then handed me a membership application blank and told me if I didn't sign it I would find myself out of a job in the near future. I refused to sign the application and * * * (a) told me I was a fool because he knew what he was talking about." Subsequently * * * (a) lost his job with SRA.

Reference also is made to signed statements of * * * (a) and * * * (a) the originals of which have been furnished.

A district supervisor in Los Angeles, speaking of politics within the SRA, says: "A place had to be made for * * * (a), assistant Sergeant-at-Arms in the State Legislature. * * * (a) was slated for the position to which * * * (a) was appointed. Allen had to place * * * (a) somewhere so he fired * * * (a), Superintendent of the SRA Warehouse at Los Angeles, and appointed * * * (a) to that office in order to get * * * (a) on the pay roll. * * * (a) does not do any work, supervisory or otherwise, at the warehouse, but merely signs the register in the morning and then leaves for the rest of the day. This morning (October 9) after signing the pay roll, * * * (a) said he would not be back for the rest of the day inasmuch as he and his girl friend were going to take a little trip to Santa Barbara."

The informant said, "As a specific example of the inefficient distribution of these foodstuffs (surplus commodities) over $50,000 worth of canned goods from different cooperative units now in their warehouse at 1101 Santee Avenue, Los Angeles, has been spoiled and is worthless because most of these canned goods had been left standing in the sun and after exposure to the last heavy rain became rusty."

"As another example," he said, "approximately 30,000 cans of tomatoes now in storage at said warehouse are in a spoiled and inedible condition because of inefficient packing, handling and distribution by unskilled workers and by unskilled officials who apparently took no interest in the supervision of these commodities." Time did not permit verifying these statements.

From a confidential source at SRA headquarters, Los Angeles, it was learned that the communication office, which handles all telegram and radio messages, "is in a terrible mess" and that "the congestion of mail matter and confusion of records is proving a costly experience." All those employees in the division who understood the work and were competent have been dismissed and their successors are without experience or training in the work. The new employees, it appears, "through ignorance or otherwise, have failed to retain copies of hundreds of telegrams sent out. The State Finance Department requires that a copy of every telegram sent during the month be attached to the telegraph company's monthly statement before the bill is paid. Copies of these telegrams haven't been made."

The purpose of the Surplus Commodities Division is to distribute surplus food received by private donation and from Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation to persons on relief rolls. Thirty-three of these stores are in operation in Los Angeles County under the direction of * * * (u) who was appointed to this position of Los Angeles County Supervisor about July 15, 1939, by Sam Houston Allen, SRA Director of Los Angeles County. Resulting from the investigation conducted into this matter, the information obtained is that soon after the appointment of * * * (u) most of the persons who occupied key positions with the Surplus Commodities Distribution Division were dismissed and persons who were "politically right" with the * * * (u) organization were appointed to take their places. Information received is that at the time these new appointments were made, the personnel was often more than doubled in number, and in a majority of instances none of these new appointees was trained for the positions they were to occupy. The claim is made that the amounts of food commodities actually issued from these commissaries after * * * (u) appointment were reduced more than 75 per cent as in comparison with the commodities previously issued under * * * (u) administration. That because of Communistic infiltration into these stores by members of the Workers' Alliance, many of whom were appointed to key positions, the efficiency and the operation of these stores fell far below the previous standard. The impression appears to be that "the * * * (u) machine is doing everything possible to have these commissaries closed in order to have their program of 'Production for Use' program, put in actual operation."

In connection with the foregoing, the following excerpt taken from a signed statement by * * * (u), a former manager of several SRA commissaries, is interesting: "The employees in our commissaries who were members of the Workers' Alliance were continually issuing commodities to relief clients who were also members of their party. As a result the inventory sheets did not balance. I brought this to the attention of Area Supervisors * * * (u), * * * (u), * * * (u) on several occasions, and they told me nothing could be done about it and for me to just make the best of it. A notable change took place among the relief clients who were Workers' Alliance members. Their demands became greater, and they were always complaining about the amount of commodities being received by them."

"Soon after these new appointees had been placed in our stores, I received from * * * (u) assistant, * * * (u), area supervisor, a typewritten list of the active members of the Workers' Alliance party then on relief rolls in our district.

With this list I received specific written instructions from * * * (u) that the persons whose names were contained on this list were to be issued special amounts of commodities from our three commissaries. I had no say whatsoever in this matter, and issued these commodities as ordered. Dissension and ill feeling immediately became prevalent in the ranks of the relief clients who were not members of the Workers' Alliance, and could not obtain these special issues. Complaints were made to the area supervisors regarding these irregularities, but no attempt was made to correct the situation and no investigation was conducted into the matter.

(* * * (u) admits sending the above referred to letter; he says he did it under instruction of "higher-ups.")

From a reliable source the following was received: "With further reference to the political phase of the new SRA regime, it should be explained that many well-qualified applicants for SRA jobs can not make the grade because of political requirements. Even though they profess to be radicals and dyed-in-the-wool Olsonites, they lack the necessary acquaintance of 'politicals' to endorse their application.

"To better explain the procedure, and submit proof in verification, copies of two of the three applications required to gain an audience with the high SRA officials in the director's office are furnished (see following). Two of the applications must be made out and approved at political headquarters, and the third presented at SRA headquarters. This last application is a mere formality and of small import if the first two are favorable.

"The applicant must present himself at the office of * * * (u), Chairman of the Democratic Central Committee, in the * * * (u) is connected with the State

Division of Motor Vehicles. The applicant is handed two blank applications which read as follows:

A Los Angeles informant says: "When Allen came into power as administrator of the Los Angeles County District, he abolished the 'Reemployment Division' which had a staff of about 20 men whose duties were placing relief clients in employment in private industries. These men were tamed and influential citizens who were in touch with business concerns and factories." "On September 1, 1939, Allen set up a 'Sales' Department in the Los Angeles SRA to replace the 'Reemployment' Division with a staff of about 35 inexperienced and incompetent employees."

An SRA employee said: "The Los Angeles County SRA is disbursing $1,800,000 in relief per month; prior to Director Allen's regime the administrative cost of operation was 11.1 per cent; it is now 25.2 per cent with a decrease in relief cases." The exact figures of the case load he did not have at the moment.

Statements similar to those set out herein could be repeated many times. It is thought those submitted sufficiently indicate prevailing conditions without further elaboration.

Respectfully submitted,

Senate Resolution No. 13.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Slater, Seawell and Holohan:

Death has called another conspicuous figure in State government in the years ago. At his home in Anderson, Shasta County, on January 30, the Honorable Thaddeus

W. H. Shanahan, who represented his district in the Assembly and later in the State Senate for many years, closed his life book. He died at the age of 81. He was born in California in Colusa County in 1859, the son of early pioneer parentage. Many times in this chamber, his voice was raised in upholding the romance and history of his native State.

An outstanding, highly important and continuing piece of legislation sponsored by Mr. Shanahan was the introduction and passage of a constitutional amendment which gave free text books to the public school children of California. He will always be remembered as a result of the success of the benefaction thus bestowed upon the children of the State.

After leaving the State Senate, Mr. Shanahan served for many years upon appointment by President Woodrow Wilson as Superintendent of the Mint in San Francisco. During the latter years of his life, he resided quietly at his orchard home at Anderson. Many of the oldtimers in the Legislature and generally throughout the State will recall the sobriquet attached to Mr. Shanahan—"The Tall Sycamore" of Shasta County.

So that a permanent record may be made in the Journal of the State Senate of this day expressing the regret of the Senate at the death of a former highly respected colleague, be it

Resolved by the State Senate, That when it adjourns on this day, it do so out of respect to the memory of the late Honorable Thaddeus W. H. Shanahan and the Secretary of the Senate is hereby directed to forward a copy of this resolution to the family.

Resolution read, and on motion of Senator Slater unanimously adopted by a rising vote of the Senate.

Relative to the death of Senator Frank S. Boggs.

WHEREAS, Since the adjournment of the last session the Honorable Frank S. Boggs has been called from this life; and

WHEREAS, Senator Boggs represented a Senatorial District which at one time included San Joaquin and Amador counties and at the time of his death included San Joaquin County, the Twentieth Senatorial District; and

WHEREAS, Senator Boggs was a member of an old and respected pioneer family of this State, well known throughout Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, and leaves a host of friends who mourn his passing; and

WHEREAS, Senator Boggs during his long years of service distinguished himself in his many fights for legislation which he thought was to the interest of his district and to the people of the State. He was the author of the present reapportionment law of the State which was the culmination of many years of thought and struggle and study. He ably represented the farmers of the State through his many terms of office as Chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee and frequently was the representative of and sponsor for most of the agricultural legislation. He was one of the Directors of the original State Farm Bureau organization and as such devoted much of his time to their activities. Resolved, That the Senate express its grief at the passing of this beloved former member, and when it adjourns this day it do so out of respect to his memory; and, be it further

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 1, 1940.

Honorable J. C. Garrison,
Senate Chambers, State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.

Subject: Investigating Committees at Special Sessions.

Request: No. 7240.

DEAR SENATOR GARRISON: You have asked whether the Senate by house resolution may create a committee to function during this special session, and any recesses thereof, which committee is to investigate and report upon a subject not included in the Governor's Proclamation. The resolution creating the committee would include an appropriation for its support from the Senate Contingent Fund. It is our opinion that a committee so created to investigate and report upon a subject not included in the Governor's Proclamation would be without power to conduct such an investigation, or to subpoena witnesses, or to expend such an appropriation.

This specific question was discussed by the Supreme Court in this case in Swing vs. Riley, 13 Cal. (2d) 513. In that case the court said:

"Article V, Section 9 of the Constitution provides that the legislature at special session 'shall have no power to legislate on any subjects other than those specified in the proclamation * * *'. This constitutes a prohibition against exercising legislative powers at a special session except in considering matters included within the call. The work of legislative committees is subsidiary and auxiliary to the legislative functions of each house. If the legislature can not directly legislate on matters not included within the call, then it can not exercise dependent or subsidiary powers derived solely from the direct power to legislate."

Our opinion finds further support in ex parte Wolters (Texas), 144 S. W. 531, 535, and in Annenberg vs. Roberts (Pa.), 2 Atl. (2d) 612.

It would therefore appear that the power of the legislature to investigate at this special session, or any recess thereof, is circumscribed with the same limitations as its power to legislate, and that any investigation must be directed toward a subject within the scope of the proclamation calling the special session.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.
By LAWRENCE G. ALLYN, Deputy.

Amendment No. 1.

In line 4 of the title of the printed bill, after "agreements", insert the following: ", to take effect immediately".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, following line 17, insert the following:

"Sec. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

Prior to 1937 political subdivisions were not required to pay registration fees and vehicle license fees on vehicles owned by them or controlled by them under a lease agreement. A change was made in the Vehicle Code which inadvertently operated to require the payment of such fees.

Many political subdivisions are financially unable to pay the accrued fees and penalties thereon and it is necessary to afford them immediate relief from such burden as provided in this act. Unless this act takes immediate effect further penalties will accrue, thus increasing the existing burden upon such political subdivisions."

Resolution.

WHEREAS, "The Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1939" adopted by the Seventy-sixth Congress of the United States embodies certain provisions pertaining to the operation of the Works Projects Administration which involve definite and fundamental changes of policy that will greatly affect the program of that agency in its relations with the city of Los Angeles; and

WHEREAS, Due to the relationship between the State Relief Administration and the Work Projects Administration, any decrease in WPA quotas causes a directly corresponding increase in the number of cases cared for by the State for which no secondary benefits are received, while the continuation of persons on a work relief program not only satisfies the necessity for providing relief but also results in the creation of valuable public improvements; and

WHEREAS, Regulations under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1939 require that the average Federal nonlabor expenditure shall not exceed $6 per month per worker and that subsequent to January 1, 1940, the sponsor's contribution shall be not less than 25 per cent of the total cost of the work; and

WHEREAS, In order to obtain the full benefit of Federal unemployment assistance, it will be necessary to sponsor a sufficient number of projects to employ continuously approximately 12,000 persons which is the estimated WPA quota for the city of Los Angeles; and

WHEREAS, The Work Projects Administration will be required, under the said regulations, to drop from the rolls all persons residing within the city of Los Angeles for whom employment is not provided by locally sponsored projects, thereby greatly increasing the load of the State Relief Administration in this city; and

WHEREAS, It is essential to the welfare of this community that worth while public works be carried on by the city for relief of unemployment to the maximum extent possible, in order to assist the Federal Government in unemployment relief, reduce the burden of direct relief by the State from which no resulting benefits are received, and provide necessary additions to the municipal plant; and

WHEREAS, The city of Los Angeles does not have sufficient funds available to provide for the sponsorship of this program under present regulations; and

WHEREAS, The present cost to the State Relief Administration for maintaining those on its rolls is approximately $32 per case per month for which there is no return other than the social value of the relief of privation; and, as a comparison, it is estimated that a WPA work relief program can be conducted at a cost of only approximately $14 per man per month supplied from local funds; and

WHEREAS, Financing of such a program by a subsidy from the State would provide a more equitable distribution of the resulting tax burden, would result in the saving of more than one-half of the cost of maintaining unemployed persons in this city upon the rolls of the State Relief Administration, and would provide additional public improvements of benefit to the State as a whole, as well as the local community; and

WHEREAS, An early solution of this problem is essential to avoid a serious curtailment of the city's program within less than two months with serious effects upon approximately 30,000 citizens of this city who are directly dependent upon WPA employment; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the city council of the city of Los Angeles hereby declares its approval of the policy of furthering and maintaining a works relief program of the maximum possible magnitude in the city of Los Angeles in order that the benefits of unemployment relief and public improvement construction may be secured as herein above described; and be it further

Resolved, That the Legislature of the State of California be urgently requested to take early action to inaugurate such steps as it may see fit to provide assistance from the State of California to defray sponsor's cost for the WPA program of the city of Los Angeles and other cities throughout the State; and be it further

Resolved, That certified copies of this resolution be forwarded to all members of both houses of the Legislature of the State of California.

I, R. E. Davis, city clerk of the city of Los Angeles, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of a resolution adopted by the council of the city of Los Angeles at its meeting of February 1, 1940.

RALPH E. DAVIS, City Clerk.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Deuel ordered printed in the Journal:

929 CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,
LOS ANGELES, January 27, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and Assembly, Legislature of California, Sacramento, California.

GENTLEMEN: Now that you are about to convene in special session, your attention is respectfully called to the following findings in the recent Landis report, as quoted in the Los Angeles Examiner of December 31, 1939, tracing the "relationship" of the alien, Harry Bridges, to the Communist Party, in part, as follows:

"They are, in general, his well defined opposition toward 'red baiting'; his acceptance of aid and assistance in his industrial struggles from the Communist Party—indeed, his solicitation of that aid, his expressed disinclination to disavow that help; his association with persons admittedly Communist, an association that derives primarily from his request for and acceptance of such aid.

"There are, specifically, * * * his not-infrequent conferences with the Communist officials on the Pacific Coast * * *"

The conclusion of Dean Landis that Bridges was not a member of the Communist Party is of little importance in view of the foregoing findings, since approved by Secretary Perkins, that he sought, received, and used "aid and assistance" from the Communist Party, and that he held "not-infrequent conferences with the Communist officials on the Pacific Coast."

Speaking only as a private citizen and lifelong Democrat, but voicing the sentiment of eighty per cent, and more, of the people of California, in the wholesome revival of patriotism that is now sweeping the length and breadth of the State, I respectfully submit for your consideration:

1. That you take special notice of the sorrow, tyranny, and oppression suffered by the people of Communist Russia and Nazi Germany, as the inevitable result of their submission to Karl Marxism, in contrast with our freedom, and the security of our economic and political life, under the institutions and traditions of American Democracy.

2. That the institutions and traditions of California be safeguarded with the utmost care to protect our people from any "relationship" between either radical aliens, Communists, the communistic, or any of their associates, and any public officials of the State.

3. That the state-owned Port of San Francisco, and the University and School Systems of the State, be protected from any possible invasion of their management by radical aliens, Communists, the communistic, or any of their associates.

4. That the farmers, industries and working people of California be likewise protected from destructive interference by radical aliens, Communists, the communistic, or any of their associates.

5. That more humanitarian consideration and treatment be given the worthy and unfortunate on relief, by taking State relief out of politics, and freeing the system from the deplorable conditions that now exist. That the control of relief be placed under a bona fide State Bi-Partisan Board, to provide state-wide standards of relief, but that actual supervision be left to local non-partisan authorities.

6. That the office of Director of Finance be taken out of politics, and that the State's fiscal affairs be divorced from fantastic, socialistic dreams. No private business would employ a cashier for political purposes, nor permit the use of company funds to finance enterprises in competition with the business of the company and its stockholders. There is no excuse for using the taxpayers' money to operate production-for-use projects in California, in competition with the producers and workers of the State. When the use of tax money is restricted to legitimate relief and governmental purposes we will probably find that there will be no need for additional taxes.

Respectfully submitted.

ZACH LAMAR COBB.

Resolution.

Resolved, That we, the Board of Directors of the Association of County Superintendents of California, in session at the Hotel Sacramento on January 31, 1940, take no action requesting the transfer to the counties of the responsibility of relief for employable people, but, if such action is taken by the Legislature, the counties shall act only as administrative agents of the State so that the total cost of unemployment relief, including administrative cost, will be paid for entirely by the State; and that indigency be redefined as follows so that the counties may be safeguarded from an unfair increase in the indigent case load. "Every county and every city and county shall relieve and support all indigent persons lawfully resident therein, when such persons are totally incapacitated for gainful employment by reason of infirmity, disease, or accident, and when such persons are not supported and relieved by their relatives or friends, or by their own means, or by private agencies or institutions, or by the State or Federal Government."

Communication.

The following communication was, on motion of Senator Tickle, ordered printed in the Journal:

Mr. Mathew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, a great humane leader primarily interested in the man who toils for his daily bread, said: "Taxes are the greatest single contribution to the cost of living today. It makes no difference whether these taxes are paid in the first instance by big business, industry, the public utilities, the railroads, the banks or the insurance companies, it is the ultimate consumer who pays them in the end. Whether taxes can be reduced immediately or not, they can and should be distributed more equitably and so as not to stifle business or to tax incentive, which is the source of new industry and new employment. * * *

Mr. Roosevelt said, in 1932, in Sioux City, Iowa:

"I regard reduction in Federal spending as one of the most important issues of this campaign. In my opinion, it is the most direct and effective contribution that government can make to business."

In Pittsburgh, Pa., on October 19, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors, because they are a burden on production and can be paid only by production; if excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, tax-sold farms, and hence, in hordes of the hungry tramping the streets and seeking jobs in vain."

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Garrison ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL.
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 2, 1940.

Honorable J. C. Garrison,
Senate Chambers, State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.

Subject: Special Session Proclamation as Affecting Senate Resolution No. 15.

Request: No. 7263.

DEAR SENATOR GARRISON: You have asked our opinion whether Senate Resolution No. 15 is within the scope of the special session proclamation. This resolution proposes to create an investigating committee on expenditures of the building and loan department to study and report on "the entire problem of the administration of the building and loan department as it may affect the expenditures of the department or the taxable property held, owned and controlled by the department . . ."

In the short time that we have had to consider this question, copy of the resolution not being available until the Senate Journal for February 1, 1940, was received this morning, we have been unable to reach a definite conclusion for two reasons. The first is that it is not entirely clear from the resolution or the few facts available just what phases of the problem of the administration of the building and loan department are to be studied. The second is that it would require a great deal more information regarding the facts to enable us to determine the extent, if any, that this committee could act within the scope of the proclamation. In so far as the subject of the investigation affects the problem of State revenues, it would appear to be within the scope of the call. However, the agency in the question derives its support from a special fund. Hence it appears possible that at least some of the phases of the proposed investigation may not be within the call.

At this time the most definite answer which we can give you is that, on the face of it, the resolution appears to be partly within and partly without the scope of the call, and further, that if such a resolution were adopted the scope of the activities of the committee would be circumscribed by the proclamation calling the special session.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

Remarks.

The following remarks, offered by Senator Phillips, were ordered printed in the Journal:

Last Thursday evening, February 1st, I spoke on a radio program, known as the "Public Forum," with Mr. Edwin James Cooley, Director of the San Francisco SRA office. The subject was the present relief situation. During the discussion, Mr. Cooley said that the State Personnel Board exercised a definite control over the selection of SRA employees, particularly as to their qualifications. I had a letter from the Board saying that it had no such supervision, and I so stated. Mr. Cooley said emphatically that I was wrong, and that the SRA employees were approved, as to qualifications, by the Board. My comment was that the controversy, if any, was not between Mr. Cooley and myself, but between Mr. Cooley and the State Personnel Board.

The members of the Senate will recall that when we voted Saturday whether or not to go into a Committee of the Whole, with the thought of having Mr. Cooley as one SRA representative before us, I declined to vote. I had just received a letter, without any solicitation on my part, from the Executive Officer of the Personnel Board. I now ask that the letter be read over the desk and that this statement and the letter be printed in the Senate Journal.

CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD,
1025 P STREET, SACRAMENTO, FEBRUARY 2, 1940.

*The Honorable John Phillips, State Senator,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SENATOR PHILLIPS: Last night I heard the closing minutes of the forum discussion on Radio Station KFBK in which you and Mr. Edwin J. Cooley of the State Relief Administration participated as the principals. The first remarks I heard were those relative to the activities of this agency in the regulation of personnel in the Relief Administration.

I am writing this for the purpose of reiterating what I wrote to you before; namely, that we have not now or have we ever had any control over setting the requirements or passing on the qualifications of any person employed by the State Relief Administration. Our function has been solely to review the classification of positions for the purpose of keeping rates of pay in the Relief Administration comparable with those for similar employments in the State civil service.

Mr. Cooley was definitely in error in saying as he did that the State Personnel Board has "approved every appointment made to the State Relief Administration."

I did not hear any of the preceding discussion and my purpose in writing is not in any way to comment on the principal topic of the evening. I do, however, wish to keep the record straight on this one point relative to our participation in the personnel affairs of the Relief Administration.

I am sending a copy of this letter to Mr. Cooley for his information.

Very truly yours,

LOUIS J. KROEGER, Executive Officer.

Further Remarks.

The following remarks, offered by Senator Phillips, were, on motion of Senator Tickle, ordered printed in the Journal:

Last evening, in his weekly radio broadcast, the Governor of California set aside for the moment the dignity of his office, and attacked those members of the Legislature who have had the courage to stand up for the rights and the safety of the people, particularly the unemployed, and who wish to preserve the form of government for which Lincoln, of whom the Governor spoke, literally gave his life.

Among other statements, and in referring to the California Relief Act of 1940, which passed the Senate on Saturday, the Governor sarcastically called it the "Phillips Famine Bill." Passing over the fact that the bill is a committee measure, and not a personal bill, and is signed by seven (7) Senators, and also passing over the simple fact that we have appropriated more money for relief than in any previous administration, and that the proposed change in supervision is to protect the money available for the actual unemployed men and women. I suggest respectfully that cooperation and a willingness to meet a situation, and to correct it before it wrecks the State, are more apt to prevent "famine," if any is threatened, than is an attitude of demanding one's own way, whether right or wrong. That is the method of dictatorship, not of democracy.

Perhaps "famine" was an injudicious word for Governor Olson to use. It reminds us of the prophecy of the seven lean years to come. We observe no present famine in soaring State expenses; there will be no famine among those appointees whose salaries have been raised liberally; nor any famine among those hundreds of recent appointees, selected on the basis of activities in Governor Olson's campaign, who are now holding SRA jobs. There is apparently no famine when it comes to remodeling the Governor's own offices, at a cost of $59,982.21, nor any famine in the expenses of operating those offices, which were $128,504.80 for 1939. There is certainly no famine in the propaganda which comes from Governor Olson's office, although there seems at times to be some famine in its accuracy.

There was no famine in the requests for additions to the budget, which made it the largest budget request in the history of the State. There is no famine indicated in a request at this special session for $50,000,000 in new and additional taxes, unless it suggests a probable famine among the citizens who will have to pay the bills.

The Legislature can still be depended upon to protect all citizens of California, employed or unemployed, from what a Sacramento newspaper has aptly termed "Olsonism."

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, February 1, 1940.

*J. A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate,
Senator "X" of Orange County,
California State Legislature,
Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SENATOR "X": I am enclosing a copy of a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce on January 29, 1940.

The resolution is self-explanatory, and I am sure you will understand and appreciate the reasons for its adoption, should the post office department in Sacramento be able to locate you.

Sincerely yours,

KENNETH ADAMS, Secretary,
Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

KA:M.

Resolution.

The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce recommends unqualified opposition to the proposal of the Commission on Reemployment for a state-financed program of "direct production projects" and "consumers' cooperatives". Furthermore, in the opinion of this Chamber of Commerce steps should at once be taken to disband or withdraw State aid from the projects already set up.

1. The program is not one of "direct production," or "production-for-use". It is government production for sale to relief clients and State institutions. As such it destroys a job in private industry for every job created in a State production project.

2. It is not even a cooperative or self-help plan since the finances and control rest with the government instead of the workers and members.

3. The record shows that such a plan can not operate efficiently. It must either operate at a loss to the State or reduce wages below those paid by private business for the same work, or—more likely—do both.

4. Because of dependence on State financing and control and because of unavoidable waste and inefficiency in operation, such a program undermines worker morale and proves to be one more source of disappointment and frustration for the unemployed.

Therefore, as a menace to private business and employment, as a further excuse for increasing government expenditures and taxes, and as an ineffective form of unemployment relief, we believe the project should be abandoned.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Nielsen ordered printed in the Journal:

SRA LOS ANGELES CHAPTER NO. 65,
CALIFORNIA STATE EMPLOYEES' ASSOCIATION,
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, February 3, 1940.

*Senator Roy J. Nielsen,
Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SENATOR NIELSEN: This chapter of the California State Employees Association, namely, SRA Los Angeles Chapter No. 65, is composed entirely of employees of SRA, and we subscribe to its constitution, of which the first line of the preamble is: "To encourage among State employees a sense of civic responsibility."

Premised on this thought, the Legislative Committee of this chapter has compiled and caused to be written the attached report and recommendations concerning the SRA.

This report is presented to you in good faith and in the full knowledge of the civic responsibility enjoyed by the members of this committee and of this chapter.

This report is submitted for your consideration with the hope that in some manner it may help to clarify the conditions now existing in the organization of the SRA with respect to the taxpayer, the recipient of relief and the personnel of the SRA.

Very respectfully yours,

MURRAY CLEMES, President.

MC:R

Report and Recommendations of the Legislative Committee of SRA Los Angeles Chapter No. 65, of the California State Employees' Association.

It is evident that the sole object of the Relief Act of 1935, and the subsequent acts, was to relieve hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment. The State Relief Administration, however, from its inception, was dominated and controlled by a group whose policies were based on the false premise that unemployment relief was a charity for paupers. Persons having had experience as social workers were given charge of the State Relief Administration. With their background and training in social service, most of them could not confine their efforts and the administration of relief funds to the purpose and object for which the funds were allocated. They had been trained to deal with the domestic and health or intemperance problems of persons seeking or receiving charity, and did not comprehend the new social problem—namely, unemployment. Under the present setup, when the finance department protests expenditures as waste of taxpayers' money, social service can and does ruthlessly overrule them. Therefore, social service should be divested by law of all control over finance.

To the average citizen, our relief problem is a highly complicated affair, scarcely understandable, but tremendously expensive and of distinctly doubtful value in many instances. The average citizen feels that we have been building a "Frankenstein" which, unless properly harnessed, may endanger our whole civilization, all of which is too true. Only a proper understanding of the basic things to be accomplished can ever force a solution of the problem in a manner fair to the taxpayer, to the relief client himself, and to those sincere men and women who, in spite of heart-breaking handicaps, have battled for a "square deal" all around.

Those of us who have worked in various phases of the "relief picture" too often forget that the average citizen does not have access to the same knowledge that we have secured through years of bitter experience. So, for the benefit of those "on the outside," we are taking this opportunity to discuss, fairly and frankly, the "relief problem" in general, the SRA in particular.

It has been stated so often that we believe it can be taken as a fundamental American policy, that no deserving citizen should go hungry, unclothed or shelterless, regardless of whether his need be due to age, infirmities or unemployment.

All our needy people fall into one of three groups, viz:

1. Our unemployables, such as the aged, blind, etc.
2. Our partially employables—Class "B".
3. Our employables—Class "A".

The National Social Security Act was set up primarily to take care of the first group. The cost is borne by the nation, State and county. It is paid for strictly by taxation. It is right and just and has always been recognized as a proper burden on the community.

The Federal Government, in so far as appropriations have been available, has attempted to find jobs for all Class "A" employables—people supposedly able and willing to give an honest day's work for a fair day's pay, but who have been unable to secure employment.

The function of the State Relief Administration, as now constituted, is to take care of all Class "B"—partially employables—as well as all Class "A" people for whom the Federal Government can not or will not supply jobs. Whether this function shall continue must be determined by our California Legislature. Whether it shall be confined to this channel or broadened to take in all phases of relief and reemployment is a moot question. It is the purpose of this committee to furnish our legislators, as well as the general public, with whatever knowledge we have gained in their employ that might be useful to them at this time.

In order to formulate any future policy, it is necessary to freely and frankly discuss:

1. The relief recipients
2. The fundamental budget
3. The organization of the SRA
4. The attitude of the relief recipients toward the taxpayer and the SRA
5. The attitude of the personnel of the SRA toward taxpayer and the "client"
6. Proper inferences that may be drawn from the foregoing facts.

The Relief Recipients.

As regards the relief recipients—known as "clients" of the SRA—it must first be stated that no differentiation is made because of citizenship, previous standard of living, race, color, or creed. All are supposedly treated alike.

After years of daily contact with these people, we, as employees of the SRA, have made the following personal analysis of the clients:

A. They fall into three nearly numerically equal groups:

(a) Those undoubtedly deserving. This group consists of the very people the program was set up to help and THEY ARE NOT GETTING ENOUGH. Most of them fall into the white American small family group formerly of adequate means.

(b) Those doubtfully deserving. This group contains many ignorant, semi-skilled or laborer families who have always lived more or less precariously and their resources are extremely difficult to check. Furthermore, they are usually of larger than average families and their present "dole" constitutes to them a "security wage" comparable with past earnings.

(c) Those undoubtedly NOT deserving to be supported by the American taxpayer. This group is composed of alien (or part alien) families (who constitute a very large percentage of the entire relief load), bums both masculine and feminine, habitual drunkards and dope users, and just plain "chiselers." The average citizen must realize that while all the people on relief are by no means or in any sense PROFESSIONAL RELIEFERS, nevertheless, EVERY REAL "BUM" IN CALIFORNIA IS ON RELIEF.

B. Besides our own citizens (and aliens) we have been supporting or partially supporting citizens of other States of the Union, known as "transients." As is well known, these people have flocked to California by the tens of thousands since 1932. Once they get here, if they can remain in the State one year, no matter how, they become a permanent part of our relief clientele. In the meantime, we must arrange (if we can) to send them home, again partially or wholly at our taxpayers' expense. Many have been sent home only to return time and time again.

The Fundamental Budget.

The reason that many deserving citizens of small family units are receiving inadequate care is due to a fundamental error in the basis of the budget itself. Apparently relief recipients have been regarded as so many "human animals" to be fed, clothed and housed. Everything was laid out by "tables," based on one or two people plus children of various ages. Everything was figured down to the finest percentage so that the party figuring out a family's budget must be no mean mathematician.

Previous standards of living were disregarded entirely, so we have the anomaly of a real American family of two having to pay rent, utilities, food and clothing out of approximately $31 per month, even though they may have contributed thousands of dollars as taxpayers in the days of their prosperity, while many alien families who probably never earned over $75 per month in their lives, are receiving as a "dole" in cash, sums in excess of $125 per month from our taxpayers. Does this make sense?

Obviously, minimum and maximum figures must be set by law if the budget is to be made to conform to the rules of fair play. We therefore recommend the following standard table of relief budgets in this State:

- $25 per month for a single man;
- $30 per month for a single woman;
- $45 per month for a family of two (regardless of age or sex);
- $50 per month for a family of three;
- $55 per month for a family of four;
- $5 per month for each additional person with a maximum of $85 per family.

These figures are easily justified on the basis of the average "security wage" of $57.20 per month paid in Los Angeles County by the WPA to the average family (4.3 members). The maximum figure likewise is taken from the WPA's "foreman scale"—deemed adequate for the intelligent head of a needy family.

This scale eliminates high-power mathematics requiring college graduates to figure. It also eliminates the evil of pressure groups. The State of California gives relief to an individual, and there should be no necessity for any group to act on behalf of said client.

The Organization of the SRA.

There are many deplorable and demoralizing conditions existing within the present organization of the State Relief Administration.

1. Failure to recognize the basic aspect of its problem to be unemployment rather than social service.

2. Lack of proper coordination and cooperation between various departments having to do with unemployment proper, including the California State Employment Service, the Unemployment Reserves Commission, the Works Projects Administration, the Civilian Conservation Corps and the National Youth Administration.

3. Too much politics in the set-up.

4. Inefficiency in department heads resulting in considerable useless expense—for example, changes made in procedure without proper forethought often resulting in the necessity of countermanding the initial order (after much work has been done or supplies furnished) due to obstacles which should have been apparent beforehand.

5. Personnel hired and paid on "yardstick" method without a proper study of "need" and "qualification" before appointment.

6. General deplorable condition of morale within the organization due to uncertainty of employment as well as lack of reward or recognition for merit. Stability of employment as well as a proper training school in the field would mean a big saving to the taxpayer.

7. The present philosophy of the Administration in the SRA is: "We have no interest in saving the taxpayers' money; our job is to take care of the client."

8. There is open advocacy by many persons in key positions in the SRA of "New Philosophy" groups. Administrative employees have been openly intimidated to join one of these groups, and some administrative employees have urged and even insisted that "clients" join a similar group. It is very evident that at least some in authority are more interested in the "New Philosophy" than in doing well the job for which they are being paid by the taxpayers of California.

9. The present system results in failure of proper investigation of actual resources of clients. Somehow, many on relief find plenty of money to spend on liquor, dope, non-necessities, etc. Either through organization inefficiency or chiseling, it has been found necessary to set up over 31,000 cases of restitution claims in southern California alone!

10. Documentary proof of residence and other evidences of eligibility are not properly required in many cases, particularly when pressure groups intervene on behalf of the applicant.

11. Under the present system, case workers who make investigations, as a result of which millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money are paid out, are not bonded. Young students just out of college, with little sense of responsibility and with practically no real experience in life or handling people, are given carte blanche to spend the taxpayers' money. We recommend that one-third of the SRA personnel be over forty years of age, one-third over thirty, and one-third under thirty.

Many administrative employees are honest, efficient (if permitted to be) and have the welfare of both the taxpayers and clients at heart. Under proper guidance, these people constitute an invaluable asset to the State service. We recommend that the administrative machinery be revamped to give these individuals an opportunity to really function.

The Attitude of the Relief Recipients Toward the Taxpayer and the SRA.

The attitude of the client toward the taxpayer is naturally selfish but, in deserving cases, not unreasonable. Only when stirred up by agitators and gulled by Red propaganda does any appreciable part of them get "the world owes me a living" complex. An independent and honest check-up of these agitators and most of their followers undoubtedly would disclose sources of income that would remove them from the relief rolls. At present, at every pay station and distribution center, clients gather to whom agitators are permitted to distribute their literature freely. This should be forbidden. No one has the right to acquire their audience on the taxpayers' money.

The Attitude of the Personnel of the SRA Toward the Taxpayer and the Client.

The attitude of the SRA toward both the taxpayer and the clients has been largely commented upon. However, one point must be stressed. Certain elements within the SRA—themselves communists, or "fellow-travelers" are deliberately playing with communist agitators and organizers to increase the taxpayers' load to the breaking point in order to hasten "der Tag" of Red Revolution. They are building their "cells" from within and from without, deliberately. They are teaching the clients "the world owes them a living" and if the clients will only follow them, they will collect. Outside "client" pressure (often engineered from inside) meets weak-kneed or subservient inside cooperation and behold, they have performed what seems to their deluded membership to be a "miracle."

Proper Inferences That May Be Drawn from the Foregoing Facts.

The only proper inferences to be drawn from the foregoing facts are that a revamping of the unemployment machinery is in order. Proper safeguards must be thrown around the handling of relief money.

We recommend that the Unemployment Reserves Commission, the State Department of Social Welfare, the State Reemployment Service, and the SRA be combined in one unit under a State Welfare and Relief Commission composed of three members, consisting of the Director of Finance, the State Controller, and the Attorney General. Two of these are elected officials. This commission would enforce and interpret all policies laid down by the Legislature. They would constitute a court of appeal on relief matters.

This commission would be empowered to appoint an administrative board in northern California and another in southern California.

Each administrative board shall have power to appoint, with the consent of the State Personnel Board, all necessary help. Civil service should be put into operation immediately—by qualifying examination.

A law should be passed denying California citizenship to any person who has not been a continuous resident of this State three years without being on any form of relief.

Transient status should be allowed citizens of other States unable to conform to our citizenship laws. Once proof of citizenship in another State has been established, any transient who refuses to return, at our expense, to his State of legal residence, automatically forfeits all claim to our bounty and must be stricken from the relief rolls. Also, any transient who has been once returned to his State of legal residence can not be admitted to our relief rolls within a period of five years from that date. Relief to aliens should be discontinued at once.

We recommend "work relief." It is less demoralizing than the "dole" both to the recipient and society in general. The children of these clients are the citizens of tomorrow. The so-called "Santa Barbara" plan seems to be the most feasible. Refusal to accept employment, public or private, except upon a doctor's certificate, should automatically be grounds for removal from the relief rolls.

Should people be allowed on the relief rolls who are habitual drunkards, who consistently refuse to work when given the opportunity, who expend relief money for the purchase and/or operation of automobiles for their pleasure, for the purchase of homes, and expensive personal property and household equipment on installments, or who have fraudulently received relief, or whose combined family income exceeds the budget allowance? All on the taxpayers' money!

We recommend that rules and regulations be incorporated in the Relief Act to control the above widespread practices.

Real work, coupled with an independent investigation of need, will cut our relief load to understandable proportions within six months, but only an active and continuous interest on the part of the general public can ever hope to solve the "relief problem," and keep it solved.

Respectfully submitted.

On page 4 of the printed bill, strike out lines 2 and 3, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "execution of such agreements lawfully receiving aid or who were lawfully entitled to receive aid."

Amendment No. 4.

On page 4 of the printed bill, after line 23, insert the following:

"SEC. 5. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore take effect immediately. A statement of facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

There has been a lack of uniformity in the application of the old age security law in the several counties of this State and if this condition is permitted to continue the entire system of old age assistance will be jeopardized. The Federal Social Security Act with which this State must comply in order to receive Federal grants in aid for old age assistance requires the old age security law of this State to be in uniform operation throughout the State and to be mandatory upon the counties inasmuch as they are an agency administering the act. If this lack of uniformity in the operation of the old age security law is permitted to continue the State will be deprived of all Federal grants in aid for old age assistance. Unless, therefore, this act is made to take effect immediately and the old age security law is made to conform with the requirements of the Federal Social Security Act as soon as possible, the entire system of aid to the aged in this State will be disrupted by the cessation of Federal grants in aid which may result, and which if it did result would cause wide spread hardship and destitution and endanger the public peace, health, and safety."

Bill read second time, ordered to print, engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Third Reading of Assembly Bills.*Assembly Joint Resolution No. 9.

Relative to discrimination in steamship service and freight rates between New York and California ports to the Panama Canal Zone.

WHEREAS, Congress has authorized the construction of additional locks at the Panama Canal at an eventual total cost of approximately $277,000,000, as well as an additional expenditure of approximately $35,000,000 for the construction of barracks, airports, etc.; and

WHEREAS, Large quantities of foodstuffs, materials and supplies are imported annually into the Republic of Panama amounting in the year 1937 to $21,828,000, of which imports from the United States amounted to $11,377,000 principally from the Atlantic seaboard; and

WHEREAS, Materials and supplies will be imported into the Panama Canal Zone in large quantities as additional protection for national defense by the United States Government and for the Republic of Panama, including alfalfa, groceries, cold storage products, drygoods, dairy products, raw materials, housewares, candies and tobacco, milk and cream, shoes, cattle and hogs, soaps, meats, lard, vegetables, lumber, petroleum products, cement, iron and steel, automobiles, chemicals, medicines, reinforced concrete frames and floor slabs, hollow tile filler walls, stucco exterior, tile and composition roofing, miscellaneous iron and steel, hollow metal work, metal lath and plaster, steel shelving, automatic refrigeration systems, water-proofing, cold storage rooms, slate toilet partitions, glazed tile wainscoting, ceramic, cement and other quarry products, tile floors, paint, plumbing, electric fixtures, and various other types of materials and supplies grown, produced, and manufactured on the Pacific Coast; and

WHEREAS, The United States Government owns and operates the Panama Railroad Steamship Company, which is operated under the direction of the President of the United States and the War Department, which operates steamship service between New York and the Panama Canal Zone, and railway service between Atlantic and Pacific ports of the Canal Zone; and

WHEREAS, Freight rates upon said government-owned line between the Atlantic seaboard and the Panama Canal Zone are materially less than freight rates on private lines operated between Pacific Coast ports and the Canal Zone, in some cases being as much as 50 per cent less; and

WHEREAS, If similar service and the same freight rate basis were provided by the United States Government between Pacific Coast ports and the Panama Canal Zone, California growers, producers and manufacturers of supplies and materials to be used in said construction work, including the necessities of life, to be imported into the Republic of Panama as hereinabove set forth, would be in a position to compete with growers, producers and manufacturers on the Atlantic seaboard; and

WHEREAS, Due to the withdrawal of ships under the jurisdiction of the United States Maritime Commission from export trade due to the war, there are now numerous vessels available for this service; and

WHEREAS, Private steamship lines operating between the Pacific Coast ports and the Panama Canal Zone will not meet the New York Panama rates of the government-owned Panama Railroad Steamship Company, resulting in a practical monopoly in favor of shippers from the Atlantic seaboard to said Panama Canal Zone; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly, That the President of the United States, the Congress and the Secretary of War are hereby respectfully requested to take such action as will be necessary to provide similar steamship service between Pacific Coast ports and the Panama Canal Zone and at the same freight rate basis in order that Pacific Coast growers, producers, and manufacturers may be enabled to compete with growers, producers and manufacturers on the Atlantic seaboard in supplying agricultural and manufactured materials and supplies to the Panama Canal Zone; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Governor of the State of California to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House, to the Secretary of War, and to each Senator and Representative from California in the Congress of the United States.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 8.

Relative to memorializing the President and Congress to have the Mammoth Pass Road in California constructed as a national defense highway.

WHEREAS, The National Government is maintaining a naval ammunition depot at Hawthorne, Nevada, for national defense; and

WHEREAS, The National Government has assisted in the construction of a national highway from the Mexican border to the Canadian line, known as United States Highway No. 395; and

WHEREAS, The United States Highway No. 395 connects with various other highways leading to other portions of California; and

WHEREAS, The central portions of California, namely San Joaquin and Santa Clara valleys are without direct defense for a great portion of each year because of snow on the high Sierra Mountains; and

WHEREAS, The Mammoth Pass, which is within a few miles of United States Highway No. 395, is much lower and in more open country and is not closed with snow for as long a time in the winter months as the other passes; and

WHEREAS, A portion of said proposed highway has been constructed by the Forestry Department, building from both sides of the mountain range, leaving a distance of approximately forty-five miles to connect the said Highway No. 395 and State Highway No. 125 and State Highway No. 126; and

WHEREAS, The construction of a highway over the said Mammoth Pass which could be kept open during the entire year through the use of modern machinery would be an important link in coast defense, inasmuch as the transportation of munitions from the naval ammunition dump at Hawthorne, Nevada, to San Joaquin Valley and coast points would be greatly facilitated thereby; and

WHEREAS, The proposed highway will connect with United States Highway No. 99 from which several State highways lead across the Coast Range to the Santa Clara Valley on the west side of the said range, and connect with United States Highways Nos. 101 and 466; and

WHEREAS, The construction of the proposed highway would not only be of importance from the standpoint of national defense, but would be of inestimable advantage from an economic standpoint, in that it would:

(a) Afford an opportunity for the development of a virgin territory with extensive natural lumber resources amounting to upwards of two billion eight hundred million board feet of a present commercial value and an additional two billion board feet of potential pulp timber and substantial deposits of iron, lead and silver;

(b) Attract a large number of visitors to view the priceless heritage of forests, mountains, game animals, birds and other scenic beauties of the region which would be open to tourist and other travel;

(c) Provide a loop trip for those persons traveling from southern California to the Owens River Valley by the eastern route;

(d) Assist in the full power and irrigation storage development of the upper San Joaquin River in order to meet the needs of the Central Valley Project; and

WHEREAS, The building of the proposed highway would contribute in great measure to the future and increasing growth and prosperity of the San Joaquin Valley and of other portions of this State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly. That the President and the Congress of the United States be memorialized to take such steps as may be necessary to have the said Mammoth Pass Road constructed as a national defense highway, to commence at or near Casa Diablo in Mono County, on United States Highway No. 395, and continue over Mammoth Pass at the most feasible location and connect with State Highway No. 125 and Highway No. 126 in Madera County, a distance of approximately forty-five miles; and be it further

Resolved. That the Congress of the United States be memorialized to make a suitable appropriation to construct said highway as soon as possible; and be it further

Resolved. That a copy of this resolution be sent by the chief clerk of the Assembly, to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Secretary of War, and to each Senator and Representative from California and from Nevada in the Congress of the United States; and the Senators and Representatives from California and Nevada are hereby respectfully urged to request such action.

A statement of the efforts in aid of the construction of the Central Valley Project prosecuted by the Division of Water Resources pursuant to Chapter 670, Statutes

Remarks.

The following remarks, offered by Senator Phillips, were ordered printed in the Journal:

Thursday evening, February 1st, I discussed the subject of "relief" over the radio program known as the "Public Forum," with Mr. Edwin James Cooley, SRA Director in San Francisco, taking the opposing side.

During the discussion Mr. Cooley made a statement that the Controller figured "chiselers" to be less than one per cent of the present SRA load—I think the figure he gave was four-tenths of one per cent.

Since I had known of no computation on this point by the Controller, and could not see how any such figure could be arrived at, I inquired of Harry B. Riley, the Controller, concerning the accuracy of Mr. Cooley's statement, and I now ask that his reply, together with this statement from me, be printed in the Senate Journal.

If Mr. Cooley's estimate and Mr. Riley's letter do nothing more, then it will call attention to the letter from the SRA Chapter of the C. S. E. A., printed in the Senate Journal of February 6, and to the reports from Ohio, where a private rating agency, given 2,000 cases in Toledo, 8,000 cases in Cleveland, and 14,200 cases by the State Auditor, discovered approximately one-quarter of the cases receiving aid to which they were not entitled.

For the Legislature to call attention constantly to these facts is essentially to protect the deserving men and women who are unemployed and in need of aid, and who are at the present time sharing the money the Legislature appropriates with others who are not in need and who are taking advantage of those conditions in the SRA which have been called "intolerable" by practically every individual or group investigating this department of the State Government.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF CONTROLLER.

SACRAMENTO, February 7, 1940.

Honorable John Phillips, Senator,

State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

MY DEAR SENATOR: You have asked me if the Controller's office has given any information as to the percentage of so-called relief chiselers in the State of California.

My answer is that no information has ever been given from this office as to the percentage of so-called relief chiselers. Such a report would necessarily require a complete audit of every relief client case in the State.

Very truly yours,

HARRY B. RILEY, Controller.

Consideration of Daily File. Third Reading of Senate Bills.

Senate Bill No. 4—An act to add section 374.5 to the Vehicle Code, relating to license plates for exempt vehicles, and declaring the urgency of this act.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and shall take effect immediately.

The following is a statement of facts constituting such necessity: Motor vehicles used by law enforcement officers are required to display "exempt" license plates. This clearly discloses to suspected criminals the nature and ownership of the vehicles, and, in enabling such criminals to escape apprehension, seriously impairs the effectiveness of the work of such officers.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Breed, Brown, Collier, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Deuel, Fletcher, Foley, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Hollister, Holohan, Jespersen, Keating, Kenny, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Metzger, Mixter, Myhand, Nielsen, Parkman, Phillips, Quinn, Rich, Seawell, Shelley, Slater, Swing, Tickle, and Wagy—34.

Senate Bill No. 4 ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Senate Bill No. 57—An act to repeal sections 2226 and 2229 and to amend sections 2007 and 2227 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, relating to aid to the aged and providing for the cancellation and release of certain agreements heretofore required of recipients of aid to the aged.

Amendments from the Floor.

During third reading of Senate Bill No. 57, the following amendments, offered by Senator Mayo, were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

In line 2 of the title of the printed bill, as amended, after "2007", insert the following: ", 2140".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, as amended, between lines 12 and 13 thereof, insert the following:

"SEC. 1.3. Section 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

2140. The State Department of Social Welfare shall have the power to and shall prescribe the form of application, the manner and form of all reports and such additional rules and regulations as are necessary for the carrying out of the provisions of this chapter, and not inconsistent therewith. Such rules and regulations shall be binding upon the boards of supervisors of the various counties. However, neither the State Department of Social Welfare nor the State Social Welfare Board shall have authority, by rule, regulation, or otherwise, to withhold or to order to be withheld any money subject to payment to any county under this chapter because of any rule or regulation of the State Department of Social Welfare. The State Department of Social Welfare shall make such reports in such form and containing such information as the Social Security Board may from time to time require, and shall comply with such provisions as the Social Security Board may from time to time find necessary to assure the correctness and verification of such reports."

Bill read, ordered to print, engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Senate Bill No. 5—An act to add section 862c to an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization, incorporation, and government of municipal corporations," approved March 13, 1883, relating to water systems of sixth-class cities and the sale and distribution of water therefrom.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and therefore shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

Certain cities of the sixth class, and particularly the city of Bishop, are in need of the construction of new water mains and other water supply facilities. No provision of law exists whereby such cities may cooperate with the Federal Government as to the water supply of such cities and nearby Federal reservations. This act, in permitting such cooperation, will serve to assure such cities of a proper water supply if immediate action may be taken before the Federal Government acts independently as to its reservations, thus preserving the public health.

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 5.

Calling upon the Governor to permit well considered, comprehensive legislation upon the subject of the relief of hardship and destitution, whether due to and caused by unemployment or by other causes.

WHEREAS, The present State Relief Administration was established as a temporary expedient for the administration of unemployment relief, and has continued to be and will continue to be in the future a mere temporary expedient; and

WHEREAS, The distinctions required by the present status of the law between employable indigents and unemployable indigents is difficult of application, discriminatory in operation, and deprecated by all agencies interested in public welfare; and

WHEREAS, All legislation upon the subject of relief has been haphazard, temporary, and hastily considered; and

WHEREAS, The subject of relief as stated in the Governor's proclamation convening this Legislature into special session is unduly restrictive and will permit of no more than piecemeal, temporary legislation; and

WHEREAS, The subject of relief of hardship and destitution, whether due to and caused by unemployment or by other causes, should be considered by the Legislature in order to deal effectively with the subject of relief; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, the Senate concurring. That the Honorable Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, is hereby expressly and specifically requested immediately to issue a proclamation specifying therein the subjects of legislation in such manner that the Legislature and the Governor of California will clearly have power and jurisdiction forthwith to consider and act upon, and enact into law, legislation for the relief of hardship and destitution whether resulting from unemployment or from any other causes; and be it further

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3.

Relative to increased contributions by the Federal Government for relief in California.

WHEREAS, In view of the fact that we live in a Christian Nation and a civilized community, it is incumbent on the citizens of California to be concerned for the welfare of their neighbors who find themselves in the humble position of requiring aid to meet the necessities of life; and

WHEREAS, To add to our responsibilities for the care of poor persons have come many thousands of immigrants to California from the cold of the North, the drouth and dust bowl areas of the Middle West, and the flooded areas of the South; and

WHEREAS, The taxpayers of the State of California have been called upon to aid and assist in assimilating this influx of unfortunate American citizens who have migrated to our State in desperation and are in dire need; and

WHEREAS, We feel that this obligation is a responsibility of the State from which these people came; and

WHEREAS, The taxpayers of the State of California have uncomplainingly up to the present time taken care of this situation as best they know how and to the limit of their ability, at a cost of many millions of dollars annually; and

WHEREAS, The State of California paid to the Federal Government between the years of 1933 and 1938 inclusive, more than $1,131,000,000 in taxes; and

WHEREAS, The State of California received from the Federal Government from all sources in return $952,000,000—California having paid nearly two hundred million dollars more in taxes than it received from the Federal Government during that period; and

WHEREAS, During that same period Oregon paid to the Federal Government approximately $50,000,000 in taxes and received more than $228,000,000 in return from the Federal Government—receiving over four and one-half times what it paid in; and

WHEREAS, Nevada paid approximately $15,000,000 to the Federal Government during the same period and received in excess of $98,000,000 in return, or in excess of six and one-half times its payment to the Federal Government, and neither of these States received an appreciable amount of immigrants nor are they carrying the local load that California is carrying, on account of the large number of persons receiving old age assistance in our State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly. That the President of the United States, the Congress of the United States, the Federal Security Administrator and the Commissioner of the Work Projects Administration are hereby respectfully urged and implored to come to the aid of California and give immediate attention and favorable action to our just cause at this crucial moment when it is necessary to call an extraordinary session of the Legislature to appropriate additional funds for relief; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the State of California is hereby requested to transmit copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, the Congress of the United States, the Federal Security Administrator and the Commissioner of the Work Projects Administration; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the State of California and the State Relief Administrator are requested immediately to take steps to prosecute this resolution to a successful conclusion.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 5. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore take effect immediately. A statement of facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

There has been a lack of uniformity in the application of the Old Age Security Law in the several counties of this State and if this condition is permitted to continue the entire system of old age assistance will be jeopardized. The Federal Social Security Act with which this State must comply in order to receive Federal grants in aid for old age assistance requires the Old Age Security Law of this State to be in uniform operation throughout the State and to be mandatory upon the counties inasmuch as they are an agency administering the act. If this lack of uniformity in the operation of the Old Age Security Law is permitted to continue the State will be deprived of all Federal grants in aid for old age assistance. Unless, therefore, this act is made to take effect immediately and the Old Age Security Law is made to conform with the requirements of the Federal Social Security Act as soon as possible, the entire system of aid to the aged in this State will be disrupted by the cessation of Federal grants in aid which may result, and which if it did result would cause widespread hardship and destitution and endanger the public peace, health, and safety.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Breed, Brown, Collier, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Deuel, Fletcher, Foley, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Holohan, Jespersen, Kenny, Mayo, McCormack, Metzger, Mixer, Myhand, Nielsen, Parkman, Phillips, Powers, Quinn, Seawell, Shelley, Slater, Swing, Tickle, and Wagye—32.

NOES—None.

The question being on the passage of the bill.

The roll was called, and Senate Bill No. 57 passed by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Breed, Brown, Collier, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Deuel, Fletcher, Foley, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Holohan, Jespersen, Kenny, Mayo, McCormack, Metzger, Mixer, Myhand, Nielsen, Parkman, Phillips, Powers, Quinn, Seawell, Shelley, Slater, Swing, Tickle, and Wagye—32.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Seawell ordered printed in the Journal:

January 31, 1940.

*Honorable Jerrold L. Seawell, President Pro Tempore, Senate Chamber, State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SENATOR SEAWELL: Following is a copy of a telegram received by me:

"Central Executive Committee passed following resolution: Since resignation Hon. Edward Law leaves Senate vacancy. We recognize in Senator Ed. Fletcher the man best acquainted with needs and issues of our district. He knows our citizens, having worked with our people during past twenty-five years, is in closer touch with our business and civic enterprises, is taxpayer in Imperial County, familiar with our agricultural and water problems, consequently better qualified to safeguard our interests than any other Senator. Therefore ask that State Senate designate Hon. Ed. Fletcher to look after affairs and interests of the Thirty-ninth District this special session.

GRACE LITTLE.

F. T. COOK.

LAUREL M. FERGUSON.

FERN L. YOUNG.

OTTO J. BRADSHAW.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY FRANK BIRKHAUSER, Chairman."

I believe Senator Fletcher will take care of the interests of Imperial County in the Senate, should matters arise making representation necessary. I am happy to add my approval to the thought contained in the telegram.

Sincerely yours,

CLARENCE R. WALKER.

CRW :JM.

Communications.

The following communications were received, read, and on motion of Senators Phillips and Shelley, ordered printed in the Journal:

February 6, 1940.

*Honorable John Phillips, Senator, Thirty-seventh District,
State Capitol Building, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SENATOR PHILLIPS: My remarks over radio station KFBK regarding the control of the State Personnel Board over the qualifications of persons employed by the SRA were based upon the provisions of the agreement made on July 1, 1939, between Mr. Louis J. Kroeger, Executive Officer of the State Personnel Board, Mr. Phil S. Gibson, Director of the State Department of Finance, and Mr. Walter Chambers, SRA Administrator.

Section 1 of this contract states, in part, that the (State Personnel) Board shall represent the Department (of Finance) in exercising the legal authority of the department in supervising the personnel work of the (State Relief) Administration, * * * to the extent necessary to cause the personnel procedures and practices, particularly the classifications of positions and rates of pay for the various classifications under the administration, to conform with those generally recognized in the State civil service.

Section 2 of this contract further provides that in the accomplishment of the purpose set forth in section 1, the Personnel Board shall investigate all proposed personnel transactions and its approval, disapproval, or modification of proposals shall be deemed the recommendations of the Personnel Board to the Department of Finance, subject to the final approval of the department.

You will note that while the board is particularly charged with review of proposed classifications and rates of pay, that is not its sole responsibility. It is also responsible for all review of personnel transactions necessary to cause the personnel procedures and practices of the SRA to conform with those generally recognized in the State civil service.

That the Personnel Board has recognized and exercised this responsibility is evidenced by the following instances:

1. A proposed appointment to the position of Director of the SRA Division of Planning and Research was held up by the Personnel Board because of "lack of qualifications" of the proposed appointee, and, when finally approved, was at a monthly salary of $40 less than that approved for the previous director of this division.
2. A proposed appointment to the position of Director of the SRA Personnel Division was similarly held up by the Personnel Board because of "lack of qualifications."
3. The Personnel Board refused to approve the transfer of three SRA employees to the SRA personnel division as assistant personnel technicians on the basis of their qualifications for this work.
4. Proposed appointments of district directors in Los Angeles County were disapproved by the Personnel Board because of lack of need and qualifications for the positions.

While these are only some of the instances wherein the State Personnel Board has considered qualifications in proposed appointments and reclassifications in the SRA, I feel that they are sufficient evidence to demonstrate that the Personnel Board has exercised the full responsibilities given to it under the contract mentioned above, and has not been concerned solely with reviewing the classification of positions for the purpose of keeping rates of pay in the SRA comparable with those for similar positions in the State civil service.

Since remarks and letters at variance with the above have been entered in the Senate Daily Journal for February 5, 1940, may I request that you also enter the above in the Senate Journal.

Yours very truly,

EDWIN JAMES COOLEY,
SRA Director for San Francisco County.

CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD,
1025 P STREET, SACRAMENTO, February 7, 1940.

*The Honorable John Phillips, Member of Senate,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SENATOR PHILLIPS: I have a copy of Mr. Cooley's letter to you dated February 6, 1940. I do not care to engage in continual correspondence on this subject, but at the same time I dislike inaccuracies in the record.

The language of the agreement between this office, the Department of Finance, and the Relief Administration relative to the supervision of certain personnel matters in the Relief Administration is not pertinent to the point recently discussed on the radio and about which I wrote to you on February 2.

Mr. Cooley's statement at that time was that the "State Personnel Board had approved the qualifications of every person appointed under the State Relief Administration." My reply was that we had not actually exercised any supervision whatsoever on the question of qualifications, and I here repeat that statement.

In each of the specific cases mentioned by Mr. Cooley, the personnel documents were held up by this office because we doubted that the duties to be performed justfied the classification and salary proposed by the Relief Administration. We did not attempt to exercise any control whatsoever over the requirements to be established for these positions nor did we seek to review the qualifications of those appointed.

Very truly yours,

LOUIS J. KROEGER,
Executive Officer.

cc-Mr. Cooley.

WHEREAS, The present State Relief Administration was established as a temporary expedient for the administration of unemployment relief, and has continued to be and will continue to be in the future a mere temporary expedient; and

WHEREAS, The distinctions required by the present status of the law between employable indigents and unemployable indigents is difficult of application, discriminatory in operation, and deprecated by all agencies interested in public welfare; and

WHEREAS, All legislation upon the subject of relief has been haphazard, temporary, and hastily considered; and

WHEREAS, The subject of relief as stated in the Governor's proclamation convening this Legislature into special session is unduly restrictive and will permit of no more than piecemeal, temporary legislation; and

WHEREAS, The subject of relief of hardship and destitution, whether due to and caused by unemployment or by other causes, should be considered by the Legislature in order to deal effectively with the subject of relief; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, the Senate concurring, That the Honorable Culbert L. Olson, Governor of California, is hereby expressly and specifically requested immediately to issue a proclamation specifying therein the subjects of legislation in such manner that the Legislature and the Governor of California will clearly have power and jurisdiction forthwith to consider and act upon, and enact into law, legislation for the relief of hardship and destitution whether resulting from unemployment or from any other causes; and be it further

Resolved, That the chief clerk of the Assembly is hereby directed forthwith to deliver a copy of this resolution to the Governor of California.

Communication

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Phillips ordered printed in the Journal:

CALIFORNIA STATE RELIEF ADMINISTRATION,
February 7, 1940.

*Honorable John Phillips, Senator, Thirty-seventh District,
State Capitol Building, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SENATOR PHILLIPS: I note that you have placed in the Senate Journal a letter from State Controller Harry B. Riley regarding the proportion of chiselers on relief.

On a visit to San Francisco County SRA offices, a representative of Mr. Riley, in discussion of the number of chiselers on relief, stated that records of the Controller's office indicated that not more than four-tenths of one per cent of funds spent by the SRA appeared to have been paid to chiselers. This statement was apparently based upon restitution set up by the Controller for relief funds incorrectly disbursed, because of fraud or, and this is the basis of most overpayments, because of overlap of SRA payments and WPA earnings, earnings in private employment, unemployment compensation benefits, etc., resulting from the SRA giving relief for two weeks in advance. In other words, the majority of restitution cases are for technical reasons, where the relief client had no intent to defraud the State.

I have today obtained the following data. From May 1, 1936, to December 31, 1939, restitution has been set up for approximately $874,000. This is less than seven-tenths of one per cent of the approximate $100,000,000 spent directly in relief grants during this period. The figure of four-tenths of one per cent given by Mr. Riley's representative was apparently based upon comparing restitution with total SRA expenditures, and not upon relief allowances granted.

I agree with Mr. Riley that a complete audit of every relief client case would be required to determine the actual percentage of chiselers on relief, but sample audits conducted by the SRA Audit Staff indicate that the percentage is very small.

May I request that, in order to keep the record clear on this point, you also include the above statement in the Senate Journal.

Yours very truly,

EDWIN JAMES COOLEY,
SRA Director for San Francisco County.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, February 9, 1940.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Assembly on this day adopted:

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 13—Relative to the allocation of funds by the Congress of the United States to the Central Valley Project.

By C. W. BOOTH, Assistant Clerk.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 13 ordered referred to Committee on Rules.

Messages from the Governor.

The following messages from the Governor were received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, February 8, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and the Assembly.

GREETINGS: You are hereby advised that I have today signed Assembly Bill No. 79 appropriating $1,600,000 toward meeting requirements for disbursements for unemployment relief under the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935, during the next few days, with the following explanation regarding section 4 of this bill:

It is doubtful whether section 4 is legislation which the Legislature has power to enact at this special session under the wording of the proclamation calling the special session. However, I would favor the intent of some of the provisions of that section as administrative regulations if the intent were defined with sufficient clarity to be effectively enforced. But I am opposed to any provisions which would interfere with the free exercise of the franchise rights and civil liberties of SRA or any other employees of the State. No discrimination should be made against State employees in SRA. They should have the same political rights as are enjoyed by more than twenty-two thousand civil service employees of the State government.

Subdivision "b" is inconsistent with subdivision "f". The latter provision (f) would make it unlawful for any person employed in connection with the administration of the appropriation to be politically "active," while subdivision "b" would make it unlawful to deprive such person of employment, relief or other benefit made possible in whole or in part by the appropriation.

In other words, section 4 would make it unlawful for any employee of SRA to be politically "active," and at the same time would make it unlawful to deprive any person of employment in the SRA because of such unlawful political activity.

I hope such legally doubtful and ill-considered legislation will not be included in any other appropriation measure.

Respectfully yours,

CLO:M

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,

SACRAMENTO, February 8, 1940.

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate and Assembly of the California Legislature,
Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: The attached letter from Director of the Department of Agriculture W. B. Parker contains information regarding the operations of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation which I am sure the Legislature should have.

I feel, therefore, that it is my duty to transmit a copy to you.

Respectfully,

CLO:PW

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE,

SACRAMENTO, February 7, 1940.

DEAR GOVERNOR OLSON: As you know, I have just returned from Washington, D. C., where I have been working for the past four weeks with Federal officials to bring additional vitally needed aid to some of our most important California farm industries.

Upon my return to Sacramento Tuesday morning, it was reported to me that the special session of the Legislature has under consideration a plan to return the administration of unemployment relief to the 58 counties and to decentralize the administration and operation of the State Relief Administration.

Today, I was advised by a representative of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, a Federal agency, operating under the United States Department of Agriculture, that his superiors in Washington had instructed him, during the course of a telephone conversation, that, in the event administration of the State Relief Administration was returned to the 58 counties, the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation would no longer operate its program of distribution of surplus commodities in California; and would be seriously hampered in its program of purchasing agricultural surplus commodities from California farmers for distribution both within California and outside of the State.

To confirm this report, I called, this afternoon, H. C. Albin, chief of the Purchase and Distribution Division for the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation in Washington. Mr. Albin advised me that the report which was given to me by his California representative is correct and asked me to convey to you the attitude of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation on this matter.

Mr. Albin pointed out to me that the manner in which the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, a nonprofit governmental corporation, organized in 1933, for the express purpose of aiding hungry people on relief rolls and to keep farmers from being overwhelmed by surpluses of the commodities they produce, is set up in such a manner as to preclude their engaging in cooperative operations with the various States other than through state-wide State agencies.

The corporation accomplishes its two-fold objective by buying up acute surpluses of farm products and supplying them to State welfare agencies for relief distribution.

The seriousness of the problem which California farmers, taxpayers, and relief clients now face, in the event that the operations of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation are eliminated or curtailed in California, as the result of the transfer of the administration and operations of the State Relief Administration from its former state-wide agency basis to the 58 counties, can be illustrated graphically in the following figures:

During the past five years (up to July 1, 1939) the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation has purchased $19,783,595 worth of California farm commodities for distribution to relief clients in California and throughout the Nation. These purchases by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation cover such foodstuffs and other farm products as the following: apples, dried and fresh; apricots, dried; beans, butter, cattle, cheese, corn meal, cotton, raw baled and bags; eggs, figs, fish, grapefruit, fresh and juice; milk, dried skim and evaporated; onions, oranges, peaches, fresh and dried; pears, plums, potatoes, prunes, raisins, rice, seed, sheep, sugar beets, walnuts, white flour, graham flour, hogs, pork products.

In addition, since July 1, 1939, the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation has purchased approximately $5,000,000 worth of farm products in California, making a grand total for the past five years of nearly $25,000,000 worth of purchases of agricultural commodities for distribution to relief clients in this and other States.

Please bear in mind that this figure of $25,000,000 represents only the investment by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation in farm commodities at farm prices and is exclusive of amounts paid by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation for transportation and for processing.

The retail value of the food commodities distributed in California by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, during this same period, is $26,864,683.87 and represents not only commodities produced in California but in other States as well.

I would like to call to your attention that the programs of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation have done more than supplement the inadequate food supplies of recipient families in California representing the unemployed.

These programs have encouraged these families to continue as regular consumers of farm surplus commodities.

By promoting more orderly marketing through the removal of some of the excessively heavy supplies, these programs have helped to increase the income of our growers not merely by the amount expended but also by the beneficial effect of the surplus removal on their entire shipments.

These Federal Surplus Commodity programs have also been the means of stimulating grower interest in marketing problems and in improving marketing practices from the viewpoint of adjusting supplies to demand.

Just within the past year, we persuaded the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation to aid us in removing a surplus of canning clingstone peaches, which resulted in a purchase of 20,000 tons by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation for relief distribution purposes in California and elsewhere; and a $20 per ton return to our growers, or four times the price they received the year before.

The total prune purchasing program by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation over several years has reached the sum of about $10,000,000.

On my last trip to Washington, I sought the aid of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation in a purchase program involving about $3,000,000 and covering 1939 unsold raisins still in the hands of the growers and for which there is no market at the present time.

Just this past Monday, the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation launched another program to aid our prune growers, involving the purchase of nearly $900,000 worth of surplus prunes for relief distribution.

Repeated questioning of Mr. Albin today over the long distance telephone brought his emphatic statement that the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation will not deal with separate counties in its dual program, which means that our cooperative operations for the removal of unsalable surpluses will virtually cease. Such relief programs for agriculture as the peach purchase program and others are automatically stopped if the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation is not in a position to handle its operations through a state-wide relief agency.

Very sincerely,

W. B. PARKER, Director.

The above communication from the Department of Agriculture ordered printed in the Journal and referred to Committee on Social Problems.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Nielsen ordered printed in the Journal:

Resolution of Board of Governors SRA Los Angeles Chapter No. 65

C. S. E. A.

WHEREAS, On Friday, February 2, 1940, this Board of Governors approved a "Report and Recommendations" prepared by the Legislative Committee of this chapter and authorized this committee to send copies of said "report" to our employers, the people of the State of California—through their representatives in the Legislature assembled in Sacramento; and

WHEREAS, Today, February 7, 1940, two of the signers of said document, namely, Mr. George R. Lane and Miss Ellen Martin, were called by the office of Mrs. Katherine Kilbourne, assistant director of Los Angeles County, to report there at 11 a.m.; and

WHEREAS, These signers did appear at said office at the time stated to be confronted with not only Mrs. Kilbourne but also by her assistant, Mrs. Alice Orans, and by Mrs. Orans' assistant (Assistant County Supervisor), Mrs. Juanita Ellsworth, and a secretary taking notes; and

WHEREAS, They were questioned solely on the contents of said "report" and their signatures thereto and solely as a consequence thereof were told that their services were terminated at once; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Lane and Miss Martin immediately reported said action to the officers of this association, and said officers of this association in turn arranged an appointment with Mr. James Reese, the Administrative Assistant of Mr. Walter Chambers, State Administrator of the SRA; and

WHEREAS, These officers were treated with every courtesy and fairness on the part of Mr. Reese and in their presence, he called Mrs. Kilbourne and instructed her that it was the request of Mr. Chambers that the action taken by her in dismissing Mr. Lane and Miss Martin be rescinded immediately on the ground that in the opinion of Mr. Chambers and himself the signers of that report were well within their rights as American citizens even though some might disagree with said report; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Lane and Miss Martin have been reinstated for the present, but it is the opinion of this board that similar action against these or other signers of said report or members of this chapter may be taken again by Mrs. Kilbourne or others in various executive capacities on more or less flimsy or unscrupulous excuses; and

WHEREAS, Although this chapter has full faith and confidence in both the integrity and ability of Mr. Walter Chambers, our State Administrator, there are forces at work in the SRA who openly dispute his authority and consistently try to thwart all corrective measures he initiates; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Board of Governors of this chapter. That the same individuals who were sent the original "report" and "recommendations" be sent a copy of this resolution informing them that the best evidence of proof of the charges leveled at certain individuals in the SRA has been fully substantiated by the actions of some of them in the above instance; and be it further

Resolved. That nothing said in the previous report or this resolution be construed as criticism directed at Mr. Walter Chambers, Mr. James Reese, or other innocent members of his staff; and be it further

Resolved. That nothing said herein be construed as retracting any statements made in said original report.

SIGNED FOR THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

MURRAY CLEMES, President.

ELLEN MARTIN, Secretary.

Message from the Governor.

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, February 13, 1940.

To the Senate and the Assembly.

GREETINGS: Both Senate Bill No. 57 and Assembly Bill No. 96 provide for the repeal of sections 2226 and 2229 of the Welfare and Institutions Code. By the repeal of these two sections, the authority to take the property agreements provided for will be rescinded, and provision is made for removing any cloud which may have been placed upon the title to property of aged persons because of the signing of such agreements. With this result the two proposed bills are in accord. They will effect the purpose of my placing in the call consideration of these two objectives; and these provisions receive my full approval.

However, my attention has been called to the fact that there has been inserted in Senate Bill No. 57 an amendment to section 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, which reads as follows:

"SEC. 1.3. Section 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

2140. The State Department of Social Welfare shall have the power to and shall prescribe the form of application, the manner and form of all reports and such additional rules and regulations as are necessary for the carrying out of the provisions of this chapter, and not inconsistent therewith. Such rules and regulations shall be binding upon the boards of supervisors of the various counties. However, neither the State Department of Social Welfare nor the State Social Welfare Board shall have authority, by rule, regulation, or otherwise, to withhold or to order to be withheld any money subject to payment to any county under this chapter because of any rule or regulation of the State Department of Social Welfare. The State Department of Social Welfare shall make such reports in such form and containing such information as the Social Security Board may from time to time require, and shall comply with such provisions as the Social Security Board may from time to time find necessary to assure the correctness and verification of such reports."

This legislation was not contemplated or included in the proclamation calling this special session.

This proposed amendment to section 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code would cause the removal of all provisions of the Old Age Security Law for the enforcement of the law and the rules and regulations of the State Social Welfare Board.

I can not believe that it is the intention of the Legislature to enact a law in conflict with the provisions of the Federal Social Security Act or the California State plan to comply with such act, under which Federal grants to California for aid to the aged are made. This amendment does so conflict.

In response to my request of the State Social Welfare Board as to the effect of this amendment upon the continuation of grants for such aid from the Federal Government, the State Social Welfare Board has furnished me with a reply from Richard M. Neustadt, regional director under the Federal Social Security Act, quoting a telegram received by him from the Director of the Department of Public Assistance, Federal Social Security Board, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"The power of the State Department to enforce its regulations and make its supervisory authority effective throughout the State has been a matter of concern to the Social Security Board since the approval of the plans. While the various assistance acts state in general terms the power of the State Department to make rules and regulations binding upon the counties and determine the amount of aid in specific cases, the only remedy mentioned in the code provisions which became effective August, 1937, and set forth the general powers of the State Department is the withholding power. Thus there is doubt as to the availability to the department of other usual remedies. When the Attorney General was appealed to on this very matter he was able to state only that the local authorities would have to comply with State requirements in order to secure funds from the State. We would suggest that the over-all powers of the department in bringing about local action in conformity with its regulations in any case should be clarified by express provision to the effect that the remedy by mandamus shall be available to the department as well as other usual remedies appropriate under the circumstances. If the withholding power is denied or substantially limited a question of conformity would arise unless the law is otherwise clarified or the availability of adequate remedies to the State agency is otherwise assured for the enforcement of its regulations in every case. As a matter of fact the withholding power itself even as it exists in California is not regarded as a satisfactory basis for the supervisory authority of the State and has not been so regarded by the Social Security Board."

I hope with these facts before it, the Legislature will not include this amendment in either of the bills mentioned and thus jeopardize the aid which aged people are now receiving from the Federal Government through our compliance with the Federal act and the rules and regulations of the Federal Social Security Act.

The withdrawal of this Federal aid would result in the removal from the rolls of recipients of aged aid of some 35,000 old people who are in dire need of this assistance and would charge the State and counties with the full care of approximately 100,000 aged people at a monthly cost to the State and the counties of $3,250,000.

Respectfully yours,
CLO:M

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

Motion.

That the Governor's message on Old Age Security be referred both to the Legislative Counsel and to the Attorney General for an opinion upon the following questions:

a. Do the bills referred to, in their present form in all particulars, come within the proclamation convening the Legislature into extraordinary session?

b. Does any provision of either of the bills contravene any Federal act which will to any extent jeopardize California's right to aid from the Federal Government in carrying on old age assistance and security?

Motion carried, and such was the order.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Fletcher ordered printed in the Journal:

Table Shows Spending of American Presidents.

Special Dispatch to The Sun.

THE SUN BUREAU, WASHINGTON, D. C., January 6, 1940.

This table sets forth the complete financial record of every President of the United States from the adoption of the Constitution in 1789 to date. The figures given up to 1939 show the actual receipts, expenditures and deficits recorded in the annals of the Treasury Department and certified to Congress in the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury. Figures for 1940 and 1941 are the estimate presented to Congress by President Roosevelt in his budget message last Thursday (January 4th).

The totals show that Franklin D. Roosevelt, in eight years, has spent 58½ per cent as much as all of his predecessors put together in 14½ years. He received in taxes in these depression years 44 per cent as much as all of his predecessors together have collected, and he has almost exactly doubled the national debt.

Consideration of Daily File. Second Reading of Senate Bills.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Amendment No. 1.

In line 2 of the title of the printed bill, as amended, strike out the period, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "declaring the urgency thereof, and providing that this act shall take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 2, line 5, of the printed bill, as amended, after the period, add the following: "No employee receiving a salary of $150 or more per month shall receive a salary adjustment in any fiscal year unless all employees in the State civil service receiving salaries of less than $150 per month who are entitled to salary adjustments within that fiscal year receive or provision is made for their receiving salary adjustments in that fiscal year."

Amendment No. 3.

On page 2 of the printed bill, as amended, after line 32, add the following:

"SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of this State and shall, therefore, go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

Due to the financial condition of the State there is not sufficient money available with which to grant automatic salary adjustments to all State civil service employees. However, because of the manner in which money is appropriated to the various departments, boards, and agencies of the State, it is now possible for some employees receiving high salaries to receive automatic adjustments while other employees grouped in classifications having low salary ranges are not able to receive such automatic adjustments. This has caused dissatisfaction among State civil service employees and has resulted in the impairment of the efficiency of State services, requiring a prompt remedy which can only be accomplished by this act going into effect immediately."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Finance, Revenue and Taxation.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Swing ordered printed in the Journal.

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 9, 1940.

Honorable Elmer E. Lore,
Assembly Chamber, State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.

Subject: Rules and Regulations of the State Department of Social Welfare.

Request: No. 7446.

DEAR MR. LORE: In connection with Senate Bill No. 57 as amended in the Senate on February 7, 1940, you have asked if the amendments made by that bill to section 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code relating to the rules and regulations of the State Department of Social Welfare are:

(a) Within the scope of the Governor's proclamation convening this special session, and

(b) Whether the proposed amendment is in conflict with any of the provisions of the United States Social Security Act.

In response to subdivision (a) of your inquiry we are of the opinion that the proposed amendment to section 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code is without the scope of the Governor's proclamation convening this special session and is therefore probably not a proper subject for legislation at this special session.

Items 5 and 6 of the Governor's proclamation seem to be the items which are most worthy of consideration in connection with the proposed amendments. You will note that item 5 is limited to legislation providing for the cancellation, release, or other modification of agreements, liens and other claims to or against the property of recipients of aged aid. It does not appear that legislation dealing with the rule making power of the board would fall within the subject of legislation specified in this item.

You will also note that the subject of legislation under item 6 in the Governor's proclamation is the revising of age qualifications for aid granted under the Old Age Security Law. It does not appear that the subject of legislation contained in the proposed amendment is germane to this item of the proclamation.

In connection with subdivision (b) of your inquiry it should be pointed out that at the present time sections 114 and 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code confer upon the State Department of Social Welfare the power to adopt rules and regulations which are necessary for carrying out the provisions of the Old Age Security Law and which are not inconsistent therewith. Such rules and regulations are expressly made binding upon the counties. The amendment which Senate Bill No. 57 proposes to make to this section seems to be limited to providing that neither the State Department of Social Welfare nor the State Social Welfare Board shall have the power to withhold any apportionment of funds due to any county because of any violation of a rule or regulation of the Department.

Section 2a of the Social Security Act provides in part that:

"(a) A State plan for old age assistance must: (1) provide that it shall be in effect in all political subdivisions of the State, and, if administered by them, be mandatory upon them; * * * (3) either provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer the plan, or provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to supervise the administration of the plan * * * (5) provide such methods of administration * * * as are found by the Board to be necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the plan; * * *"

The Federal statute seems to contemplate that there shall be in existence a single State agency with power to supervise the administration of the State plan for old age assistance. Such is the situation in California.

At the present time section 2023 of the Welfare and Institutions Code expressly provides that no county shall receive any apportionment of funds from the State under the Old Age Security Law, unless it is complying with all of the requirements of that law.

It seems clear that some such provision is essential in order to permit the State Department of Social Welfare to effectively supervise the administration of the State plan for aid to the aged, in the manner contemplated by the Social Security Act.

Essentially, your question involves the determination of whether the Social Security Act requires that the State Department of Social Welfare be vested with the same power to enforce its own rules and regulations. Inasmuch as the rule making power of the board is directly limited by statute to the adoption of rules and regulations which are not inconsistent with the law, it would seem that a violation of a rule of the department is tantamount to a violation of the law.

While we are unable to say definitely that such is the case, it may well be that the Social Security Board would consider that the power of the department to enforce those rules which are under the law clearly within its power to adopt, is essential to its proper supervision of our State plan for aid to the aged.

Accordingly, you may consider it advisable to seek the opinion of the Social Security Board upon this particular question prior to the next regular session when legislation of this sort may be properly considered by the Legislature.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

By GEORGE W. WAKEFIELD, Deputy.

ARCADIA, CALIFORNIA, February 10, 1940.

Lieutenant Governor Ellis E. Patterson, President The Senate, State Capitol.

Photostatic copy of publicity release on tax information on Monterey County with Los Angeles Turf Club envelope was a deliberate forgery perpetrated to injure and discredit the Los Angeles Turf Club. The Los Angeles Turf Club did not mail the submitted information at any time in view of the fact that this matter has been falsely submitted to the Legislature. May we respectfully request that we be granted the courtesy of having this explanatory telegram read to your members in regular session.

LOS ANGELES TURF CLUB.

Mr. Chamber

Special to Castroville News

IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

The tax rate of Monterey County will increase 26 Cents per hundred dollars of property valuation if the relief legislation sponsored by the "economy bill" in the special legislature becomes law. S.R.A. Director Miss Elizabeth Erdaway pointed out today.

"It must be remembered," she said, "that under the Constitution counties are compelled to give aid to their needy citizens. The primary obligation is theirs--not the State's."

"The State Relief Administration asked an appropriation of $ 455,936.00 to care for the employable unemployed of Monterey county, ~~xxxx~~ for the period June 1940 through May 1941. The Phillips bill, now before the special legislative session, proposes to appropriate $ 229,373.00 or $ 234,563.00 less than that asked by Governor Olsen."

"This $ 234,563.00 will have to be collected by the Monterey Board of Supervisors through a direct tax levy on real estate."

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 13.

Relative to the allocation of funds by the Congress of the United States to the Central Valley Project.

WHEREAS, The Congress of the United States has heretofore authorized the Central Valley Project as a Federal project to be constructed by the United States Bureau of Reclamation; and

WHEREAS, The Congress of the United States has heretofore appropriated and made funds available for the construction of said project in the sum of $44,600,000; and

WHEREAS, The United States Bureau of Reclamation has entered into contracts, subject to availability of funds, for the construction of features of said project, in the sum of $73,000,000, of which the sum of approximately $32,000,000 has been expended; and

WHEREAS, The actual construction work on the Central Valley Project now provides employment on the project of more than six thousand men, with other thousands of men required for the production of materials involved in said construction; and

WHEREAS, Unless adequate appropriations are promptly made available by Congress for the continuance of such construction work, it will mean the stoppage of this work within the next few months, thereby adding to the already overburdened relief rolls of the State of California; and

WHEREAS, The President of the United States has included in his budget submitted to the Congress for the next fiscal year, the sum of $16,000,000 for the Central Valley Project; and

WHEREAS, The President has requested a supplemental emergency appropriation of $6,000,000 for the current fiscal year, which amount, together with that requested in the budget, we believe is still insufficient to adequately provide for the proper progress of construction; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly. That the President and the Congress of the United States are respectfully requested to take such action as will be required for providing appropriations for the coming fiscal year in the sum of $30,000,000 or more for the continuance of construction of the Central Valley Project; and be it further

Housing in the San Joaquin Valley.

By LEE ALEXANDER STONE, M.D.

Radio Address over KFBK, Sacramento,
February 15, 1940,

On the Public Forum Hour of the California Network.

It has been my privilege and pleasure to serve agriculture in California for the past ten years. During that time I have studied many of the problems farmers must face; I have tried in my humble way to assist in their solution. Housing, sanitation, and public health has been my work. I have believed it my duty, if I was to make a success of public health work, to study the problems of those with whom I was in constant association. If I have rendered even small assistance, I am happy.

In 1932 I approached the growers of Madera County and asked their support in a grower-owned camp project which would place labor camps on agricultural acres owned by farmers. That I met with success and a fine cooperative spirit is attested to by the fact that in Madera County there are 94 labor camps—with a cabin population approximating 3,000 cabins. All are grower-owned.

There are no Federal Government camps in Madera County. For years I have fought the establishment or building of such camps anywhere in the State of California. At many meetings of the State Chamber of Commerce and the Farm Bureau, I have spoken against such camps. I am still opposed to any type of paternalism which lowers the morale of people who, if left alone, might work out their own destiny. I do not believe that it is the duty of either the Federal Government or the State to keep alive professional indigency. There are thousands upon thousands of people in California and elsewhere who have lost all moral and physical stamina and have dropped to such a low level as now to be professional beggars. These persons have grown accustomed to accepting a living at the hands of the Government, State or county. They have lost all of their self-respect. Their morale is completely broken down.

The Farm Security Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture has spent millions of dollars to erect camps to house free (the small payments indigents pay to live in these camps is mere subterfuge), people that they may pay homage to the founders of the New Deal. These people were in the main once self-respecting and humble. Their needs were small and they were proud to work that money might be earned to pay their meager expenses.

I believe that if growers had been loaned the millions spent by the FSA with which to construct places to properly house labor, on long time terms with low interest rates, a professional indigent class would not now be as numerous as they are. Growers or farmers, as you may choose to call them, are going broke each year because of increase in taxation made necessary to keep alive an obnoxious paternal system which if carried on for a few years longer, will bankrupt the Nation and the State of California, and bring communism with its sadistic cruelties to our own doors.

The farmers of the San Joaquin Valley and elsewhere are capable of and are willing to house the labor they employ in livable cabins. These cabins may not appeal to the sensitive minds of esthetes. They do keep camp inhabitants protected from the elements, and if the tenant is of the right sort, each cabin becomes a proper home. In the main, labor camps offer better places of habitation than their occupants had ever occupied in their lives before. In many instances because of grower liberality, migrants are allowed to remain in camps the year around. They pay no rent, and yet a great number befool the cabins in which they live to an extent that no self-respecting hog would occupy one after the tenants had moved out.

Good sanitation is rarely observed by the average migrant for the good and simple reason his previous method of living had no place in it for either cleanliness or proper sanitary expression.

There is definitely no shortage of housing for migrants in labor camps in the San Joaquin Valley. There is a definite deficiency in the cities of the valley of houses for those of the better class able to pay a small rental charge. Hundreds of migrants who have attained a year's residence are having their rent paid by SRA and if for a shorter period money grants are supplied by the FSA. Many of them receive an extra SRA rent allowance of $15 per month. Five dollars of this money is used for part payment on land being purchased and balance is paid for lumber, usually secondhand, out of which to build a one or two room cabin.

A careful reading of Assembly Bill No. 57 and Senate Bill No. 62 of the present session of the Legislature will disclose to my listeners the fact that Governor Olson, Carey McWilliams and others of the Governor's staff who are very definite left-wingers, are attempting to ram down the throats of the people of California, a new act to be known as the "California State Housing Authority Law."

Carey McWilliams seeks in this law to destroy the splendid efforts of farmers to erect houses for their labor by having them declared insanitary and unfit for human habitation. While nothing is said about labor camps in the act, the general inference is that they are under fire. Should this act pass, hundreds and maybe hundreds of thousands of new migrants, without a dollar in their pockets, will continue to pour into California to become a taxpayers' burden. This proposed act presents paternalism plus. If passed by the Legislature, the people of the State, upon whose shoulders must fall the expense of operation, will be compelled to listen to additional crack-pot ideas of men and women bent upon placing those able to earn an honest living and willing to work, on a discount list, marked "for elimination." Until labor refuses to become the tool of those who seek their destruction by soft words, they will find themselves continually penalized by professional beggars, made so by politicians seeking to perpetuate themselves in office.

Paragraph "D" of section 24 of the proposed housing act, outlines the fact that only the very poor, who, out of the pittance they earn, not all of it by hard labor, but paid out of taxpayers' pockets through SRA and FSA, shall have given them for a very low rental charge conveniences and housing denied to men and women whose earning capacity to pay, while very low yet is greater than that of those to be qualified for the very low rental charge offered by the housing law. In other words, many workers who are sincere in their desire to keep off relief rolls and away from professional beggary are to be penalized because they earn a little more than the housing law authorities might say that they shall earn. They are to be denied comforts as included in the rental charge of the proposed housing law to be paid those in the low income bracket, "heat, water, electricity, gas, cooking range and other necessary services or facilities whether or not the charge for such services or facilities is included in the rental."

This law will penalize the man or the woman capable and willing to work, that they and their loved ones may not suffer. It places a premium on mendicancy and a curse on those who are still willing and anxious to rise above mediocrity.

The "California State Housing Authority Law," while not openly, seeks to renew a war, with what left-wingers call, "abuses capital heaps upon the masses." When one looks backward and reads the pages which make up the history of capitalistic endeavor, they discover that the origination of all that which makes America an outstanding nation, came from the sweat of labor performed by men and women, and sometimes by boys and girls, who because of frugal living and strong moral stamina, sometimes facing defeat, rose above their surroundings and environment to start and keep alive business enterprises without which the United States would be a nation beyond prowess and courage to go ahead.

I have no fight with the so-called "moneyed class." Without it America would not now be using electricity instead of the candle, nor would it have developed desert spaces into garden spots to produce food that the Nation might eat. Wealth never was acquired by luck. Its genesis lies deep in the muscle and brawn of a determined people, not afraid to work and in whose brains lies that same spirit of pioneering found in the hearts of our forefathers. Labor honestly performed brings satisfaction, it despises the patronage offered by a smug political few, a patronage out of which some day will come, unless whipped now, the slavery of dictatorship.

30. The Senate may at any time by twenty-one votes recall a bill from committee.

CONSIDERATION OF BILLS.

Order of Making Files.

31. When bills are reported from committee they shall be placed upon the General File, to be kept by the secretary as follows: All bills when reported to the Senate by the committee shall be placed at the foot of the second-reading Senate or Assembly file, in the order in which the reports are made, and after the second reading they shall be placed at the foot of the Senate or Assembly third-reading file, in the order of reading, and precedence shall be given in the consideration of bills in the following order: Senate second-reading file, Assembly second-reading file and Senate third-reading file, Assembly third-reading file, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate. The bills upon third reading shall be considered in the order in which they appear upon the file, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate. Any bill under consideration at adjournment shall be placed upon the unfinished business file for the following day.

An inactive file shall be kept to which bills may be transferred at the request of the author, or on motion, and they shall be so transferred when they have been passed on third-reading file without action three successive times. Bills may be carried on the inactive file by author and bill number without setting forth the title.

Bills may be transferred from the inactive file to the second-reading file on motion, and after being read the second time such bills will take their place regularly on third-reading file and be available for consideration and passage.

Notices of committee hearings shall be published in the file whenever presented by chairmen of committees to the secretary for that purpose. For such purpose bills will be identified by subject or by number.

Special Order.

32. Any measure or subject may, by vote of a majority of those voting, be made a special order, and when the time fixed for its consideration arrives, the presiding officer shall lay it before the Senate.

Three Readings of Bills.

33. Pursuant to Article IV, section 15 of the Constitution, every bill shall be read on three several days previous to its passage, unless in case of urgency, the Senate by a vote of twenty-seven members dispense with this provision.

Messages from the Governor or Assembly.

34. Messages from the Governor or from the Assembly may be introduced at any stage of business except while a question is being put, while the ayes and noes are being called, or while a Senator is addressing the Senate.

Messages from the Governor or from the Assembly may be considered when indicated in the order of business or at any other time by unanimous consent or upon motion.

Engrossing Bills.

35. All Senate bills, constitutional amendments and joint or concurrent resolutions shall be engrossed before final action is taken on them in the Senate. Engrossment shall consist of comparing the printed engrossed bill with the original bill introduced and any amendments adopted to ascertain that it is correct. The engrossed copy shall be transmitted to the Assembly with proper indorsements, and the original shall be retained by the Senate.

Enrolling Bills.

36. All Senate bills shall be enrolled immediately following their final passage and receipt from the Assembly. An enrolled copy of every such bill, amendment or resolution shall be printed and examined to ascertain that it is a true and accurate copy of the measure as it was passed. It shall then be authenticated by the signatures of the President or President pro tempore of the Senate and the Secretary or an assistant secretary of the Senate and by the corresponding officers of the Assembly and transmitted without delay to the Governor.

DEBATE.*Statement of Motion.

37. No motion shall be debated until the same be distinctly announced by the President; and it shall be reduced to writing if desired by the President or any Senator, and read by the Secretary, before the same shall be debated.

Regulations as to Speaking.

38. 1. When a Senator desires to address the Senate, he shall rise in his place, address the President, and when recognized he may proceed to speak.

2. No Senator shall speak more than twice in any one debate on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill, without leave; and Senators who have once spoken shall not again be entitled to the floor (except for explanation) so long as any Senator who has not spoken desires to speak.

3. No Senator shall be interrupted when speaking, and no question shall be asked him except through the presiding officer.

4. The author of a bill, motion, or resolution shall have the privilege of closing the debate.

Recognizing Members.

39. When two or more Senators arise at the same time to address the Senate, the presiding officer shall designate the Senator who is entitled to the floor.

Order in Debate.

40. When a Senator shall be called to order he shall sit down until the President shall have determined whether he is in order or not; and every question of order shall be decided by the President, subject to an appeal to the Senate by any Senator. If a Senator be called to order for words spoken, the objectionable language shall immediately be taken down in writing by the Secretary of the Senate.

Right to Address the Senate.

41. No person other than a member of the Senate or the President thereof, shall address the Senate while it is in session but the Senate may resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole and while sitting as such committee may be addressed by persons other than members.

QUESTIONS AND MOTIONS.*Amendments to Bills.

42. When amendments to a bill are reported by a committee or offered from the floor, such amendments shall be submitted in triplicate.

Adoption of amendments to any bill in the Senate prior to third reading, other than by roll call, shall not preclude subsequent consideration in committee or on the third reading of the bill, of such amendments or any part thereof, by the Senate.

Motion to Lay on the Table.

43. When an amendment proposed to any pending measure shall be laid on the table, it shall not carry with it or prejudice such measure.

Division of a Question.

44. If a question in debate contains more than one distinct proposition, any Senator may have the same divided.

The Previous Question.

45. The previous question shall be put in the following form: "Shall the question be now put?" It shall require a majority vote of the Senators present; and its effect shall be to put an end to all debate except that the author of the bill or the amendment shall have the right to close, and the question under discussion shall thereupon be immediately put to a vote. On a motion for the previous question prior to a vote being taken by the Senate, a call of the Senate shall be in order.

Call of the Senate.

46. Upon a motion being carried for a call of the Senate, the President shall immediately order the doors to be closed, and shall direct the Secretary to call the names of the absentees as disclosed by the last previous roll call. Thereupon, no member shall be permitted to leave the Senate Chamber except by written permission of the President or President pro tempore. Those members who are found to be absent and for whom no excuse or insufficient excuses are made, may, by order of those present, be taken into custody, as they appear, or may be sent for and then taken into custody by the Sergeant-at-Arms wherever found, or by special messenger to be appointed for that purpose. In the absence of a quorum, a majority of the members present may order a roll call of the Senate and compel the attendance of absentees in the manner above provided. No recess can be taken during a call of the Senate.

During a call, the Senate may consider and transact any matter or business that the Senators then present shall unanimously decide to consider, but no call of the Senate shall be had during a call of the Senate. When a call of the Senate is ordered, pending the completion of a roll call, the pending roll call shall become unfinished business, the consideration of which shall be continued until further proceedings under the call of the Senate are dispensed with, when it will forthwith become the order of business before the Senate.

Reconsideration.

47. On the day on which a vote has been taken on any question a reconsideration of the vote may be demanded by any three members.

Consideration of the demand may be had on the day made or on the succeeding legislative day but may not be further postponed without the concurrence of twenty-seven members.

No vote on a Senate bill may be reconsidered on or after the fourteenth day prior to adjournment and no vote may be reconsidered on the last day of the session.

When reconsideration of the vote by which any bill was passed has been demanded the Secretary shall not transmit it to the Assembly until the demand has been disposed of or the time for reconsideration has expired, but if the bill has already been transmitted to the Assembly the demand for reconsideration shall be preceded by a motion to request the Assembly to return the bill. This motion shall be put to vote immediately without debate and if not adopted shall preclude a demand for reconsideration.

A demand to reconsider the vote on any debatable question opens the main question to debate and the vote on the reconsideration shall be on the merits of such main question.

VOTING BY SENATE.

Voting on Roll Call.

48. Whenever a roll call is required by the constitution or rules, or is ordered by the Senate or demanded by three members, every member within the Senate shall without debate answer "Aye" or "No" when his name is called.

The names of members shall be called alphabetically.

No Senator shall be permitted to vote or change his vote after the announcement of the vote by the presiding officer.

Excused from Voting.

49. When a Senator declines or fails to vote on call of his name he shall, after completion of the roll call, and before the announcement of the vote be required to assign his reasons therefor, and having assigned them, the presiding officer shall submit the question to the Senate: "Shall the Senator, for the reasons assigned by him, be excused from voting?" which question shall be decided without debate. Unless the Senator is excused from voting, he shall be required to vote.

Voting by Presiding Senator.

50. When the President pro tempore or any other member of the Senate is presiding over the Senate he shall vote on roll call the same as though he were not presiding.

Vote Required.

13. To reconsider the vote by which a proposed constitutional amendment is defeated.
14. To suspend the rule against lobbying in the Senate Chamber.
15. To amend or suspend the rules.

The following actions require twenty-one votes:

16. To pass bills, unless under some other rule a larger vote is required—(Constitution, Art. IV, Sec. 15).
17. To adopt a concurrent resolution approving a county or city charter or amendments thereto—(Constitution, Art. XI, Secs. 7½ and 8).
18. To adopt joint and concurrent resolutions.
19. To reconsider bills, joint and concurrent resolutions.
20. To confirm appointments by the Governor or to reconsider the same.
21. To recall a bill from committee.
22. To concur in Assembly amendments or to adopt a report of a Committee on Free Conference.

Actions requiring fourteen votes:

23. To reconsider a vote by which a proposed constitutional amendment was adopted.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE,
SACRAMENTO, February 17, 1940.

*To the Senate of the State of California,
Sacramento, California.*

ATTENTION: Mr. Joseph Beek, Secretary.

GENTLEMEN: PURSUANT to Senate Resolution No. 17, dated February 5, 1940, there is presented herewith information requested in said resolution relative to State-owned passenger motor vehicles and the use of privately-owned motor vehicles on State business.

Statement No. 1 sets forth by agencies the number of automobiles registered to each agency as of June 30, 1939, and also as of February 1, 1940.

Statement No. 2 sets forth by agencies the make, model, and cost of each automobile, the appropriation from which purchased, by whom used, and the purpose for which used. These data are presented in the exact form in which received from the several agencies. No attempt has been made to rearrange these data as sufficient time is not available.

Statement No. 3 sets forth the operating cost per mile of the various makes of cars operated by the Division of Highways and the State Department of Agriculture. While the resolution requested that the operating and maintenance cost of passenger vehicles be segregated by departments, these data are not compiled by the respective agencies for each separate motor vehicle. The statements presented herewith include exceedingly accurate cost data kept by the State Department of Agriculture and the Division of Highways, which data are deemed a sufficient test to determine the cost of operating State-owned motor vehicles. The cost of keeping such a record is considerable, and other State agencies have not been required to compile it. If it is the desire of the Senate that such data be compiled, at least three additional weeks will be required to obtain it. A further request from the Senate will be awaited before the work is undertaken.

Statement No. 4 sets forth by agencies the total amount paid for privately-owned motor vehicles on State business, showing the total number of miles traveled and number of persons to whom such mileage was paid.

The resolution requests such additional information pertinent to the subject covered. Information was procured from seven other States having populations larger or comparable to that of the State of California. Set forth below is a comparison of the information obtained relative to State-owned passenger vehicles in these States:

State	Population	Square miles of land area	State highway mileage	Number of State-owned passenger vehicles	State-owned passenger vehicles per mile of highway
California -----	6,059,000	155,652	13,918	2286	.164

The following telegram was received from the Director of Finance of the State of Illinois:

"Information you requested regarding automobiles is not compiled. Would take considerable time to gather this information from the several departments, boards, commissions, and constitutional officers."

The Secretary of State, registrar of motor vehicles in Illinois, wired as follows:

"Can not supply information re passenger vehicles registered to State agencies. Not compiled."

If additional information is desired, please inform us, and every effort will be made to furnish it.

Yours very truly,

JOHN R. RICHARDS,
Director of Finance.

President Pro Tempore in the Chair.

At eleven o'clock and five minutes a.m., Hon. Jerrold L. Seawell, President Pro Tempore of the Senate, in the chair.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 17, 1940.

Honorable Joseph A. Beck, Secretary of the Senate,
State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.

Subject: Operation and Effect of Assembly Bill No. 96 and Senate Bill No. 57 in relation to the special session proclamation and to the Federal Social Security Act.

SIR: You advise us that the Senate has referred the Governor's message of February 13, 1940, respecting these bills (Senate Journal, February 13, page 211) to the Attorney General and to the Legislative Counsel for an opinion upon these questions:

1. Do the bills referred to, in their present form, in all particulars come within the proclamation convening the Legislature into extraordinary session?

2. Does any provision of either of the bills contravene any Federal act which will to any extent jeopardize California's right to aid from the Federal Government in carrying on old age assistance and security?

First, as to Assembly Bill No. 96. This measure does not appear to present any problem under paragraphs (1) or (2), above. In our opinion, Assembly Bill No. 96 is within the scope of the proclamation and does not involve any conflict with the Federal Social Security Act or its administration.

Second, as to Senate Bill No. 57. This measure, as amended February 7, presents questions both as to the proclamation and as to the Federal Social Security Act.

The February 7 amendment adds to section 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code the following limitation upon the Social Welfare Board's general powers of supervision over the administration of our Old Age Security Law:

"However, neither the State Department of Social Welfare nor the State Social Welfare Board shall have authority, by rule, regulation, or otherwise, to withhold or to order to be withheld any money subject to payment to any county under this chapter because of any rule or regulation of the State Department of Social Welfare."

(1) As to the Scope of the Proclamation.

This involves the interpretation and application of that clause of section 9 of Article V of our State Constitution which declares that on extraordinary occasions the Governor may convene the Legislature by proclamation, "stating the purposes" for which he has convened it, and that when convened the Legislature shall have no power to legislate "on any subjects other than those specified" in the proclamation.

The fundamental principle, recognized by the courts in all the states, is that in such a case it is the constitutional function of the Governor to designate the subject and the constitutional prerogative of the Legislature to decide what sort of legislation (if any at all) on or within that subject or any part of it is needed or desirable. The Legislature can not enlarge that subject, and the Governor can not by anything he puts in the proclamation hamper or restrict the Legislature as to what it may choose to enact on or within that subject.

But it may be and often is difficult to determine what is the "subject" which the Governor has specified—whether some broad general topic or a somewhat narrow and restricted aspect of the same. And we have no decisions of our own courts to guide us, for no close question under this clause of the Constitution has as yet been presented to them for their consideration and decision.

We are, therefore, required to turn to the courts of other states for guidance.

Our examination of the decisions of sister States persuades us that the February 7 amendment to Senate Bill No. 57 extends beyond the scope of the subjects specified and can not be considered legally effective as a whole.

The "subject" is found in Items 5 and 6 of the proclamation, reading as follows:

"5. To consider and act upon legislation and a constitutional amendment providing for the cancellation, release or other modification of agreements, liens and other claims to or against the property of recipients of aid to the aged under the Old Age Security Law, and for the removal of authority to secure such agreements, liens and other claims.

6. To consider and act upon legislation revising the age qualifications for aid granted under the Old Age Security Law."

This, in our opinion, comprehends:

- (a) "Agreements, liens and other claims to or against the property of recipients" of aid granted under the Old Age Security Act; and
- (b) "Age qualifications" for such aid.

To revoke the existing authority of the Social Welfare Board to withhold moneys, in aid of enforcement of any rule or regulation pertaining to either of these subjects would be entirely within the scope of the proclamation. But the February 7 amendment goes beyond that, applying as it does to "any rule or regulation" of the Board under any phase of the Old Age Security Law.

Decisions in other States which persuade us that the "subjects" of Items 5 and 6 are as above indicated, include the following:

Arizona: An Item "To consider and enact amendments to the Improvement Act of 1912 and acts amendatory or supplementary thereto with the object of restoring competitive bidding and eliminating any legal doubt or question as to the validity of bonds issued thereunder," did not include within its subject an act validating proceedings of a certain city in voting and issuing bonds for building an armory to be presented to the National Guard. (McClintock vs. City of Phoenix, 207 P. 611.)

Arkansas: An Item "To provide for removal of authority to collect tolls on bridges and to pledge the State to keep the said bridges forever free," did not include within its subject the repeal of a law imposing fees on automobiles using the highways even though the repeal was designed to make up for the loss of revenue resulting from discontinuance of tolls (the theory of the repeal being that abrogation of such fees would induce more travel by auto and thereby increase receipts from the gasoline tax). (Pope vs. Oliver, 117 S. W. (2d) 1072.)

Arkansas: An Item "For the purpose of enacting laws for establishing local road, bridge, drainage, school and levee districts, and amending and curing defects in existing special local laws for the same, and ratifying, confirming and validating local improvement districts, organized under general or special laws, and to enact such laws as will permit the reconstruction or extension through improvement districts of waterworks systems, to the end that cities and towns, or new territory taken therein may be supplied with adequate service," did not include within its subject an act requiring the commissioners of all road districts, drainage districts, and improvement districts (formed under general laws) to file an annual report on a certain designated day in each year. (Jones vs. State, 242 S. W. 377.)

Kentucky: An Item "To enable such measures as will provide sufficient revenue to carry on all proper functions of the State Government, including common schools * * *" did not include within its subject a provision extending for life the certificates of teachers who had taught for twenty years even though it did include the imposition of a $2.00 fee for extension of a teacher's certificate in certain types of cases, as a revenue producing measure (Richmond vs. Loy, 87 S. W. (2) 134).

Missouri: An Item for the amendment of a certain section of the Revised Statutes "to permit the division of cities of six hundred thousand or over into districts for justices of the peace, by such officers as your body may specify," does not include within its subject the matter of districting of cities of three hundred thousand or over, nor did it authorize legislation affecting constables even though constables were also dealt with in the very section of the statutes mentioned by the Governor in his proclamation. (State ex rel Rice vs. Edwards, 241 S. W. 945.)

Missouri: An item for legislation to make assessors in cities of five hundred thousand population elective officers, did not include the additional subjects of fixing their term of office, specifying their salaries, provisions for appointment of their deputies and employees, directions as to methods of assessment, and the creation of a Board of Equalization. (Stoeke vs. Edwards, 244 S. W. 802.)

Missouri: An Item for "An act to repeal Sec. 9961 of Art. 9, Ch. 59 of the Rev. Stats. of Mo. 1929, relating to limitation of actions in connection with delinquent and back taxes, and to enact a new section in lieu thereof, to be known as section 9961, relating to limitation of sales for delinquent taxes and validity thereof," did not include within its subject the matter of changing the date when tax delinquent property might be sold. (Schlafly vs. Baumann, 108 S. W. (2d) 363.)

Pennsylvania: An Item "To designate the amount to be expended each year in the erection of county bridges, and to take such other measures in regard to them as safety may require," did not include within its subject an act prescribing that the county commissioners in building and repairing bridges do the same by contract after due advertisement for at least three weeks, save when the cost involved was less than $250. (Fayette County vs. County Commissioners, 35 Pa. C. C. 401.)

Tennessee: An Item for "a road law for Maury County," did not include the subject of an act to regulate privately owned turnpikes even though restricted in its application to such turnpikes in that county, the Item being construed as referring to publicly owned roads. (Columbia & Pulaski Turnpike Co. vs. Hughes, 174 S. W. 1108.)

Tennessee: An Item "To make such appropriation of the public moneys as may be deemed necessary and proper to maintain the State's institutions, offices, and departments, with the exception of educational institutions, these having been liberally provided for at the regular session," did not include within its subject the matter of appropriating money to the National Conservation Exposition Company even though some of the purposes of the latter were the same as the State Department of Agriculture but unconnected with the department, the Exposition Company not being comprehended within the scope of the term "State's institutions, offices and departments." (State vs. Woollen, 161 S. W. 1006.)

Decisions in those cases in which it was found that the questioned statute was within the scope of the proclamation (of which there are a goodly number) appear to be in harmony with those above cited. In each instance it was a matter of interpreting the language used in the proclamation, to ascertain the scope of the subject specified.

For example, in the Pennsylvania case of In re Likens, 72 Atl. 862, the Item read:

"To designate the uses to which moneys may be applied to candidates, political managers, and committees in political campaigns, both for nominations and elections, and to require the managing committees and managers of all political parties to file with some designated official at the close of each campaign, a detailed statement in writing, accompanied by affidavit, of the amounts collected and the purposes for which they were expended." (Italics ours.)

The court considered that the italicized portion indicated that the subject was "the lawful and unlawful use of money in political campaigns," and that the remainder of the Item merely specified means and methods which did not tie the hands of the Legislature; hence, that an act which required the candidate himself to file accounts was on the subject specified.

Similarly, in the Tennessee case of Hyde vs. State, 174 S. W. 1127, where the Item read:

"A bill to regulate the intra-state trade or sale of opium or coca leaves, or any compound, manufacture, salt, derivative or preparation thereof," and the narcotics law enacted contained a proviso excepting from its provisions the dispensing of drugs to his patient by a licensed physician in the course of his professional practice, and the sale of drugs by a registered pharmacist to a consumer pursuant to a written prescription issued by a physician, such exemption was deemed an incident to the regulation of the sale of those narcotics (not essentially a regulation of the profession of physician or pharmacist), hence, well within the scope of the subject specified in the proclamation.

A certain Colorado case deserves mention because of some language in it which might indicate that if a Governor mentions a statute or some slight phase of a topic, the whole topic, or the entire field covered by the statute, is opened up as the "subject" specified. This is the case of People vs. Dist. Court, 46 Pac. 681. The court said:

"The Governor by specially designating in the proclamation * * * as one of the subjects of legislation, the law relating to elections, etc., in this State, known as the 'Australian Ballot Law,' for amendment, must be held to have submitted the whole subject-matter of such act for legislative action thereon." (p. 681.)

One might infer therefrom that where (as in Items 5 and 6 of the proclamation of January 29, 1940) the Governor mentions this State's Old Age Security Law, everything that act deals with is the "subject."

But when we examine the proclamation which the Colorado court had before it (not the mere excerpt quoted in the opinion), the reason for the court's conclusion becomes clear. For that Item started out with a general clause (a main paragraph) reading:

"To enact that the law in relation to elections, etc., in this State, known as the Australian Ballot Law, be amended so as to provide:"

Then followed ten subparagraphs (lettered "a" to "k") of detailed specifications touching upon nearly every phase of the Australian Ballot Law. Quite logical, therefore, for the court to interpret the main clause (above quoted) as intended to designate the "Australian Ballot Law" as the subject, and to view the ten subparagraphs as but the specification of means and methods, which latter could not be legally controlling. The Legislature could act as it might choose in respect to any and all phases of the "subject," which was the Australian Ballot Law.

Quite appropriately, therefore, did the Colorado court say that the Governor, having designated the subject:

"Had no more authority to go further than this, and specify the particular character of the amendments to be voted upon, than he would have had to have prepared the bills, and attached them to his call, and directed the Legislature to have passed or rejected the same, without amendment.

"Such specific instructions can, at best, be regarded as advisory only, and not as limiting the character of legislation that might be had upon the general subject of the Australian Ballot Law." (p. 681.)

But in specifying the "subject" he may make it either broad or narrow, as aptly expressed by the Court in State vs. Woolen, Tenn., 161 S. W. 1006:

"He can by bona fide definition limit the subject to be legislated on so as to make that subject either broad or narrow.

"This narrowing by definition is accomplished, as in all other matters under the dominion of the laws of thought and the laws of expression in human language, by the imposition of qualifying matter upon a general subject.

"Just as the general subject 'animal' may by the addition of qualifying limitations be reduced to the concept man, and this down further to some special race, or class, or group of men. Each one of these would in its turn be truly a subject of thought, and concerning which propositions might be affirmed, or laws enacted." (p. 1015.)

Accordingly, we conclude that the February 7 amendment to Senate Bill No. 57 extends beyond the scope of the proclamation.

(2) As to the Federal Social Security Act.

This involves the interpretation of a portion of Title I of the United States Social Security Act, and the relationship of certain provisions of that title to our State plan for old age assistance.

Those portions of the Social Security Act which appear to be pertinent to the present question are:

"SEC. 2. (a) A State plan for old age assistance must (1) provide that it shall be in effect in all political subdivisions of the State * * * (3) provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to supervise the administration of the plan; * * * (5) provide such methods of administration * * * as are found by the board (Social Security Board) to be necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the plan * * *"
 "(b) The board shall approve any plan which fulfills the conditions specified in subsection (a) except * * *."

"A State plan for old age assistance" consists of:

1. The law itself (the Old Age Security Law).
2. The rules and regulations adopted by the administrative agency for the execution of the law; i.e., rules and regulations adopted by the State Department of Social Welfare.

The State plan and each and every change therein must comply with the provisions of Sec. 2 (a) of the Social Security Act, and be approved by the Social Security Board before Federal funds may be allocated to the State.

It appears to us that the February 7th amendment to Senate Bill No. 57 raises one single question:

Does the revocation of the existing authority of the State Department of Social Welfare to withhold moneys, in aid of the enforcement of its rules and regulations, deprive our State plan "of such methods of administration as are found by the board (Social Security Board) to be necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the plan?"

That does not appear to be a question to which a categorical "yes" or "no" answer may be given.

Because there is such a great variance in the methods of administration of State plans for old age assistance in the 48 States and the Territories, the Social Security Board does not appear to have promulgated any general rules applicable to all States as to what methods of administration it considers necessary or essential for the proper and efficient operation of a State plan. Rather it appears to have passed judgment upon each individual plan, demanding as to each that the methods of administration are "such as will secure adequate supervision and efficient operation." (Letter from chairman of the Social Security Board to Honorable Henry Horner, Governor of Illinois, May 8, 1936.)

In the same letter it is declared:

"The Social Security Board deals with the State rather than with the local administrative units, and it is apparent that the State agency must be in a position to assure the Social Security Board that old age assistance will be administered in all parts of the State in conformity with the specific provisions of the Federal act, and in conformity with the provisions of the State plan."

These seem to be the basic principles followed by the Social Security Board.

There have been at least two instances in which the Social Security Board has, after hearing, suspended allotments to the State for noncompliance with the Social Security Act.

These instances involved the States of Illinois and Oklahoma and in each case one of the grounds for the Board's decision was the failure of the State adequately to supervise the State plan.

For example, the conclusions of law and the Board's decision in the Illinois case read in part as follows:

"(1) The State has failed duly and adequately to supervise the County Departments within the meaning and intent of said Section 2 (a) (3). It has not furnished the County Departments with guidance as to the meaning of the State Law and old-age assistance program, and as to the basic procedures, standards and policies to be followed by the County Departments; * * *"
 (Page 10 of Decision. In the Matter of the Hearing pursuant to section 4 of the Social Security Act on the administration of old age assistance in the State of Illinois, July 27, 1937.)

In its decision in the Oklahoma case, the Board found that:

"There has not been, in practice, administration or supervision of the plans by the single State agency, the Oklahoma Public Welfare Commission * * *. This is attributable to the failure of the State Commission to define its policies clearly and to observe them consistently, to the failure of the State Commission to supervise adequately and to instruct the County Assistance Boards and the county staffs with respect to the State Commission's policies, to the fact that the County Assistance Boards have differed from and refused to comply with the State Commission's policies as established by rule and regulation and to the State Commission's failure to appoint and to employ personnel adequate in number or caliber when the County Assistance Boards have, without authority objected." (Page 2, of Decision, In the Matter of Hearings Pursuant to Section 4 * * * on the administration of plans for old age assistance * * * in the State of Oklahoma, March 2, 1938.)

The Federal board's decisions in the Illinois and Oklahoma cases indicate that the Federal board deems it essential that the State agency vested with supervision of administration of the State plan (in California, the Social Welfare Board) be vested with the power:

1. To promulgate rules and regulations appropriate and adequate to uniformity of interpretation and administration (including uniform standards of assistance and amounts of aid granted) throughout the counties of the State; and
2. To enforce compliance with such rules and regulations upon the part of the several counties.

As to the method of enforcing such compliance, we do not infer that the Federal board is wedded to any one method as the sole and exclusive means of enforcement. There is some indication that the Federal board might favorably consider conference by a Legislature upon its State supervising agency of the power through appropriate court proceedings (mandamus, perhaps) to enforce county compliance with its rules and regulations, in lieu of the power to withhold money.

Whether or not California's State Social Welfare Board already has such power of enforcement (by judicial proceeding), we are not certain just yet.

It appears to have authority to prosecute actions concerning all matters relating to the business activities and subjects under its jurisdiction (Political Code, Sec. 353). However, that power might be deemed modified or restricted in relation to enforcement of the provisions of the Old Age Security Law, in view of the special authority to withhold moneys in case of non-compliance by a county with aid to the aged requirements.

To abrogate the power to withhold moneys unless at the same time it is certain, or is made certain, that the State board possesses a substitutional power of enforcement (such as institution and maintenance of court proceedings) satisfactory to the Federal board, would, we believe, jeopardize California's right to aid from the Federal Government in carrying on old age assistance and security.

In conclusion, as to these two bills in their present form, we are of the opinion:

1. Assembly Bill No. 96 appears to be within the scope of the proclamation, and not in contravention of any Federal act, rule, regulation or policy that might jeopardize California's right to aid from the Federal Government in carrying on old age assistance and security.

Senate Bill No. 57 extends beyond the scope of the proclamation, and, if it were effective (as to abrogation of the power to withhold moneys), would probably jeopardize California's right to such aid from the Federal Government.

Respectfully submitted.

FRED B. WOOD,
Legislative Counsel.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Metzger, ordered printed in the Journal:

To the Members of the Senate.

It is my belief, based on observation of conditions both in Sacramento and Los Angeles, that the State of California owns more automobiles than are needed for the efficient conduct of official business. In spite of this condition, it is necessary for many State employees to drive their own cars on a mileage basis while on official State business. This paradox is caused by the ownership of State automobiles by individual State Departments, Divisions, and Agencies. Individual automobiles are earmarked for the sole use of certain State officials. These automobiles are often unused more than 50 per cent of the time, and often the major portion of their use consists in transporting these particular officials between their homes and their offices. I have on many occasions followed State automobiles from the residence of the driver to various State office buildings in the morning and home again in the evening.

The misuse of State cars is a minor evil however, compared to the present wasteful method of departmental ownership. Let me cite a specific example. The Department of Finance has at times maintained an automobile at Los Angeles for the Director of Finance. This car was reserved for the sole use of the Director. It is only right and proper that the Director of Finance should have an automobile available for his use when he is in Los Angeles. However, the Director is probably in Los Angeles less than 10 per cent of the time. The rest of the time his car stands idle while depreciation goes merrily on. While this car stands idle in the garage of the State Building in Los Angeles, some of the accountants of the Department of Finance are forced of necessity to use their own cars for trips out of town on State business. Multiply this example by as many Departments, Divisions, Bureaus, Commissions, and other agencies as there are in the State Government and you will begin to get some idea of the resulting wastes in the use and ownership of State automobiles.

Respectfully submitted.

D. JACK METZGER.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 17, 1940.

*Honorable Joseph A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SIR: We have your letter stating that the Senate has requested our opinion on the following subjects:

"a. Do Senate Bill No. 57 and Assembly Bill No. 96, in their present form in all particulars, come within the proclamation convening the Legislature into extraordinary session?

b. Does any provision of either of the bills contravene any Federal act which will to any extent jeopardize California's right to aid from the Federal Government in carrying on old age assistance and security?

You have enclosed Assembly Bill No. 96 and Senate Bill No. 57 as amended February 7, 1940.

Assembly Bill No. 96 is an act to amend sections 2224 and 2227 of, and to repeal sections 2226 and 2229 of, the Welfare and Institutions Code relating to aid to the aged, and providing for the cancellation and release of certain agreements affecting real property heretofore required of recipients of said aid.

Senate Bill No. 57, as amended February 7, 1940, is an act to repeal sections 2226 and 2229, and to amend sections 2007, 2140 and 2227 of the Welfare and Institutions Code; purporting also to relate to the identical subject as Assembly Bill No. 96.

Items 5 and 6 of the Governor's proclamation calling the special session follow:

"5. To consider and act upon legislation and a constitutional amendment providing for the cancellation, release or other modification of agreements, liens and other claims to or against the property of recipients of aid to the aged under the Old Age Security Law, and for the removal of authority to secure such agreements, liens and other claims.

6. To consider and act upon legislation revising the age qualifications for aid granted under the Old Age Security Law."

Senate Bill No. 57 contains the following provision:

"However, neither the State Department of Social Welfare nor the State Social Welfare Board shall have authority, by rule, regulation, or otherwise, to withhold or to order to be withheld any money subject to payment to any county under this chapter because of any rule or regulation of the State Department of Social Welfare."

In our opinion the subject of Item 5 is limited to legislation providing for the cancellation, release or modification of agreements, liens and other claims to or against the property of old age aid recipients. The provision of the proposed bill having to do with the rule-making power of the Department of Social Welfare is not within this call. It is likewise beyond the scope of the subject proposed by Item 6 in the proclamation, which is to consider age qualifications.

Answering your second question it is our opinion that the proposed amendment to section 2140 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, which would prevent the State Department of Social Welfare and the State Social Welfare Board from enforcing any rules or regulations by withholding funds due to a county, might jeopardize the right of the State to receive Federal funds.

Section 2a of the Federal Social Security Act follows in part:

"A State plan for old age assistance must:

(1) provide that it shall be in effect in all political subdivisions of the State, and, if administered by them, be mandatory upon them; * * * (3) either provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to administer the plan, or provide for the establishment or designation of a single State agency to supervise the administration of the plan * * * (5) provide such methods of administration * * * as are found by the Board to be necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the plan * * *"

Under this act the Federal Board has broad powers to determine whether a plan operated by a State administration is considered proper and efficient. The act expressly requires that a State plan must be binding on all political subdivisions of the State. It is therefore our opinion that the proposed legislation, which would limit the State's authority over the counties, could very well jeopardize the State's right to Federal aid.

Very truly yours,

EARL WARREN,
Attorney General.

FWF:W.
3602.

Report.

The following report by Senator Metzger was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

Audit of Report Submitted by Department of Public Works Pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 19.

On February 7, 1940, the Senate adopted a resolution requesting the Director of Public Works to furnish information to this body concerning the disposition of the proceeds of a $100,000 appropriation made by the Legislature in June 1939 under the provisions of Chapter 670. This appropriation was intended to assist in furthering the Central Valley Project.

This resolution was directed to obtaining answers to three questions: (1) How much of the $100,000 appropriation has been expended to date? (2) For what purposes was the money expended in carrying out the intentions of the appropriation? (3) What plans have been made with respect to spending the balance of the appropriation?

On February 14, a report purporting to answer these questions was completed by the Division of Water Resources and on February 16 a copy of this report, together with other material, was delivered to the Senate. An examination of this report and the supplementary material discloses the following:

1. The report states that of the total $100,000 appropriated under Chapter 670, $24,932 was expended between July 1, 1939 and February 1, 1940. Inasmuch as the appropriation bill earmarked the money for the 91st and 92d fiscal years, the amount expended to date represents a fair proportion of the total. This answers question No. 1.

2. With respect to what this money was spent for, the report attempts to answer this question first by enumerating a long list of studies and investigations, some of which cover a period of several years into the past and could not possibly be tied in to Chapter 670. Secondly, the report sets forth a schedule of claims and invoices filed and of warrants paid, but this schedule does not indicate the nature of the work done or objectives accomplished. A mere listing of payroll employees and a vague listing of studies covering a long period of time and the entire scope of the project does not answer the question concerning the exact purposes for which the $24,932 was spent.

3. With respect to what future plans are, the report is again vague. A little understanding is afforded by schedule 8 but the objectives set forth herein cover not only the use of the proceeds of Chapter 670 but also the support appropriation contained in the budget and the proceeds of Federal aid provided by the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation. Thus question No. 3 is only answered in part, and then only in general terms.

An examination of the report discloses certain inconsistencies and administrative neglect in carrying out the provisions of Chapter 670. The following may be cited:

1. Although it was understood that part of the proceeds of the $100,000 appropriation would be used to finance trips to Washington, D. C. in furtherance of Federal aid to this project, the report does not indicate any expenditures for this purpose.

2. Although the report states that $24,932 was expended out of this appropriation during the first seven months of this fiscal year, most of this money was used to pay the salaries of regular employees of the Division of Water Resources. According to the records of the State Personnel Board, the division has added but two new positions to its staff since July 1, 1939. These were: (1) a Coordinator of Informational Activities at a monthly salary of $320, and (2) an Electric Power Utility Rate Adviser and Accountant at a monthly salary of $420. These two employees were paid $3,521 up to February 1. In addition an employee certified before July 1, 1939 (Louis Bartlett) received $3,306 during this period which could be charged to this appropriation, making a total of $6,827 in salaries of new employees engaged in work carrying out the purposes of this act. But the remainder of the $24,932 was spent for the salaries of regular employees and miscellaneous expense.

3. On page 9 of the report, it is stated "The engineering and economic phases of the work which have been performed from July 1, 1939 to January 31, 1940, have included the following:" Then there follows a long list of studies, some of which date back many years. The two reports submitted to the Senate illustrating the work done under this appropriation are numbered 11 and 14 and are dated June 1939 and May 1939 respectively, and yet they are included in the list of work done since July 1, 1939. The $100,000 appropriation did not become available until July 1 and could not have been used to finance prior studies.

4. Although the Senate resolution requested information concerning future plans for spending the proceeds of Chapter 670, the answer submitted consists of a report prepared by A. D. Edmonston on November 27, 1939 and covers all appropriations. The Department has not set forth its plans for spending the balance of the appropriation contained in Chapter 670.

Conclusion.

Senate Resolution No. 19 requested specific information regarding the expenditure of the money provided in Chapter 670 of the Statutes of 1939. The report submitted to the Senate in reply is a voluminous mass of detail relating to Central Valley Project activities in general. Nowhere in the report is there a concise statement showing exactly the accomplishments resulting from the expenditure of moneys out of the $100,000 appropriation or what is expected to be accomplished in the future through the expenditure of the unexpended balance in this appropriation. In brief, the report does not comply with Senate Resolution No. 19.

Respectfully submitted.

SENATOR METZGER.

Uncertainty and confusion in the administration and enforcement of those provisions of the Old Age Security Law in the Welfare and Institutions Code which are repealed by this act has resulted in a lack of uniformity in the application of the law in the several counties of this State.

If this condition is permitted to continue this State may be deprived of all Federal grants in aid for old age assistance which would bring financial ruin to both State and county governments and result in an untold increase of human suffering and the endangering of the public peace, health and safety.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Seawell ordered printed in the Journal, and referred to the Chief of California Highway Patrol:

1939 SAN DIEGO COUNTY GRAND JURY.
COURT HOUSE, SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA.

*To the Presiding Officer, State Senate,
Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SIR: The San Diego grand jury has had under consideration the "Road Ramblers' Club," an organization of young men who style themselves "qualified automobile speed enthusiasts."

The qualifying provision for membership is possession of an automobile capable of making high speeds. Upon the group's organization two years ago, the minimum speed was set at 70 miles per hour. This has since been raised to 80, then to 90, and recently to 95. Three members recently figured in an accident on a county highway in which high speed and the inability to stop the car in time to avoid an accident were the chief contributing factors. One young man was killed and the two others were injured.

We are informed that this organization is more or less state-wide and that there are other similar associations comprised of "speed enthusiasts." This particular club in San Diego now contains 23 members with an average age of 22 years and 8 months.

Since there appears to be no legislation which would adequately control organizations of this character, we respectfully suggest that this problem be submitted to the Judiciary Committee of your body for suitable remedial legislation. We shall be glad to furnish further information, if desired.

Yours truly,

1939 SAN DIEGO COUNTY GRAND JURY,
LARA P. GOOD, Foreman.

Sec. 13. (a) The people of the State of California, for themselves, for the State government, and for every county and other agency of the government of the State, do hereby abjure, renounce, and relinquish all rights and claims heretofore acquired by the State or any county or other agency of the State under the provisions of the Old Age Security Act of the State of California (Chapter 530 of the Statutes of 1929, as amended), or the Old Age Security Law (Chapter 1 of Division III of the Welfare and Institutions Code), or both, against the property of recipients of aid to the aged lawfully granted and received pursuant to said laws, or against such recipients personally, in so far as such rights and claims are based upon or arise out of liens, mortgages, transfers or other encumbrances taken by any county as security for aid granted pursuant to the provisions of said laws, or

(d) The board of supervisors of each county shall immediately execute and record appropriate instruments of release or rescission and cancellation of all such liens, mortgages, encumbrances and agreements and shall take such other steps as may be necessary to relieve the recipients of aid heretofore granted to such persons under either or both of such statutes and the real property of the recipients from all obligation to repay either to the county or to the State any such aid lawfully granted to or received by any such person;

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Constitution, the Legislature shall have power to release, rescind, cancel, or otherwise nullify in whole or in part any encumbrance on property, personal obligation, or other form of security heretofore or hereafter exacted or imposed by the Legislature to secure the repayment to, or reimbursement of, the State, and the counties or other agencies of the State government, of aid lawfully granted to and received by aged persons;

Senate Resolution No. 28.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Slater, Keating, Biggar, Gordon, Collier and Shelley:

Relative to the naming of the Funston Avenue Approach to the Golden Gate Bridge as "Doyle Drive."

WHEREAS, The directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, mindful of his having pioneered the building of the now world famous span across the Golden Gate, have gone on record favoring the naming of the Funston Avenue Approach to the Golden Gate Bridge as "Doyle Drive" in tribute to Frank P. Doyle, one of their colleagues and who is known state-wide as the "Father of the Golden Gate Bridge," and believing such a token is in small measure appreciative not only on the part of the district but the State generally in recognition of Mr. Doyle's continuing promotion of the welfare of public enterprise such as is represented in the Golden Gate Bridge; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That it cooperate with the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District in requesting the Department of Public Works and the California Highway Commission to name that portion of Highway Route 56 lying between Funston Avenue and Lake Street in the City and County of San Francisco and the Marina Approach to the Golden Gate Bridge in said City and County of San Francisco, "Doyle Drive"; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Director of the Department of Public Works, the State Highway Commission and State Highway and Bridge Engineer, with the request that in the event of their thus honoring Frank P. #### Urgency Clause.

SEC. 3. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

Prior to 1937 political subdivisions were not required to pay registration fees and vehicle license fees on vehicles owned by them or controlled by them under a lease agreement. A change was made in the Vehicle Code which inadvertently operated to require the payment of such fees.

Many political subdivisions are financially unable to pay the accrued fees and penalties thereon and it is necessary to afford them immediate relief from such burden as provided in this act. Unless this act takes immediate effect further penalties will accrue, thus increasing the existing burden upon such political subdivisions.

Communication.

The following communication, on motion of Senator Slater, was ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION, STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
SACRAMENTO, JANUARY 15, 1940.

Hon. John R. Richards, Director of Finance, State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. RICHARDS: Pursuant to your request we have reviewed what was said to you by Mr. W. P. Wing, Secretary of the California Wool Growers Association, in his letter of December 13, 1939, concerning the inequalities of the Sales and Use Tax Acts as applied to sales of breeding live stock held at public auction.

In accordance with Opinion No. NS-714 rendered by the Attorney General on November 18, 1937, we have regarded retail sales of breeding live stock as taxable within the purview of the Sales Tax Act. The Attorney General rejected the contentions that the sales of live stock for breeding purposes constituted sales of food products within the meaning of the exemption provided by section 5(c) of the act, and that the sales constituted sales for resale inasmuch as the live stock is usually resold after having been used for breeding purposes.

Save for a case brought in the Sacramento Superior Court (Kirk v. Johnson), the Attorney General's opinion has not been contested in litigation. In that case it was held that the gross receipts from the sale of dairy cows are taxable, and the court ruled specifically that the sales of such cows were not sales of food products and were for a purpose other than resale. This decision was permitted to become final.

While it may be conceded that the Attorney General has correctly interpreted the existing law, sellers of breeding live stock have insisted that they should enjoy an exemption, as a matter of policy, inasmuch as the live stock is eventually sold for food products. They have also advanced the contention that sales of breeding live stock should be regarded in the same manner as sales of seed, that is, sales for resale.

At its 1939 session the Legislature passed Senate Bills Nos. 437 and 438 providing for exemption from the Retail Sales Tax Act and the Use Tax Act, respectively, of sales and use of "feeds, seeds, and fertilizers used in the production of food for human consumption, and live stock and poultry of a kind the products of which ordinarily constitute food for human consumption." These bills did not become law, however, because of failure to obtain the approval of the Governor.

To a substantial extent the amendments so proposed were merely in confirmation of established administrative practice since feeds, seeds, and fertilizers used in the production of food for human consumption are already excluded from the purview of the tax by ruling of this board made pursuant to a resolution adopted in 1933 by the Joint Committee of the Legislature on Revenue and Taxation. Live stock and poultry sold for human consumption are likewise exempt under 1935 amendments.

In view of this administrative construction and the subsequent amendment of the statute, it seems clear under well-established legal doctrines that this construction now has force of law so that the only exemption which the amendments would have added would be that of live stock and poultry first used for breeding purposes or for production of milk and eggs but ultimately themselves used as food products for human consumption. Moreover, much of the live stock and poultry now sold is already exempt because the sales are made by farmers on an occasional basis rather than in the regular course of retail trade.

By extending the exemption to border-line cases in which live stock and poultry are brought together by farmers at central points and sold at public auction or sold through live stock dealers, it would seem that a desirable change in the law would be effected, clarifying what is now an unfortunately confusing situation. Farmers and poultry raisers strongly resent the application of the sales or use tax with respect to the live stock and poultry sold at such auctions or through dealers, and urge that the tax is unfair.

From the best information available it appears that if the exemption which was contemplated by Senate Bills Nos. 437 and 438 should be adopted, the revenue from sales and use taxes might be decreased to the extent of approximately $45,000 a year, representing the tax on the sale or use of live stock and poultry first used for breeding purposes, dairy purposes, or in egg production and later sold as food for human consumption. It is so difficult, however, to determine which of these sales are made in the regular course of retail trade and which are merely occasional sales by farmers, that the administrative expense involved is out of all proportion with the revenue derived. Consequently, we doubt seriously that any appreciable effect on the tax yield would result if such measures should become law.

When Governor Olson vetoed Senate Bills Nos. 437 and 438 it was doubtless in pursuance of his announced policy of withholding approval of further tax exemptions until such time as additional revenues might be provided. We venture to suggest, however, that in this particular instance it may well be that practically no reduction of revenue would be involved and that such changes in the law have much to commend them from the standpoint of removing what appears to have been an extremely irritating application of the tax.

Mr. Wing's letter to you and the copy of your answer of December 14 are returned herewith.

Very truly yours,

DIXWELL L. PIERCE.
Secretary.

This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

The activities of certain nations whose philosophies and ambitions are hopelessly incompatible with our own have compelled the United States, in self-defense, to commit herself to a policy of adequate military and naval protection, to be achieved in part by the immediate building of additional aviation facilities and an augmented aviation reserve corps from which piloting material can be drawn readily in case of national emergency. One of the several agencies contributing towards the fruition of this policy is the California National Guard.

Message from the Assembly.

The following message from the Assembly was received and read:

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, February 22, 1940.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Assembly refused to sustain the Governor's reduction from $50,000 to $5,000 in:

Assembly Bill No. 64—An act making an appropriation for the contingent expenses of the Assembly for the fifty-third (extraordinary) session of the Legislature including expenses of committees created at that session, and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately.

Herewith is a copy of the Governor's message relative to said bill.

JACK CARL GREENBURG, Chief Clerk of Assembly.
By C. W. BOOTH, Assistant Clerk.

(Copy)

Message from the Governor.

February 21, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly.

GREETINGS: I have this day approved and delivered to the Secretary of State Assembly Bill No. 64, with the following changes inscribed on the bill:

"I object to the appropriation of $50,000 and hereby reduce the sum to $5,000, and with this reduction I approve the bill.

I understand that there are now outstanding miscellaneous claims totaling about $2,000 and, in addition, claims to cover the expense of a legislative committee authorized to expend the sum of $500. I have been informed that the sum of $5,000 which I have approved is sufficient to cover these claims and any additional contingent expenses of the Assembly which are likely to be incurred at this session of the Legislature.

The moneys appropriated by this bill must be set aside by the State Controller from the General Fund for a period of four years in order to cover any claims which might come in within that time. Under the terms of the bill and section 9 of Article V of the Constitution, the unexpended amount can not be carried over and used to cover the expenses of another session of the Legislature.

Believing the Assembly would not wish to appropriate for its contingent expenses more than is necessary, and realizing a future appropriation may be made should an emergency arise, I am taking the action above indicated."

Respectfully submitted.

(Signed) CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor.

Senate Bill No. 13—An act to amend section 70 of the State Civil Service Act, relating to salary adjustments of civil service employees, declaring the urgency thereof, and providing that this act shall take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of this State and shall, therefore, go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

Due to the financial condition of the State there is not sufficient money available with which to grant automatic salary adjustments to all State civil service employees. However, because of the manner in which money is appropriated to the various departments, boards, and agencies of the State, it is now possible for some employees receiving high salaries to receive automatic adjustments while other employees grouped in classifications having low salary ranges are not able to receive such automatic adjustments. This has caused dissatisfaction among State civil service employees and has resulted in the impairment of the efficiency of State services, requiring a prompt remedy which can only be accomplished by this act going into effect immediately.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 16.

Relative to memorializing the President and Congress against the passage of legislation to prohibit the filing of separate income tax returns by spouses in reference to community income.

WHEREAS, The community property system constitutes a vital part of the laws of California and of seven of her sister States; and

WHEREAS, The system existing in California originated long before California's admission into the Union on September 9, 1850, and during the time of the Spanish and Mexican occupation; and

WHEREAS, Transactions and business relationships in this State involving hundreds of millions of dollars have been or are in the course of being negotiated on the logical assumption that the principles of community property so historically a part of California will continue in existence and be accorded universal respect and recognition; and

WHEREAS, There is now pending before the Congress of the United States a bill (H. R. 7361) which will prohibit a wife from filing a separate income tax return on her share of community property income and taking the credits and deductions thereon to which she is now legally entitled; and

WHEREAS, The effect of such legislation would be to ignore completely the community property law of California and of her sister community property States, and would result in unprecedented chaos and confusion; and

WHEREAS, Such legislation would furthermore constitute an injurious denial of privileges to the female sex and a return to an era of history when women were in the same category as chattels; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly, That the people of the State of California hereby register an emphatic protest against the passage of H. R. 7361 now pending before the Congress of the United States; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly forward a copy of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 19.

Relative to the making of payments by the Federal Government to counties to reimburse them for loss of tax receipts on account of the use of certain land by the United States.

WHEREAS, There are in the eleven Public Land States of the Northwest over 300,000,000 acres of tax free lands owned by the Federal Government and held in national forests, national parks, national monuments, national wild life refuges, national grazing land acquisition projects, military and naval reservations, Indian reservations and Indian trust lands; and

WHEREAS, There are according to the California Tax Research Bureau in its 1933 report to the Legislature over 20,000,000 acres of national forests and national park lands in the mountain counties of California which was valued by the bureau at the sum of over $190,000,000, and which are at present tax free; and

WHEREAS, The remaining acres of the mountain counties of California have to give the United States Government and the people who live within such national forests a full set of county officers to prosecute crimes alleged to have been committed within such national forests; and

WHEREAS, The privately owned lands of the mountain counties of California have to furnish schools for the education of the children who live within such national forests, providing buildings, teachers, janitors, conveyances for the children of school age to and from school and paying all other expenses of operating such schools; and

WHEREAS, These mountain counties of California have to pay for medical attendance, food, clothing, shelter and finally the funeral expenses of all the indigents who reside or have resided within the confines of such national forests; and

WHEREAS, The members of this Legislature believe that the United States Government should pay its just portion of the costs of these county governments; and

WHEREAS, The Government is constantly purchasing privately owned lands, withdrawing the same from assessment and taxation for national forests, national parks and other purposes, thereby impoverishing the counties from which the land is withdrawn; and

WHEREAS, Many counties in California are overburdened with taxation on account of the withdrawal from sale, settlement and taxation of large tracts of land for national forests, national parks, national monuments, national grazing land acquisition projects, military and naval reserves, Indian reservations and Indian trust lands; and

WHEREAS, Many counties in the State of Oregon have received and are still receiving large sums of money annually in lieu of taxes on federally-owned lands amounting to millions of dollars; and

WHEREAS, There are now pending in Congress two bills, H. R. 4506 and H. R. 4833, the first of which, if enacted, would bring to the treasuries of the counties of California approximately $120,000,000 annually to reimburse them for loss of tax receipts on account of the use of land by the United States, and the latter of which, if enacted, would put into these county treasuries the approximate sum of $200,000,000 annually; and

WHEREAS, The members of this Legislature believe that the Congress of the United States should pass one of the bills or introduce and pass a similar bill which will provide for payments to counties of the State of California in annual installments to reimburse them for loss of tax receipts on account of use by the United States of lands within such counties; and

WHEREAS, Many of the forest supervisors and other executive officers of the national forest organization have time and again privately expressed the hope that the Federal Government would make payments to States or local subdivisions in lieu of taxes on all government lands within such States or local subdivisions; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly. That the Congress of the United States be memorialized to enact legislation providing for the payment annually to counties in the eleven Public Land States of the Northwest of money to reimburse them for loss of tax receipts on land owned or used by the United States; and be it further

Resolved. That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Secretary of the Interior, to the Secretary of Agriculture, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, and to each Senator or member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States, and that the Senators and Representatives from California are hereby respectfully requested to urge such legislation.

Senate Resolution No. 30.

The following Resolution was offered:

By Senator Collier:

Relative to requesting certain data from the State Personnel Board.

WHEREAS, The Legislature has been called upon to give consideration at this special session to bills designed to provide revenue for the State Government, and at the same time to appropriate funds to provide salary adjustments or increases for State officers and employees during the 91st and 92d fiscal years; and

WHEREAS, In order to give proper consideration to these various measures, it is necessary that the Legislature have certain data concerning the financial operation of the State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the State Personnel Board is hereby directed to prepare and submit immediately to the Senate a report containing a complete list of the officers and employees of each and every office, department, board, bureau, commission and institution of the government of the State of California, said report being set up so as to show:

(1) The name of each such office, department, board, bureau, commission or institution.

(2) The names of each of its officers and regular employees of every kind and character, with the title of the position and the amount of monthly salary or wages paid such officers and employees; and be it further

Resolved, That said report shall be as of the date of the adoption of this resolution; and be it further

Resolved, That said report shall contain a statement with reference to each such office, department, board, bureau and institution, showing the number of persons engaged for temporary or emergency employment during the calendar year ending January 1, 1940, and the total amount expended on account of such temporary or emergency employment.

Resolution read, and on motion of Senator Collier adopted.

Report.

The following report by Senator Metzger, was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

Memorandum on State-Owned Automobiles.

An examination of the roster of state-owned automobiles prepared by the Department of Finance pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 17 discloses the following:

1. The summary indicates that the State owns and operates 2,286 passenger automobiles. The State Department of Motor Vehicles records show that there are some 5,200 diamond E license plates issued and that roughly 70 per cent represent passenger vehicles, the remainder being trucks and road equipment. It is evident that the roster compiled by the Department of Finance is incomplete. A cursory examination of this roster reveals that the automobiles owned and operated by the University of California and the seven State colleges are omitted.

2. Although the summary does not indicate any state-owned automobiles operated by the Governor's office, an examination of the list shows that the Department of Motor Vehicles has purchased two Cadillac sedans and one Buick sedan and assigned them to the Governor's office. Likewise, the State Relief Administration has assigned a Buick sedan to the Governor's office.

3. A Pontiac sedan purchased by the Department of Finance at a cost of $1,156 (License plate E27-27) is assigned to the Lieutenant Governor, although his official duties do not call for automobile transportation.

4. Several State officials whose duties confine them to Sacramento have state owned automobiles assigned to them.

5. The Director of Penology received an allocation of $1,637 from the Emergency Fund on June 30, 1939 (the last day transfers from 1937-39 Emergency Fund could be made) and bought a LaSalle, although it is questionable that this office requires this type of transportation.

Automobiles Used by Governor's Office.

During the 1939 session of the Legislature the Governor requested a considerable increase in the appropriation for the support of his office. He stated that his budget would be an honest one, implying that he would not borrow employees and equipment from other departments. An examination of the roster of state-owned automobiles prepared by the Department of Finance pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 17 does not indicate that the Governor's office has any automobiles, but the following vehicles purchased by other departments are assigned to the Governor:

Cadillac sedan, purchased on December 30, 1937, at cost of $3,660, bought by Department of Motor Vehicles.

Cadillac sedan, purchased on February 23, 1939, at cost of $4,130, bought by Department of Motor Vehicles.

Buick sedan, purchased on June 30, 1939, at cost of $2,569, bought by Department of Motor Vehicles.

Buick Sedan, purchased on December 23, 1938, at cost of $2,460, bought by State Relief Administration.

Respectfully submitted.

SENATOR METZGER.

Introduction, First Reading and Reference of Bills.

The following bill was introduced:

Senate Bill No. 82: By Senators Phillips, Biggar, Mixter and Crittenden—An act making an appropriation for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment and providing for the expenditure thereof in conjunction with the Federal Government for the distribution of surplus commodities, declaring the urgency thereof to take effect immediately.

Further Proceedings Under Call of the Senate Dispensed With.

At five o'clock and forty minutes p.m., further proceedings under the call of the Senate were dispensed with, on motion of Senator Seawell.

Message from the Governor.

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, February 23, 1940.

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate,
Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 81, entitled "An act making an appropriation for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment, providing the conditions and terms upon which any expenditure for such relief may be made and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately." My objections are:

As I pointed out in my message to this special session of the Legislature, the curtailment of WPA employment since June 1, 1939, and the operation of other uncontrollable factors have greatly increased the number of cases entitled to State relief. Regardless of this fact, the amount of the appropriation made in this bill of $12,200,000 for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment and the administration thereof until June 1, 1940, is about 19 per cent below actual expenditures for the same period of 1939. According to the estimates of the State Relief Administrator it will be necessary, if this bill becomes a law, to cut the relief allowances to those now on relief approximately 40 per cent below present budgetary allowances.

Present budget allowances now provide for relief on a mere subsistence basis. I can not approve a bill that will cut those allowances approximately 40 per cent and deny those dependent upon relief—some 369,000 persons, many of whom are women and children—the minimum necessities of existence.

I point out also that sufficient consideration appears not to have been given to the problems facing the State Relief Administration in the period between now and March 31. Under this bill the State Relief Administration is faced with the problem of not only carrying on relief, but of liquidating approximately 40 per cent of its program. According to the figures of the Relief Administrator, the administrative costs of direct relief in December was 15.1 per cent of about $5,500,000. Without the drastic reductions in the normal relief requirements, which this bill would impose, I would agree, as I recommended in my message, to a 15 per cent limitation on administrative costs. Under the provisions of Senate Bill No. 81 an increase in the percentage of administrative costs is made necessary although a 15 per cent limitation thereon is made. There are certain costs which can not be eliminated or reduced. In order to keep within that limit it may be necessary to reduce rents and personnel by as much as 50 per cent. Thirty days notice must be given on the cancellation of leases. Property and equipment must be moved in order to contract the program and reduce operating costs.

It may be necessary to serve notices of dismissal on half of the employees. Those who have been with the organization for six months or more are entitled to two weeks notice and accrued vacation time. It will be necessary to give notices of dismissal so that all accrued vacation time will have been paid out of the March pay roll.

The serving of notices of dismissal on 30 or 40 or 50 per cent of the personnel will inevitably cause great confusion. During this confusion and while offices and equipment are being moved, it will be necessary to go through 116,000 case files and adjust them to the new provisions of this act; such as provisions dealing with family budgets, aliens and the ownership of automobiles. It will not only be necessary to make adjustments based on changes in the present law, but it may be necessary to materially reduce the case load as well as to make horizontal cuts in relief budgets of as much as 40 per cent.

Another fundamental objection that I have to this bill is that it would, as is intended by its sponsors, defeat this administration's efforts to carry forward a program for the reemployment of persons on relief in public works projects, in the establishment of production projects and the development of self-help cooperatives, a program voted for by an overwhelming majority of the people as a sound, constructive method of solving the problem of unemployment relief and eventually doing away with the cash dole system, which places a heavy burden on the State and its tax resources.

As to other provisions of the act that are not related to the amount of the appropriation, sufficient consideration does not seem to have been given to families from other States who have lost their legal residence there, acquired legal residence here, and can not be returned to their State of origin.

Transportation costs may be provided to return those who have not lost their residence elsewhere but no provision is made for subsistence costs en route or subsistence costs while such families are awaiting the result of California's efforts to establish legal residence. The time required by other States to verify residence is a matter over which the relief administration has no control. It sometimes takes over 45 days to obtain verification of residence and consent to return.

It seems to me that any extension of the period of residence requirements should be effective at some future date and as a warning to the unemployed of other States that relief can not be obtained by establishing residence in California for less than the period fixed. Any such provision should be so qualified as not to deny relief to residents and citizens of this State who have become citizens and have been thrown out of employment, or have lost their investments since becoming California residents.

There are provisions in section 15 of the bill which I would strongly approve in any act, particularly subdivisions a, b, d and e. Such provisions are now being enforced as administrative policy. But provision c, and particularly provision f, impose restrictions on the rights and civil liberties of employees of the State Relief Administration that are not imposed upon employees of any other branch of the State Government and constitute, it seems to me, a serious interference with their fundamental civil liberties. Subdivision f, for instance, says that it shall be unlawful for any person employed in the Relief Administration to be an "active" member of political organization, or take an "active" part in political campaigns.

Is it "active" for any employee to attend a meeting of an organization to discuss economic or social questions that are involved in political campaigns? Is it "active" to discuss public issues or otherwise exercise the ordinary political rights of any citizen?

The word "active" is a relative term and may be interpreted to prevent the activity of attending any public meeting at which any public issue is discussed. What is "activity" as used in this bill? Do you know? Does anybody know? It seems to me that this provision, whatever its purpose, should not be enacted without a definition of the words "active" and "activity."

I would overlook these latter objections in the face of the present relief crisis, but the pronounced inadequacy for cash dole relief and the destruction of hope for reemployment, the loss to the State and to society, in terms of undernourished children, ill health, frustration, demoralization and crime, that this Senate Bill No. 81 would cause, are considerations so serious that I can not bring myself to a decision to approve it, however much I would like to be in accord with the final determination of a two-thirds vote of the Legislature on this or any other matter.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 21.

Relative to memorializing the members of the Congress of the United States from California in connection with losses sustained by poultry feed suppliers in connection with rural rehabilitation programs.

WHEREAS, The United States Farm Security Administration in its activities connected with the rehabilitation and resettlement of poultry raisers in this State has permitted, and to some extent caused, great loss to a number of suppliers of poultry feed; and

WHEREAS, Many poultry raisers were, at the time rural rehabilitation programs were instituted, indebted to suppliers of feed in varying sums both secured and unsecured; and

WHEREAS, As a part of the plan to rehabilitate the poultry raisers the feed suppliers were prevailed upon to forego their legal rights and to sign nondisturbance agreements on the promise of Government agents in charge that the old obligations of the poultrymen would be liquidated and new purchases promptly paid for; and

WHEREAS, In many instances the flocks of poultrymen were replenished by poultry purchased and delivered to them by Government agents as part of the program, and feed was furnished for such poultry by feed suppliers upon the urgent request of, and the express promise of payment by, the Government agent in charge; and

WHEREAS, In many instances, when feed suppliers tried to collect their mounting accounts, they were persuaded to continue to supply feed for the poultry involved upon the promise of the Government agents in charge that the United States of America would save them harmless and upon the assurance that the credit of the United States was good; and

WHEREAS, The program of rehabilitating small farmers and poultry raisers through establishing or continuing them in the poultry raising business has proved, in great part, to have been a failure; and

WHEREAS, Certain of Government agents in charge of such rehabilitation programs have been discharged from the service and their promises and agreements repudiated; and

WHEREAS, The greatest item of the cost of raising poultry is in obtaining feed supplies, and in many instances poultry feed has been supplied in connection with such programs and has not been paid for; and

WHEREAS, The result has been and is that the suppliers of poultry feed are faced with a great loss, incurred through no fault of their own, and due to their willingness to cooperate with the Farm Security Administration and the agents thereof; and

WHEREAS, It appears proper that the foregoing conditions be called to the attention of the members of the Congress of the United States from California; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and the Senate of the State of California, jointly. That the Legislature of the State of California hereby memorializes the members of the Congress of the United States from California to investigate the matters referred to in this resolution and, after such investigation, to take such steps and proceedings, by legislation or otherwise, as shall appear appropriate to make restitution to the feed suppliers of this State who have sustained loss by reason of the matters set forth in this resolution; and be it further

Resolved. That the chief clerk of the Assembly is hereby instructed to transmit copies of this resolution to each member in the Congress of the United States from the State of California.

WHEREAS, The Governor in his proclamation convening this Legislature in extraordinary session has specified among the subjects which have created or which bear upon this extraordinary occasion: The need for the appropriation and expenditure of moneys for unemployment relief (Item 1), a need for a State agency to undertake slum clearance and provide dwelling accommodations for persons of low income (Item 7), a need for extension of aid by public bodies to housing projects undertaken pursuant to the California State Housing Authority Law (Item 8), a need for soil conservation and the control of run-off and prevention of soil erosion (Item 12), a need for legislation fostering extension of the public use of tax deeded lands and also the restoration of tax deeded lands to private use, cultivation and production (Item 35), a need for legislation relating to advertising and sales promotion in connection with marketing orders for agricultural commodities in furtherance of increased sale and consumption of such commodities (Item 13), and a need for legislation providing revenues and means for the collection thereof for the State Government (Item 2), and His Excellency has elaborated thereon in his message delivered to the Legislature January 29, 1940; and it would appear that each of these asserted needs springs out of factors which point to fundamental underlying conditions affecting gainful enterprise and employment which demand intensive study and analysis if the Legislature is to discharge its responsibility of taking the best possible considered action upon and seeking the most nearly complete solution of the several problems embraced within these various subjects specified in the proclamation; now, therefore, be it

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 6. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

The Golden Gate International Exposition in 1940 is scheduled to open on May 25, 1940, and in order to enable the State to participate in and to secure the success of the exposition it is necessary that expenditures by the California Commission for the Golden Gate International Exposition commence immediately. The holding of the exposition in 1940 will cause large numbers of persons from other States and from other parts of the world to visit California, and the expenditures for food, shelter, transportation and pleasure by such visitors will immediately increase the prosperity of the State, provide employment for many residents in this State, and correspondingly will decrease hardship and destitution among its inhabitants. Unless this act takes effect immediately and expenditures commence forthwith it will be impossible for the exposition to reopen, which would not only result indirectly in continued unemployment for many persons but would involve disastrous losses to creditors of the exposition held in 1939.

Third Reading of Assembly Bills (Resumed).

Assembly Bill No. 72—An act to create a joint legislative committee to study, investigate, survey and report to the Legislature regarding motor vehicles, including needed changes in the laws relating thereto, the enforcement of existing laws and the safe operation of vehicles upon the public highways, and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of this act, to take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 7. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the State Constitution and shall, therefore, go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

A swelling stream of traffic over the highways of this State has created problems that require an early solution.

Traffic accidents have increased to alarming proportions, reckless and careless driving have taken a huge and appalling toll in life and property, traffic law enforcement has become more and more complicated. In desperation citizens everywhere are calling out to the Legislature for succor and relief.

The gravity of the situation necessitates a thorough study and complete investigation of its underlying causes, on the basis of which this Legislature can act wisely and judiciously in framing corrective legislation in 1941. As a consequence, and because the time remaining for such study and investigation is so short, it is imperative that this act go into effect at the earliest possible date.

The following communication was received, read, and on motion of Senator Seawell ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS,
SACRAMENTO, February 24, 1940.

*To the Senate of the State of California,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

Subject: Senate Resolution No. 19.

GENTLEMEN: On February 8, 1940, a copy of Senate Resolution No. 19, relative to Chapter 670, Statutes of 1939, was received by Mr. Frank W. Clark, Director of Public Works. This resolution requested a complete and detailed report upon past and proposed activities of the Division of Water Resources in aid of the construction of the Central Valley Project, pursuant not only to Chapter 670, but to funds currently available for the same purposes from any other source.

In compliance with the request contained in the Senate Resolution, Director Clark on February 14, 1940, transmitted to the Secretary of the Senate, a report thereon, accompanied by several exhibits. The letter transmitting this report was printed in the Senate Journal of February 16. On February 19, the Senate Journal contains a report by Senator Metzger, entitled "Audit of report submitted by Department of Public Works pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 19." This audit critically reviews the report of the Department of Public Works and concludes with the statement: "In brief, the report does not comply with Senate Resolution No. 19."

The report in question was prepared under the direction of the undersigned. With the approval of Director Clark there are submitted herein comments on the audit prepared by Senator Metzger, in order to correct inaccurate and misleading statements contained therein, and to set the true facts before the Senate.

It is herein contended that the report submitted by the Department of Public Works does comply fully and adequately with the requests contained in that resolution.

The resolution requests:

(a) A statement of the efforts in aid of the construction of the Central Valley Project prosecuted by the Division of Water Resources pursuant to Chapter 670, Statutes of 1939, from the effective date thereof to the date of the adoption of this resolution.

(b) A statement of the efforts presently being prosecuted, and

(c) also the efforts proposed to be prosecuted for the remainder of the biennium.

(d) A statement showing the total amount expended by the Division of Water Resources in carrying out the provisions of Chapter 670, Statutes of 1939;

(e) the specific purposes for which such expenditures were made and whether such expenditures were made from the appropriation contained in said chapter or from any other source (emphasis supplied);

(f) the unexpended balance of the appropriation made by Chapter 670, Statutes of 1939;

(g) the amount of any other money currently available to carry out the provisions thereof, (emphasis supplied);

(h) and so far as may be, the particular amounts for particular purposes proposed to be expended during the remainder of the biennium;

(i) that an itemized statement be rendered concerning budgeted amounts in connection with Chapter 670 of the Statutes of 1939.

The answer to item (a) above is set forth fully and in detail in the report of the Department of Public Works, pages 8 to 14, inclusive. The answer to item (b) is given in page 15 of that report by reference to particular items contained in the answer to item (a). The answer to item (c) is contained in a program of work contained in Exhibit 8 of the report.

The answers to the requests contained in items (d), (e), (f), and (g), above, are set forth fully in Exhibits 6 and 7 of the report, to which reference is made. The information requested in item (h) is set forth in detail in Exhibit 8 of the same report. The foregoing matters are summarized and fully explained in the report itself, pages 2 to 7, inclusive.

In regard to the request contained in item (i) above, the funds appropriated by Chapter 670 were budgeted with funds available from the support item of the budget of the Division of Water Resources and the funds which may be made available from the Central Valley Project Construction Fund. The latter two funds are or would be available for the same purposes as those which were appropriated for Chapter 670; that is, for the objects and purposes of the Central Valley Project Act of 1933, as amended, and would be utilized in performing work as set forth in the program approved by the Water Project Authority on January 24, 1940. For this reason, it was deemed unnecessary for budget purposes to segregate the funds appropriated by Chapter 670 from other funds available for the same purposes.

Therefore, a careful examination of Senate Resolution No. 19 and of the report of the Department of Public Works shows that the report complies with the requests contained in the resolution.

Consideration will now be given to the audit by Senator Metzger, contained in the Journal of February 19.

The audit states that the resolution was directed to obtain the answers to three questions as follows:

- (1) How much of the $100,000 appropriation has been expended to date?
- (2) For what purposes was the money expended in carrying out the intentions of the appropriation?
- (3) What plans have been made with respect to spending the balance of the appropriation?

It is submitted at the outset that the resolution itself states what is desired in the report and that other information besides the above three items noted was wanted, including data relative to funds other than those available under Chapter 670. Therefore, the report went into detail and answered many more questions than the three enumerated above.

The audit states that question No. 1, as listed, was answered.

As to question No. 2, with respect to what the money was spent for, the audit states that the report does not answer the question concerning the exact purposes for which $24,932 was spent. Answering this point, the report gives in Exhibit 7 a complete and accurate financial statement to February 1, 1940, of all funds expended under Chapter 670. It shows each and every employee by months and all expenses other than payroll are also shown in detail. Also, pursuant to the resolution, all expenditures for the same purposes from funds other than Chapter 670, are shown in Exhibit 6 in similar detail. Likewise in the text of the report itself, pages 8 to 14, inclusive, is given a complete statement of work performed by the Division of Water Resources from July 1, 1939, to February 1, 1940, with the funds provided by Chapter 670, and from other sources available for the purpose of furthering the Central Valley Project. Therefore, it is submitted that the report fully and adequately complies with the request of the resolution in these particulars.

The audit in commenting on question No. 3 as to future plans states that the report is vague and that question No. 3 is answered only in part and then only in general terms. This statement is entirely unsupported by the facts. Exhibit 8 of the report sets forth in considerable detail the exact program to be followed for the remainder of the biennium with funds available from Chapter 670 and other funds. It is supported by a complete budget and organization chart showing all positions, both present and proposed. This program, with the exception of one item, was approved by the Water Project Authority at its meeting on January 24, 1940. It is a complete statement and fully complies with the request in the resolution.

Following the comment on these three questions the audit states:

"An examination of the report discloses certain inconsistencies and administrative neglect in carrying out the provisions of Chapter 670."

Four items are cited.

Item 1 states that none of the appropriation was used to finance trips to Washington, D. C. This statement is irrelevant since such trips are not mentioned in Chapter 670 nor in the resolution.

Item 2 states that most of the funds expended from Chapter 670 were used to pay the salaries of regular employees of the Division of Water Resources, and that but two new positions were added since July 1, 1939. This statement is irrelevant. The work was carried forward with regular as well as new employees from the standpoint of highest efficiency.

Item 3 states that two reports, Nos. 11 and 14, are dated June and May, 1939, and therefore could not have been financed from Chapter 670. These engineering reports were submitted merely as typical of the large number of reports put out in this period and while it is true that they carry the dates of May and June, 1939, they were in fact completed after July 1, 1939. Report No. 11 was transmitted to the Bureau of Reclamation on August 17, 1939, and No. 14 on July 22, 1939. Another report, No. 13, was completed and transmitted to the Bureau of Reclamation on September 7, 1939. These reports were completed from funds of Chapter 670 as shown by the records of this office. In addition other reports were prepared entirely from Chapter 670 funds.

Item 4 is a repetition of the criticism under Question 3, regarding the future plans and concludes "The Department has not set forth its plans for spending the balance of the appropriation contained in Chapter 670." This is fully answered under Question 3. The plans are clearly and completely set forth in the report.

Particular exception is taken to the conclusions of the audit, which states that the report does not contain a concise statement showing the exact accomplishments resulting from funds expended from Chapter 670, or what is expected to be accomplished in the future therefrom, and finally that the report does not comply with Senate Resolution No. 19. All of these points have been previously answered herein. The report is further criticised in the conclusions of the audit because it presents a voluminous mass of detail relating to Central Valley Project activities in general. In order to make a report thoroughly responsive to the resolution it was necessary to submit much detail. This was done in the report, which accurately and faithfully portrays the entire situation.

It is submitted that the audit of February 19, by Senator Metzger, is incorrect or irrelevant on most points; that its main criticisms are entirely unsupported by the facts, and that a careful review of this report of the Department of Public Works will show that the report presents the facts accurately and completely, and does fully comply with Senate Resolution No. 19.

Very sincerely yours,

EDWARD HYATT,
State Engineer.

APPROVED:

FRANK W. CLARK,
Director of Public Works.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE,
SACRAMENTO, February 26, 1940.

*Honorable Members of the Senate, State of California,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

GENTLEMEN: On page 344 of the Senate Journal of February 23 appears the following statement in a memorandum submitted to the Senate by Senator D. Jack Metzger:

"The summary indicates that the State owns and operates 2,286 passenger automobiles. The State Department of Motor Vehicles records show that there are some 5,200 Diamond E license plates issued and that roughly 70 per cent represent passenger vehicles, the remainder being trucks and road equipment. It is evident that the roster compiled by the Department of Finance is incomplete. A cursory examination of this roster reveals that the automobiles owned and operated by the University of California and the seven State colleges are omitted."

The statement of Senator Metzger is so grossly inaccurate that I am sending this communication to you that you may have the correct facts.

We have an exact copy of the statement furnished by the State Department of Motor Vehicles to Senator Metzger. This statement reveals that 5,370 of the exempt permanent Diamond E plates issued to state-owned motor vehicles from the period of January 1, 1938, to February 22, 1940, still appear on the current records of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The California Vehicle Code, since January 1, 1938, provides that all state-owned vehicles shall be issued permanent license plates and that such plates shall not be replaced at renewal periods at the beginning of each calendar year. The list furnished to Senator Metzger by the Department of Motor Vehicles does not give effect to State automobiles which may have been traded in on the purchase of new cars since January, 1938, and which still remain in the hands of the dealers to whom the cars were sold. The list neither takes into account state-owned vehicles which may have been dismantled by automobile wrecking concerns nor automobiles which may have been stolen or destroyed by fire. Until a state-owned vehicle is sold to someone not entitled to Diamond E plates, the Department of Motor Vehicles makes no change in the list of Diamond E plates issued.

Senator Metzger in his memorandum stated that "The State Department of Motor Vehicles records show that there are some 5,200 Diamond E license plates issued and that roughly 70 per cent represent passenger vehicles." The list furnished to Senator Metzger by the Department of Motor Vehicles shows that there are 5,370 Diamond E plates issued during the period above mentioned which are still in use. By actual count the list reveals that 2,229 plates issued during that period and still in effect, were for passenger vehicles, or 49 per cent. 49 per cent is in sharp contrast to the "roughly 70 per cent" stated by Senator Metzger.

Senator Metzger in his memorandum stated that the "roster compiled by the Department of Finance is incomplete" for the reason that passenger automobiles operated by the seven State colleges and the University of California are omitted.

The seven State colleges own no passenger vehicles and, therefore, the list is not incomplete in this respect.

With reference to the University of California, the Department of Finance is without information regarding the financial affairs or operation of the university. Neither the Legislature, nor any other State agency, has any control over the activities of the University of California. The University of California "is a public trust to be administered by a corporation known as the Regents of the University of California." This corporation has full power of organization and government and is vested with legal title and management of the property of the university and the property held for its benefit, including the disposal of such property.

Purchases made by the University of California are not made through the Bureau of Purchases of the Department of Finance. The University of California was created by direct vote of the people of this State, and in no sense, is it a "State agency" as that term applies to agencies which are administered by elected officials or agencies which have been created by the Legislature.

Having no records regarding the affairs of the University of California, the Department of Finance furnished none pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 177.

Yours very truly,

JOHN R. RICHARDS,
Director of Finance.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

CALIFORNIA HIGHWAY COMMISSION,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, March 21, 1940.

Mr. Joseph A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate.
Balboa, California.

DEAR SIR: This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of February 21, 1940, transmitting Senate Resolution No. 28 relative to the naming of the Funston Avenue approach to the Golden Gate Bridge as "Doyle Drive."

The purport of the resolution was that the Senate would cooperate with the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District in requesting the Department of Public Works and the California Highway Commission to name that portion of Highway Route 56 lying between Funston Avenue and Lake Street in the City and County of San Francisco and the Marina Approach to the Golden Gate Bridge in said City and County of San Francisco "Doyle Drive."

In a letter to Mr. C. H. Purcell, State Highway Engineer, Mr. K. A. Godwin, Regional Director of PWA, at San Francisco, said:

"Will you please refer to the original Offer dated August 13, 1938, accepted by the State of California on August 19, 1938. This Offer states that it is made 'subject to the Terms and Conditions (PWA Form No. 230, as amended to the date of this Offer).' Form No. 230, Part IV, Construction Terms and Conditions, Section 23, states as follows:

'NAMING PROJECT.—The Applicant will not name the Project for any living person.'

Inasmuch as I understand that Mr. Frank P. Doyle is a living person, this project can not be named in his honor. Any attempt to do so may jeopardize further grant payments."

There seems to be no direct statutory authority for the naming of State highways by the Department of Public Works or the California Highway Commission. So far as I know, no State highways have ever been named in that manner. The Legislature, itself, by statute has named many of our highways. This would seem to be the proper procedure.

May I respectfully request that this information be laid before the Senate at its next session.

Very sincerely yours,

BYRON N. SCOTT, Secretary.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD,
SACRAMENTO, May 13, 1940.

*Mr. Joseph A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR MR. BEEK: In compliance with Senate Resolution No. 30 adopted February 23, 1940, I transmit herewith two copies of a report, in ten volumes, containing

(1) A complete list of officers and employees regularly engaged in each State agency, together with their titles and the amount of monthly salary or wages, such list being as of the date of the resolution, and

(2) A statement showing the number of persons engaged for temporary or emergency employment during the calendar year ending January 1, 1940, and the total amount expended on account of such temporary or emergency employment.

In listing the regular employees as of the date of Senate Resolution No. 30, we have included all persons regularly and permanently employed, whether on a full time or part time basis. We have not included as of that date employees who were then on the State payroll but for temporary or irregular employment.

The report as to temporary employment covers all persons engaged during the calendar year 1939 who were employed under any of the three categories provided in the civil service law; namely, (1) limited term certification from an eligible list, (2) temporary appointment in the absence of an eligible list, or (3) emergency appointments for periods not to exceed fifteen days, and also short time employments in agencies exempt from civil service.

Very truly yours,

LOUIS J. KROEGER,
Executive Officer.

Request for Permission to Offer a Senate Concurrent Resolution.

The following request for permission to offer a Concurrent Resolution was presented:

By Senator Parkman:

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, May 13, 1940.

MR. PRESIDENT: In accordance with the provisions of the standing rules of the Senate, I request permission to offer a Concurrent Resolution, the title of which is set forth below:

Approving five certain amendments to the charter of the City of Redwood City, State of California, ratified by the qualified electors of said city at a general municipal election held therein on the ninth day of April, 1940.

Respectfully submitted.

SENATOR PARKMAN.

Request referred to Committee on Rules.

Report.

The following reports of special committee were received, read, and on motion of Senator Phillips ordered printed in the Journal:

Report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment.

May 13, 1940.

To the Members of the California Legislature.

Your Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Employment, appointed under the terms of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 10, of the Special Session, submits herewith the first two parts of its report.

The Committee has in its hands a great mass of material, some of the most important of which has only recently been received, and some of which will be supported by statements and figures not yet ready.

If we were to wait and submit all parts at one time, it is doubtful if the report could be ready this week.

The Committee has decided instead to issue the report in parts, as these are ready. Part I contains the general recommendations of the Committee, and Part II contains the general statement. Other parts will follow.

The Committee finds that the Legislature faces four alternatives in acting upon employment, unemployment, and relief, in this reconvened special session. These alternatives are as follows:

1. Enactment of a permanent plan for administration and financing of all public assistance. This would include the basic principles of complete integration of all welfare and relief activities into one consolidated program, with county administration under limited State supervision, and with joint State-county financing of costs. Enactment of such legislation requires closer cooperation than now prevails between the legislative and executive branches of the State Government, the first step of which must be a broadening of the official "call" to permit consideration of this type of legislation. This plan was contemplated when the Legislature adjourned in June, 1939, to reconvene in special session.

2. Passage of Assembly Bill No. 105 over the Executive veto.

3. Enactment of a new bill also based on the county supervision of relief, with such changes as the interim investigation has found desirable.

4. Enactment of a new bill, based upon and extending the main provisions of Senate Bill No. 81, continuing the present program, together with an appropriation until the Legislature next convenes.

Alternatives 1, 2 and 3 also require a supplemental appropriation bill.

The undersigned members of the Committee approve the findings and the recommendations in Parts I and II.

Part One.

Recommendations.

In presenting its recommendations for a coordinated program, the Joint Legislative Fact-finding Committee on Employment—to which was assigned the study of the relief situation in California—makes this preliminary observation:

The complexity of the situation and the rapidity with which it has grown to be the major problem in California, have resulted in what can only be called muddled thinking. We have lost sight of basic principles. Constant reiteration of the gravity of the relief situation has obscured the fact that relief is a single phase of the problem of unemployment.

Removing the now recognized relief difficulties would leave the unemployment problem still unsolved. Removing unemployment, on the other hand, would eliminate much of the need for relief, except for indigency due to old age; the loss of one or both parents; disease, and similar conditions preventing self-support.

The committee emphasizes that the major question with which the Legislature has to deal is the problem of unemployment.

The committee offers the following recommendations:

I.

Reorganization Program.

The committee advocates the complete reorganization of all functions of State government dealing with employment, unemployment, and State aid of every type. Under this program, a director of a new Department of Employment would correlate and direct all these affiliated activities. Responsible to him would be division heads in charge of the following divisions:

- (a) Division of Aid to the Aged, Blind and Dependent Children;
- (b) Division of Employment, including or coordinating the work of the State Employment Service;
- (c) Division of Unemployment Insurance, taking over or coordinating the functions of the present California Employment Commission;
- (d) Division of Direct Relief, supervising and coordinating the activities of the County Welfare departments if the administration of relief is returned to the counties, or conducting State administration if the State government retains direct relief, and carrying on, in either case, such functions (for example, single men's camps) as may be placed with the department by legislative action.
- (e) Division of Cooperatives, supervising all self-help organizations.

Director of Employment.

The Director of Employment must be the most capable man obtainable, and his compensation should be fixed by the Legislature commensurate with the importance of the job he is given to do. The committee emphasizes the necessity of finding an executive of exceptional ability and special qualifications. He should be appointed by the Governor, subject to a two-thirds approval by the Senate.

The appointment of a competent Director of Employment would bring the good business management essential in the solution of the unemployment problem.

Elimination of Certain Existing Commissions.

With the creation of a Department of Employment, the State Relief Commission, the State Social Welfare Commission and the Unemployment Reserves Commission will go out of existence and their functions, jurisdictions and powers will be transferred to the Director of Employment.

Detailed Recommendations Should Be Unnecessary.

The committee could make detailed recommendations relative to changes and improvements in almost every function and division of the State Relief Administration. It is apparent, however, that abolishing the present SRA, which was created as an emergency agency of State Government, and placing its functions under regularly established departments, or the creation of the Department of Employment, already recommended, would cure most of these minor difficulties. The Legislature has the power to effect such a reorganization. It can be done at the next regular session, or with the cooperation of the Administration, it could be done when the Legislature reconvenes on May 13th.

Extension of Public Works.

The committee suggests that it should be possible for the State and the counties to create work at a wage fair to the unemployed but not so attractive as wages in private employment.

Projects undertaken on this basis would (1) permit the State and counties to acquire physical improvements; (2) benefit the unemployed by providing them with work at wages higher than the dole; (3) benefit private enterprise by stimulating private employment through large scale purchases of material and increased purchasing power of those employed on these projects.

State work should be handled, the committee believes, under the Department of Public Works, the Department of Natural Resources, the Department of Education, the Department of Agriculture, or any regularly constituted department capable of supplying work of this kind. County work should be handled by such county agencies as are provided by law. Such work should not be confused with, nor designated as, "relief work."

II.*Mobilization for Employment.

The major factor in solving California's relief problem must be a "Mobilization for Employment."

Mobilization for employment can be made a reality in California. Business will support such a plan on tangible and practical grounds. Research to develop new products, new markets, and consequently new jobs must be expanded, and in this the State, which hitherto has done little or nothing, must become an aggressive leader.

Business must be made to understand the choice is between cooperation and taxation; between mobilization to meet an emergency as serious as war, and moral and financial bankruptcy.

Mobilization for employment can be California's contribution to the solution of an aggravated national problem.

Successful in Another State.

Reports have come to the committee that such a mobilization, started recently in Pennsylvania, is showing successful results. Under the direction of the president of one of the State's most successful businesses, the drive to provide jobs, and to interest business men, is reaching into every part of the State. No emotional plea, no appeal to sympathies, has been made; it is a cold business-like solution to the problem. The committee recommends that the Legislature keep constantly in touch with the Pennsylvania mobilization.

III.

Return Relief Administration to the Counties.

The local supervision of direct relief must, under any businesslike reorganization, be placed in the hands of the local agencies of government. The committee recommends supervision by the county welfare departments. These departments already handle the categorical aids, under general coordination rules established by the State. Logic suggests that the only phase of individual or family aid now administered by the State, direct relief, also should be turned over to the counties. They are equipped to handle it. The California school system, operating under a similar system, has a national reputation.

In making this recommendation the first consideration must be the welfare of the unemployed, who benefit from local knowledge and interest, but the saving in dollars and cents is important. It is increasingly apparent to the committee also, that only by local supervision will the subversive trends, fostered by the present system, and discussed elsewhere in this report, be halted.

In the bill now awaiting action on the Governor's veto, provision is made for local supervision of the administration of relief by the counties. Whether the transfer is made by passing Assembly Bill No. 105 over the executive veto or by enactment of a redrafted measure, local supervision should replace centralized administration.

Present Regulations Unsatisfactory.

The statement has been frequently made by those who oppose the idea of local supervision of relief, that this would result in "58 different kinds of relief administration." The committee finds that there is no hard and fast regulation at the present time. The SRA administration imposes its regulations upon its county directors, many of whom interpret these to suit themselves. On the other hand, the committee has heard complaints that the present regulations, as imposed upon case workers, are too severe. In the past a case worker was given a reasonable power of decision in individual cases. Thus cases in different areas of the State could be handled according to conditions in those areas, and some distinction could be made between families accustomed to lower or higher standards of living.

Today, rigorous and inelastic regulations appear to apply at this point, while on the other hand, regulations which might justly be expected to be observed, are administered with great elasticity by directors, district supervisors, and case workers. This confirms the feeling of the committee that local supervision will bring advantages.

"Employables and Unemployables."

In the opinions of the members of the committee, there is no more meaningless distinction, nor any better evidence of the impracticality of present methods in relief, than the attempt to set an arbitrary line between those who are "unemployable unemployed" and those who are "employable unemployed." Admitting that the distinction grew from the desire of the counties to protect themselves against the responsibility for cases which the State should accept, and thus against increasing taxation, under a permanent plan of meeting the problem of unemployment, this distinction must go.

An unemployed farmer in the metropolitan area may be as "unemployable" as the inexperienced citizen of the city would be on the farm, and the measures of employability must be, first, the physical condition, age, and similar characteristics of the unemployed applicant for help, and second, the availability of work of any kind which the applicant can do. Under a reconstructed system, all unemployed men and women would pass through a well organized intake point, and be assigned or cared for on the factors mentioned above. A simplification of the handling of applicants at the intake is recommended by the committee. Under such a system, not only would all forms of State aid be considered in setting up the standards and limitations of aid to any one family, but the division of costs between county and State would be made on some formula, established by legislative action, and after preliminary trial.

Subvention by the State.

All bills so far discussed in regular or special sessions have contemplated increased State aid to the counties. The percentage division between State and county has not been settled, nor can it be settled by this committee. Assurance has always been given that the cost of direct relief, under any plan contemplating local supervision, will not be more than the amount paid by the counties for the present indigent and categorical aids. Adjustments may be necessary; the plan expects economy and good business management in the counties, but certainly, if the committee's suggestions are adopted, employment can be increased, and relief given in California to all who are honestly entitled to public assistance, at materially less cost than at present, and with greater thought for those in need. The committee suggests an experimental period, during which the State will make outright subventions to the counties, with the later adoption of a plan based on the experiences of this experimental period.

The committee recommends that in the adoption of any integrated plan, a definite time limit be set, within which supervision must be returned to the local units.

Limitations of the Proclamation.

The recommendations of this report cover integration, or reorganization of the handling of the employment problem, at both State and county levels. A complete plan is impossible under the terms of the Governor's proclamation of January 29th. It is urged that the Administration, realizing the seriousness of the situation, will issue a new proclamation so as to make the more complete reorganization possible. If this is not done, the committee recommends the passage of a bill embodying as many features of the complete plan as can be passed under the present proclamation, with the understanding that the plan will be completed in the next regular session.

An Alternative Plan.

If the Legislature decides that the administration of relief shall remain with the State, even temporarily, the necessary appropriation should be passed and further restrictions placed upon the administration of direct relief by the State, so that the money appropriated for "the relief of destitution due to unemployment" shall reach those for whom it is intended. Some of these restrictions are suggested in the supplement to the committee's report.

IV.

Civil Service.

Under a reorganization program, civil service would apply in the Department of Employment and its divisions.

This does not imply indorsement by the committee of the so-called merit system which the Federal Government, under doubtful authority, is attempting to impose upon the counties at the present time.

The committee subscribes to the principles of local government, under proper State regulation but recommends extreme caution on the part of the Legislature against being led astray by an argument that State subventions necessarily carry with them State control, or that uniformity can only be secured through strict State "supervision."

A stand must be made against "legislation by regulations," which is contrary to the intent of the State and Federal Constitutions, and against increasing bureaucracy.

The committee recommends legislation authorizing the courts to prevent unwarranted and illegal State interference with local authority.

V.

Committee's Work Must Be Continued.

The work of the committee remains unfinished.

Numerous questions have not been investigated, because of insufficient time. These are referred to in a separate appendix. The committee should be continued or another similar committee appointed to help complete a practical employment program.

Legislation is the function of the Senate and the Assembly, not of the Governor, nor of any of his department heads. The Legislature should, through its own members keep in touch with the developments of this program, and be advised by its own committees regarding legislative changes and additions.

The committee also places before both houses of the Legislature, the statement that should this committee be discharged, and no similar committee be created, we can expect, from experience, nothing less than unjust demotion and dismissal of many State employees who gave aid in any way to the committee in making the investigation.

The Legislature could also expect the same campaign against the members of both Senate and Assembly who have not accepted the Administration's dictatorial program, as was recorded in the Orange County transcript (H-13) and in public addresses by the Administration. Unsigned campaign material was issued by the SRA office in Orange County containing entirely erroneous statements, directed against the representatives from that county. The reply of the witness when shown the errors, that he was still of the same opinion, is evidence of what the Legislature may expect.

Prior to the passage of Senate Bill No. 81, a Public Relations Division in the SRA had for its purpose a propaganda program of bulletins, circulars, radio speeches and newspaper releases at a monthly cost of thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money which had been appropriated by the Legislature for the unemployed men and women of California.

Suggestions Considered by Committee.

Citizens and organizations have suggested to the committee various additions to the regulations to be placed in relief bills. These have included publishing or posting the names of recipients of relief, and fingerprinting all recipients of relief as a routine matter and for the protection of the applicant as well as for cooperation between the State and its peace authorities.

The plan of requiring relief recipients to turn in their automobile license plates except under extraordinary circumstances, presumably in connection with employment, has also been recommended.

The committee recognizes that these would be severe methods of controlling relief. The committee does not make them as recommendations. It does, however, ask the Legislature to think of the historical fact that no nation has reached the unemployment situation already reached in California, and has attempted to solve it, without eventually taking stronger steps, and in most instances taking the vote from its unfortunate citizens. The committee prefers to believe that the proper administration of relief would make such recommendations unnecessary.

VI.

Continue Study of Alien Problem.

We recommend that the restrictions written into Senate Bill No. 81 regarding aliens be written into subsequent bills passed by the Legislature and that the problem have further study. The seriousness of the problem is indicated by the fact that in January, 1940, 15,508 aliens were on relief, and that in April, 1940, as a result of the restrictions in Senate Bill No. 81 this number had been reduced to 13,447 which represents approximately 16% of the relief case load. The Legislature, in 1937, called attention to the fact that California taxpayers paid $5,000,000 per year for the relief of aliens. It is the belief of the committee that the alien problem is essentially a Federal problem. It has become a State problem largely because of the failure of the Federal Government to assume its responsibility. We need Federal cooperation.

VII.

Establish Five-Year Residential Requirements.

Under an integral program, we recommend that the present rule requiring three years residence in California before direct relief may be granted, be raised to five years. This regulation would then conform to the residence requirements for aged aid which have been approved by the Federal Government. Residential requirements for all categorical aids should receive consideration and study in an integral program because we find many instances of abuse and discrepancies.

VIII.

Clear Relief Applications Through Credit Agency.

We recommend to the SRA or to the counties the clearing of accepted applications through private credit agencies in the same manner as commercial or financial credit applications are cleared.

Part Two.*Explanatory Report.

The members of the Joint Legislative Committee on Employment offer no panacea for unemployment.

Two months work on the part of seventeen legislators in all parts of California emphasizes the complexity of the problem.

There is no easy way out of the difficulty. The problem is shared in varying degrees by every State, but affects California peculiarly because of a proportionately large population of indigent migrants and because California is a proving ground of radical and subversive plans to make political use of unemployed. While the problem is complex, it can and will be solved, not in a day, but more rapidly than had hitherto been believed.

Problem Will Be Solved.

The unemployment problem of California can be solved by a determination to solve it. The solution will not come from those who preach cynical defeatism to further class hatreds, nor from pessimists who view democracy with despair.

There is little if any indication that a proper solution will come from the present State Administration.

The Administration is using the State Relief Administration for the creation of a partisan political machine. The SRA is being administered under conditions of incompetency, with internal disruption and discord, by men and women in executive positions who are unsuited to the duties assigned them. These officials, many of whom have neither the background nor the ability to administer the positions held, are hampered by political dictation, and morale is low. Political considerations are controlling factors in decisions on SRA policy and personnel.

A Start Has Been Made.

The solution will be founded upon fundamental American traditions of economy, honesty, individual effort, and sincere cooperation in working out a problem of the commonwealth. The Legislature made a start through enactment last February of Senate Bill No. 81.

The committee's belief that emphasis should be placed on employment rather than on relief is supported from a source which the majority of the members of the Legislature have on occasion sharply criticized, the Workers Alliance.

Workers Alliance Confirms Analysis.

Testifying before the subcommittee headed by Assemblyman A. C. Wollenberg, in Monterey, on March 20, 1940, J. W. Patterson, chairman of the grievance committee of the local Workers Alliance, in response to a request made the following general statement: (W-2 page 11, official transcript)

"We have studied this problem from every angle and we feel that the biggest mistake they (the State Relief Administration) made is the fact that they are dealing with it as a social problem. We don't feel that it is a social problem—it is an unemployment problem. I think that 90 per cent of all our trouble is the fact that some of the people try to deal strictly on the basis of a social problem, and it is not.

"If it was approached from that angle * * * there would never be any necessity to have a grievance from any organization."

Again, Mr. Patterson said: (Page 12 of transcript)

"It is a problem of unemployment, and they approach it from the social angle, and they are supposed to go into the home and try to rehabilitate a man who has lost a job, and all that kind of stuff * * *

"This is not a social problem, it is an unemployment problem, and we feel that if they would try to spend time to work it out, it wouldn't be necessary to have this namby-pamby social idea—that is never going to settle the problem of relief."

Mr. Patterson's statement quite evidently does not represent the general viewpoint of the Workers Alliance as an organization, but the committee submits that volumes could not state the problem more succinctly.

New Approach Is Needed.

Unemployment is a relatively new problem in the United States. Yet no American is unaffected by it. No American interested in the welfare of his Government and the preservation of American liberties can ignore its involvements. No American can tolerate the suggestion that the problem is too big to be solved in the American way by the absorption of unemployed men and women into a revitalized American economy.

The committee offers no apologies for its refusal to join those who blandly offer guaranteed "cures" for unemployment. Such schemes are worse than the condition they would fail to correct, because they tend to array class against class.

Subversive Influences at Work.

Proponents of these schemes are deliberately working, more or less openly, toward a revolution. Others, less vicious in their purposes but equally dangerous because of ignorance, unwittingly are lending the cause of revolution their names and reputations. Despite repeated statements to the contrary from the Administration, the SRA is being used for the development of the Communist program.

Under pressure from the Legislature, the SRA has been rid of a few Communists and fellow-travelers, but more remain. The Legislature and the public have been misled into believing that this clean-up was drastic and far-reaching.

Communists, fellow-travelers and the so-called "intelligentsia" still hold responsible positions in the SRA, and exert a disrupting influence that permeates the entire structure.

Through the State, County and Municipal Workers Association of America within, and the Workers Alliance without, the SRA has been subjected to intensive radical pressure. Such pressure has no place in a democracy. These two organizations, sympathetic in viewpoint and objective, enable relief recipient members to obtain preferred treatment, and assist SRA employees who are members to obtain promotions, higher pay and immunity from administrative regulation.

In general, conditions resulting from unemployment have been seized upon by subversive forces to further their cause. The weak handling of the SRA has made this a fertile field.

An Administration Smoke Screen.

Lack of sincerity of the State Administration has been shown by its response to the public demand that communistic and subversive influences be eliminated from the SRA. Dismissals have been made with a reluctance that leaves no doubt as to where the sympathies of the Administration actually lie, and even those dropped from one department when the spotlight of publicity makes this necessary, sometimes find themselves comfortably placed in another department.

It is illuminating to read the transcript of the hearings of the Committee on Subversive Activities in the SRA, of which Assemblyman Yorty is the chairman. The testimony of certain radically inclined State employees not only establishes their arrogance and insolence but also their contempt for our form of government and for legislative procedure. No such attitude would have been found on the part of employees who knew that they were responsible to an administration committed to the elimination of radical and subversive activities. The committee members do not like termites in their houses, nor in their government.

Relief Is a Palliative.

Like any medicine which does not remove the cause of the illness, relief is dangerous in itself. Bromides administered over long periods may produce rashes on the patient's body. In the same way, relief is producing red rashes on the body politic. As quickly as possible, and with complete coordination of effort, the cause of the trouble must be attacked and the palliative tapered off.

Relief must continue until the Mobilization for Employment has proved itself successful. It should be repeated that the dole, which is the form in which relief is extended in California, is not a cure for unemployment. Opinions are sharply divided as to the respective merits of outright grants of cash to those in need and payment only in exchange for work done.

Testimony by informed persons before the committee substantiates the contention that the morale of unemployed men and women is best maintained when they are given a chance to work. Public works projects should be supported as a part of the reemployment program, although the committee has found that immediate costs are often higher than the dole. The burden of financing relief has already brought hardship to taxpayers and has impeded the revival of business. California taxpayers are also in need of relief. The financial costs of these projects must be weighed in light of the ultimate beneficial returns to the State as a whole.

Works Projects Considered.

The State should give maximum cooperation to the Works Progress Administration and urge extension of its activities in California. Every effort must be made to obtain sponsorship for projects to the end that the full WPA quota for the State may be utilized. The committee was astounded to learn, from testimony by the WPA Administrator for Southern California (P-2, Pages 46 and 47), that his agency had had an average of over 2,000 jobs monthly which were open to the unemployed, but of which the SRA had never availed itself.

Refusal to Accept Work Condemned.

There can be no difference of opinion as to the gross dishonesty of any SRA official who condones and abets relief recipients in refusing to take work on WPA or similar projects. No relief recipient should be permitted to refuse suitable employment or to delay the acceptance of work. Any relief recipient refusing suitable employment should forthwith be removed permanently from the relief rolls.

Production-For-Use Criticized.

As to the other forms of relief which are loosely grouped under the misleading title of "Production-for-use," the committee offers these observations:

The true cooperatives serve a useful purpose. They merit encouragement, but only as a supplementing part of an employment program.

"Production-for-use" as described in the recommendations of the Governor's Commission on Reemployment, involves setting up "economic islands" within our general economy, to be inhabited by relief recipients and financed by the State.

There should be no such futile experiments in California because they would leave the relief recipient in the same predicament, an outcast from private employment and dependent on the ability of taxpayers to continue his support.

Long Range Outlook Urged.

This committee, as a result of its work, has arrived at certain conclusions in respect to the problem of unemployment in California.

(A) This problem will prevail, in greater or less degree, until "Mobilization for Employment" has won its objective. While the trend of private business and employment is upward at present, the fact that this is due, in part, to the European war should not be overlooked. Recent reports show a 17 per cent improvement in business over a year ago.

(B) Neither the dole nor any of the other methods now employed will overcome unemployment, but the cash dole must remain as the least expensive defense against hardship and destitution until unemployment is overcome. Thus every "public works project" must be subjected to scrutiny, and its values for maintaining morale must be balanced against its cost, its competition with private industry and its ultimate benefit to the State. The administration of relief must be conducted with maximum efficiency, utterly divorced from politics, and with no opportunity afforded communistic and other subversive elements to capitalize on the current economic dislocation.

(C) The State should do all within its power to foster increased employment in private enterprise.

(D) Efficiency, economy and freedom from subversive encroachment will best be served by county administration of direct relief.

Welfare workers, county supervisors and other representative citizens interviewed testified to the advantages of county administration. The committee believes that this reflects the opinion of a majority of citizens throughout the State.

(E) The State Relief Administration is so top-heavy, complicated and unwieldy that the only possibility for restoration of good management is to be found in decentralized administration. A department that does not know the details of its own actions until two months after the action has taken place is in need of simplification, in either business or government.

Evidence obtained by the committee definitely demonstrates that justice both to the citizen who pays for relief and to the citizen who must ask for relief will be accomplished by liquidation of the State Relief Administration. The SRA has permitted social service theorists and wishful-thinkers to run riot in California for years with resultant wastefulness, chiseling and inequities. Social service, as evidenced in the SRA in recent months, has presumed that unemployment is permanent and that relief recipients are a permanent class. The SRA social service workers have disregarded the possibilities of reemployment, and have done no good to their own profession.

The committee has respect for altruism, but contends that genuine altruism means employment for every citizen who would work. To this end, social service, as practiced in local and private relief organizations, has performed a noteworthy service.

Social service in the SRA has encouraged a tendency to look to the State for everything and to regard relief as a vested right. This is demonstrated by the attitude which terms the relief recipient a "client," and upon this artificial foundation, some recipients are today asking for credit as "State employees."

Common sense, not a formula, controls effective social service work. In the SRA, social service has been characterized by an exaggerated professional attitude, has been administered by remote control, subject to political manipulation and responsible to subversive influence.

(F) Relief budgets should take standards of living into account, as well as the number of members of a family, and should consider total income from all sources, especially all State aids.

On the one hand families of large size have received more in relief than the bread winner might earn in private employment. To a considerable extent these are families in which one or more members, usually the parents, are of low standard backgrounds. Many are aliens. Their living habits are usually below the American scale. On the other hand, individuals with smaller families, of native born stock and accustomed to American living standards, are actually getting less than they require for maintenance, when these standards are considered.

This latter group contains many long-time taxpayers in California. Under professionalized social service these Americans find themselves at a disadvantage when compared with alien low-standard groups.

By placing a cash ceiling of $58 a month on the budget of any family, regardless of size, the Legislature made a start toward correcting this inequity.

Despite the obvious intention of the Legislature to place a definite limit on the amount of relief that might be paid to any one family, the SRA apparently has devised a means of circumventing that act through its social service memorandum No. 131 (see Appendix) issued on April 10, 1940. Ever ready to take advantage of the social service attitude prevailing throughout the SRA, the Workers Alliance is reported to be pressuring emergency relief orders for the families of four or more and for emergency relief orders to duplicate rent allowances already made in their budgets.

The committee feels that some method must be devised by which the size of the family is not the principal gauge of the relief budget. If the United States is to follow the leadership of the dictators, and subsidize large families, then let us do it openly and honestly, not through the back door of "relief," opened by some catch-all formula from a professionalized social service manual.

(G) The problem of youth is one of the greatest problems of unemployment.

Young people today are getting married on relief and their children are being born on relief. Little is being done to foster a spirit of initiative and independence characteristic of so many generations of self-reliant American families. This is a problem for both the Legislature and groups responsible for methods of education. Further study is being given this subject and the committee expects to submit a report. There is hope of solution because American youth still wants work, still seeks to be self-reliant.

(H) The California State Employment Service must be built to a place of real importance.

The personnel and activities of the California Employment Insurance Commission have been directed toward paying unemployment benefit checks rather than obtaining employment for the unemployed.

The effort of the administration to convince the people that the California State Employment Service is functioning efficiently either is an attempt to mislead or is a demonstration of ignorance of the failure of the service to perform its function.

(I) The unemployment problem has been aggravated because thousands, having gained the comparative security of relief, have been reluctant to accept even temporary employment because of having again to qualify for future assistance. Some effort should be made to encourage relief recipients to accept employment even though it may be temporary. This result will be gained by reducing the amount of red tape necessary for readmittance of the deserving to the relief rolls.

(J) Sincerity must prevail in the administration of relief.

The committee affirms that there have been few episodes more shameless, more contemptuous of the rights of the unemployed, than the 40 per cent cut in the relief budgets ordered by the present State administration following the passage of Senate Bill 81.

The Legislature passed Senate Bill 81 over the Governor's veto. The law was written to reduce SRA inefficiency and extravagance, but if enforced in a spirit of cooperation the provisions of the act were such as to cause no hardship to any deserving relief recipient.

Arbitrarily the SRA ordered a 40 per cent reduction in all relief allowances. An analysis of the SRA's financial condition at that time, made by Price, Waterhouse & Co., appears as an appendix to the report.

The analysis confirms the earlier charges that this reduction was ordered for one of the two following reasons: First, it was a political move by the State administration in the hope of embarrassing the economy-minded majority of the Legislature by arousing pressure groups against individual members.

Second, the centralized methods of the SRA are so cumbersome, slow and unworkable that it was difficult for executives of the SRA to know that the restrictions of Senate Bill No. 81 would require no reduction, or even to know the condition of its own balance sheet on that date.

In this connection the committee calls attention to the reduction in SRA rolls following the effective date of this legislation. An anticipated maximum of 122,000 relief cases actually proved to be 116,000 at the time the bill went into effect on February 24, 1940, and quickly dropped to less than 100,000 and by the middle of April to 86,000. The case load as of May 6, 1940, was approximately 81,000.

Elimination of ineligible, the decision of out-of-state recipients to return home rather than to face scrutiny, and the action of chiselers in dropping themselves from the rolls have already demonstrated the correctness of the Legislature's action in passing Senate Bill No. 81.

(K) Politics has no part in efficient administration of relief.

The State Administration has given the SRA into the hands of politicians, making this important department of government an agency for pay-offs and a dumping ground for those who had to be "taken care of."

Many appointees picked for SRA posts for political reasons have proved themselves incompetent or worse. The SRA contains many honest, sincere and capable people who are helpless to correct abuses that have followed the advent of the spoils system in the SRA.

Thousands of migrants who are now a charge on California taxpayers came here at the implied invitation of the present Governor. He publicly expressed sentiments which could be construed in no other way than as an invitation to indigents in other states to throw themselves on the bounty of California.

Not only has the situation in California been misrepresented to the migrants themselves, but the people of the entire nation have been given a distorted picture. Sentimentality has been substituted for facts.

The Federal Administration, by its encouragement of migrants already in California, and its refusal to accept its obligation for the care of these dust-bowl refugees so encouraged, has apparently determined to make California the poor-house of the United States. Unless this obligation is assumed by the Federal Government, California will have no choice but to consider legislation to bar from entry into the State those people who are likely to become public charges.

Federal migratory camps, instead of being temporary havens for unfortunate people, actually have developed into "islands" over which neither State nor local authorities have control. They are not used as temporary housing facilities, as they were intended, but as cheap housing accommodations provided to migrants for whom there is no work and for some who are unwilling to work, on a semi-permanent basis.

The absorption of work-desiring migrants into the economy of California would necessarily be part of any long term planning by the State. The problem requires study, a desire to help find a solution, and the immediate ending of the encouragement given subversive and agitating elements by the Federal authorities in charge of this program. It is no proper function of the Federal Government to set up such "islands" and to countenance strike agitation in a State already paying the highest farm wages, to the extent that the sign "Strike Headquarters" was placed at the entrance to at least one of these Federal camps.

(M) The Federal Government must be made to realize that indigent aliens in California constitute a Federal problem.

Until the enactment of Senate Bill No. 81, relief checks to aliens were in the majority of cases more than these families have averaged as earnings during comparable periods. These payments were in addition to medical and dental aid and surplus commodities.

Under Senate Bill No. 81 the State may not provide relief to aliens illegally in this country, but even with this restriction, aliens continue to constitute an important part of the relief load.

The Legislature is asked to set up immediately the machinery to get the necessary cooperation of the Federal Government.

(N) If a State camp program is to be operated, existing evils with attendant waste and inefficiency must be corrected. SRA camps, properly administered, and with the requirement that all single men, with certain exceptions, go to them to receive aid, can be constructive factors in rehabilitation and reemployment.

It has been observed that the Workers Alliance opposes the operation of camps because it removes the relief recipient from the sphere of subversive influence.

How Committee Functioned.

The Joint Fact-finding Committee which submits this report was appointed in the closing days of the February, 1940, special session. It was charged with several functions. One was to continue the investigation, begun more than a year ago, into widespread abuses within the SRA. Another was to submit recommendations for improving California's handling of the entire employment problem. Still another function was to observe the operation of Senate Bill No. 81 with a view to future legislation.

These duties have been performed by the committee to the best of its abilities within the allowed time. Whatever may be the shortcomings of this report, they are due to physical limitations, not to lack of effort. The members of the committee have conducted hearings in every part of California; personally examined documents, inventories, books and records; and have heard scores of witnesses who testified under oath and whose testimony is embodied in official transcripts.

Special Subcommittees Appointed.

To facilitate the work of investigation, the nine Assemblymen and eight Senators on the committee arranged for the appointment of subcommittees. Four such subcommittees were designated. They worked on a geographical basis; subcommittees headed by Senators Mixer and Nielsen, and by Assemblymen Houser and Wollenberg, conducted hearings, respectively, in the Central Valley, in Northern California, in Southern California, and in the San Francisco Bay-Central Coast area.

Committee members were designated to prepare special reports to be submitted to the joint committee as follows:

Assemblyman Elmer E. Lore, Surplus Commodities;
Senator Frank W. Mixer, The Cooperatives;
Assemblyman Edward O'Day, The Youth Problem;
Assemblyman Norris Poulson, Accounting Procedure in the SRA;
Senator J. I. Wagy, The Migrant Problem;
Assemblyman Clyde A. Watson, The Alien Problem.

The committee also arranged for two independent investigations into vital phases of the employment problem.

The national firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., certified public accountants, was retained by the committee in an advisory capacity. In addition to advising the committee on general phases of SRA accounting, it was asked to establish, from the SRA records, without making a complete audit, the approximate balances in the funds of that department as of February 15, 1940, and March 31, 1940. The firm was also asked to indicate changes in the financial position of the SRA during this period, with certain expenditures segregated. It has furnished this information, and other information and comments, which the committee submits as a separate part of this report.

The committee received the cooperation of the State Controller, the Director of Agriculture and the State Relief Administrator.

Credit Agencies Investigate Cases.

To ascertain the truth of reports that chiseling is still rife, the Controller, under authority of the Legislature and with the approval of the Director of Finance arranged with private credit agencies to investigate more than 10,000 cases on the SRA rolls. The results of this so-called social audit will be made available to the Legislature in a separate part of this report.

Sampling Method.

The committee, handicapped for time, has made free use of the "sampling" method now in general use by political polls, and by financial, economic and statistical fact-gathering agencies. Obviously the committee could not check every relief case, every transportation order, every reported instance of waste, extravagance, and incompetency. By methods it did use, the committee believes that it secured a true picture of the relief situation.

The previously submitted "Atherton Report" (Senate Journal Jan. 30, 1940) was submitted officially to the committee (testimony of E. D. Hall, Transcript P-3, pages 1-3), and reference has been made to its findings. The same Senate Journal contained the letter of resignation of Dr. H. Dewey Anderson and reference has also been made to that.

Attention is called to the significant report and recommendations of the legislative committee of SRA Los Angeles Chapter No. 65, of the California State Employees Association which was printed in the Senate Journal Feb. 6, 1940, pages 136, 137, 138 and 139.

To keep this part of the report within reasonable length, the committee decided not to encumber it with references to the official record, nor to repeat detailed matter set forth in Part III.

We have endeavored to present general findings in respect to the more important phases of employment, together with conclusions which we believe will be helpful to the Legislature.

Minority Report of Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Unemployment.

I concur completely in the statement of the majority members of this committee that emphasis should in the future be placed on the broad subject of unemployment rather than on the single confusing, controversial and annoying aspect of relief.

I am in substantial agreement with the recommendation for consolidation and integration of the present State Departments of Social Welfare, Employment and the State Relief Administration. This, however, is a far reaching step and many problems are involved which can not be given adequate consideration at a short special session of the Legislature. The proposed reorganization should be considered as an ultimate goal toward which to work and is worthy of serious consideration by the Governor, members of the Legislature, taxpayers, and all citizens interested in working out a solution of the unemployment problem.

The single suggestion in this connection with which I disagree is the recommendation that the appointment of the proposed Director of Employment must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate, after his appointment by the Governor. Even the violent opposition of committee members to the present Chief Executive does not in my opinion warrant this unprecedented proposal. The State Senate has no monopoly on good judgment. Committee members who so strongly disapprove of what they call dictatorship in the executive branch place themselves in an inconsistent position when they advocate dictatorship by a single house of the Legislature.

I concur in the recommendations of the committee for the extension of a public works program. In this connection, however, I regret that the committee did not see fit to recommend employment for a part of our relief recipients on production projects.

I shall be glad to cooperate in what the committee has seen fit to call "Mobilization for Employment." I will be inclined to back this proposal with fingers crossed, however, as I fear that the "mobilization" will consist chiefly of conversation and oratory.

Research can unquestionably develop new products, new markets and, eventually, new jobs. Until more jobs are, however, actually developed we should not try to fool ourselves into believing we are making progress by reshuffling old jobs. As long as there are twelve or fourteen workers for every ten jobs, we can make no progress by finding work for those presently unemployed if their employment is to have the ultimate effect of throwing others on relief rolls. Many fundamental economic adjustments may yet be necessary before we can provide employment at reasonably adequate wages for all who are seeking jobs.

Mobilization for employment, however, can be effective if the program calls first for serious study of the forces that cause unemployment, and second for dissemination of accurate and unbiased information on the problem.

Although concurring in the committee recommendations for an integrated employment, welfare and relief agency, I am at this time unalterably opposed to the recommendation that unemployment relief be decentralized and administered by the counties. I believe that every authority on the subject will agree that state-wide uniformity in the administration of unemployment relief is vitally necessary. A man who is eligible for relief in Sacramento County should be eligible in Imperial County, Los Angeles County, Tulare County and Siskiyou County. Standards of relief should also be uniform. This does not necessarily mean that exactly the same monetary aid should be paid in each of the several counties. It does mean, however, that the money granted will provide comparable standards of living in every section of the State.

Minimum standards of competency should also be established for all employees engaged in the administration of relief.

Under centralized State control the maintenance of uniform standards is comparatively simple. Such uniformity can not be expected under county administration without the most rigid State supervision.

The committee report can be minutely scrutinized from end to end without finding any proposal for adequate control of the county welfare departments that would provide uniform rules of eligibility, uniform relief standards, or minimum personnel standards. Comment in the report on this problem of uniformity appears to be inconsistent and contradictory. Typical of the committee's tendency to assail the State Relief Administration if it does or if does not are observations on this matter. The report states, "* * * the committee has heard complaints that the present regulations as imposed upon case workers are too severe. In the past a case worker was given a reasonable power of decision in individual cases, thus, cases in different areas of the State could be handled according to conditions in those areas, and some distinction could be made between families accustomed to lower or higher standards of living.

"Today rigorous and inelastic regulations appear to apply at this point while, on the other hand, regulations which might justly be expected to be observed are administered with great elasticity by directors, district supervisors and case workers." This statement according to the committee's report, "confirms the feeling * * * that local supervision will bring advantages." Most students of the relief problem will demand more substantial confirmation of the committee's conclusions than this contradictory statement.

It is true that absolute uniformity of administration does not today exist in SRA. There are minor variations just as there are probably minor variations in the enforcement of the liquor law, which is handled by another State agency.

In a centralized organization, however, operating under a single administrator and State staff, with field representatives constantly in touch with the counties to interpret policies and see that those policies are observed, the tendency is toward uniformity. With relief administered by fifty-eight different sets of supervisors, however, and with only the superficial and half-hearted State control proposed by the committee the natural trend will be toward a lack of uniformity.

It would be interesting to know to what extent the committee would give either the case worker or a board of county supervisors the power to make decisions in individual cases. It might also be pertinent to ask what the committee has in mind when it suggests that conditions in different areas of the State be handled according to conditions in those areas. This sounds too much like an open invitation to each Board of Supervisors to establish standards based on the views, idiosyncrasies and prejudices of its individual members.

Lack of uniformity would almost inevitably cause considerable shifting of population from districts with low relief standards to counties where such standards are higher. Since urban districts will usually be more generous than the rural areas, we would probably accelerate the undesirable movement of farm labor into cities now crowded with industrial unemployed.

I completely agree with the majority opinion that the purely artificial distinction between employables and unemployables should be eliminated. Before this step can be taken, however, some definite agreement should be reached as to a formula of financial responsibility between county and State. This is a matter which should receive grave consideration from all interests involved, and it would be unwise to take snap judgment during the short term of a special legislative session.

An interesting insight into the views of the committee is revealed in the section of its report dealing with civil service. I believe that whatever agency administers relief should be either under civil service or under some comparable merit system. The committee, however, appears to be very careful not to indorse the principles of civil service for county employees. Its report states that under the proposed reorganized program, civil service would apply in the State Department of Employment. The report, however, is entirely silent on civil service of county employees who would administer the program. The report, in fact, goes out of its way to specify that the committee does not indorse the merit system which the Federal Government is now trying to impose on county welfare departments.

The report subscribes to the principle of local government under "proper" State regulation. The committee's recommendation of caution on the part of the Legislature, "against being led astray by an argument that State subventions necessarily carry with them State control or that uniformity can only be secured through 'strict supervision'," would appear to imply that "proper" supervision means innocuous supervision.

I have no objection to the committee's recommendation to perpetuate itself. I believe that it has served, and can continue to serve, some useful purposes. I take exception, however, to some of the reasons given in the majority report for its continuance.

I challenge the statement that unless it continues to function, employees of the SRA who testified before it as witnesses face danger of discharge or demotion. In so far as my own knowledge goes nothing has been heard of reprisals against any employee who appeared before the committee. I would call attention to the fact that the present Relief Administrator immediately reinstated, during the last special session, employees who had been discharged by a county director for appearing before the Yorty committee.

The committee, in my opinion, is to be highly commended for refusing to recommend such harsh proposals as posting or publishing names of recipients of relief, fingerprinting of applicants, and impounding automobile license plates. Although disagreeing with the majority that restrictions relative to aliens in Senate Bill No. 81 be written into subsequent bills, I do concur in the recommendation for further study in this connection. According to the report there were 15,508 aliens on relief in January. This number, it is said, was reduced to 13,447 in April as a result of the provisions of Senate Bill No. 81. Certainly no study of this subject will be complete until it is ascertained what became of the 2,061 individuals who were removed from the relief rolls for the lone reason that they were not born within the territorial limits of the United States. In my opinion it is highly important to determine how these people are existing today. Are they being cared for by private welfare agencies? Have they been driven to panhandling or crime? Are they being cared for by kind neighbors? Are they hungry? Certainly the committee's report can not be considered as complete until it answers these questions.

I must also disagree with the recommendation that five years California residence be required to make an applicant eligible for relief. To attempt to justify this regulation on the ground that it would conform to the residence requirements for aged aid is ridiculous. Those not having the residence requirements for aged aid are cared for by SRA or county on indigent rolls. According to most State laws, a citizen loses residence after an absence of one year from his home State. A five year residence law would have the effect of making many needy people ineligible for assistance from any quarter whatsoever. The Legislature can only proceed on one of two theories. It can establish the policy of giving aid to those in distress, or it can say that it is interested only in saving money.

If we are to distribute aid on the basis of need, we should grant assistance to applicants whether they have been in the State one year or fifty years. If the only objective is the saving of money, aid might be limited to white, protestant, Nordic, Native Sons, or if relief for those within this classification is still considered too costly it could be limited to albino Negroes. This, of course, would completely eliminate relief rolls and should appeal to those whose only thought on the subject is, "economy."

I can not concur in the committee's recommendation that applications for relief be cleared through private credit agencies. I am fundamentally opposed to the delegation of the administrative functions of any department of government to any private agency.

Respectfully submitted.

ELMER E. LORE.

Messages from the Governor.

The following messages from the Governor were received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, March 1, 1940.

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate, State of California,
Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 76, entitled: "An act making an appropriation for the contingent expenses of the Senate for the fifty third (extraordinary) session of the Legislature, including expenses of committees created at that session and for any and all claims approved by the Senate, and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill appropriates $30,000 for the contingent expenses of the Senate for the extraordinary session of the Legislature. The Department of Finance has furnished me with a statement, a copy of which is appended hereto, which shows that the balance on hand from previous appropriations for contingent expenses amounts to $26,915.83. It further shows that before recess the Senate authorized the expenditure of sums totaling some $22,102.77, and further shows that in the event that the entire amounts authorized to be expended are expended, there will be left on hand a balance of $4,813.06, available for expenditures during the balance of the extraordinary session. Inasmuch as the general expenses of the Senate payable from the contingent fund, including the sum of $700 for postage, amounted to only some $1,800, the balance of $4,813.06 would seem to be ample. The amount appropriated by this bill may only be used for the expenses of the extraordinary session, and it would be unwise to appropriate any moneys in excess of the probable needs of the Senate.

Believing the Senate would not wish to appropriate for its contingent expenses more than is necessary, and realizing a future appropriation may be made should an emergency arise, I am taking the action above indicated.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, February 26, 1940.

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate, State of California,
Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 47, entitled "An act to validate the organization, boundaries, governing officers or boards, acts, proceedings, and bonds of public bodies, to take effect immediately."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

The provisions of the bill are so broad as to be susceptible of an interpretation that it is broad enough to validate acts and proceedings of governing boards of public bodies that were never intended to be validated by the Legislature. Assembly Bill No. 44, which I have signed today, contains sufficient provisions to validate the acts of public bodies so as to insure the validity of bonds issued by such public bodies but with sufficient restrictions as to acts and proceedings validated, and this bill is therefore unnecessary.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, March 5, 1940.

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate, State of California,
Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 67 entitled "An act to repeal section 10886 of, to amend section 10885 of, and to add sections 10885.1 to 10886, inclusive, to the Insurance Code, relating to contributions in the form of certificates of advancement."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

The provisions of the bill permitting the issue of "certificates of advancement" in exchange for securities legal for investment of assets of insurers in this State as well as cash, make it possible for the contributor to deposit a frozen asset such as a mortgage on unimproved real property, and be repaid in cash, thus resulting in the depletion of the cash position of the insurer and the possibility of not being able to meet its death claims.

The bill proposes to segregate in a trust fund or funds, for repayment of certificates of advancement, money paid as premium by policyholders, regardless of the then ability of the insurer to meet its obligations to policyholders. The effect of these provisions of the bill is to permit the setting aside of a portion of the premium income even though the insurer is operating at a loss. It is my opinion that the segregation of any portion of the premium income in a trust fund for the purpose of repaying certificates of advancement should only be allowed where the company is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner to possess a minimum surplus. To do otherwise would result in the placing beyond the reach of the policyholders and creditors funds which normally should be available to satisfy unpaid claims.

The bill provides that no payment out of the trust fund shall be made which will reduce the surplus of the insurer below the sum of $10,000 except that with the prior approval of the Commissioner, the payment may reduce the surplus to $5,000. The bill does not contain any provisions as to who shall certify the existence of such surplus. In my opinion, the existence of the required surplus should be certified by the Insurance Commissioner before any repayment can be made.

The bill provides that the certificates of advancement may be issued against premium income of the life, or health and accident departments, or any portion of any department of the insurer and in series. The Insurance Code provides that the assets of each of these departments is free from claims of the others. The bill further provides that when any portion of the outstanding certificates of advancement is called for redemption, the redeemed certificates shall be placed in the general fund of the insurer. In view of the provisions of the Insurance Code segregating assets to separate departments of an insurer, in my opinion provision should be made that assets remaining in the certificate of advancement fund after all certificates of advancement have been redeemed, should revert to the surplus funds of the particular department of the insurer against which premium income the certificates of advancement were issued.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

Report.

The following report of Special Committee on Horse Racing was received, read, and on motion of Senator Metzger ordered printed in the Journal:

Preliminary Report to the Senate of the State of California.

Your committee for the investigation of horse racing believes that it has uncovered the basic weakness in the present troubled relationship between horse-racing and the State Government.

This weakness is an adherence to the belief that because horse-racing is a "privilege business" it therefore has no rights, and can be governed at the whim and caprice of the executive.

The committee is not of the opinion that this error is a new one, or that its occurrence is unique to the present administration. However, it is a persistent fallacy, and has produced more picturesque, and serious manifestations in the present administration than it has at any time in the past. If not checked, it will force a break-down in horse-racing, and a serious loss of revenue to the State.

The ultimate recommendations of this committee therefore will be directed to correcting this fundamental error, and restoring confidence, honor, and good will in the relationship of race-tracks and horsemen, and those who would govern them.

Out of the belief that horse-racing is a privilege, and as such can be dealt with arbitrarily have come the following evil administrative practices.

1. Campaign contributions. Since it was felt that race-tracks had no rights except those conferred upon them by grace, the belief has become widespread that a race-track proprietor who failed to contribute handsomely to the successful candidate for Governor would forsooth suffer at the hands of the Governor's Racing Commission.

2. Official corruption. With this dangerous doctrine abroad, actual or attempted corruption was bound to be the next development. The final report of this committee will reveal offers of special privileges to favored race-tracks made by self-styled campaign contributors, and members of the present Governor's official family. These offers were made upon the condition that large sums of money be paid.

3. Arbitrary rule. Even honest men are swayed by the heady effects of exercising absolute power over a defenseless "privilege business." Sweeping rulings, if made without regard for, or knowledge of the fundamental rights of the industry affected, eventually will so undermine that business that it will be destroyed. Horse-racing is still on trial in California, and its passing would bring a severe loss of revenue to the State.

4. Invasion of constitutional authority. It is the province of the Legislature, not the Executive, to raise the revenues of the State, and order their expenditure by budget appropriation. However, during the past year the Racing Commission, at the request of the present Governor, has arbitrarily insisted that the various tracks donate the proceeds of certain racing days to the general funds of the State. The purpose back of this move may be entirely laudable but purity of motive can never justify a deed that is evil in effect.

This move has set the stage for imposition of similar "extra-legislative" taxes upon other "privilege" businesses—liquor, fishing, et cetera. Confidence of those who would invest in such businesses is destroyed since they are deprived of the safeguard of the constitutional provision that the Legislature alone may impose taxes.

All of these propositions are amply supported by the transcript of the testimony so far taken by this committee and will be more fully and specifically developed in its final report.

This preliminary report is presented at this time for the purpose of urging the Senate to pass certain legislation at the special session which should be effective by the time that the 1941 racing season begins.

A proposal to increase the State's share of the 12 per cent deducted from pari-mutuel bets was passed by the Assembly at the 1939 session and was narrowly defeated in the Senate. It is the belief of the committee that such legislation should be considered at this special session. The committee is now engaged in preparing specific recommendations on this score which it will be able to present to the Senate Committee on Finance, Revenue and Taxation at such time as that committee will consider Senate Bill No. 41 now pending before it.

It is the belief of the committee that horse-racing will be able to bear this additional tax burden if it is relieved of the necessity of paying "indirect taxes" in the form of campaign contributions, deficit contributions, and lobbying fees. It will not be discouraged by additional taxes if it is assured that it will no longer be capriciously and arbitrarily governed.

To this end, your committee believes that Governor Olson should be called upon to cooperate. The Governor has had several weeks' opportunity to read the transcript of the committee hearings, and he has assured the committee personally that he would not tolerate in his official family persons who represented that they could influence the official actions of the Racing Commission. By this time also the Governor has had ample opportunity to confer with his own appointee, Claude I. Parker, Esq., who testified before your committee that he resigned as Racing Commissioner because "things were going on behind his back" and that he had been "subjected to outside pressure." The Governor should no longer be inactive in the face of the sworn accusations made against his Building and Loan Commissioner, Ralph Evans, and the latter's appointee, Norman Church. He will restore confidence that he intends to play fair with racing if he discharges these two men at once and eliminates from the Racing Commission any person or persons he suspects of being dominated by them. If the Governor will act immediately to clean up the administration of racing, increased racing "take" legislation can and should be passed at this session in the opinion of

Report.

On motion of Senator Phillips the following statement was printed in the Senate Journal preceding the introduction of Part IV of the report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment:

Part III of the Joint Committee's report is not quite ready for delivery to the Senate. The committee therefore submits Part IV, which contains the reports of the four Subcommittees on Policies and Personnel in the SRA. The State was divided into four geographic areas, Northern California, Southern California, the Central Valley, and the San Francisco Central Coast regions. Hearings were held in a great many counties. In some instances the supervisors, county welfare directors, and SRA directors of several counties were invited to meet together at the committee's meeting place. These reports follow:

Persons and representatives of groups appearing before and examined by the subcommittee:

County SRA directors and members of personnel staff;

County welfare directors;

Managers of county offices State Division of Employment;

Employers of agricultural labor;

Peace officers;

Justices of the peace;

Representatives of district attorney's offices;

Members of boards of supervisors;

Members of Workers Alliance;

Citizens.

Scope of Examinations of Witnesses Appearing Before the Subcommittee.

County SRA directors were examined as to length of service, previous experience in this type of work, by whom appointed, etc.; and members of personnel staff as to length of service, where performed, qualifications, membership in the SCMWA or other organizations, etc.

County welfare directors testified as to length of service, duties, indigency, categorical aids, percentage cost of administration, etc.

Managers of county offices of State Division of Employment were interrogated as to length of service, duties, contacts with the SRA, contacts with potential employers of labor, the laws and regulations under which operations are performed, etc.

Peace officers gave testimony relative to actions of relief recipients and "chiseling."

Justices of the peace supplied information relative to relief recipients haled into court on charges of drunkenness, gambling and other misuses of relief funds.

Representatives of district attorney's offices furnished evidence with respect to court actions following arrests of recipients accused of "chiseling."

Members of the Workers Alliance were heard principally for the purpose on their part of entering denials of attempts to use "pressure" or other undue influence.

Citizens testified regarding various matters related to the unemployment problem.

Findings.

The county SRA directors without exception are, in the opinion of the subcommittee, appointed and retained in office as a reward or in recognition of political activity in behalf of the present State Administration, and with few exceptions unqualified for the positions, so far as training and experience are concerned. Among the exceptions may be noted the county administrators for Kings and Kern counties. In the latter county the present director, while relatively a new man, appears because of business experience to have a good grasp of the situation. The Kings County director (a woman) has been in the position for some length of time and seems to understand her duties. The directors for San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Tuolumne-Calaveras, Merced-Mariposa and Madera counties are all comparatively recent appointees, with little or no previous knowledge of the duties of the positions. The Fresno County director was recently transferred from Kern County where he had served for some time. The Tulare County director has been in his present position for considerable time, has been under fire, and his removal was sought last January by the Tulare County Democratic Central Committee and other citizens. Until a short time before subcommittee hearings in Madera County, both SRA and county welfare activities were handled by the same person, the county welfare director, without cost to the State for quarters or director's salary, only the staff receiving compensation from the SRA. When the SRA Director was appointed, SRA quarters were moved to another location at additional cost to the State of $150 monthly for rent, plus the salary of the director.

SRA Employees.

Staff members of the various county SRA offices were interrogated with respect to their qualifications, membership and activities in the SCMWA. These persons had apparently been advised as to the way questions should be answered. The testimony indicated that employees in the social service divisions of the several county offices have qualifications for their positions based upon college or university degree and experience in social service work. Employees in the clerical divisions seem to be selected because of ability. Separation from service was, the subcommittee learned from testimony, determined upon the basis of seniority, eligibility and need. The subcommittee was, however, unable to learn just how rigidly these points are observed in effecting separations.

The SCMWA is largely represented in the SRA offices in San Joaquin, Fresno, Tulare and Kern counties, while in Stanislaus, Tuolumne, Merced, Madera and Kings counties the evidence indicates little or no such membership. In each office where this union is active, an arrangement exists whereby representatives of the group meet with the director to discuss matters in which they are interested. These appear to be principally questions regarding overtime and working conditions.

The county welfare directors seem to be well qualified by experience and training for the positions they occupy. Much useful and valuable information with respect to indigency and the categorical aids has been secured.

State Employment Service.

State employment office managers appeared at the several hearings and the testimony of one was virtually that of all; the unemployed person intending to apply for SRA relief first files an application for employment and then proceeds to the SRA office to make application for relief. Records of actual employment furnished by these offices are incomplete because while each person sent to a prospective job is given a card to be handed the new employer to be signed and returned, few of the cards ever reach the office. This is thought to be due partly to neglect of the employee to hand over the card and partly to neglect on the part of the employer.

The subcommittee urges that one regulation under which the State employment offices operate be corrected. That is in regard to the filing of complaints to the effect that a labor dispute exists on a given farm, ranch or other premises where labor is employed. Much evidence was secured to show that many such complaints were lodged against places where no labor was being employed at the time, but which resulted in the designated place being declared a "hot spot" and to which the employment office was forbidden to send labor at a later time.

Other testimony revealed that persons other than labor representatives had filed these complaints with the same result. Most of these complaints filed during the harvest season of 1939 were not cleared until March, 1940, long after the harvest had been completed. In only one case did the subcommittee find evidence of any effort to check the situation. The general statements by the office managers were that they had no authority to verify the truth or falsity of these complaints. We feel that the result of this regulation is to prevent the employment of many SRA recipients who otherwise could be put into gainful employment.

Workers Alliance.

In almost every county there is evidence of the activity of the Workers Alliance. In Fresno and Tulare counties representatives of this organization appeared before the subcommittee and asked to be heard. Their principal testimony was a general denial of attempts to influence or exert pressure in connection with complaints presented to the county SRA director. It developed that a certain day is designated for considering complaints of the Workers Alliance. The directors all disclaimed knowledge of attempts to influence them unduly in their decisions upon questions involved. However, there can be no question as to the extent and activity of this organization. For example, the foreman of the Tulare County Grand Jury testified that in one of the branch offices in Tulare County where surplus commodities are distributed, he and other members of the Grand Jury observed members of the Workers Alliance furnish tickets to certain ones of those who were there to secure portions of the surplus commodities whereby these favored persons obtained positions at and near the head of the line, thereby being in a position to receive preferred attention both as to quantity and variety of the articles issued. Many others, being forced into positions toward the rear of the line, received little or no benefit from the distribution.

Testimony by two justices of the peace, one in Merced County, the other in Fresno County, had to do with the misuse of SRA relief funds for drinking and gambling. In the opinion of these witnesses, relief should not be issued to persons guilty of these offenses.

To gain information in regard to action of courts following the filing of complaints on charges of petit theft (chiseling), the district attorneys of Kings, Tulare and Kern counties were requested to furnish the subcommittee with copies of records of action upon such cases. This was done and the information obtained will be filed with this report.

Return of Relief to Counties.

Boards of supervisors were invited to attend the hearings of the subcommittee and with two exceptions, those for Fresno and Kern counties, members of these boards were present and exhibited considerable interest in the proceedings. In response to questions relative to transfer of the administration of relief to the counties, these gentlemen were quite frank in their statement of willingness to assume the new responsibility in case the Legislature should make adequate provision for financing by the State for the protection of the counties.

Farm Workers.

Agriculturists were interviewed during the hearings regarding workers employed in the production of various crops and in packing houses where fruits, grapes, and other agricultural commodities are processed, packed and shipped to markets. In spite of labor difficulties fomented by radical groups, farmers of the San Joaquin Valley have been able, because of the abnormal supply of farm labor, to plant, care for and harvest their crops during the past few years, with but little interruption of work.

Many of those appearing before the subcommittee testified that the housing facilities on their premises were sufficient, not only for the workers employed by them on a year-round basis, but in most cases for seasonal labor as well, and that no charge was made against their employees for these quarters which in all cases included light and water, and in some cases fuel. Moreover, it was found that numerous workers and families performing seasonal labor continued to live in these places after the work was finished, and without cost to themselves. Many farmers producing cotton stated that a considerable percentage of seasonal workers returned to them year after year.

Many farmers testified that they could not depend upon the State Employment Service to furnish workers when needed, notwithstanding heavy SRA relief rolls in the counties. Others testified that complaints of labor disputes on their farms were filed by unauthorized persons, which estopped the local employment office from furnishing workers (and without investigation). Many farmers related experiences with picketing groups; in some cases the workers were intimidated and left their work through fear, part of them returning later. During the orange picking and shipping season during the Fall of 1939, labor agitators appeared in the Tulare County citrus district and as a result of their activities several packing houses and orange groves were picketed and considerable annoyance and delays resulted.

Farm and Packing House Strikes.

It was indicated that some of the employees of packing houses who struck were members of unions in other places and follow various crops during the vegetable and fruit packing season. They were satisfied with wage and working conditions but feared reprisals if they continued work in a house where a strike had been ordered. The Tulare County situation, like many in other places, was brought about by agitators apparently interested only in proselyting workers. The subcommittee found the farmers were paying workers all they could when prices received for the commodities produced were considered, and testimony showing that farm workers in California are the highest paid of any State in the Union was furnished during the hearings.

A number of circulars, photographs and similar material illustrative of actions of picketing methods and advertising "strike" meetings were gathered by the subcommittee during the hearings. These are attached to and made a part of this summary report. Complete transcripts of the several hearings are available. These have been filed with the Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee.

The county SRA director of Plumas, Lassen and Modoc counties was interviewed at the meeting of the committee in Redding, March 21, 1940.

Alpine County has no SRA office nor recipients of State direct relief. This county was not investigated. Amador County has no SRA office nor recipients of direct relief from the State.

Conferences with Supervisors.

The committee invited members of county boards of supervisors and county welfare directors to meet for a free and open discussion of all county welfare and relief problems. The supervisors were especially pleased that representatives of the Legislature had been given the opportunity to confer with them, seeking information, offering assistance and giving first hand information in relation to the activities of the Legislature regarding the relief problem of California.

At practically every meeting, supervisors thanked the committee for its visit, stating that this was the first time to their knowledge that a legislative group met at convenient locations, asking boards of supervisors to sit down with them and discuss problems of vital interest to the counties and the State.

The committee interviewed the county welfare directors of most of the counties. It found an exceptionally high-class personnel, sympathetic, intelligent and efficient, doing a good job, adequately taking care of the indigent and those receiving the other categorical aids, administering aid in the interest of the county as well as the recipient, and with no "new philosophy" complex.

Administration Propaganda.

The committee found that members of the board of supervisors in most all counties had been misled by propaganda issued by the Administration to the effect that if relief was returned to the counties, it would increase the local county tax rate. The propaganda issued in telegrams signed by Culbert L. Olson, Governor, was sent to each chairman of the board of supervisors, each telegram stated a definite figure of tax increase. Similar propaganda was sent to the newspapers using the name of the local county SRA director as author of the statements and also using a definite rate of tax increase. In a number of instances, these press releases were made without the knowledge of the County SRA directors. They had not authorized the use of their names and frankly admitted to the committee that they did not issue the statements credited to them in the press articles.

Supervisors Favor Return of Relief.

After a full discussion of the problem of relief, and an explanation of Assembly Bill No. 105, and the attitude of the Legislature in relation to cooperation with the counties, the members of the county boards of supervisors who were present at the meetings were almost unanimously favorable to the return of relief to the counties and so expressed themselves. The committee endeavored to explain every phase of the relief situation. The general expression used by supervisors at all of the meetings was this: "Well, we didn't understand it that way. If that is the situation, as you gentlemen have explained it, then I am for taking relief back and we can administer it through our county welfare departments."

Untrained SRA Directors.

In interviewing the various SRA county directors the committee learned that the majority in the twenty-nine counties were appointed to the positions in the months of September, October or November in 1939. With few exceptions these county SRA directors had no previous experience in relief, welfare or social service work. Some exhibited a low degree of executive ability and appeared unqualified in other ways for the positions which they hold; while, on the other hand, the majority of them seemed to be conscientiously attempting to do a good job under the handicap of ever changing voluminous rules and regulations of the State Relief Administrator.

SRA Costs High.

County SRA administration cost in the counties investigated will average a minimum of 25 per cent for the calendar year of 1939, although in some counties for certain summer or fall months the administration cost ran up to 40 per cent or in certain counties to 85 per cent; in two exceptional cases the cost of administration during one summer month exceeded the total cost paid to relief recipients.

Figures were obtained from each county welfare director showing the total case load in the county, the number of employees, the total amount paid out for the categorical aids, and the county's cost of administration. It is safe to say, that the cost of county administration in the twenty-nine counties will average approximately 3 per cent.

SRA Overstaffed.

The committee is of the opinion that county SRA offices are overstaffed and that there is no uniformity of administration throughout the year. In some months there is a greater number of employees in an SRA office with a small case load than at other times when a considerably greater case load is handled by fewer employees.

The committee found practically no activity of pressure groups, such as the Workers' Alliance and the State, County and Municipal Workers of America. While in a few counties there had previously existed such pressure groups there apparently is no activity now with the possible exception of some minor agitation in Shasta County.

County Administration Better.

The investigation convinces the committee that the county welfare departments in these rural counties can administer direct relief efficiently, humanely, and at a considerably smaller administrative cost than the SRA. In many counties it will be necessary to add only one or two more employees to the county welfare staffs.

The committee realizes that there is more detail in handling the SRA case load than is required in the administration of the categorical aids but county welfare directors, as a whole, expressed opinions that they could do the job for very little additional administrative cost if they were not hindered by red-tape and a maze of arbitrary and unreasonable rules and regulations.

Summary Report of the Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment for the Southern California Counties.

Subcommittee.

Assemblyman Frederick F. Houser, chairman; Senator Charles Brown; Assemblyman Edward F. O'Day.

Subcommittee Hearings.

Your subcommittee for Southern California on the policy and personnel of the State Relief Administration, which during the past several weeks has been conducting an intensive study and investigation of relief and unemployment, completed its hearings on April 2, 1940. We held public hearings in five different counties located in Southern California. Witnesses testified for more than a week in Los Angeles, the hearings running from Friday, March 15th, to and inclusive of Friday, March 22nd. We then moved to San Bernardino where public hearings were held on March 25th and to Riverside where hearings took place on March 26th. Witnesses from Orange County were also heard at Riverside. On March 27th the four subcommittee chairmen on policy and personnel of the State Relief Administration met with Senator Phillips for a day in San Francisco in order to compare notes as to progress and make suggestions relative to information which had been brought to the attention of their respective committees.

The next day, March 28th, our subcommittee conducted hearings in San Diego, where witnesses from Imperial also appeared. These hearings ran for two days. On April 1st and 2nd we were in Santa Barbara and also heard Ventura's representatives. April 19th the subcommittee held a public hearing in Santa Ana, Orange County.

Senator Charles Brown of Shoshone, who represents Inyo and Mono counties, is presenting a supplementary report.

Politics in Relief Increases.

The most important facts disclosed by our subcommittee hearings and investigations can be summarized as follows:

1. Politics in relief has increased by leaps and bounds since Governor Olson took office. For example, in Riverside County about the only qualification for office of the county director was that during the Olson campaign he was in charge of the distribution of political literature. In San Diego the director was the Olson campaign manager during the 1938 election and since his appointment as director no Republicans, no matter how capable, have been appointed to the SRA staff. These examples are merely typical of what we found everywhere and politics exists all the way down from the director to the case aide.

Relief Cases at New High.

2. Case loads have mounted beyond all reason during the year immediately preceding passage of Senate Bill No. 81, and this in spite of a major pick-up in business conditions and private employment. The average increase had been close to 100 per cent in one year until the Legislature at its special session enacted Senate Bill No. 81. From October of 1938 to October of 1939 the case load in one of the counties jumped from 1600 to 3600, an increase of 125 per cent, and this is likewise typical of the other counties. Testimony from numerous witnesses developed the fact beyond all reasonable dispute that the cause of this tremendous increase in case load can be traced almost entirely to a "liberalization of intake." In other words the case aides, case workers and supervisors in charge of intake, acting in accordance with the wishes of the State Administration, have made it a great deal easier to get on the relief rolls and to stay there, since the coming of the Olson regime. The slogan of some of the large department stores, that "the customer is always right" has been really taken to heart by the SRA.

Some of the increase, but only a small percentage, can be traced to a minority of social workers who are selfishly trying to build up the case load in order to insure the continuance of their own jobs, because if there are no "clients" there is no need for social workers.

However, most social workers are sincere but nevertheless the great majority, having lived with the problem all their lives, have a social service "complex" and the case load is bound to increase unless those in administrative positions put their feet down and do a little thinking about the small taxpayer who is trying to pay for his home and his car and support a family on a good deal less in many instances than the cash dole paid to his next door neighbor who is on relief. The SRA executives during the past year have been over-indulgent and have let the social workers run wild.

"Clients" a Favored Class.

3. Under Governor Olson, relief payments have been used to build up the standard of living of those on relief to what is theoretically called a "standard of decency" even though this standard may be considerably higher than the standard of living of the taxpayer who helps to pay the cash dole for his neighbor.

Typical is the cash dole of $138 per month paid an unskilled laborer who had never in private employment earned over $70 per month.

Just how long will this man's "will to work" survive under such conditions or the "will to work" of his neighbor who works 42 hours a week and receives only $80 per month?

The wages of many working people are far too low, but the way to correct this situation is to raise their wages—not by making relief "clients" a privileged class.

Tax Dollars Wasted.

(4) Extravagance and waste of the taxpayer's money has been caused largely by inefficiency and over-indulgence rather than by actual graft.

Whenever men are appointed to office because of their politics instead of their capabilities and qualifications then waste runs rampant and this is exactly what has happened in the SRA.

In addition to hearing from witnesses in connection with the policy and personnel of the State Relief Administration, we also heard from a number of county supervisors on the problem of unemployment, which generally, of course, was indirectly connected with the personnel and policy of the State Relief Administration. The testimony of the various supervisors in the counties which we visited discloses two important points:

Return of Relief to Counties Would Save Money.

First: Practically all of the supervisors thought that a considerable saving to the taxpayers would be effected if the administration of relief should be returned to the counties. Most of them, but not all of them, were in favor of placing definite limitations on the total relief costs to be borne by the counties. Their reason for such a limitation was that they did not wish to increase the present burden on real estate by being compelled to support the unemployed. They were practically all in favor of returning the administration of relief to the counties provided the State would subsidize the entire relief load, including the so-called categorical aids, to the extent that the total cost borne by the counties, after the transfer of the administration of relief to the counties, would be no higher than the total cost borne by the counties today in connection with the support of the so-called categorical aids plus the indigents.

Second: The cost of administering the categorical aids plus indigent aid in the various counties which we visited varies all the way from five per cent to seven and one-half per cent. Practically all of the county welfare directors who testified concerning administrative costs were of the opinion, however, that administrative costs in connection with relief would be considerably higher than the administrative cost for the categorical aids plus indigent aid.

Supplementary Report of the Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment for the Southern California Counties.

Senator Charles Brown, in the following, gives observations, resulting from his own inquiries and those of the subcommittee for Southern California, as a supplement to the report of the subcommittee chairman, Assemblyman Frederick F. Houser: The SRA office in Bishop (the only office in these two counties) is administered through the SRA office in Bakersfield. At the time of Senator Brown's investigation it cared for 69 cases, with a personnel of three people.

The ramifications of the State Relief Administration are so complicated that it is hard to get a thorough understanding of any one major activity of it.

Enemies of the Deserving.

The general policy of the administration has been to liberalize the interpretation of the intent of how relief should be extended with the result that thousands who should never have been on the relief rolls, have become recipients and relief-minded. These thousands are enemies of the needy and deserving who have had to come to the State for aid through no fault of their own. They use any method that may be required such as hiding incomes and denying many facts to investigators in order to stay on relief. If they are caught a demand is made for restitution to the State.

The Legislature, in part, is responsible for this condition by its failure to pass legislation to prevent these practices, which have been so costly to the State, not only through the large increase of relief recipients but also through an increase in personnel that is almost beyond apprehension.

County directors and others holding executive positions in the State Relief Administration defend the great increase in the relief recipients and personnel, in some instances as much as 125 per cent in one year. None will admit the real cause.

Causes of Increased Relief Costs.

The two major factors which have brought about the increase are: first, the organization of the Workers Alliance into pressure groups which teach individuals who have never thought of relief how to get on the rolls and stay on; second, the liberalization of the intake for relief recipients.

A part of the SRA personnel is organized into what is called the State, County and Municipal Workers of America, a CIO organization which seems to be interested only in holding jobs and making more jobs at the expense of the taxpayers. The union also acts as a pressure group and in some cases has actually dictated the policy of the Relief Administration in counties where the organization is especially active.

Another reason for the inefficiency of the State Relief Administration is the constant shifting of employees from one job to another. Seldom do SRA workers hold positions longer than four months, although they may have been employed for several years. County directorships seem to be the biggest political plums and little consideration has been given as to their eligibility in selecting them.

Other causes that complicate the relief situation include migratory labor, lack of cooperation in the different State departments, political favoritisms in the lower ranks of SRA workers and inadequately trained personnel.

Many leaders of the Workers Alliance and the SCMWA are of political faith that is not American. Neither organization is entitled to consideration which enables it to share money given by taxpayers to relieve hunger and destitution. The Legislature should go as far as possible to correct this situation.

One thing is certain—the relief burden can be made just as large and just as expensive as those who direct the SRA desire unless the Legislature controls the situation with a proper bill which will do justice to the deserving and weed out the chiselers.

Summary Report of the Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment for the San Francisco Bay-Central Coast Area.

The subcommittee charged with the investigation of personnel and policy in the San Francisco Bay-Central Coast area, consisting of Assemblymen C. Don Field, Glendale; Elmer E. Lore, North Hollywood; and Albert C. Wollenberg, San Francisco, reports as follows:

The committee's assignment called for its investigation to be made in nine counties and with the exception of San Benito, the committee held full hearings in all counties.

In the counties of San Luis Obispo, Monterey, Santa Cruz, Santa Clara and San Mateo, we found no particular problem to exist other than the general problem of personnel practices. All of these counties, with the exception of Monterey, had directors appointed since September and October of 1939, all having been chosen because of services rendered during the last political campaign. It is also to be noted that subversive groups do not have a great influence in this area, but confine their activities to the urban counties.

With the exception of San Mateo County, we found an apparent cooperation between the county welfare departments and SRA to the end that they were able to coordinate their work particularly as to the cases involving definition of employables. San Mateo has a peculiar situation which we do not believe exists elsewhere in the State of California.

San Mateo County Problem.

San Mateo County, by ordinance, created an unemployment committee which has functioned continuously since its creation many years ago. This committee, acting under an appropriation from the county board of supervisors, has handled continuously the emergency relief orders in the county and has paid for them with county funds. It has also maintained an office, supervising all sponsored projects in the county and has advanced its funds for these projects. Up to the time of the appointment of the present director, this system has been quite successful and no problems have arisen. At the time this report is written, however, the present county SRA director is engaging in a campaign apparently designed to force the county unemployment committee out of the work they have so successfully carried on. Access to files of cases which they need to continue their work has been denied the committee, although we have the assurance of the State Relief Administration that this matter will be quickly settled. The personnel administering State relief in most of these counties are people trained in social work, who have spent considerable time in this type of work, with the exception of county directors and certain other particular individuals.

SRA Political Pressure.

The committee held hearings in San Francisco County and found that during September and October, 1939, the county director felt the pressure of political influence. It was apparently his belief that he was to be removed and that the State Administration was putting employees around him for the sole purpose of securing his discharge. By his own testimony, San Francisco was overstaffed by approximately one hundred sixty employees, and the county director testified before the committee that he attempted continuously to secure the discharge of all unnecessary personnel, but was not permitted to do so by the State Administration. One witness stated that through the influence of two San Francisco Assemblymen, fifty superfluous employees were placed on the payroll within a period of ten days to two weeks. The committee is in possession of letters and statements made by the director to sustain this report.

SRA Works Projects.

During 1939, San Francisco County Administration of the SRA operated works projects. The bookkeeping and accounting on these projects failed to indicate completely the true condition existing as to costs of their operation, in fact, the committee has evidence showing that the records were deliberately tampered with in an effort to make a good showing on these projects. The best example of this is the case of repair of certain baby high chairs and a small amount of other furniture, at a total cost of approximately $200. The records showed first that two hundred forty hours of work were spent on this small amount of furniture. Another record showed one hundred ninety-four hours, and finally the records showed eighteen to twenty hours work. The county director finally admitted that he could not account for these discrepancies. However, the projects on which these records reflected have been closed for quite a period of time. The county SRA director in San Francisco testified that his personnel is made up of approximately 60 per cent of old employees who have been with him for years. This is contrary to the statement of Mr. Chambers that there has been a general turnover of 80 per cent in the State personnel of the SRA.

"New Philosophy" in Alameda County.

The committee's findings in Alameda County can be summed up in the statement that Alameda County offers one of the best examples of the so-called "New Philosophy." A liberal idea has progressed to the point where members of the Workers Alliance were shown preference in the handling of their cases to the prejudice of nonmembers and where the Administration has taken a definite attitude that relief is a right and it is the duty of the Administration to do all it can to obtain relief for the applicant rather than to put the burden upon the applicant to justify his entering upon the rolls. Since the visit of this committee to Alameda County there has been a drastic change in personnel. Whether or not this liberal idea will be carried on in the future in that county should be the subject of attention by any future legislative inquiry on this subject.

In Contra Costa County the director is a man appointed solely for political reasons, his sole work experience having been that of an electrician for one of the larger oil companies operating in that county. He apparently has no conception of the problem and is subject to influence of a strongly organized union among his employees. Those who oppose the philosophy of this union were summarily discharged even though they were competent and qualified in their work, while employees with a liberal tendency were kept on the payroll. The same condition exists today in Contra Costa as in Alameda County.

Justice in Relief.

Finally, it is our opinion that the primary problem in the administration of relief lies in personnel. State employees entrusted with the expenditure of millions of dollars of the State's money must realize that they are charged with a sacred obligation in handling funds of other people and thus not only do justice to the unfortunate on relief, but at the same time justice to the people who must pay the bill.

Respectfully submitted.

A. C. WOLLENBERG, Chairman.

Minority Report.

On motion of Senator Phillips, the following minority report submitted by Assemblyman Elmer E. Lore, in connection with Part II of the Joint Committee's report, was ordered printed in the Senate Journal:

PART II.*Minority Report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment.

Part II of the majority committee report is almost pure and unadulterated propaganda. It appears to have been designed to prejudice the public against the present State Administration rather than to provide a factual guide for those seriously interested in the problem of unemployment and relief.

There are few sections of this part of the report in which I can concur. For several years, I have been a severe critic of the relief administration. I have condemned practices and policies existing under both the Merriam and the Olson regimes. I would be the last to maintain that the organization is today being operated with uniform efficiency. I would be glad to join with the majority of my colleagues on the committee in signing a report of constructive criticism. Their document, however, does not fall within that category.

Since the majority of the committee is determined to go to almost any length to transfer administration of relief to the counties, they start with the premise that "There is little, if any, indication that a proper solution will come from the present State Administration." The report, following the pattern of a typical propaganda document, then recites what it calls conditions of incompetence, internal disruption and discord, and would lead readers to believe that the few competent administrators in SRA are completely thwarted by political dictation.

Since the majority report appears to be based on nothing more substantial than the opinions of those who wish to hamper and harrass the present Administration, I have no hesitancy in expressing my own opinions on the subject. I believe I am safe in stating that I am personally acquainted with more officials and employees in the State Relief Administration than any other member of the Legislature. It is my conviction based on broad knowledge of their operation that practically all of the personnel of the State Relief Administration are making an honest and conscientious effort to operate an efficient program. I believe that incompetence is the exception and not the rule.

I know from two months' experience in touring the State as a member of this committee that efforts of its members have been devoted primarily to unearthing scandal, isolated instances of incompetence and what the committee report terms evidence of "subversive influences."

No effort has been made to interview and commend any of the thousands of employees in high and low positions who are working long hours to efficiently serve the State of California. Since it was apparently the function of this committee to find sufficient fault with the present State Relief Administration to enable it to turn relief over to the counties, it is not surprising that Section II of the report deals with glaring exceptions to the general rule of competent administration.

Much is made of the "subversive influences" alleged to be at work within SRA and the report directly charges that "Despite repeated statements to the contrary from the Administration, the SRA is being used for the development of the Communist program."

This charge made by an ordinary citizen, without the cloak of legislative immunity, against another citizen would represent criminal libel. No such fantastic charge can be substantiated by the most biased testimony contained in committee transcripts.

The report has much to say about the State, County, and Municipal Workers of America and the Workers Alliance. It is charged that these two organizations, one working from without and one from within have subjected SRA to radical pressure and the statement is made that "Such pressure has no place in a democracy." It should first be cited that these two organizations are nothing new in SRA. Both of them had been exerting their pressures on this organization for several years prior to the advent of the present administration.

Many other groups active in bringing pressure on SRA have also been in existence and still operate. No investigation of "pressure" on SRA would be complete that did not also consider those organizations. The SRA has been, is, and will be under continuous pressure from taxpayers organizations, from farm groups, from county supervisors, from private welfare agencies, from employers, and even at times from the Legislature. Would the committee deny that pressure from these latter groups has no place in a democracy? To me, it would seem inconsistent to deny organized recipients of relief the right to bring pressure on the relief administration but to permit the same pressure from taxpayers organizations. Democracy would appear to me to be in serious danger if the Legislature were to decide that one category of citizens can bring pressure on any agency of government and that this right is denied to another category.

In so far as my knowledge of the committee transcript goes, there is no evidence that Workers Alliance pressure has been effective in loading relief rolls with any substantial number of ineligible. The cases in which Workers Alliance has been able to have persons of doubtful eligibility accepted for relief are extremely rare. Here again the committee tries to prove a general rule by citing isolated exceptions.

I would not deny the right of the State, County, and Municipal Workers of America to organize employees of the State Relief Administration. There is ample precedent for a union of public employees. For many years, the Railway Mail Clerks have had an organized union in the United States Postal Service. It is without doubt true that in certain instances, SCMWA has overstepped the limits of propriety in their zeal to obtain advantages for their members. If the committee would confine its condemnation to these specific instances, I would be glad to join with them in criticism of SCMWA. I am convinced that a preponderant percentage of the members of this organization, however, are efficient and sincere workers, interested primarily in operating a good program.

The State Administration is charged with lack of sincerity in its response to the public demand that "Communist influences" be eliminated from SRA. Since the committee has not seen fit to define the term "Communist" as it is used in this report, it would be an idle gesture to attempt an answer to this charge. What is a Communist? How can one distinguish with certainty between a Democrat, a Prohibitionist, a Communist, and a Republican? I do not know. I do not believe that the committee knows. I believe the test for every employee should be his loyalty to the organization which employs him and competent performance of his duties. No employee who is giving the time and attention necessary to do a good job has any time for the advocacy of revolution.

The transcript of the committee can be searched from end to end without finding any evidence of revolutionary, Communist control within the State Relief Administration that would be accepted as legal evidence in any court in the land.

The majority report criticizes SRA for not providing a full quota of WPA workers and states that an average of 2,000 jobs per month were available for the unemployed in southern California "but of which SRA has never availed itself." No effort in so far as I know was made by the committee to determine whether these jobs were not filled because of failure of local governmental units to provide sufficient funds for sponsorship; whether SRA was unable to provide from its rolls men of the proper classifications and skills or whether it was simply lax in referring eligible clients. Without definite knowledge of the facts in this particular case, I consider the last contingency unlikely.

I agree with the committee that no relief recipient should be permitted to refuse "suitable" employment. I might not, however, agree with them on their definition of the word "suitable." Certainly I can not concur in their recommendation that any relief recipient refusing suitable employment be permanently barred from relief rolls. A relief recipient might have many good reasons for refusing employment deemed suitable by an inexperienced or incompetent social worker.

The committee's objection to employment of relief recipients on production projects is based, in my opinion, on the false premise that the unemployed are supporting trade and industry. As soon as the Legislature realizes that trade and industry supports the unemployed and not the reverse, I believe opposition to placing relief recipients in a position to support themselves will disappear.

Under the heading "Long Range Outlook Urged" the committee indulges in a hodgepodge of inanities. I offer this section of the majority report with items labeled A to N, inclusive, as evidence of the committee's muddled thinking on the subject of unemployment and relief.

The Social Service Department of SRA is severely criticized for terming a relief recipient a "client." To correct this situation, the committee would turn the administration of relief over to county welfare departments who invented the term some years before the organization of the State Relief Administration and who still so designate the people on their rolls.

Social service is also condemned for taking into consideration the size of families in establishing budgets. It is claimed that to a considerable extent the large families are of low standard backgrounds. It is inferentially stated that native-born Americans are getting less than required for maintenance and the committee boasts that the Legislature has partially solved this problem by putting a $58 ceiling on family budgets regardless of size; and they should have added, regardless of the nativity or economic background of the families involved.

In another section of the report, SRA is flayed for the 40 per cent budget cuts inaugurated immediately after the passage of Senate Bill No. 81. On the basis of present knowledge, this reduction may appear to have been unjustified. This, however, is a case in which hindsight is much better than foresight.

During the first 47 days of 1940—January 1 to February 16, inclusive—relief funds were expended at the rate of $210,000 a day. Under the provisions of Senate Bill No. 81 expenditures for the following 44 days from February 17 to March 31 were limited to $125,000 per day. This was a 40 per cent reduction in appropriations. The Relief Administration could not possibly foresee the rapid reduction of case-load which took place.

Case-load does not normally start to decline until the second or third week in March. The drop is then usually rather gradual. This year, the case-load started to decline during the latter part of February and the decline was much sharper than usual. To reinforce its contention that the cut was unnecessary, reference is made to a report by Price, Waterhouse & Co., showing funds available in excess of the claims of SRA on February 16. Not being an accountant, I do not want to become involved in any controversy between the auditors of Price, Waterhouse and SRA. It should be stated, however, that half a million dollars in assets claimed by Price, Waterhouse were in inventories of materials and supplies which included $10,000 worth of labels. Certainly the position of the committee and its financial experts is not strengthened by the inference that these labels might have been issued to relief clients as a part of their subsistence.

Contentions that the centralized accounting methods of SRA are cumbersome, slow, and unworkable may to some extent be justified. SRA, however, uses the same accounting methods required by the Finance Department of all divisions of State government. These regulations were inaugurated by and placed in force and effect years before the present administration arrived on the scene. I could join with the committee in advocating constructive improvements, but not in unqualified condemnation.

The report charges that "thousands of migrants who are now a charge on California taxpayers came here at the implied invitation of the present Governor." Since nothing purporting to carry the text of this "invitation" is included in the report, I challenge the committee to include it in the appendix. Here, as in other points in the report, the committee is inconsistent. Members in public and in committee hearings have alleged that wages for farm labor are higher in California than in any State in the Union. They have spoken with approbation on newspaper comment to this effect. To me, it appears doubtful that the committee can submit any statement of the Governor which might serve as a more effective invitation to California than the claims of high agricultural wages by committee members and by California agricultural organizations.

I could continue at great length with a list of objections and exceptions to the majority report. I could point out what I consider many other inconsistencies. I could enlarge upon the arguments contained herein. In the interests of brevity, however, I am content to state that I am in almost complete disagreement with the entire report.

It is, in my opinion, unworthy to be offered as the recommendation of a legislative fact-finding committee. The few pertinent facts contained are submerged in a sea of propaganda. It is assumed without supporting documentation that since county welfare departments are all good and SRA is all bad, that the entire problem of unemployment relief will be permanently solved by turning administration over to the counties. Neither the general public nor open-minded legislators will, I believe, be seriously influenced by the specious reasoning of this report.

Respectfully submitted.

ELMER E. LORE.

Report.

The following report, representing Part V of the report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment, was received and on motion of Senator Phillips ordered printed in the Journal:

PART V.

A complete audit of the books of the SRA would have cost over $200,000. This estimate was made by a representative of the Department of Finance before the Joint Committee. It would have taken several times the number of days available in the recess. As stated in Part II (Senate Journal May 13th, 1940, page 404) the committee engaged the accounting firm of Price, Waterhouse and Co. to make a limited audit, referring particularly to the condition which existed as of February 15th, and again as of March 31st.

The accountants were also asked to investigate certain special items, including the so-called "revolving fund" of the SRA, and to make comments on procedure.

The date of February 15th was selected for two reasons: This date was used by the Department of Finance to set up a statement of condition, in reply to Assembly House Resolution No. 42, and the State Relief Administration had made its now famous "40 per cent cut" in the checks given to the unemployed men and women of the State. For reasons which will appear later in the Price, Waterhouse report, the committee was justified in questioning the accuracy of the statement made by the Department of Finance, and members of the committee, familiar with balance sheets, were convinced that no cut was justified, from any available figures, at the time.

Assemblyman Norris Poulson, a member of the Joint Committee and an accountant by profession, had been appointed a subcommittee of one to supervise all matters having to do with accounting procedures and conditions in the SRA.

He, together with the chairman, immediately issued a statement, in the name of the committee, indicating that the 40 per cent cut was unjustifiable. The figures on which this statement was based were the same figures used by the SRA in explaining the cut. The cry of "politics" was raised by the Administration. It became a question of opposing statements by interested parties. A disinterested audit was required.

The report of the Department of Finance had indicated that on February 15th, the SRA had only $330,244 on hand, and that this was encumbered to the extent that the SRA actually had a deficit of about $126,138.

The report of Price, Waterhouse and Co. shows that the SRA had on hand as of February 15th an actual figure of $2,896,763. And even if we allow the encumbrances which took the Department of Finance's balance from the black into the red, and omitted all of the inventories of food, clothing, and material (over $300,000 of which could well have been used in lieu of cash to care for needy recipients) there was still more than $2,000,000 available. This supports the committee's contention that no cut of any size could be justified.

It is another argument for simplification, for the dissolution of a topheavy and unwieldy department, and for improvements in methods and procedures. In spite of the ability of its chief accounting officer, and his principal assistant, the department works under difficulties and with procedures and internal disruption which make it impossible for the administrator or anyone else to know what has happened in the SRA until two months later.

In presenting the report of Price, Waterhouse and Co., which becomes a part of the full report, Assemblyman Poulson made certain comments on the findings:

PRICE, WATERHOUSE AND COMPANY REPORT.

The Department of Finance is considered the highest authority for all financial information pertaining to State accounting and, due to the fact that the correctness of certain statements coming from this division was questioned by the members of the Legislature, it became necessary to seek the services of one of the largest firms of certified public accountants to determine the correctness of the facts under question. Price, Waterhouse and Company, an international firm of certified public accountants, was selected for this audit.

The report from Price, Waterhouse and Company is being submitted to the committee and the following statements will only contain the highlights of this audit report.

Instead of $330,244.16 available for relief as of February 16, 1940, there was available $2,896,763.00 (the differences are explained in the Price, Waterhouse and Company report).

Summarizing briefly the causes for this condition, they are:

Cumbersome accounting procedure set up by the Department of Finance;

Magnitude of SRA state-wide activities;

Accounting error of $264,817 made by the Department of Finance;

Disencumbrance of items which should not have been encumbered.

Approximate amount available at March 31, 1940, for continuance of relief program, or in other words, unexpended portion of appropriation for the period up to March 31, 1940—$2,856,000.

The approximate amount of relief withheld due to the 40 per cent cut amounts to $1,300,000.

The balance on hand, March 31, 1940, definitely proves that, not only should there not have been a cut, but also the fact that, if the full amount had been paid, they would still have had available, an amount in excess of $1,000,000.

Material on Hand.

(Note: In showing the money available for the unemployed on February 15th neither the Department of Finance nor the SRA took into account supplies of food, clothing and other useful items on hand, and which otherwise they would have to buy.)

Daily Averages.

No better evidence of the money saving to the taxpayers, without hardship to the unemployment, could be given than the following figures from Mr. Poulson's statement. These are the average daily expenditures for relief for equal periods at the end of 1939; the first 46 days of 1940, and, finally, for 46 days after the Legislature passed Senate Bill No. 81. A saving of $66,000 per day is not to be ignored!

The daily expenditures have continued to drop since this figure was computed. The seasonal drop in case load had not yet begun. For comparison, the average salary figures for the same three periods are also shown. There was no corresponding drop. The figures follow:

Comparative Daily Relief Costs—46-day periods.

Daily average, Nov. 15 to Dec. 31, 1939	$137,000
Daily average, Jan. 1 to Feb. 15, 1940	186,800
Daily average, Feb. 16 to Mar. 31, 1940	120,200

Comparative Daily Salary Costs—46-day periods.

Daily average, Nov. 13 to Dec. 31, 1939	$19,200
Daily average, Jan. 1 to Feb. 15, 1940	21,800
Daily average, Feb. 16 to Mar. 31, 1940	20,500

The total salaries and wages from February 16th to March 31, 1940, was $1,076,000.

The relief picture condensed for the 46-day period ending March 31, 1940, would be as follows:

Out of each and every relief dollar expended during this period, only 70 cents was paid in cash relief.

The full relief dollar was divided as follows:

Direct relief -----	$0.70
Camp and work programs -----	.095
Administrative salaries and wages -----	.17
Traveling expenses -----	.015
Telephone -----	.005
Rent -----	.005
Other expenses -----	.01
Total -----	$1.00

Single Men's Camps.

Seven hundred one thousand five hundred four dollars is invested in single men's camps; the approximate cost per man for care in these camps is $24.15 per month. This does not include any portion of depreciation on the investment in camps. During the last 46-day period, the SRA spent $11,000 for tobacco for the men.

SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT.

In addition to the Price, Waterhouse & Co. report, the Joint Committee requested the Controller's office for certain information regarding SRA purchases between January 1, 1938, and March 31, 1940.

Mr. Poulson's comments on the results of this are:

SRA Purchases.

The following information was obtained through the Controller's office of the State of California and was taken from paid vouchers and invoices between January 1, 1938, and March 31, 1940.

It was only possible, due to the short time and limited funds, to make spot checks. It could be logically assumed that what applied to the specific items tested would likewise apply to other expenditures. The information obtained applies to both unidentifiable items as well as identifiable items with serial numbers.

Inventories were requested from the State Relief Administration on certain items and they were taken and certified to by the parties in charge of each particular office.

Testimony given by the personnel officers and executives of SRA show that the personnel has increased approximately two thousand during 1939. Supplementing this increase in personnel, attention is called to the fact that many labor-saving devices were purchased during this period; for example:

During past nine months, 57 comptometers -----	$17,876.79
Since January 1, 1939, 119 Ediphones -----	22,026.86
(Since each Ediphone is supposed to eliminate 5 persons, that would account for about 600 employees.)

Stapling machines -----	$3,326.75
(392 were purchased in 1938 and 1,098 purchased since January 1, 1939, at an average cost of $2.50. There are only 2,096 on hand which would show that for all prior years they only had 606, which is not consistent.)
1 Multiith machine -----	1,305.50
2 Electric letter opening machines -----	257.50
761 Typewriters -----	61,094.78
(Having the serial numbers of the machines purchased, we were able definitely to ascertain the numbers of 22 typewriters purchased in the last two years which are not included in the inventory given by the SRA. Fifteen of these were purchased during 1939. The SRA has on hand, 3009 typewriters, including those still rented. This number would approximately allow one typewriter for every two employees, including truck drivers, clerks, help, etc.)
Pencil sharpeners -----	1,285.90
(There were 22 pencil sharpeners purchased in 1938 against 367 purchased in 1939. Attention is called to the fact that the average cost of these pencil sharpeners was $3.30. This price is a wholesale price, the average cost of these sharpeners is above the cost of those found in private offices.)

During the past two years, the SRA has purchased 736 tents for the camps amounting to $38,961. (The inventory, as of March 31, 1940, shows 1,088 on hand, with tents being distributed throughout the State. It must be borne in mind that the tents were used primarily when the camps were first being constructed; at the present time, there are only a few camps using tents. No attempt was made apparently to bring in the tents from camps where they were not being used at present, for redistribution to other camps needing them; instead, the SRA has purchased 175 new ones during the last three months, costing $5,957.20.)

The SRA purchased 55,739 blankets during this two-year period amounting to $110,089.12 (with an inventory of 88,293 blankets, or a ratio of approximately eight blankets to every man based upon their peak load record, they still purchased 7,700 blankets during the last three months which are included in the inventory given).

Reports from the subcommittees showed that unused cots in the different camps were exposed to the elements. The SRA still purchased 504 new ones during the last three months.

The automotive equipment on hand, according to the inventory, was 500 pieces. The SRA purchased 201 pieces of equipment during the past two years amounting to $172,041.65. (Among these purchased was a seven-passenger, model 1939, Buick sedan, which has been turned over to the Governor's Office. The Governor's Office has not paid for this car.)

The information shows that the percentage of wrecks for the SRA equipment is higher than any other State department.

The cost of tires and tubes for the past two years has amounted to $37,438.23.

Attention is called to the State Board of Control Rule 150, which should have been enforced by either the Administration or the Department of Finance:

"Use of Telephones and Telegraph. The telegraph and long-distance telephone may be used only in cases of emergency or when there is a specific instruction to use these means of communication and they shall not be used where a letter would be equally effective. Otherwise, the cost of the service may be charged to the official or employee responsible."

The telephone and telegraph bills paid to just three major telephone and two telegraph companies during the past nine months amounted to $163,084.01. (Of this amount, $25,587.24 was paid in February, 1940 and $29,377.18 was paid in March, 1940.) A breakdown of the individual charges shows extravagance. Many employees made several calls daily to the same persons in adjoining communities and each charge would be in excess of $1; this was a daily practice. There were calls from all sections of the State, especially from San Francisco to Los Angeles and reverse; these calls range from $5 to $15 per call.

On the basis of these excessive telephone and telegraph charges, it would be assumed that that would have eliminated excessive traveling expenses. To the contrary, we find that, during

March, this expense amounted to.....	$54,454.97
In February, it amounted to.....	$41,425.28
In January, it amounted to.....	$62,686.37

(An analysis of these expenses discloses that they were made chiefly by employees in the higher brackets and not by the low-salaried case-worker. Some of the inconsistencies disclosed in these traveling expenses are that the same trips were made several times daily. An extreme case shows a traveling steward traveling 1,958 miles in his privately owned automobile in ten consecutive days, or an average of 195.8 miles per day. The question can be raised as to how much work this man can do after traveling this number of miles per day. This same employee was recently involved in an automobile wreck.)

Another inconsistency is allowing, for example, a field representative with headquarters in Los Angeles and assigned to San Joaquin Valley for several months without break to draw expenses because his duties were away from his home station; this type of expense, of course, is paid in addition to the salary.

Many of these mileage claims cover expense for the use of privately-owned cars which parallel adequate common carrier service which is much cheaper in the cost of transportation. Authorization in permitting employees to make these trips must be signed by the State Relief Administrator, which procedure precludes the State Controller from adjusting these accounts to the less expensive mode of transportation. This is one privilege which has been abused.

Contrary to the order issued by Governor Olson that no State employee shall be permitted to lobby, expense accounts submitted by various SRA employees denote that many expenses were incurred in Sacramento, during the recent special session of the Legislature. It was noted that most of these accounts were in favor of Community Relations Department employees of the SRA. This is the Publicity Department which the Legislature dissolved.

Recommendations.

A careful analysis of the mechanical set-up of the State Relief Administration would definitely lead to the conclusion that there must be a disintegration of the SRA:

The practical impossibility of completing records within two months;

The lack of proper control over administrative and also sectional officers;

The excessive telephone bills in attempting to operate this "octopus";

The lack of business coordination in the handling of supplies;

The excessive mileage and expenses of those traveling around the State;

And, not to be overlooked, the erection of a gigantic political machine, evidenced by frequent calls to the different hiring officers throughout the State and the resulting appointments; all lead to that one inevitable solution, disintegration!

Change in the State Financial Accounting:

Results have definitely proven the urgent need of more adequate accounting records in the State of California.

At present, the highest accounting authority from the standpoint of obtaining financial information concerning the other departments is the Department of Finance. The Legislators have heretofore looked to the Chief of the Division of Budgets and Accounts and his assistants for any and all such information, especially is this true when budgets are presented.

For that reason, special emphasis should be laid on accurate information furnished by them. They must expect that misstatements will create lack of faith and confidence.

Since the 1939 budget was passed, many new positions have been created which were not supposed to have been included therein, according to the representatives of the Department of Budgets and Accounts.

The answer to Senator Metzger's request for the number of automobiles owned by the State of California was not complete. Data relative to certain departments were omitted.

The committee asked for a report on SRA automotive equipment. When confronted as to certain differences in it, the Department of Finance stated that the report had not been checked but had been transmitted from SRA through it.

There was a discrepancy in the amount submitted by the Department of Finance as the telephone bills for SRA and the amount submitted by the Controller's office; this also was explained as a "clerical error." The figure given by the Department of Finance was about $43,000. The correct figure was over $186,000.

Great importance was placed on the February 16, 1940, report of SRA finances and, realizing, as the department should have,

that the Legislature wanted to know what funds were available for relief as of that date, there can be no legitimate reason for approving an incorrect statement.

Therefore, it is recommended that the Legislature create the office of Legislative Auditor. It will be the duty of the Legislative Auditor and his assistants to analyze all budgets and departmental statements, make departmental audits to verify the necessity for the increase in budgets and render any financial information of the State which has been requested by the Legislature.

The Legislative Auditor will serve the Legislature in the capacity of an auditor, the same as the Legislative Counsel now serves the Legislature in the capacity of a legal advisor.

Another suggestion as an alternative of the above recommendation would be that the powers of the Controller be enlarged and it become his duty to make post audits of all departments and submit his reports to both the Governor and Legislature.

*Joint Senate-Assembly Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment of the California Legislature,
Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SIRs: Pursuant to your instructions we have made a limited review of accounting records of California State Relief Administration (hereinafter referred to as the Administration) primarily for the purpose of establishing from such records, without making an audit, the approximate amounts of (1) funds available as of February 15, 1940, and March 31, 1940, from appropriations for the current (91st) fiscal year, and (2) changes in position during the intervening period with expenditures segregated by principal purposes. In so far as we could in the time at our disposal we have obtained certain additional information that we believe may be helpful to the committee in its study of the Administration's financial affairs.

The records are so maintained that in order to determine the Administration's position as of any fairly recent date, and its expenditures during any recent period, it is necessary to make certain assumptions. This is due in part to its accounting methods (which we understand follow generally those prescribed by the Department of Finance for all State agencies), but chiefly, we think, to the lapse of time between the incurring of liabilities and the actual recording of such liabilities for payment. To some extent this delay is attributable to the Administration's State-wide activities but much of it could doubtless be obviated by revisions in procedure; for example, with minor exceptions, movements of warehouse materials in one month are not recorded in the accounts until the succeeding month, and utility bills containing disputed items are not recorded until the dispute has been settled which usually involves considerable delay. We believe that the necessary assumptions we have made in arriving at the figures set forth in this report and the attached exhibits are based on valid premises and that the margin of error that may result from these assumptions is not of sufficient relative importance to lead to erroneous conclusions.

In this report and the attached exhibits amounts have been expressed to the nearest thousand dollars except where lesser amounts are involved or where, for identification, more precise amounts seem desirable; cents have been omitted in all instances.

Position as at February 15, 1940.

At the commencement of our review the committee supplied us with a copy of a letter, dated February 21, 1940, addressed to the Assembly by Mr. Fred W. Links, Chief of the Budget and Accounts Division of the Department of Finance, reporting upon a test-check audit of the Administration's funds made under his supervision as of the opening of business February 16, 1940. In the following summary of that letter, the items have been rearranged somewhat:

Assets:

Cash in treasury, per State Controller's records at opening of business February 16, 1940-----	$2,716,788
Relief warrants unsold -----	1,600,000
	$4,316,788
Less—Claims in transit reflected on Administration's books for which warrants had not on that date been drawn by the Controller-----	412,005
	<hr/>
Actual unapplied cash balance available to meet Administration's expenditures -----	$3,904,783

Liabilities:

Unliquidated encumbrances—
Salaries and wages for February, 1940-----	$752,762
Salaries and wages for previous months-----	325,087
	$1,077,849
Emergency relief orders issued or in process of issuance -----	462,537
Purchase orders—food for camps-----	433,878
Service and expense items—contracts to end of month incurred -----	640,525
Miscellaneous encumbrances, WPA and Cooperatives	655,627
Miscellaneous property and equipment-----	134,123
	$3,404,539
Estimated "back-log" of emergency relief orders in transit from Los Angeles County-----	170,000
Aggregate liabilities unpaid-----	$3,574,539

Uncommitted cash balance available for future commitments in continuance of relief program on and after February 16, 1940-----	<hr/>
	$330,244

Mr. Links' letter added that on February 16 and 17, 1940, cash relief payrolls were written in the amount of $456,382, which established commitments of $126,138 in excess of the available cash of $330,244 shown above.

The Administration's transactions through February 15, 1940, were not posted separately in the general ledger inasmuch as such postings are customarily made in monthly totals. However, we were able to identify the figures in Mr. Links' letter (precisely in some instances and within narrow limits of difference in others) by referring to the Administration's underlying detail records as at February 15, 1940, except as follows:

Emergency relief orders issued and in process of issuance—
$462,537:

Records of all but $10,193 of these were in the Administration's San Francisco office, which we did not visit. We inspected a teletype message from that office, dated February 21, 1940, reporting that the records showed encumbrances of $452,344 at February 15, 1940, but it subsequently developed that $13,790 thereof related to the 90th fiscal year and therefore should not have been reported. Estimated "back-log" of emergency relief orders in transit—

$170,000:

This represents an estimate of the amount to be encumbered upon the issuance of emergency relief orders. We were informed that the estimate was calculated as follows:

"Referral forms" (explained below) outstanding at February 15, 1940:

Los Angeles County-----	$102,950
San Francisco County-----	3,000
Other counties -----	13,000
	$118,950

Relief orders written but not encumbered—"Back-log" approximately five days, and daily average slightly under $10,000-----	48,000
	$166,950

Amount used for estimate----- $170,000

"Referral forms" are given to relief beneficiaries who are considered to require medical or dental attention, the cost of which is not known until the doctor, dentist or druggist has been consulted. Estimates of the number of such forms outstanding at February 15, 1940, with respect to Los Angeles County, the average cost that each form would involve, and the resulting totals were:

Forms for	No.	Average	Total
Physicians' and dentists' reports on first visits -----	15,000	$4 00	$60,000
Medical and dental appliances-----	500	5 00	2,500
Dental examination and record-----	1,500	20 00	30,000
Medical prescriptions -----	11,000	95	10,450
As above-----			$102,950

It seems to us that outstanding referral forms do not constitute an encumbrance of funds and they are not so treated in the Administration's accounting. We have therefore disregarded them in our calculation of the position at February 15 and at March 31, 1940. At the latter date, such outstanding forms did not involve in excess of $10,000 according to estimates made by employees of the accounting department.

Our review of the records disclosed the following with respect to the figures in Mr. Links' letter of February 21, 1940:

1. The amount of $412,005 shown as claims in transit for which warrants had not been drawn by the State Controller represents the net amount of the following:

Claims filed with State Controller but not recorded as disbursements in the Administration's records—
Cash relief .....	$395,970
Emergency relief orders.....	50,371
Salaries and wages.....	268,486
Materials and supplies.....	189,248
Services and expenses.....	57,801
Property and equipment.....	6,203
	$968,079

Less —Warrants in payment of certain of the above claims drawn on or before February 15, 1940 (this item includes $264,817 for salaries and wages mentioned below) .....	299,398
	$668,681

Less —Abatements collected and warrants redeposited by the Administration, not remitted to State Treasurer until after February 15, 1940.....	$227,092
Abatements receivable at February 15, 1940.....	29,584
	$256,676

Amount shown as claims in transit.....	<hr/> <hr/> $412,005

2. The amount of $325,087 shown as unliquidated encumbrance for salaries and wages for months prior to February, 1940, erroneously included $264,817 which had been paid by warrants drawn on February 14 and 15, 1940, before the establishment of the Administration's cash balance in treasury, viz., $2,716,788 (see the preceding tabulation).
3. Other unliquidated encumbrances as of February 15, 1940, totaling some $2,327,000, represented in substantial part the difference between amounts that had been encumbered for various purposes by budget estimates and amounts actually expended or owing for such purposes, rather than actual liabilities of the Administration.

4. There was not listed among the Administration's assets any amount for materials and supplies that were on hand or in transit at February 15, 1940, for use in subsequent periods.

In the latter part of February and in March, 1940, the Administration reverted (i.e., disencumbered) about $754,000 that had been included as unliquidated encumbrances in its detailed records at February 15, 1940. At the commencement of our review on April 3, 1940, we ascertained that these detail records still included at March 31, 1940, substantial amounts representing the excess of budget estimates for periods prior to February 15, 1940, over actual expenses. At our request, Mr. E. A. Serafino, Chief Accounting and Financial Officer of the Administration, instructed employees to review the encumbrance records and as a result additional reversions totaling some $250,000 were made in April, 1940, and further reversions (of salaries and wages) are to be made in amounts not yet determined but estimated by employees at $175,000. These reversions, including the estimate of $175,000 aggregate $1,179,000 and are summarized on Exhibit 1 which shows also a reconciliation of unliquidated encumbrances as at February 15, 1940.

As a result of our review, we believe that the Administration's position at February 15, 1940, with respect to appropriations for the current (91st) fiscal year was approximately as follows:

Assets:

Cash balance in State treasury as reported by State Controller -----	$2,716,788
Remittances in transit to State treasury for abatements collected and warrants redeposited-----	227,091
	$2,943,879
Relief warrants unsold as reported by State Controller_	1,600,000
(these were sold on February 26, 1940)
Abatements receivable -----	29,584
Materials and supplies on hand-----	506,000
	<hr/>
	$5,079,463

Liabilities:

Claims filed but unpaid -----	$668,680
Unliquidated encumbrances applicable to period prior to February 15, 1940, per Exhibit 1-----	1,514,020
	$2,182,700

Approximate amount available at February 15, 1940, for continuance of relief program-----	$2,896,763
---	--------------------

The above summary does not reflect certain asset and liability accounts that are carried in the Administration's records; such accounts and the reasons for their exclusion are explained in a separate section of this report.

The amount shown above as available at February 15, 1940, for continuance of the relief program exceeds by $2,566,519 the amount shown in Mr. Links' letter of February 21, 1940; this difference comprises:

Unliquidated encumbrances at February 15, 1940, subsequently reverted by the Administration (including an estimated $175,000 salaries and wages to be reverted) per Exhibit 1-----	$1,179,423
(Note.—The reversions of salaries and wages included in the above amount had the effect of correcting the error of $264,817 referred to previously.)
Exclusion of encumbrances that related to periods after February 15, 1940 ($706,312) and to the prior fiscal year ($13,790)-----	720,102

Changes During Period February 16 to March 31, 1940.

As previously mentioned, the Administration's records were not closed as at February 15, 1940. Although the underlying detail records of encumbrances, and of certain other accounts, are so maintained that balances as of dates other than month-ends can be ascertained, this condition does not obtain with respect to most of the accounts, particularly those relating to operating expenditures, movements of materials and supplies (which are not recorded until the succeeding month), abatements, etc. Consequently, many complications arose in determining the amounts attaching to the various elements that entered into the changes in position from February 15 to March 31, 1940, and certain estimates and assumptions had to be made in the light of the best available information. There follows a summary of such changes which, we believe, is sufficiently accurate for all practical purposes:

Approximate amount available at February 15, 1940, as shown by the summary on page 6-----	$2,897,000
Proceeds from sale of relief warrants in March, 1940, as reported by State Controller-----	5,500,000
(Note.—The State Controller reported also the sale on February 26, 1940, of $1,600,000 relief warrants that were included among the available assets as at February 15, 1940.)
Proceeds of loan from Architecture Fund on March 6, 1940-----	1,500,000
Repayment of above loan on March 8, 1940-----	(1,500,000)
	$8,397,000

Operating expenditures applicable to period February 16 to March 31, 1940, per Exhibit 3-----	$5,532,000
Payments to State Employees Retirement Fund-----	18,000
Other changes, net-----	(9,000)
	<hr/>
	$5,541,000

Approximate amount available at March 31, 1940, for continuance of relief program-----	$2,856,000
--	--------------------

The composition of the net amount of $9,000 shown above as other changes can not be ascertained without unreasonable effort but it is known that the principal elements of the amount are:

The excess of actual collections (chiefly for board of WPA workers housed in camps for single men) and relief warrants redeposited after February 15, 1940, over the portion thereof that was applied in reduction of operating expenditures for the period February 16 to March 31, 1940.

Loss—The amount, if any, by which operating expenditures after February 15, 1940, applicable to prior periods exceeded the liabilities established therefor at February 15, 1940, whether by encumbrance or otherwise.

Loss—Expenditures in connection with SRA Rehabilitation Training Project not reflected in operating expenditures and net advances to Self-Help Cooperatives, referred to hereinafter.

The above amount of $2,856,000 comprised the following assets and liabilities as at March 31, 1940:

Assets:

Cash balance in State treasury-----	$3,866,000
($3,865,936 reported by State Controller)
Remittances in transit to State treasury for abatements collected and warrants redeposited-----	219,000
Abatements receivable-----	27,000
Materials and supplies on hand-----	527,000
	<hr/>
	$4,639,000

Liabilities:

Claims filed but unpaid-----	$373,000
Accrued salaries and wages (being the amount paid from April 1 to 15, 1940)-----	633,000
Unliquidated encumbrances applicable to period prior to March 31, 1940, per Exhibit 2-----	777,000
	$1,783,000

Net assets, as above-----	$2,856,000
---------------------------	--------------------

The above summary does not reflect certain asset and liability accounts that are carried in the Administration's records; such accounts and the reasons for their exclusion are explained in a separate section of this report.

Operating Expenditures.

As previously mentioned, the Administration's records of operating expenditures are posted in monthly totals; these totals are posted to underlying detail records as expenditures of the month to which they applied rather than the month in which they were made. Cash relief expenditures are regarded as applicable to the month in which made; with minor exceptions all other expenditures in a particular month, and the recorded movements of warehouse materials, relate to preceding months. Consequently it was necessary to make numerous adjustments to the figures shown by the records in order to ascertain the approximate amount of operating expenditures applicable to the period February 16 to March 31, 1940 (Exhibit 3); the more important of these adjustments are explained briefly below:

The amount of cash relief payrolls for February 16 to 29, inclusive, was determined by listing the claims filed therefor with the State Controller. Relief warrants redeposited and other abatements of cash relief rolls shown in the records as applicable to the month of February were allocated to the periods prior and subsequent to the 15th in the relative proportions of the amounts of claims filed for cash relief rolls.

Expenditures under emergency relief orders for the month of February were reduced by the amount ($449,000) that was treated as encumbered for such purpose at February 15 and such expenditures for March were increased by the amount ($165,000) encumbered at March 31.

The amounts of materials and supplies issued from warehouses in February were applied one-half to the periods prior to February 15; the amounts issued in March (which were not recorded until April) were ascertained from summaries of stores movements and treated as expenditures in March, 1940.

In general, one-half of the amounts of other expenditures recorded as applicable to the month of February were treated as relating to the period after February 15. Records of unliquidated encumbrances for these expenditures were reviewed in such detail as was practicable (and discussed with employees of the Administration's accounting department where that seemed desirable) and the amounts thus determined to be applicable to the period February 16 to March 31 were so treated. In this connection, salaries and wages paid from April 1 to 15, 1940 (about $633,000), were eliminated from unliquidated encumbrances at March 31 and applied to the periods to which they related as shown by the payrolls.

A statement of operating expenditures for the six months ended December 31, 1939, is also submitted as Exhibit 4. The figures therein are as shown by the Administration's detail records of expenditures by periods to which they relate, except that there has been added the amount of unliquidated encumbrances for emergency relief orders at December 31, 1939 (determined from reports to be about $359,000). This was done because expenditures under such orders are treated in the underlying records as applicable to the month in which made except at the end of a fiscal year; consequently, such expenditures in the early part of the six-month period that applied to (and were encumbered in) the preceding fiscal year were not reflected in the detail records for the 91st fiscal year. By the adjustment referred to, the expenditures for the six-month period are more fairly stated and are made comparable in this respect with expenditures for the period February 16 to March 31, 1940.

We have not prepared a statement of expenditures for the period January 1 to February 15, 1940, in the form of the statements for the subsequent period to March 31, 1940, and for the six months ended December 31, 1939. However, we ascertained totals of the more significant classifications of expenditures applicable to the period January 1 to February 15, 1940, which we believe are comparable fairly with those for the other periods. There follows a tabulation showing significant totals of operating expenditures (expressed in thousands of dollars) and relative percentages; the figures in Column I represent averages for a 46-day period in the last half of 1939 (being one-fourth of the appropriate amounts shown on Exhibit 4 for the six months ended December 31, 1939), those in Column II relate to the 46-day period January 1 to February 15, 1940, and those in Column III are for the 45-day period February 16 to March 31, 1940, as shown in Exhibit 3:

	Column I		Column II		Column III

	1,083	17.1	1,257	14.6	1,130	20.4
Total expenditures-----	6,340	100.0	8,595	100.0	5,532	100.0

In considering the expenditures for relief and for administration, and the relative percentages, applicable to the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, the following facts should be borne in mind:

The number of persons on cash relief payrolls reached its peak in the week ended February 15, 1940, and was followed by a sharp decline that continued at least through the week ended April 18, 1940, as shown by the statistical information set forth in Exhibit 6.

For a portion of the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, the amounts paid to persons remaining on cash relief payrolls were reduced substantially. In this connection we were informed that on February 24, 1940, all cash relief payrolls were reduced to 60 per cent of the then established budgets, were increased to 70 per cent on March 9 and restored to the original budgets on March 21 at which level they continued through March 31, 1940. In confirmation of this we made tests of payrolls selected by us for San Joaquin and San Bernardino Counties and for three districts in Los Angeles County, three in San Francisco County, and three in Alameda County. Because of the large number of relief cases on these payrolls it was not practicable to extend our tests to each relief case, but by the use of averages developed by us from the respective payrolls and by supplementary tests of a number of individual cases, we satisfied ourselves that the schedule of adjustments referred to had been given effect.

It is obvious that administrative expenditures could not have been reduced in the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, proportionately to the reduction in relief expenditures because (1) there is necessarily a lag between reductions (or increases) in the relief case load and in administrative costs nor will the changes necessarily be in the same proportions, and (2) reductions (or increases) in amounts paid to persons remaining on cash relief payrolls would have no appreciable effect on administrative expenditures.

We have calculated that the reductions referred to above in payments to persons remaining on the cash relief rolls in the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, amounted to approximately $1,300,000. If such reductions had not been made, relief expenditures for the period would have amounted to about $5,720,000 and total expenditures to $6,850,000, and the percentages would have been: 75.9 per cent cash relief payrolls, emergency relief orders, etc., 7.6 per cent for other relief expenditures, and 16.5 per cent for administrative expenditures, instead of the percentages shown in the preceding tabulation as 70.1 per cent, 9.5 per cent, and 20.4 per cent, respectively.

It will be observed that the percentage of expenditures applicable to relief was higher, and the percentage applicable to administration was lower, for the period January 1 to February 15, 1940 (Column II in the above tabulation), than for the average 46-day period in 1939, or for the period February 16 to March 31, 1940. This is explained by the fact that the peak of the relief load was in the period January 1 to February 15, 1940 (as evidenced by the summary of persons under care shown on Exhibit 6), and therefore the cost of administration for that period, although greater in amount, was a smaller percentage of total expenditures.

All amounts shown in this report and in the exhibits as direct relief and as administrative expenditures are net of the following credits:

Direct Relief.

Relief warrants drawn but not delivered to beneficiaries which were redeposited in the State treasury.

Abatements, relatively unimportant in amount, which represent chiefly collections from school districts in respect of additional payments (15 per cent of the previously established budget) to relief beneficiaries who act as guards at school crossings; the gross payments to such persons are included in cash relief payrolls.

Administrative.

Actual collections from school districts referred to above are at the rate of 20 per cent of the previously established budget for school crossing guards. The additional 5 per cent is applied in reduction of county administrative salaries and wages; we understand that the school districts were willing to contribute this additional 5 per cent because of added administrative costs resulting from the assignment of crossing guards.

The total amount of abatements credited to administrative expenditures is relatively unimportant.

The expenditures for resident projects (camps for single men) applicable to the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, amounted to $297,000 before deducting abatements of $83,000 which, with minor exceptions, represented collections from W. P. A. employees living at certain of the camps; we were informed that these employees are supposed to pay board at the rate of $20 per month each. The number of man-days for all camps during that 45-day period, segregated between relief beneficiaries and W. P. A. employees, were ascertained from the Administration's statistical records and these data indicated that the expenditures of $297,000 and the abatements of $83,000 were equivalent, respectively, to about $18.50 and $16.50 per man-month. The man-month costs shown by the Administration's statistical reports for eight months to February 29, 1940, and for the month of March, 1940, are summarized below:

	To
	February 29, 1940	March, 1940
Food -----	$11.24	$10.10
Clothing -----	1.42	.86
Tobacco -----	.70	.64
Medical attention -----	.92	.91
Cash relief -----	.96	.73
Operating salaries -----	4.23	3.99
Fuel, supplies, etc. -----	4.68	3.04
	<hr/> $24.15	<hr/> $20.27

According to these statistical records, the average man-days per month for the eight months to February 29, 1940, were about 239,300 and the man-days in the month of March, 1940, were about 319,400, which explains the reduction in man-month costs reflected in the preceding tabulation. The costs at the thirty-one camps that were operated during March, 1940, ranged from $14.47 at Gigling camp (1,121 man-days) to $35.22 at White House camp (165 man-days).

The Administration's division of planning and research prepares weekly statistical reports showing among other things the number of relief cases and the number of persons under care in each of the counties and in camps for single men. There is submitted as Exhibit 6 a tabulation prepared from such reports for the weeks ending January 4, February 1, February 15, February 29, March 28, and April 13, 1940, showing separately the figures for the ten principal counties.

We understand that the Administration is preparing, and will submit to the committee, statistical information regarding the number of employees for various periods to a recent date; at the time we completed our review current statistics of this nature were not available.

Materials and Supplies.

The amount of $527,000 shown for materials and supplies in the summary of position as at March 31, 1940, represented the general ledger balance for warehouse stocks at that date as adjusted for warehouse transactions in March that are to be recorded in April and for charges relating to the SRA Rehabilitation Training Project referred to hereinafter. The amount of $506,000 shown in the summary of position as at February 15, 1940, was determined in a similar manner and on the assumption that one-half of the warehouse transactions for February (recorded in March) applied to the period after February 15.

The adjusted ledger balance at March 31, 1940, comprised about $313,000 for produced stores and $214,000 for purchased stores. Produced stores are kept in the Administration's warehouse at 1002 Santa Fe Avenue, Los Angeles, and with minor exceptions comprise items produced by self-help cooperative units. We inspected lists of the items comprising produced stores at March 31, 1940, which were said to have been determined by a physical inventory taken at that date from which we prepared the following summary:

Food products—

Jams, jellies, etc.-----	$95,000
Canned vegetables, soups, etc.-----	75,000
Canned fruits -----	55,000
Other -----	49,000
	<hr/>
	$274,000
Wearing apparel and cloth goods-----	20,000
Soaps, cleaners, etc.-----	6,000
Household furniture -----	3,000
Other, chiefly labels, etc.-----	10,000
	<hr/>
	$313,000

Based upon discussions with Mr. Serafino, it appears that the stocks of certain items, particularly jams, jellies, etc., are considerably in excess of present requirements.

We were informed that physical inventories of purchased stores were also taken at March 31, 1940. We did not inspect the inventory sheets as they were at the Administration's San Francisco office where records of all purchased stores are summarized; however, available summaries of these inventories indicated that purchased stores at March 31, 1940, comprised:

Housekeeping supplies (for camps)-----	$41,000
Food -----	25,000
Clothing -----	23,000
Medical supplies -----	11,000
Tobacco -----	5,000
Stationery and office supplies-----	49,000
Construction stores (chiefly plumbing and hardware)	57,000
Automotive supplies -----	8,000
Other -----	15,000
	$234,000

of which about $155,000 was in the San Francisco area (principally in the Emeryville warehouse) and $79,000 was in the Los Angeles area (principally in the warehouse at 1002 Santa Fe Avenue).

It will be observed that the amount of purchased stores reflected by the inventory summaries exceeded the adjusted ledger balance by about $20,000. This difference is caused by entries in prior months relating to stores transactions of the Administration's Works and Rehabilitation project; accounting department employees are at present analyzing these entries and it is expected that appropriate adjustments will be reflected in the April accounts.

Under present accounting procedures the amounts of warehouse stock losses and gains are apportioned on various bases to stores issues and the amounts of such gains and losses during any period are not readily ascertainable.

Other Asset and Liability Accounts.

Certain assets and liability accounts carried on the Administration's books have been omitted from the summaries of position at February 15 and March 31, 1940. There follows an explanation of these accounts and the reasons for their omission:

Revolving funds.

These funds amounted to $340,000 both at February 15 and March 31, 1940, and were offset by liabilities of $300,000 for borrowings from the State Department of Finance and $40,000 for borrowings from the Administration's unexpended appropriations for prior fiscal years.

Self-Help Cooperatives current account.

The balance in this account was about $446,000 at March 31, 1940, and represented unliquidated advances to the numerous cooperative units; it appears that the amount that may be recovered in respect of these advances is uncertain. The balance as of February 15, 1940, has not been established but it appears unlikely that it differed substantially from the March 31, 1940, balance.

SRA Rehabilitation Training Project.

Charges held in suspense in respect of this project aggregated some $121,000 at March 31, 1940; the balance at February 15, 1940, has not been established but was probably in the neighborhood of $100,000. The project was abandoned by the Administration as of April 1, 1940, and the accounting department is analyzing such charges with a view to making appropriate disposition thereof. We understand that the greater portion of these charges represent operating expenditures.

Abatements receivable.

The abatements that are shown in the foregoing summaries of position at February 15 and March 31, 1940, are carried in the Administration's records as part of its cash balance; we were informed that such treatment followed instructions of the Department of Finance regarding abatements of a particular type.

In general, other abatements are not reflected in the accounts until actually collected but an unimportant amount was carried as receivable at March 31, 1940, with an offsetting reserve of about the same amount.

Property and equipment accounts.

These were carried at $2,676,000 at March 31, 1940, with offsetting accounts of $2,508,000 representing the State's investment therein and $168,000 representing equipment purchased with Federal funds.

Property and equipment purchased with Administration funds is reflected also in operating expenditures.

This account represents the liability (for materials received and charged to stores account) which has not been reported to the State Controller for payment because the vendors' invoices, if received, were in process of being checked. The amounts represented thereby are not eliminated from unliquidated encumbrances (carried in the budgetary accounts—see below) until the invoices are filed for payment with the State Controller; inasmuch as unliquidated encumbrances were considered in calculating the positions at February 15 and March 31, 1940, it was necessary to disregard the balance in stores invoices pending account to avoid duplication of liabilities.

Accounts relating to prior fiscal years.

Unexpended cash balances, operating expenditures, and various other accounts relating to prior fiscal years have been omitted from the tabulations in this report. Among such accounts are certain ones which purport to express the Administration's accountability to the State general funds for unexpended appropriations for prior fiscal years. The net of these accounts at March 31, 1940, exceeded by approximately $660,000 the asset balances (chiefly cash and unsold warrants) relating to prior fiscal years. This difference represents non-cash assets, principally inventories of materials at June 30, 1939 (less subsequent withdrawals charged to operating expenditures of prior fiscal years) and unliquidated advances to Self-Help Cooperatives, plus abatements collected after June 30, 1939, that applied to prior years. We were informed that State agencies are accountable to general funds only for unexpended cash and unsold warrants from prior years' appropriations.

Budgetary accounts.

These are carried in a separate ledger and have been omitted except in so far as unliquidated encumbrances, which are carried only in the budgetary accounts, have been considered in establishing the Administration's approximate position at February 15 and March 31, 1940.

Trust accounts.

These are also carried in a separate ledger and comprise the Administration's accounting with the Federal Government for surplus commodities, borrowed equipment, and the related small cash transactions.

We have the following further comments to offer regarding certain of the accounts referred to above:

Los Angeles office revolving fund—$65,000.

We understand that the purpose of establishing the office revolving fund was to provide a means for making disbursements that would not permit of the delay involved in the procedure of filing claims with the State Controller for payments by warrants. The disbursements from the fund have comprised chiefly advances to employees for expenses, salary payments pending approval by the appropriate State departments of the creation of positions and of pay schedules, salary payments upon termination of employment, and purchases of postage. The fund is operated on the imprest system and is reimbursed (1) by recovery from employees (usually by endorsement under power of attorney of warrants payable to employees) of advances for traveling expenses and of salary payments, and (2) by warrants after claims filed in support of disbursements from the fund have been approved. Mr. Serafino is the custodian of the fund, the transactions of which are audited monthly—in recent months by Mr. W. J. McKeand, Finance Auditor of the Administration.

We inspected reports prepared by Mr. McKeand which showed the composition of the fund at the close of the months listed to have been as follows:

	December 1939	January 1940	February 1940	March 1940
Cash in banks-----	$17,421	$34,060	$27,217	$43,991
Travel advances-----	18,120	18,094	17,787	10,663
Salary payments-----	16,696	2,050	5,327	1,753
Other expenditures awaiting reimbursement, for which—
Claims had been filed----	9,254	7,758	8,538	8,058
Claims had not been filed	3,509	3,038	6,131	585
	$65,000	$65,000	$65,000	$65,000

Mr. McKeand's reports also show the amounts of pending claims for traveling expenses, the warrants for which could presumably be endorsed under power of attorney and applied in reduction of the employees travel advances; such claims at the close of December, 1939, January, February and March, 1940, totaled, respectively, $4,620, $9,877, $10,797 and $6,514.

The Administration maintains detail records of travel advances to individual employees. We made a cursory review of such records and submit the following list of balances amounting to $300 or more at the close of the months shown:

and particulars of such changes are shown in the following tabulation:

It is evident from the foregoing tabulation that advances were not always restricted to amounts required for traveling and we observed the following instances of this condition where the amounts involved were less than $300:

Grant Friel, Works and Reemployment department:

Advances in January, February and March, 1940, totaling $150 were collected—$50 in February, $50 in March and $50 in April, 1940, by application of salary warrants.

James Layton, County Administration:

Advances in October, 1939, and January, 1940, totaling $100 were collected in March, 1940, by application of salary warrants.

Ralph Michener, County Administration:

Advance of $75 in November, 1939, collected in April, 1940, by application of salary warrant.

Phyllis Barteau, County Administration:

Advance of $25 in February, 1940, partly collected by remittance of $12.50 in March, 1940.

O. L. Able, Commodity Distribution department:

Advance of $50 in February, 1940, partly collected by remittance of $45 in March, 1940.

Eloise Rathbone, Community Relations department:

Advance of $50 in December, 1939, partly collected in February, 1940, by remittances of $37.50; a further advance of $50 was made in April, 1940.

According to Mr. McKeand's audit reports, unreimbursed salary payments from the revolving fund involved about 150 persons at December 31, 1939, and nine persons at March 31, 1940. Some of these payments represented salaries upon termination of employment but for the most part they represented salaries paid to employees prior to approval of the creation of their positions and of their salary rates; as such approval was obtained, claims were filed with the State Controller and the revolving fund was subsequently reimbursed. The salary payments for which reimbursement had not been received at March 31, 1940, comprised:

Works and Reemployment

department:	Period covered	Amount
Edwards, Chas. S.-----	Dec. 1, 1939 to Feb. 29, 1940---	$600
Schwartz, Herman L.-----	Jan. 1, 1940 to Feb. 29, 1940---	275
Sutton, Frank E.-----	Dec. 1, 1939 to Feb. 29, 1940---	735
Other departments:
Six persons -----	Various-----	143
		$1,753

Apart from travel advances and salary payments, the lists of expenditures from the revolving fund that were awaiting reimbursement at the close of December, 1939, January, February, and March, 1940, consisted chiefly of payments for postage and for street car tokens or tickets; a few payments were for purchases of materials and we inspected the underlying documents relating to the major items in that category and found that in each instance the purchases were subject to cash discounts that perhaps could not have been taken if the invoices had been placed in the usual channels for payment.

Revolving fund for Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation food stamps—$275,000.

This fund is maintained $200,000 in Los Angeles and $75,000 in San Francisco; according to reports from the custodians, the composition of the fund at March 31, 1940, was:

	Los Angeles	San Francisco
Cash in banks-----	$22,972	$49,444
Deposits in branch banks on March 30, 1940, not credited on bank statement until April 1, 1940---	20,274	-----
Cash on hand at stores where food stamp books are sold -----	3,131	48
Value of unsold stamp books purchased from F.S.C.C. and on hand-----	153,628	25,504
Defective books returned to F.S.C.C. for refund---	-----	4
Overage -----	(5)	-----
	$200,000	$75,000

We inspected letters from Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation stating that stamp books of the value of $153,628 in the Los Angeles fund were counted by their representatives at the close of business on March 31, 1940, and that stamp books of the San Francisco fund were counted at the close of business on March 27, 1940, and were in agreement with accountability records of Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation as of that date.

We were informed that responsibility for custody of the stamp funds was transferred in April, 1940, from the accounting department to the Administrator's office so that the accounting department may hereafter function in an auditing capacity with respect to the funds.

Self-Help Cooperatives.

It is our understanding that Self-Help Cooperative units have been formed by groups of persons (sometimes few in number) who meet certain requirements laid down by the Administration, which requirements do not necessarily include eligibility to receive cash unemployment relief benefits. The Administration finances these units in the production or processing of certain commodities with the understanding that the proceeds, in cash or kind, resulting from such activities will be turned over to the Administration in liquidation, at least in part, of the advances made.

At March 31, 1940, the unliquidated advances to units then operating amounted to $446,000. The following figures were summarized from statements, prepared by the Administration's Bureau of Self-Help, which we understand represent transactions since the establishment of the several units:

Total advances to March 31, 1940.....	$1,782,000
Recovered in the form of commodities.....	1,146,000
	$636,000
Unliquidated advances to defunct units, written off	190,000
Unliquidated advances .....	$446,000

The statement referred to shows also that $122,000 of advances were not due at March 31, 1940, and that finished goods at units amounted to $53,000, leaving an indicated net deficit at March 31, 1940, of $271,000, comprising 37 units with indicated deficits totaling $281,200 and 6 units with surpluses totaling $10,200 (of which 2 units accounted for $8,600). Information relating to the ten largest units is summarized on Exhibit 5.

We were informed that the commodities recovered from units are priced from lists established, or approved, by the Bureau of Purchases of the Department of Finance. Substantially all of the commodities so recovered are delivered to the Administration's warehouse at 1002 Santa Fe Avenue, Los Angeles; these commodities formed all but a minor portion of the inventory of produced stores which amounted at March 31, 1940, to $313,000 or nearly one-third of the total amount assigned to commodities recovered from units, some of which have been operating since the latter part of 1935 as shown in Exhibit 5.

We have not had an opportunity to inquire into the procedures followed by the Administration with respect to commodities recovered from the units including comparability of the quality of products with that contemplated by the prices established by the Bureau of Purchases.

Property and equipment accounts.

The Administration maintains detail records of property and equipment accounts; these records reflect the equipment number, description of the item, cost, location, date acquired, etc.

We were informed that present State procedure requires that all items of a "non-expendable" category costing $5 or more shall be reflected in the accounts as property and equipment and that until fairly recently all such items costing $2.00 or more were so recorded. An adjustment was made in February, 1940, reducing the property accounts and the State's investment therein by $101,082 in respect of items costing less than $5 that had previously been capitalized.

A summary of the property and equipment balances at March 31, 1940, by principal segregation is shown below:

State and regional offices:

Building improvements and equipment.....	$31,162
Office furniture and fixtures.....	207,882
Office machinery and equipment.....	163,337
Other .....	32,369

Other .....	144,105
		$2,676,242

Changes in the property and equipment accounts for the three-month period ending March 31, 1940, are shown below:

Balance at December 31, 1939.....	$2,630,922
Additions .....	84,159
Retirements, etc. ....	(26,343)
Adjustment explained above with respect to items costing less than $5 which had been capitalized in prior periods .....	(101,082)
Adjustment in March resulting from appraisals made of resident project camp buildings, etc., in an attempt to reflect the asset at its true cost.....	88,586
(at the time certain camps were constructed proper segregations of costs were not maintained and only a portion of the cost was reflected as property and equipment)

Balance at March 31, 1940.....	<hr/>	$2,676,242
--------------------------------	-------	-------------

We were informed by Mr. Serafino that until recent months supervisory employees were requested to submit lists of equipment to the accounting department from time to time but that this procedure proved unsatisfactory and the Administration recently engaged employees known as equipment inspectors to inventory the major items of property and equipment; also, that the equipment inspectors will probably complete their initial inventory within the next month or so and thereafter will be continuously engaged in accounting for items of property and equipment.

We understand that adjustments for known retirements, or for items known to be missing, are not recorded until approval of the Department of Finance has been obtained as required by State procedure. Mr. Serafino has expressed the opinion that the amounts involved in such adjustments are relatively insignificant.

We received the cooperation and assistance of Mr. Serafino, Chief Accounting Officer, and members of his staff in the conduct of our review and we were assured that consideration would be given to oral suggestions we made for revising procedures in certain respects so as to shorten the interval between the occurrence of transactions and the recording of them.

Our review of the Administration's accounting records has necessarily been limited but we trust that the information in this report and the accompanying exhibits will be helpful to the committee in its study of the Administration's financial affairs. We shall be pleased to confer with the committee at its convenience if that is desired.

Yours very truly,

PRICE, WATERHOUSE & CO.

 Unliquidated encumbrances applicable to operations through February 15, 1940 -----

NOTE:

The amounts of salaries and wages reverted in the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, had the effect of correcting the error of $264,817 (commented upon in the attached report) in arriving at the amount of $1,077,849 shown in the letter of February 21, 1940. It is not possible without unreasonable effort to prepare an analysis of the amounts reverted after February 15, 1940, with respect to materials and supplies, services and expenses, and property and equipment. The following general statements regarding such reversions are based upon a review of some of the principal budget estimates and the relative actual expenditures:

Materials and supplies for camps--chiefly staple groceries, fresh meats, and clothing.
 Other materials and supplies--textiles for WPA manufacturing projects about $70,000, supplies for State administrative department $25,000, and other supplies $27,000.
 Service and expenses--traveling about $275,000, rent $50,000, telephone $15,000, and miscellaneous $13,000.
 Property and equipment--14 Chevrolet sedans (less 13 trade-ins) $8,060, 34 Chevrolet sedans (no trade-ins) $24,000, 72 trucks and 5 station wagons (less 77 trade-ins) $56,785, and other property and equipment $12,117. The Chevrolet sedans were intended for administrative departments and the trucks for the commodity distribution department; the encumbrances of funds for their purchases were made in December, 1939.

STATEMENT OF UNLIQUIDATED ENCUMBRANCES AT MARCH 31, 1940.

Services and expenses incurred, chiefly in March, 1940, pending settlement:

	Administrative		Relief	Estimated
	State	County	projects	amounts

	$37,000	$116,000	$92,000	$245,000

Materials and supplies received prior to March 31, 1940, the bills for which had not been rendered or were pending settlement:

Camps, chiefly foodstuffs-----	$172,000
WPA projects, chiefly textiles-----	100,000
Other -----	70,000
		342,000
Emergency relief orders issued but unpaid at March 31, 1940		165,000
Salaries and wages, chiefly for March, 1940, which had not been paid at April 15, 1940, because authorizations for the establishment of positions had not then been obtained from the Department of Finance-----		25,000
		$777,000

Note:

Estimates resulting in the above amounts were made in the light of the best available information after discussion with employees of the Administration's accounting department.

The amounts of unliquidated encumbrances shown by the records at March 31, 1940 (after adjustment for reversions made and to be made in April, 1940), exceeded the amounts shown above; such excess represented encumbrances for (1) materials and supplies that had not been received at March 31, 1940, but for which purchase orders may have been issued in some instances, and (2) services to be rendered after March 31, 1940.

NOTES:

(1) With minor exceptions, the abatements of $83,000 credited to resident projects and applied in reduction of materials and supplies represent collections from WPA employees who live at certain of the camps. The gross expenditures for materials and supplies, $235,000, comprised: food, $157,000; clothing, $16,000; tobacco, $11,000; household supplies, $13,000; fuel, $11,000; all other, $17,000.

(2) Materials and supplies contributed to WPA projects comprised mainly textiles for use by relief beneficiaries in the manufacture of clothing.

(3) Expenditures relating to resident projects and commodity distribution include salaries and wages of certain employees in the field (such as supervisors and assistant supervisors, clerks, etc.) whose duties might be regarded as administrative. Based on a limited review of pay rolls it is believed that the total amount of such salaries for the period shown would not exceed $30,000. If this amount, and expenditures of $8,000 for travel and telephone, had been treated as administrative expense instead of direct relief, the relative percentages of expenditures would have been 78.9% for direct relief and 21.1% for administration.

NOTES:

(1) With minor exceptions the statements of $320,000 credited to resident projects and applied in reduction of materials and supplies represent collections from WPA employees who live at certain of the camps. The gross expenditures for materials and supplies, $778,000, comprised: food, $476,000; clothing, $64,000; tobacco, $20,000; household supplies, $68,000; fuel, $30,000; building repairs and alterations, $64,000; all other, $47,000.

(2) Materials and supplies contributed in projects of the Works Progress Administration comprised mainly textiles for use by relief beneficiaries in manufacturing clothing.

(3) As explained in Note (3) to Exhibit 3, certain expenditures that might be regarded as relating to administration have been treated as direct relief expenditures. The amounts of these expenditures in the period covered by the above summary have not been ascertained because they are relatively unimportant.

Report of Standing Committee.

The following report of standing committee was received and read:

On Rules.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, May 16, 1940.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee on Rules, to which was referred:

Assembly Bill No. 123—An act to amend section 6.4 of, and to add section 54.1 to, the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, relating to alcoholic beverages, to take effect immediately;

Has had the same under consideration, and respectfully reports the same back, and recommends that the bill be placed on file for immediate consideration.

SEAWELL, Chairman.

Assembly Bill No. 123 read first time.

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Seawell:

Resolved, That Assembly Bill No. 123 presents a case of urgency, as that term is used in section 15 of Article IV of the Constitution, and the provision of that section requiring that the bill shall be read on three several days in each House is hereby dispensed with, and it is ordered that said bill be read the second and third times, and placed upon its passage.

Resolution read.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution.

The roll was called, and the resolution adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Brown, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Deuel, Fletcher, Foley, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Hollister, Jespersen, Keating, Kenny, Mayo, McBride, Mixter, Parkman, Phillips, Powers, Quinn, Rich, Seawell, Slater, Swing, Tickle, and Wagye—27.

NOES—None.

Whereupon the President declared the provisions of section 15, Article IV of the Constitution suspended for the purpose of considering, at this time, Assembly Bill No. 123.

Consideration of Assembly Bill No. 123.

Assembly Bill No. 123—An act to amend section 6.4 of, and to add section 54.1 to, the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, relating to alcoholic beverages, to take effect immediately.

Bill read second time.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 3. This act is hereby declared an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into immediate effect.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows:

The Golden Gate International Exposition under the sponsorship of the San Francisco Bay Exposition, a California nonprofit corporation, was opened on Treasure Island on February 18, 1939, and continued open to and including October 29, 1939, and will be reopened on Treasure Island on May 25, 1940, and will continue open up to and including September 29, 1940.

The President of the United States under authority of a joint resolution of the Congress approved June 15, 1936, did by proclamation issued November 16, 1936, and also by proclamation issued in the month of January, 1940, invite the participation of the nations in this exposition. Many foreign nations did in 1939 and will again in 1940 maintain exhibits on Treasure Island in response to these proclamations. Some of them will maintain national pavilion restaurants and these foreign nations desire to exhibit and to offer for sale within their national pavilion restaurants the distilled spirits, wines and malt beverages produced in such foreign countries. It is essential in order to maintain good will between the United States and these foreign countries that all reasonable efforts be made to add to the comfort and convenience of the commissioners of foreign governments in connection with their participation in this exposition. Those foreign governments desiring to import their native distilled spirits, wine and malt beverages were confronted by many difficulties by reason of the provisions of the Federal Alcohol Administration Act and the provisions of the California Alcoholic Beverage Control Act. In order to grant relief in the premises and recognizing the necessity thereof in connection with maintaining the good will of the countries concerned, the Congress by an act entitled "An act relating to the importation of distilled spirits for consumption at the New York World's Fair 1939 and the Golden Gate International Exposition of 1939 and to duties on certain articles to be imported at the New York World's Fair 1939," approved April 29, 1939, did relieve the commissioners of these foreign governments from some of the difficulties provided by the Federal Alcohol Administration Act. The provisions of this act will apply to both world's fairs in 1940. Under the terms of the California Alcoholic Beverage Control Act no one can import distilled spirits, wine or malt beverages unless holding an importer's license and no person can be granted an importer's license except such person be the holder of a manufacturer's, rectifier's or wholesaler's license. Neither the San Francisco Bay Exposition nor the commissioner of any foreign government is the holder or can qualify to become the holder of a manufacturer's, rectifier's or wholesaler's license except under authority of section 6.4 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act.

This act is necessary in order to facilitate the importation of distilled spirits, wine and malt beverages for on-premises consumption in the national pavilion restaurants of foreign governments at the Golden Gate International Exposition as provided above, and in view of the limited period for which this act will be operative, and in order to give the commissioners of foreign governments immediate relief in the premises, it is necessary that this act shall take effect immediately.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Brown, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Deuel, Fletcher, Foley, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Hollister, Jespersen, Keating, Kenny, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixer, Parkman, Phillips, Powers, Quinn, Rich, Seawell, Slater, Swing, Tickle, and Wagy—28.

NOES—None.

The question being on the passage of the bill.

The roll was called, and Assembly Bill No. 123 passed by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Brown, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Deuel, Fletcher, Foley, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Jespersen, Keating, Kenny, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixer, Parkman, Phillips, Powers, Quinn, Rich, Seawell, Slater, Swing, Tickle, and Wagy—27.

NOES—None.

Title read and approved.

Assembly Bill No. 123 ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

SENATOR KENNY.

Request referred to Committee on Rules.

Communication.

The following communication was received, and on motion of Senator Metzger, ordered printed in the Journal:

Report of Western Fairs Association on the Allocation of Revenue from Horse Racing.

CALIFORNIA FAIRS AND THEIR ECONOMIC AND MORAL VALUE.

To read about, listen to, and to discuss our fairs is simply superfluous knowledge as to the exact importance of these fairs, but to actually visit all of the fairs in California and to investigate their importance in their own territory is knowledge based upon an entirely different conviction. It is an education and a revelation. It is difficult to believe the tremendous benefits derived from these fairs unless no effort or energy is spared in traveling over the entire State, visiting every fair, interviewing managers and other fair officials, and particularly so in interviewing a cross section of the people, such as farmers, stock raisers, town people, business men of all types, newspapermen, bankers and the average man on the street.

Fairs All Over State.

Observations and findings, as related here, have been obtained on the spot, wherever there is a fair held, and there are over fifty such fairs scattered from Modoc County to Imperial County, and from San Diego County to Del Norte County.

Better Security—Better Credit.

Several county fairs are managed by various bank managers and secretaries of chambers of commerce who are alert, progressive and liberal, in spite of their conservative training, when it comes to their fairs. Unhesitatingly they state that through fairs and the premium offers which are made possible through the 4 per cent direct parimutuel taxation, the farm products, and particularly the stock, have been so much improved that it gives better bank credit to the farmers and stock raisers, and better security to the banks. It is rather quality and not quantity that governs bank credits of this kind.

The Advertising Value of the Fairs.

One of, if not the most important, functions of the agricultural and citrus fairs is the creation and stimulation of a desire for California products. As every successful merchant depends upon his display and advertisement to attract his customers, so California depends upon the agricultural and citrus fairs as the show-window and publicity medium and by which California products are brought to the attention of the consuming public.

The competition created by the desire for the "Sweepstake" prizes has resulted in the exhibition at these fairs of the finest of fruits and other farm products which can be produced; and every visitor who views those beautiful and attractive displays or who reads the description contained in the newsstories broadcast during each fair carries away the impression and thought that California products have no superior. Thousands of people visit these fairs annually, and hundreds of thousands read the newsstories concerning California's choicest. It is by this means that the sale of California's products is stimulated and increased at home and abroad. Probably the most outstanding national publicity beneficial to California resulting from our fairs is the publicity given them by the public press throughout the nation. By no other means can the great citrus and farming industry of California obtain the national publicity which results from these fairs.

Economic Value on Its Own Merits.

The human ego, pride, self-satisfaction, centered in individuals through a community recognition, reflects on the status of the exhibitors. It is not so much the question of premium money won, but the satisfaction, contentment and achievement of the crop grower and stock raiser that his labor is recognized and rewarded as worthy of his efforts. In these days of our national strife to regain our economic value, this is one of the best examples of collective and individual encouragement where the rugged individualism exerts its value on its own merits.

Premium Winners.

When we add up thousands of these premium winners from year to year, who constantly strive to improve their products, every community in the State benefits, and these communities make up the State, and, after all, determine its economic status. If the State of California, as a whole, produces better crops and finer stock, our economic value and prosperity increases accordingly.

Only Beginning of Great Benefits.

There is an unprecedented impetus in friendly competition that, in spite of our economic lethargy, the rural California is undaunted by the spirit of the Old West to disregard all the present economic and social obstacles and keep on ahead of the times. We are only beginning to revive our fairs, with consequences already so plainly evident and felt.

It is difficult to draw a line and state that the coastal counties are more adaptable than the San Joaquin or Sacramento Valley counties or the Mother Lode counties or the northeastern or southern counties for the development of these fairs. Not only each section of the State, but even each county possesses certain distinctive individualism and advantage, and yet, as a whole, the material benefits of all of these counties are interdependent in spite of their individual characteristics.

Moral and Material Effects.

Moral and material effects are as great. The people come into closer contact. They learn of their common problems and thus federate their efforts into a unity of action. It brings, above all, the rural and town elements into closer coordinated relationships. The fairgrounds are gradually becoming centers of community activity all the year round.

There is no doubt that the quality of stock, particularly during the past four years, has been tremendously improved as a direct consequence of these fairs. Many, who are familiar with the benefits of their individual fairs, question themselves as to how they could ever have existed without fairs, whose real purpose is not to exhibit, parade, ride the merry-go-round, and feed peanuts to the elephants, but to encourage and build California into a better State of richer economic value.

Actual Fair Statistics on Employment, Exhibitors, Payroll, Investments, Expenditures, Purchases, and Attendance in 1939.

WHAT HORSE RACING MEANS TO COUNTY AND DISTRICT FAIRS IN CALIFORNIA.

In order to present a true picture of what horse racing means to county and agricultural district fairs in California, it is best to let these fairs speak for themselves. Therefore, here are some of the statements by these various fairs:

Improvement of Live Stock.

QUESTION—Do you believe that the payments of premiums to exhibitors has improved the quality, standards and breed of live stock in your district or county?

Sonoma County Fair.

"Absolutely yes. Interest in better stock has been stimulated by demonstrations and comparisons."

Santa Barbara Fair and Horse Show.

"Definitely yes. By increased premiums, raising standard of the live stock, making the industry more competitive."

Lake County Fair.

"Encouraging acquisition of better stock."

Butte District Fair.

"Yes, very much increased interest in horses, dairy cattle, swine, and built up live stock industry for younger people."

Merced County Fair.

"Yes, by stimulating interest in exhibiting animals for prizes."

Lassen County Live Stock Show.

"Yes. By bringing to the county the best types of live stock where they can be seen by the stockman."

San Benito County Fair.

"Yes. By encouraging better breeding and production."

Del Norte County Fair.

"Yes. By purchase of registered stock by winning exhibitors."

Siskiyou County Fair.

"I do. Through encouragement and educational comparison."

Glenn County Fair.

"Yes. Better local stock being shown each year, account of purchases made from exhibitors."

Alameda County Fair.

"Yes. Added interest in next year's show, shows that premiums are needed."

Sacramento County Fair and Horse Show.

"Yes. Encourage breeding of better stock."

Monterey County Fair.

"Decidedly yes. By giving producers in our county extra money for purchasing more pure bred stock, which they have done, and by spurring them to produce a finer quality stock."

Stanislaus County Fair and Horse Show.

"Positively. By the acquisition of pure bred stock, and the breeding of same, some of them financed by premium monies, or the hope of obtaining same."

Riverside County Fair.

"Yes. Keen competition naturally has had its effect on live stock and poultry. Quality depends upon weather conditions. Payment of premiums affords exhibitors to at least win enough to offset expense."

From a letter of G. E. Gordon, dairy specialist with University of California:

"* * * During the several years that I have been coming to your fair, I have been able to note a very definite improvement in the live stock exhibits. This improvement in live stock, as evidenced during the several years, cannot help but have a very widespread effect throughout the valley. It will not only increase the pride of live stock growers but will also be of material benefit to them in an economic way."

Humboldt County Fair.

"Very much. Outside stockmen now come to Humboldt to buy live stock for breeding. Live stock judges have commented on the improvement of the stock each year, and these are our own observations over the past nine years, as well as others."

Modoc County Fair.

"Yes. New purebred sires have been introduced."

Tuolumne County Fair.

"Yes. Each year there has been a marked improvement in quality of exhibits."

California State Fair.

"Yes. By reason of education through competition."

San Joaquin County Fair.

"Yes. Herds have been improved, which makes better prices and better markets."

Santa Cruz County Fair.

"Decidedly. We insist on strict judging."

Contra Costa County Fair.

"Yes. Account of the competitive spirit of exhibitors to win highest ribbon awards."

Fresno District Fair.

"Yes. Competition proved to local owners better stock meant better market conditions and prices. Desire to beat neighbor—desire to own best."

Napa County Fair and Horse Show.

"Yes. By the number of registered stock purchased during the last year."

Solano County Fair.

"Yes. Education and competition."

Nevada County Fair.

"Definitely yes. Greater interest manifested."

"It has encouraged exhibitors, and the competition has made them better their quality of animals."

Mendocino County Fair (Twelfth District Agricultural Association at Ukiah).

"Yes. The improvement in Future Farmers of America and 4-H Clubs is certainly educational for all, as it shows what can be done."

Fourth District Fair (Petaluma).

"Yes. By making it possible for three days to buy better stock."

Kern County Livestock Show.

"Yes. By compelling exhibitors to be selective in breeding stock of all kinds, together with immeasurable care."

Eureka Fair (Ninth Agricultural District).

"Very decidedly. It has brought outside exhibitors to our county, thus giving our local breeders a new standard of perfection. We had stagnated in our breeding programs, but that is on the mend due to new purchases of foundation stock. This has resulted in a decided advance in quality."

Los Angeles County Fair.

"Yes. The premium money enables the exhibitor to purchase better stock."

The National Orange Show.

The only citrus fair in the world offers the concrete example of what "Fairs mean to California." With more than 350,000 acres of California orchard land planted to citrus, the acreage has developed employment for more than 30,000 persons and brings to California from out-of-state sources, an excess of $78,500,000 annually.

Citrus growers, as a result of participation in competitive exhibits, have from year to year over a thirty-year period, developed increased production, consumption, and return of a larger state income. California citrus fruit is the greatest single asset to national advertising.

As a result, and in connection with the operation of the 1938 National Orange Show (1939 and 1940 will show larger coverage) 18,674 inches of Orange Show publicity including 775 pictures of exhibits were published. 66,292,597 impressions (copies) of bona fide circulation including 24 national magazines were the result of this one exhibition. Broken down there were 2,188 individual stories with many illustrations given to the people of the United States covering California citrus.

Its value as a publicity medium abroad, a stimulus to improvement, development interest and consumption at home can not be measured in dollars and cents.

Increase in Ownership and Quality.

QUESTION—Do You Have More Owners of Live Stock in Your County or District Than You Did in 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937 and 1938? Can You Attribute Any Increase in Ownership to Stimulation Through Premium Subsidy by Your Fair?

Sonoma County Fair.

"In poultry, in business, in registered cattle there has been very definite increase of ownership."

Santa Barbara County Fair.

"Because of the activities of this county fair there are many more owners in this and San Luis Obispo County."

Alameda County Fair.

"Live stock business has improved in Alameda County of late years. More exhibits should be available in 1940."

"Slight increase in ownership, but large increase in better breeding stock."

Humboldt County Fair.

"A few more owners probably, but the most noticeable factor here that each year more and more of the local owners have become interested, improved their stock and start exhibiting them."

Tuolumne County Fair.

"Yes. There has been increase in ownership through premium subsidy."

California State Fair.

"Yes. A great part of our stimulation is due to the premium subsidy to the district and county fairs."

Santa Cruz County Fair.

"Most decidedly—greatest increase comes in swine."

Contra Costa County Fair.

"The 4-II and F. F. A. boy exhibitors have increased materially."

"Yes. F. F. A. owners have increased herds. Attention through fair to better live stock, comparison and contrast as to financial return through ownership of better breeding stock."

Napa County Fair and Horse Show.

"Yes. 4-II and Future Farmers of America are now purchasing more registered stock."

Nevada County Fair.

"Greater interest but due to lack of space we were unable to exhibit live stock."

Napa County Fair, Calistoga—(Silverado Fair and Horse Show).

"It can all be attributed to fairs. Our exhibits of all livestock have increased each year."

Mendocino County Fair (Twelfth District Agricultural Association).

"Yes. With continued failure of fruit crops, farmers are seeing the error of working a full year to get a kick in the pants. Showing stock gives these farmers a chance to appreciate possible results."

Eureka Fair (Ninth Agricultural District).

"Owners have materially increased. We can trace this definitely to the owners' interest aroused at fairs. This is true in all breeds that have exhibited—dairy, sheep and horses. Premium money has been traced to new purchases. One example: over $1,500 in breeding stock purchased by exhibitors from winnings."

Discovered Values.

QUESTION—What Values Have Been Discovered by Agriculturists at Your Fair?

Colusa County Harvest Festival.

"Production of better quality and yields."

National Orange Show.

"Improvement in quality and better marketing."

Fourth District Fair—Petaluma.

"Better Stock."

Siskiyou County Fair.

"Improved varieties."

Glenn County Fair.

"They learn how to judge quality."

"A better understanding that in order to get anything from the soil you must first put something into it."

"A wide variety of winter stock feeds and vegetables, which is increasing each year."

Tuolumne County Fair.

"Improved quality of commercial produce."

Santa Cruz County Fair.

"Public interest in local products."

"Comparison for size—shipment standards. Correcting of ripeness and bloom."

Nevada County Fair.

"Apple exhibit, variety of products grown."

Kern County Live Stock Show.

"That Kern County agricultural products are foremost in value with live stock."

Los Angeles County Fair.

"Improvement in quality, methods, marketing, etc."

Education in Agriculture.

QUESTION—Do You Feel Your Fair To Be of Educational Value to Agriculture?

Tehama County Fair.

"A desire among live stock growers to improve herds."

Colusa County Harvest Festival.

"Visual education by comparison of products; friendly arguments and explanation of judges of scoring points."

Sonoma County Fair.

"Principally through judges explaining results for placing the live stock classes, and other general educational values."

Santa Barbara Fair and Horse Show.

Use of Fair and Exposition Funds in Improving Agriculture with the Youth of Rural California.

Premium money won at fairs has provided considerable financial assistance to thousands of vocational agriculture projects carried by the high school agriculture students. In a majority of cases, where the premium money has in any measure exceeded the actual expenses of showing (transportation, feed, veterinary services, etc.) this money has been invested immediately, or within a few months, in better breeding stock, or poultry; or the original payment on a tract of land.

There are in California at the present time about 10,000 Future Farmers. At the time fair and exposition funds became available for fair premiums, there were about 6,000 boys. Allowing for the reasonable turnover of about 50 per cent per year, it is estimated that about 22,000 different boys have been in the Future Farmer program since 1935, or that about 7,000 different boys have participated in fairs supported by fair and exposition funds.

Figures further show that the average won by Future Farmers in all fairs for a season, is about $20 per boy, which in general is little more than the amount necessary to pay for trucking and other expenses incidental to a showing. However, quite a number of boys have, by virtue of owning good stock and giving it good care, won amounts somewhat in excess of the actual expense of showing.

Innumerable examples can be obtained showing how this money, won over the period of four years of high school enrollment, has made it possible for the boy to buy, and therefore bring into the district or onto the home farm, better live stock than could otherwise have been obtained.

From hundreds over the State, here are five typical examples:

1. Jerry Didier, Puente, showed in district and county fairs during the years 1936 to 1939, inclusive. During this period he won $333 in premium money. This money helped him rent 33 acres of land, and expand his projects, until he now owns 32 registered Chester-White hogs, 33 high grade Hampshire sheep and two dairy cows. He is now the chief source of breeding animals, particularly Chester-White sires, in an area where they were not previously available.

2. Billy Lowry, Hanford, is the son of a ranch foreman. Largely as a result of the fine showing made by Billy and his brother, LaVerne, in exhibiting pure-bred Jersey cattle, the father purchased a 160-acre farm, which the two boys (still in high school) are helping to pay for as they develop their high quality herd. During Billy's four years of showing, 1937 to 1940, inclusive, he won $283 in premium money. This money enabled him to buy a much higher-class sire to use on his herd of 17 registered Jerseys, than he could otherwise afford. Since the breeding of this sire is somewhat different than can be found any other place in this State, this means that young Lowry's herd will soon be the source of breeding material of unusual value to many other herds.

3. Edward Thole, Santa Rosa, during the years of 1937 to 1939, won the rather unusual amount of $666.50. He has now reinvested this in additional Poland China hogs and Rambouillet sheep, rents a small piece of land, and is now supplying breeding stock in an area where there is considerable demand for these breeds.

4. Glen Eidman, Red Bluff, showed at the State Fair and at district fairs in 1938 and 1939. He won $189 in premiums. This has been reinvested in Shropshire sheep and in two registered Duroc sows; and he is now ready to sell registered breeding stock in an area where both adults and Future Farmers have had difficulty in getting good animals of these breeds.

5. Bud Gibson, Susanville, won $155 in prize money in one or two of the smaller district fairs. He bought four registered Hampshire gilts. He is now the chief source of supply, not only in his own county, but in two adjoining counties, for registered Hampshire boars; and he furnished some Hampshire breeding stock to two other Future Farmer chapters in that area. Some of the ranchers who are now buying purebred boars of this youth, had not been using purebred sires for some years previously, because they were not available in that area.

These are only five scattered examples from actual hundreds. These boys are not necessarily the largest money winners by any means, but are examples of some who made the best use of the money. None of them are so-called "show-tramps" but actual, serious live stock farmers. Examples similar to these can be found in any area where a county or district fair is held.

It should be emphasized that the educational value, and the actual incentive for improved quality, is by no means limited to those boys who made considerable money from fair showing. Boys whose winnings barely covered, or did not even cover, actual fair expenses, may have received a tremendous intangible value in appreciation of fine stock, in learning to fit, feed, groom and train animals for the show ring; or in merely attending a fair to see other high quality stock, which could not have been brought into a perhaps isolated district except through the medium of the fair.

Of the estimated 7,000 young men who have participated in Future Farmer divisions at fairs since 1935, only a small portion will continue to show as adults, yet those who go into a purely commercial operation, such as feeding out steers, operating a dairy, or an egg-production plant, will do a better commercial job of feeding and caring for their stock as a result of having learned the most difficult animal husbandry practices through show competition.

The educational value not only extends to the boy, but to his parents and neighbors as well. In hundreds of instances each year, the purebreds purchased for projects by Future Farmers are the first purebred stock ever to be brought onto the home farm. An illuminating example is found concerning a swine project in Merced county. The father laughed at the son's purchase of a purebred boar, and in jest gave the boy a plain, grade sow which had been accidentally bred to the boy's pure-bred boar. But when the offspring went to market at a show at seven months of age weighing more than 200 pounds, and the father's pigs at the same age weighed less than 100 pounds, the parent was converted. Since then, nothing but purebred boars have been used by the father, and what was once a very plain commercial herd is now one of the best in the county.

California Polytechnic School.

Since 1935, when fair and exposition funds were first distributed, the California Polytechnic School has received an increasingly greater proportion of its support from this source; until for this fiscal period, the fair and exposition funds provide the sole financial support for this fine State vocational and technical school.

The school has had an extremely rapid growth, and there are now 642 boys at the San Luis Obispo main campus and 140 at the horticulture branch known as the Voorhis unit, at San Dimas in eastern Los Angeles county. These boys come from 48 of the 58 counties in California, so that the school truly serves the entire State's technical educational needs.

During the last four years, funds made available from fair and exposition sources have adequately cured for this rapid expansion. Needed instructors have been added and necessary buildings have been constructed. These buildings are:

1. A complete building for teaching air conditioning industries, including new quick-freezing processes for handling agricultural products.

2. A beef cattle feeding unit, where students feed out about 150 steers each year as part of their technical training. The steers are entirely owned by the boys.

3. A sheep unit, to accommodate the school's permanent breeding herd, as well as project corrals to provide for feeding out about 150 late lambs, in addition to more than 50 milk-fat lambs marketed early in the year.

4. A swine unit, holding the school's breeding herd of 75 sows, a number of breeding sows owned by students, and feeding space to care for about 625 barrows owned entirely by students and marketed by them each year.

5. Additions to the dairy unit, consisting of a feeding barn, a bull barn and a calf barn. This is for the school's herd of about 100 purebreds, operated entirely as a project cared for by the students; and about 50 animals owned outright by the students. All work in the dairy unit is done entirely by students.

6. A series of temporary classrooms, made necessary by the rapid growth of the institution.

7. Additions to the physical education facilities of the school, such as locker rooms, showers and swimming pool.

8. A group of six cottage-type dormitories located near the barns and poultry plant, so that students who have feeding, milking or other functions starting as early as 3 a.m. and lasting as late as 10 p.m., are close to their responsibilities.

Present plans call for use of funds to construct a new central administration and classroom unit, to replace three of the original buildings constructed in 1901 and now virtually condemned. A new poultry building and campus sewer system are also called for in current expenditures.

The building needs for this rapidly-growing State vocational school are by no means completed. Other buildings immediately necessary are the farm mechanics unit, a milk house, a slaughter house, a live stock judging and demonstration pavilion, infirmary, library for agricultural reference material, beef breeding unit, feed storage barn, and more dormitory and dining hall facilities.

The entire support of this school from fair and exposition funds has relieved the State's general fund by an equal amount. Any change in the allocation of these funds would return the California Polytechnic school as a requirement of the general fund.

Most of the students at California Polytechnic come from homes of moderate income. Not a few boys come from families who are on relief, but through the unique project system at California Polytechnic, coupled by a work policy which provides a maximum amount of campus labor for students and virtually none for the usual adult crew of maintenance men, janitors, grounds keepers, farm hands, etc., between 75 and 85 per cent of the students earn some portion of the very low total expense of about $350 per year. The average is about $100 per boy—some earning all of their way.

Were it not for this school, made possible by fair and exposition funds, many of these boys, too, would be on relief. As a result of their attending Polytechnic, they learn to become self-supporting, and actual instances occur where they have gone home, been placed in a good job through the school's employment counselors, and actually have taken the parents off the relief rolls.

The California Polytechnic School is the centralizing agency for all the State farm work in the State. The president of the institution is also chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Education and is in charge of all vocational agriculture in the public schools of California.

Some of the fine services rendered by the institution are:

1. Training of all vocational agriculture teachers.
2. Conducting summer sessions for agriculture teachers.
3. Disseminate technical information in agriculture to all the agriculture teachers and Future Farmers in the State.
4. Holding annual Future Farmer Conventions and judging contests.
5. Sending agriculture experts to aid local vocational agricultural education departments with their various problems.
6. Furnish high grade live stock, poultry and seed to Future Farmers throughout the State.

CONCLUSION.

It is true that many thousands of dollars have been expended in premiums going to Future Farmers, and in educational facilities at California Polytechnic School. These funds can be actually determined and measured.

The benefits, however, can not ever be measured in dollars and cents. It is possible that a few dollars won by a Future Farmer at a fair may change the course of his life by developing in him respect for good live stock which will return him an ultimate income a hundred times greater than the scrubs he had been used to seeing.

It is equally possible that the sum expended upon the education of a boy at California Polytechnic School may raise his earning capacity two or three times, and make him, not a "marginal citizen," capable only of common labor wages, but a skilled agricultural or industrial technician.

So a single dollar expended wisely through the race and exposition funds, may return the State literally a hundred dollars in better farming practices, better live stock and better citizens.

For the purposes of this section "new track" means any track used for horse race meetings under the provisions of this act on which the original construction has been completed less than five years; "old track" means any track which is not a new track.

The".

Amendment No. 3.

On page 4 of the printed bill, strike out lines 30 to 45, inclusive; and on page 5 of the printed bill, strike out lines 3 to 8, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 14. Any licensee conducting a horse race meeting shall provide a place or places in the race meeting grounds or enclosure at which such licensee may conduct, operate and supervise the pari mutual or mutual method of wagering upon the results of said races so conducted and within its enclosure; and said system of wagering shall be operated only by the installation and use of the totalizator or such mechanical equipment as may be approved by the board, but such board shall not require any particular make of mechanical equipment; provided, that such wagering shall not be held or construed to be unlawful, any other statute of the State of California to the contrary notwithstanding. No other method of betting, pool making or wagering shall be permitted or used by such licensee, and said mutual method of wagering shall be carried on and conducted in the manner aforesaid and not outside of the track or enclosure of a licensee.

There shall be deducted from the gross amount of money handled through the mutual pools and apportioned as herein set forth, the following percentages:

(a) The percentage thereof provided for in section 12 hereof, which shall be the license fee to the State and which shall be disposed of as in this act provided.

(b) An additional amount which shall be retained by the licensee conducting the meeting as its commission, and which shall equal the difference between the amount deducted pursuant to subdivision (a) of this section and 8 per cent of all of said gross amount of money handled.

(c) An additional 1 per cent which shall be distributed as purse money for the contests in accordance with the terms of this subdivision. It shall be a part of the terms and conditions of each license granted that the licensee shall conduct eight races each racing day, two of which shall be for California-breds, and not less than one of which shall be for California-bred two-year-olds. Not less than two races each week of racing shall be for distances of one and one-quarter miles or more and said two races shall be free from claiming conditions. Not less than one-third of the daily purse money as herein defined shall be paid each day as the purses for the California-bred races. The remainder of the said purse money as herein defined shall be apportioned among the remaining eight events with not less than one-twelfth of the total daily purse money allotted to any one event. The licensee may add additional amounts from its own resources for any event at its election. The term "purse money" as in this paragraph used shall mean the purse money apportioned to the different races from the 4 per cent of the take as in this paragraph provided, or from the amount of the purses as fixed by the Racing Board and for the purposes of this paragraph shall not include any amounts added to such purse money by the licensee. For the first ten days of each meeting the licensee thereof shall pay as the total purse money not less than an amount equal to 4 per cent of the average daily gross amount of money handled through the mutual pools for the last ten days of the next preceding meeting conducted by such licensee or its predecessor, and, in the event no such meeting has been conducted, then such minimum purse money for said first ten days shall be not less than the amount fixed by the California Horse Racing Board. For each day subsequent to the first ten days of each meeting, the minimum purse money shall be 4 per cent of the average daily gross amount of money handled through the mutual pools for the first ten days immediately prior thereto.

(d) The odd cents of all redistribution to be made on all mutual contribution exceeding a sum equal to the next lowest multiple of ten (sometimes called the "break") shall be deducted by the licensee, divided, and paid as follows: Two-thirds thereof shall be paid to and retained by the licensee as part of its commission, and used in such amounts as it shall decide as additional purse or stake money or for such other purpose as such licensee shall see fit; the remaining one-third thereof shall be deposited daily in a banking institution in the State of California approved for savings by the State Banking Department of the State of California, in a trust fund, and at the end of each meeting shall be apportioned and paid to the breeders of animals bred in California, as the term California-bred animal is herein defined, which have finished first, second or third, in any of the races conducted at such meeting in the following manner: There shall be paid from said trust fund to the breeder of each California-bred animal that has won a first, second, or third money in any race at such race meeting, that proportion of the total amount of said trust fund that the money won by such California-bred animal, either as first, second or third money, bears to the total amount won, either as first, second or third moneys, by all California-bred animals during such meeting.

(e) The term California-bred or California-bred animal or bred in California, where used in this act, shall mean only an animal conceived in California and foaled from a mare which has been continuously in California for the six months immediately preceding such foaling. The breeder of an animal is the owner of the mare at the time of foaling.

(f) The licensee of each meeting shall deduct the percentages from the mutual pools herein provided for and pay and distribute the same in accordance with the terms hereof.

No entry of an animal and no fee or sum shall be fixed or accepted from breeders or owners for the nomination of animals for any race or contest more than 120 days prior to the actual holding of such race or contest. There shall be but two fees for any race; one the nominating fee and the other the starting fee. The provision hereof shall not apply to any race or contest for which nominations have already been made or for which contest fees have already been accepted.

On all programs of races giving the names of the entries there shall be placed under the name of each entry the name of the sire and the name of the dam, and the name of the sire of the dam, and for each such animal being a California-bred animal there shall also be included the name of the breeder.

Where, in the mutual wagering, a minus pool results for any position, the licensee shall nevertheless pay to the holders of winning tickets for such position the amount of money wagered on such position, but shall not pay any amount in addition thereto."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Finance, Revenue and Taxation.

Message from the Governor.

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, May 20, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and of the Assembly.

GREETINGS: I have given due, careful and respectful consideration to Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 1, adopted by a majority of both houses on May 16, 1940, requesting that I call a special session under a proclamation which will enable the Legislature to consider and act upon legislation for the relief of hardship and destitution, whether resulting from unemployment or from any other causes.

I also have duly considered a request from a majority of your Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment, to issue a call for a special session that will enable the Legislature to consider and act upon a proposed bill which, for the purpose of printing and circulation, was introduced in the Senate on May 16, 1940, as Senate Bill No. 86.

I have also carefully considered the provisions of this measure, together with the report and recommendations made to the Legislature by said committee on May 13, 1940, in pursuance of which this proposed bill was drafted.

Under the proclamation calling your special session which began January 29th, the Legislature is authorized to consider and act upon legislation providing for an appropriation of funds for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment, to be expended by the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission in accordance with the provisions of the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935 for the relief of persons qualifying thereunder. No further proclamation is, therefore, needed to enable the Legislature to provide for the relief of hardship and destitution resulting from unemployment.

Assuming that your resolution was intended to request a proclamation convening another special session to enable the Legislature to act upon the proposed measure above mentioned, I make this reply to that request and to the informal request made to me personally by the majority of the members of the joint committee.

When this committee's request was presented, I advised its members that I would not be inclined to convene another special session for the consideration of new legislation upon the subject of unemployment relief, unless the new legislation proposed under such a call was such that I would not feel it my duty to veto if enacted.

As stated, I have analyzed the measure proposed to be enacted, which has been put in printed form as Senate Bill No. 86. I find that it is a measure which I would consider it my duty to veto if it were passed by any session authorized to enact it. I, therefore, can not accede to the request to call a session for the purpose of enacting this proposed bill, without placing myself in the inconsistent position of impliedly recommending it and then vetoing it if adopted.

Furthermore, I find its concept and specific provisions so at variance with my convictions and policies regarding legislation on the subjects of the bill that I see no possibility of a compromise measure being agreed upon. And if a compromise measure were possible, considering the time required for the special session, the uncertainties of such a compromise, and the fact that in all probability it could not become effective until two or three months before a new Legislature shall meet in regular session, it seems to me that it would be impractical, if not wholly futile, to comply with your request.

I wish that I could be given the time within which to fully point out in this communication all of the objections and reasons that I have for disapproving this proposed measure. But I must consider the importance to you of an immediate answer to your request, and also the fact that you may be more concerned in whether I shall comply with that request, than in the reasons for my action.

However, without attempting to go fully into a discussion of the provisions of the bill, or its objectives and specific provisions, I do wish to briefly record in this communication a few general and fundamental objections thereto.

The whole concept of the bill and its specific provisions are, it seems to me, contrary to the following preliminary observations made in the recommendations of the members of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment, at whose request it was introduced:

"The complexity of the situation (unemployment), and the rapidity with which it has grown to be the major problem in California, have resulted in what can only be called muddled thinking. We have lost sight of basic principles. Constant reiteration of the gravity of the relief situation has obscured the fact that relief is a single phase of the problem of unemployment.

Removing the long recognized relief difficulties would leave the unemployment problem still unsolved. Removing unemployment, on the other hand, would eliminate much of the need for relief, except for indigency due to old age; the loss of one or both parents; disease, and similar conditions preventing self-support.

The committee emphasizes that the major question with which the Legislature has to deal is the problem of unemployment."

With that preliminary observation I fully agree; but for the same reasons I disagree with the bill proposed by the majority members of this same committee, because it seems to be only a product of muddled thinking; that it has lost sight of basic principles; that it ignores the fact that relief is a single phase of the problem of unemployment; and that it provides no means for the solution of that problem.

The proposed measure would create a Department of Employment to which would be transferred all of the powers and duties of the Relief Commission, Relief Administrator, the Department of Social Welfare, the Social Welfare Board, the Director of the Department of Social Welfare, the State Department of Employment and the California Employment Commission.

Yet it is not an employment measure. It is a measure intended only to transfer the administration of the dole system of relief from the State to the counties, to be integrated with county administration of social welfare aids to the aged, the blind, and dependent children, with State subventions of two-thirds of the cost.

Consolidation, disorganization or reorganization of State departments or agencies or the transfer of State administrative functions to county administration will not make work or provide employment. Employment can only be provided by creating work that does not now exist.

The kind of work that must be provided for the unemployed, if the relief and tax burden is to be reduced, must be self-respecting, decently paid, useful, wealth-producing and, most important, self-sustaining work. Under this proposed measure no such works program can be planned and carried forward.

Among the many glaring inconsistencies contained in this proposed measure are its provisions regarding a works program. Section 70 reads as follows:

"Money available for a works program from any general relief appropriation may be used for all or any of the following purposes:

(a) For materials, equipment, tools, personnel, supervision, time keeping, transportation and administration for the projects.

(b) For rural relief and rehabilitation, including the establishment and operation of camps.

(c) For aid to self-help cooperative organizations and associations.

(d) For the construction, reconstruction, replacement or repair of public roads, public buildings, public works and other permanently useful public improvements.

(e) For the production or processing of consumable goods and commodities exclusively for the use of persons receiving relief.

- (f) For forest fire protection and prevention.
- (g) For the elimination, abatement and prevention of and protection against natural deleterious physical conditions including but not limited to weed abatement, mosquito control, swamp drainage.
- (h) For the conservation of natural resources."

Yet section 80 of the proposed bill says that not more than 3 per cent of the money made available for unemployment relief shall be expended for these purposes of a works program and for the administrative costs of the department and of the counties applicable thereto.

Under section 72 of the proposed bill, no money (not even any of the 3 per cent) could be expended on a works program without the consent of the counties in the matching of funds.

The proposed bill from a purely administrative standpoint would cause greater confusion than has ever prevailed in the administration of unemployment relief and social welfare aid. Some of its sections are not susceptible of enforcement and administration. Some of the provisions are of doubtful constitutionality and it would take months to iron out its contradictions and discrepancies and mold it into a workable measure.

A program for useful, productive and self-sustaining work, to be comprehensive, permanent and successful and give promise of getting away from the expensive and demoralizing dole system, could not regard county lines. Work could not be instituted and administered by fifty-eight separate county unemployment relief administrations. And the distribution of unemployment relief doles can not possibly be more effective nor less expensive than a state-wide plan. State supervision is required at least for the supervision of apportionment of funds, the disbursement of money, the audit of expenses, the settling of eligibility standards, the application of uniform practices, the equalization of subsistence budgets, the operation of single men's camps, and the maintenance of the Federal stamp plan. This type of essential State supervision which must necessarily remain is costly if properly exercised, and the cost of this administration must be provided for in addition to the funds made available for relief and county administrative expenses under any such plan as is proposed in this bill.

Whatever may be said for the integration of administration of dole and cash benefits to purely social welfare cases, that is, to unemployable indigents, I can see no sense in placing among the social welfare aids employable persons able and willing to work and for whom work can and should be provided. It seems to me that if relief applicants who are unemployable are to be segregated from those who are capable of performing useful work and services, that segregation should be made through a State Department of Employment engaged in carrying forward a comprehensive works program as the primary purpose of unemployment relief. The distinction between employables and unemployables must be made no matter what criteria are applied. That fact is recognized in the experience of the administration of the Employment Department.

The provisions of the proposed bill generally do not recognize the basic differences in the concept, character and handling of relief as contrasted with employment service and insurance. The bill fails to recognize the standards of the employment service such as placement of workers on the basis of skill, ability, experience, intelligence, personality and character of the workers seeking a job. Nowhere are accepted standards of the service, hours or working conditions recognized. In fact, the bill actually provides that public works wages shall be less than the prevailing scale. No minimum wage standards are fixed under this regressive proposal, excepting only that they should be higher than the dole. Established employment wage standards would be made to suffer.

The consolidation of the unemployment insurance and reemployment service with social aid administrations, such as is proposed in this measure, would combine services created on entirely different principles. Employment opportunities and unemployment insurance are based upon statutory rights and contractual obligations. Integrating the employment security system with social welfare aids as provided in this bill would have the tendency to undermine the employment security system set up under the Unemployment Reserves Commission. This attempt at such integration presents a question whether the State of California could continue to cooperate with the Federal Government under the Social Security Act and could continue to cooperate under the Wagner-Peyser Act. If that were made impossible, the State of California would not only lose the several million dollars now granted each year to the State for the administration of its laws, but the California Insurance Act could not be certified for tax offset under Title IX of the Social Security Act. This would mean that California employers would be obliged to pay the full three per cent of the Federal unemployment insurance tax to the general fund in the United States treasury. In 1939, because of its failure to provide funds under the Wagner-Peyser Act, the State of South Dakota attempted to combine the public employment offices and the public assistance of county welfare offices, but the Social Security Board refused to approve the arrangement as not being acceptable under the terms of the Social Security Act. The general plan proposed in this bill was tried out in the State of Washington, a State with a program in all the departments proposed to be consolidated by this bill very much smaller than those of similar departments in California. But the State of Washington abandoned this plan of administration after two or three years of trial because it was too unwieldy to operate. The work of such a huge department immediately presents many intricate administrative problems because of the different services and different types of administration involved. The physical structure of such a department would be both cumbersome and confusing. Grants of funds would necessarily require different systems of accounting and management, added expenses of over all controls would be necessary, resulting in increase of administrative costs.

That I have not mentioned other features of this objectionable bill which I feel also justify criticism does not mean my approval of other provisions of the bill although some may be found which taken by themselves in a proper bill would not be objectionable.

Respectfully yours,

CLO:M

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

Report.

The following report of Special Committee was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

Social Audit.

The Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment submits this report with the hope that the findings will benefit future legislation. The committee's primary desire is to see that the needy receive their full share of relief, but to accomplish this, it is necessary to prevent the undeserving from taking from the deserving.

In fairness to regular case workers, the committee acknowledges that access has been had to certain records not available to them. In this connection, the committee in Part I of its report (Senate Journal, May 13, 1940, page 398, Recommendation VIII), advocated "the clearing of accepted (SRA) applications through private credit agencies in the same manner as commercial or financial credit applications are cleared."

10,000 Cases Studied.

Every effort has been made to be conservative in classifying the 10,000 SRA cases included in this audit and as a result many apparent ineligible cases have been listed as borderline cases. The social audit conducted by Social Welfare Commission disclosed that in the Hollywood area of Los Angeles the ineligible cases were approximately 12 per cent against 13 per cent borderline cases. This audit shows only 1.05 per cent ineligible cases and 21.17 per cent borderline cases. Analysis of the borderline cases indicates a relative high proportion of ineligibility.

The audit was undertaken in representative cities and counties and the results are set forth in tabulations that follow. The cases were checked without any knowledge, on the part of the investigators, of information shown on the case records. The cases were selected at random from relief payrolls in the Controller's office. The counties in which the inquiry was made are San Francisco, Alameda, Sacramento, Stanislaus, Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino, and San Diego, and the cities, San Jose and Glendale.

Ineligibles Evade Inquiry.

This audit demonstrates definitely that the great exodus of recipients from the rolls after February 15th was caused by the Legislature establishing necessary restrictions and determining to eliminate the undeserving.

There is little doubt but that clever chiselers are classed as borderline or wrong-address cases in the tabulations. These cases require intensive investigation, not permitted by the time and funds available to the committee. However, several Los Angeles cases were examined exhaustively and definite evidence of fraud was obtained in two. Only a few of the many wrong-address cases found by the investigators could be scrutinized in the available time but these indicated a relative high ineligibility ratio.

The figures obtained by the analysis confirm the findings of the sub-committees that there is a direct relationship between the inefficiency of SRA offices and the percentage of ineligibility. The Southern California subcommittee, of which Mr. Houser is the chairman, reported, for example, that San Bernardino County has one of the more efficient SRA offices and Riverside, one of the less efficient. This social audit disclosed that borderline and ineligible cases in San Bernardino County totaled 22 per cent, whereas in Riverside County they totaled 48 per cent.

A comparison of the Hollywood and Belvedere sections of Los Angeles indicates the difference in the class of relief recipients and varying factors that are involved. In Belvedere, where economic and cultural levels are lower, there were few chiselers; whereas in Hollywood the borderline percentage was 21.17 per cent, a reflection of the many methods of chiseling which were disclosed.

Money and Morale Lost.

This audit emphasized the seriousness of chiseling, not only because of the vast sums lost but also in the moral effect upon our people. The committee calls attention to the prevalence of borderline cases, as revealed by this audit, which range from 5.5 per cent to as high as 32 per cent. The economic loss from ineligibility is far greater than generally understood. To arrive at the loss, it is conservative to assume that one-fourth of all borderline cases are undeserving and, with the definite ineligibles, are receiving $4,000,000 a year in California. This does not take into consideration past losses from payment to persons who left the rolls after the Legislature commenced its investigation of the steadily increasing relief load.

This loss, great as it is, is secondary to the intangible loss from the depletion of the moral fabric of our citizens. This audit has revealed that not only seasonal workers, but also all other types, many of whom are employed as high as ten months a year, depend regularly upon relief to carry them through periods of unemployment. Heretofore, under the same conditions these workers managed to save sufficient money to provide for themselves during idle periods. Now they go on relief as soon as unemployed, continuing installment payments on automobiles and other purchases. Even marginal farmers who once maintained themselves, seek relief. The attitude that the State will take care of those who do not endeavor to provide for themselves is rapidly becoming more general.

Recipients of relief have been permitted, even encouraged, by business concerns to buy expensive jewelry, refrigerators, radios and automobiles on time-payments far above their means. Rentals in many cases are exorbitant to recipients. A representative of a branch bank in a Southern California city attempted to discourage a part of this investigation on the basis that certain farmers who are borrowers of the bank might lose relief payments they are receiving. One case was found of a relief recipient who had a four-figure savings account in 1938 and who withdrew the money and immediately applied for and received relief.

The audit disclosed that several questionable cases voluntarily dropped from the rolls in February, have been reinstated since the Workers Alliance has been actively encouraging citizens to go on relief.

Chiseling an Important Problem.

To reduce chiseling is an important social problem, which deserves the cooperation of all citizens to the end that the apparent break-down of moral responsibility may be halted.

The publishing of names of relief recipients would help probably in small cities, but probably would not have as much effect in larger cities, where the chiseler can readily use fictitious names. Finger-printing of relief recipients is opposed by some persons as unsocial, but if the deserving are to be protected from those who are undeserving it seems to be one of the inevitable steps that must be taken.

The Controller's office should be provided with more money so that more investigators may be employed to investigate relief payments. The cost would be small, compared to the possible savings. Chiselers should not be dealt with leniently.

Works projects as proposed by the committee would provide an effective means of eliminating chiseling because a chiseler will not work. The dollar and cents savings would pay any additional administrative costs.

The committee regrets that it is necessary to state that undue delay on the part of the Department of Finance in approving the Controller's recommendation for additional appointments of investigators prevented the start of this audit until April 1, 1940. Three months should have been allowed for the comprehensive examination undertaken. To produce a maximum of information any social audit requires adequate time for thorough inquiry. While the findings of this investigation have been illuminating, the committee does realize that more time would have brought out still more interesting phases of the problem of dole relief.

Social Audit—SRA Relief Rolls.*LOS ANGELES COUNTY.

Listed below are some sample cases of persons on relief:

Alfonso De la C—— lives on Esperanza Street, working as a sign painter and just completed one job which we verified, receiving $100 check. Is receiving relief under name of Al C—— at a nearby address (such cases as these are difficult to find and require intensive investigation; this is a sample of aliases).

Another alias case is that of a real estate salesman, Alfred H. D—— using the D—— name but a different given name. Definitely determined to be the same man; lives in a nice apartment and, at one time, was exceedingly wealthy, even today he has property holdings. The record of suits against him show that he is rather elusive. It has been confirmed that he is making from $200 to $300 each month from the real estate company which he is now representing.

Richard Eps—— has been a fruit peddler for 13 years; has a nice home in Alhambra and is receiving relief.

David E. Ro—— is a musician playing in a night club, also on relief.

Julius Oc—— is a lubricant man with an automobile company; has been working for seven years at $30 per week, using a different given name but positively identified as the same man.

Mrs. Blanche J—— claiming to be a widow is receiving relief but has a husband working at one of the motion picture studios.

Mrs. Laura Ho—— on South Berendo claims to be a widow but has a husband receiving veteran's pension and she is a registered nurse working regularly while on relief.

Leona H—— supposed to be a widow but has been working as a waitress and has a husband who is a detective and is working.

William F. St—— has been arrested regularly each year for drinking since 1933; has either paid a fine or sentenced to jail; at this time, he is serving 40 days on the road gang.

Flora and Lou Sah—— have been married for six months and have been on relief ever since; prior to that time they were both employed as domestics in the home of a Beverly Hills family. They have both been offered work at the same place but have remained on relief. This latter has been verified twice from their former employer.

Schedule A.

This represents relief cases where the subjects have received work since February and have been removed from the rolls.

Schedule B.

This represents cases which require further investigation to determine their eligibility.

Schedule C.

These cases involve foreigners principally and there are many peculiar circumstances suggesting doubtful eligibility but, before any definite statement could be made, it would require intensive investigation. Some of these are:

Frank Re—— of A Street who was working as a barber on Taylor Street up to the time he left the city and went off relief at the time the Legislature was in session.

Emil Rib—— of Florida Street, steel worker, now employed at average of \$50 per week; was off work for 1½ months during the rainy season and on relief (he only has wife and one child and income for past year should have been enough to tide him over the lay-off period of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  months).

James Ri—— working in Venezuela, wife in San Francisco receiving relief up until February 16th.

Peter Roc—— dishwasher, receiving $1 per day plus meals through the winter while on relief; off rolls during legislative inquiry.

Feliciano Lo—— of Missouri Street, working part time for railroad but not reporting revenue.

Martin Con—— of Mission Street was laid off WPA due to excessive drinking but went on SRA and off at time of Legislature investigation; however, was working fairly steady according to union records.

John Atk—— of Grove Street was receiving both unemployment insurance and relief checks during January and February until he accepted job as plate hanger with steel company.

Schedule D.

This reports cases where the subjects have been buying considerable merchandise on time in excess of what would be considered consistent for a recipient of relief to purchase.

Schedule E.

This reports excessive liquor cases where all information substantiates the fact that the parties are victims of alcoholism.

Schedule F.

These relief clients were ineligible in February but since the Legislature met have disappeared from the rolls.

Schedule G.

These are cases which are definitely ineligible at this time and a few examples are listed below:

Fred Re—— of San Francisco, is an actor and union member in good standing. Agency reports that he has a good act and is busy most of the time; the act receives from $200 to $250 per week and consists of himself and three children, recently appeared at the "Dog House" in Reno.

Frank Lap—— of Washington Street, is a chauffeur at $125 per month and has been working for past two years.

Henry Fern—— of Forty-fourth Avenue is a janitor in one of the downtown buildings, employed for a number of years. Recently purchased $250 worth of furniture.

Anders Eri—— of O'Farrell Street is also a janitor in a bank building for years.

Alex Bys—— of Bosworth Street is a scrap-iron worker and, according to certain companies, has an income not entitling him to relief.

Bernhardt Bri—— of Fillmore Street is a steam-fitter making in excess of $200 per month.

Pasqual Sa—— of La Salle Street is a gardener making $125 per month.

John Ra—— of Silliman Street is a salesman steadily employed, reported to be averaging $30 per week.

Charles Me—— of Sunnydale Avenue, purchased a "see-the-moon-for-10-cents" telescope for $400, paying $100 down and $50 per month on balance. Wife works as maid at 35 cents per hour.

Richard H. O'M—— of Vienna Street is a union member in good standing, making $1 per hour, averaging five days a week; does not have citizenship papers. Receives $36 monthly compensation from U. S. Government.

Kathleen O'D—— of O'Farrell Street is a nurse not working but taking a rest; can work if wants to and always in demand according to Nurses Registry.

Peter Nid——, a Filipino, of Francisco Street; working for past three years at same place, making $65 per month. Wife working, making $40 per month and board for past three years.

Fred New—— of Twenty-sixth Street working as a painter making $43.75 per week.

Herman H. L—— of Duboce Avenue works as a fireman on locomotive making $300 per month.

(Notice that many people working at nights are on relief evidently due to the fact that case-worker calls in daytime.)

Schedule A.

Unable to check latest relief rolls to make a closer study of these borderline cases.

Schedule B.

There was no similar address to those shown, generally being a vacant lot or else in manufacturing district.

Schedule C.

These cases are questionable as no one in neighborhood or at address given knew of said relief clients.

Schedule D.

These subjects had the same attitude as that of the majority of the witnesses called before the Yorty Committee in Oakland. Very indignant.

Schedule E.

A few examples are listed below. Although it has not been possible to check the latest rolls, caution was taken in cases in which the persons have just within the past few weeks accepted work and they were classed as borderline cases.

Lee Po—— of Ninth Avenue was working as a clerk and receiving relief at the same time.

Cecil Du—— of Lincoln Avenue is a roofing contractor and reported to be doing well.

Matilda Ha—— of McGee Street is not only working part time but her husband (whose name is not shown as she is listed as a widow) is a cook on a dining car.

James Br—— of West Street is a bartender on Sacramento Street and has been for over a year.

One colored man in Oakland who has used aliases in obtaining credit is on rolls and has made substantial purchases; several members of family are working.

Albina K——, a lady barber, is working in Seventh Street barber shop.

From all information available, a great many, who were questionable as to eligibility in February, have been dropped from the rolls.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

Ineligible—on rolls -----Schedule C	26 cases	5.78%

Schedule A.

Included in this group are cases which require more investigation. Two cases are shown below which are outstanding examples:

Thomas J. N.—— on Magnolia Avenue living in a neatly furnished apartment in good district of Riverside. Chinese prints and colorful drapes are part of furnishings. Purports to be a politician, according to his remarks.

Carroll C. S.—— of Beaumont worked for Metropolitan Water District for four years; the last two years at $7.70 per day until November 11, 1939. Excellent wages for location and steady work; knew work would end about that time but unprepared and went on relief.

Schedule B.

These cases were ineligible in February at time of Special Session of Legislature and, after the Legislature's stand, got off relief; a few typical cases are listed below:

Luis Ar—— of Evans Street in Riverside making monthly payments of $39.03; open account with merchants, wealthy relatives. Only wife and one dependent.

Former candidate for supervisor; considerable assets before candidacy; lives in nice home; special work.

Rancher with net income of $1,800 per year, borrowing money from bank.

Schedule C.

Walter J—— ranch hand with shack in town but working regularly on farm.

Carl M—— of Franklin Street in Hemet, raises vegetables, hauls them in his truck and sells them in Los Angeles. Had two trucks running last summer and one this winter.

Lena Par—— has 12 horses, ready to open riding academy at well known club. Has bad credit record but always able to promote property.

Frank M—— is farmer, has small checking account, unsecured loan with bank of $100, good credit record. Has truck and hauls for others.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

	<hr/> 376 cases	<hr/> 100.00%

(113 cases had wrong addresses so could not check.)

Schedule A.

This reports cases of relief recipients who have obtained work since February, and have since taken themselves off the rolls.

Schedule B.

These were borderline cases in February but they have removed themselves from the rolls since the Legislature showed its intention to eliminate chiselers.

Schedule C.

These are borderline cases who still are on relief.

John Bo—— of San Bernardino is a painter with a contractor's license and has been making substantial purchases of paint.

Enrique Bra—— of San Bernardino owns a truck and hauls fertilizer, however, he has a bad credit record.

Polly Ca—— of Ninth Street, San Bernardino, is employed at night on South D Street.

Lelan De—— of San Bernardino, a tractor driver, reported to be a heavy drinker, was having a drinking party at the time the investigator called; wife is a waitress.

There are others in this group who are orange pickers but, because the packing houses do not keep names and records investigators were unable to prove definitely they are working.

(The fact that farmers and citrus growers do not keep names and identifications makes it possible for relief clients to obtain work and not be exposed.)

Schedule D.

The three cases are listed below:

Cecil Gwo—— was a visitor on Rialto Street in San Bernardino and received relief while there.

Pablo L. Men—— on Fifth Street, receives his mail at this address but does not live there.

Roosevelt Rh—— does not live at the address given but calls occasionally.

Schedule E.

These two cases represent clients who were ineligible in February and for some time past. They evidently took themselves off the relief rolls when the Legislature commenced investigation.

One of these parties has been working since September and earning, according to his employer, an average of $24 per week; he has no children.

Schedule F.

These cases are ineligible as of this date as well as of last February; they are all working and have not been removed from the rolls.

COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO.

Eligible cases -----	493 cases	82.16%
Borderline cases, off since February -----	34 cases	5.67%
Received work since February, off rolls -----	22 cases	3.67%

Ineligible cases -----Schedule B	10 cases	1.67%
	<hr/> 600 cases	<hr/> 100.00%

These cases were ineligible in February and on rolls but, after inquiry of the Legislature, relinquished relief.

Barney J. Mc——, a single colored boy, when effort was made to take him off relief because he lived at home, he moved down to another address on Twenty-ninth Street, to remain eligible for relief; boarded at home, purchased an automobile in November, 1939; now owes $282.50.

John H—— on Iowa Street receives old age pension but his wife is on direct relief; also sells patent medicine.

Arthur Pe—— instructed landlord to tell any investigators he was unemployed, sells refrigerators; neighbors tell of excessive drinking.

Minerva W—— lives with parents who receive pensions; belongs to Indian tribe and receives her pension, minor son making $70 per month.

Raymond N—— on Idaho Street has a grocery store in another part of city, purchased a cash register in November, 1939.

Schedule B.

These are cases which are ineligible for relief. Examples:

Joe B—— operates fishing boats; has done so for years; makes good yearly average and is making purchases right along.

Gus Varon—— operates a restaurant, made a recent substantial payment on same; has well-furnished home.

Cons—— working on G Street as bookkeeper since June, 1939.

Dora M—— works as hotel waitress, at home when case-worker calls; excessive purchases for relief client.

Ernest R—— of Dove Street employed as a butler but wife on relief rolls; no children; salary $65 plus tips.

1000 cases

Due to the limited time afforded the committee, it has been impossible to make a complete analysis of these cases, listed under borderline.

STANISLAUS COUNTY.Group A.*

Under this classification are listed those who were completely eligible for relief ----- 65 cases

Group B.

In this classification are the borderline cases, including those having seasonal work, large families making small additional income and part-time workers ----- 230 cases

Group C.

This classification includes those who have had work the year round and also those who have gone to work since February (those who have gone off the rolls should have been eliminated but there was insufficient time to permit a check of the rolls)----- 206 cases

Also included are those about whom informants stated, and personal contact confirmed, did not work when work was obtainable, and those who were found to use excessive quantities of alcohol and to have made purchases in excess of the amount consistent for a person entitled to relief.

NOTE: No attempt has been made to show the percentages because the committee has not had an opportunity to analyze the reports and likewise check the recent rolls to ascertain whether they have been dropped since April.

CITY OF GLENDALE.

Paul Wh—— does psychological work in Pasadena; purchased a car on April 10th, paying $125 down. When investigator called on April 17th, he seemed quite disturbed and, in a few days, removed himself from the rolls but received a check after making the down payment on the car. Credit references for car show income averaging $200 per month.

Edward A. Mar—— on Louise Street operates a parking lot at night.

Hugh Je—— on Acacia has a job working at nights and has always been on hand in the daytime when case-worker has called.

Jack Be—— came to California in December, 1939, from Nevada, goes on relief although living with friends and goes off relief, April 30, 1940; opens a riding academy in the Glendale area.

Schedule B.

Henry Sir—— of Jackson Street, dishwasher, quits job to go on unemployment insurance and also collecting relief at the same time.

Peter Per—— drinks excessively, wife earns $15 per week, there are no children.

Curtis McC—— purchased a 1940 Ford Mercury and paid cash, while on relief.

Michael B—— of Glen Oaks Boulevard; on March 28, 1940, purchased automobile for $911; down payment was $100; monthly payments of $33.83. Wife works as practical nurse, supposed to be disabled war veteran receiving pension and is still on relief.

CITY OF SAN JOSE.

Eligible for relief	-----	180 cases	60.00%
Borderline cases	-----Schedule A	42 cases	14.00%

Wrong addresses	-----Schedule C	19 cases	6.33%
Ineligible for relief	-----Schedule D	16 cases	5.34%
		<hr/> 300 cases	<hr/> 100.00%

Schedule A.

These are cases, which require further investigation, as information discloses earnings and purchases which seem out of line for any person receiving relief.

Schedule B.

These are cases, which are ineligible as of this date, but should be checked with last relief rolls to ascertain whether they have been dropped or not.

Schedule C.

The percentage of wrong addresses in San Jose is lower than in most places, especially in larger cities. Many interesting cases are found in this classification; typical ones are listed below:

Ralph A—— on Martin Avenue, moved from this address over a year ago; buying a car at $21.65 per month and paid up contract before due date.

Chester H—— on Jackson Street moved over a year ago.

Mexican family on Julian Street; furniture in house but have been away for some time.

Joseph M—— listed at father's address on 4th Street, lives in Stockton but comes home frequently; relief given under son's name and not father's.

Most of the 19 cases have been away for months and should have been changed on rolls, if they are eligible.

Schedule D.

Information from reliable sources show these cases as either working or making substantial purchases. Typical examples:

Mrs. A—— B—— operates third class hotel on Market Street, purchased an automobile in October, 1939, and paid $400 cash and trade-in of $361, six months contract on balance at $159.46 per month and only owes one payment.

S. Ch—— working part time. In November, obtained an improvement loan on property from bank in the amount of $323 and has paid off $123 within three months.

J. Sc—— of South Autumn Street, employed steadily as baker since July, 1939, and owns property assessed in excess of $3,000 clear.

Maurice Van—— of 8th Street, employed as bank janitor for seven months at $100 per month.

George Em—— is a painting contractor, credit accounts showing that he is doing a fair business, has a contractor's license.

"CAREER CASES."

It is interesting to note the number of the cases in different localities involving "career relievers," or persons who have received relief continuously for 18 months.

The following tabulation gives from statistics furnished by the State Controller's office, the number of cases which have been on relief continuously for 18 months prior to February, 1940:

Humboldt County .....	53 cases
Sonoma County .....	124 cases
San Joaquin County .....	606 cases
(474 of these are in Stockton.)

Alameda County .....	1433 cases
----------------------	------------

(In addition to these 1433 continuous cases, Alameda County has 682 "career cases" that have been intermittently on the rolls since 1934 and 1935.)

LOS ANGELES COUNTY.

The following statistics show approximate amounts paid in various districts in Los Angeles County to relief recipients who are continuously on the rolls:

Boyle District.

The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

Many school districts within the State have been established, enlarged, changed or altered within the last several months for the purpose of increasing and widening facilities for the dissemination of education. Many of these districts have voted bonds for raising money for the purchase of school lots, for building or purchasing school buildings, for repairing school buildings, for supplying school buildings with furniture or necessary apparatus, for improving school grounds, and for liquidating outstanding indebtedness. In many instances, however, these actions will be of no avail because of minor nonjurisdictional defects and irregularities in the proceedings taken. ### Urgency Clause.

SEC. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall, therefore, go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

In order to provide safe, adequate, and healthful recreational facilities for the people of the State of California during the period of 1940 when these facilities are most used, it is imperative that the appropriation made by this bill be available for immediate expenditure.

Storms and floods during the past winter have created dangerous conditions in certain State parks, such as damage to piling on pleasure piers and the washing out or undermining of roads and pathways. One way roads exist in certain parks which must be widened to accommodate anticipated increased usage during the coming summer. Sanitation facilities are inadequate or lacking in certain parks so that these parks will have to be closed unless repairs and additions are made immediately. The immediate effect of this bill will enable the people of the State to enjoy its healthful recreational facilities to the fullest extent and will avoid possible injuries and illnesses which may otherwise result unless this appropriation is immediately available.

Recess.

At three o'clock and fifteen minutes p.m., on motion of Senator Myhand, the President of the Senate declared recess to hear an address by Dr. Francis E. Townsend.

The following speech was delivered by Dr. Townsend and on motion of Senator Myhand ordered printed in the Journal:

GENTLEMEN: I appreciate deeply the honor you are showing me. In the lower house a resolution has been presented to the Legislature of California urging that this body memorialize the Congress of the United States to consider seriously the proposal which is now embodied in a bill before Congress; Lower House No. H.R. 8264 and S3255 in the Upper Chamber.

This resolution will be presented to the Senate of the Legislature of California probably tomorrow. It is backed by the signatures of between four and five hundred thousand voting citizens of California. For your consideration, gentlemen, the purport of this resolution and the bills which I have cited is not merely one to give a better standard of living to the elderly people of this country. It proposes that feature merely as a means to an end.

We are going to require a tremendous cushioning effect on our domestic economy because it appears that this war now going on in Europe will terminate quite suddenly. When it does, our people are going to be faced with a crisis perhaps more severe than we have thus far seen, for the sudden termination of the demand for goods which is engendered by warfare will leave us in a worse predicament than we were in following the last world war. For this reason, we have a greater problem than ever.

We have ten million men out of work. They and their families constitute a large proportion of the United States. They and their families, plus the ten millions of indigent old folks in this country are having a crushing effect upon our market. If we added anything to the burden of unemployment by failing to create a national policy which will cushion the effect of the post war collapse, we, too, will fall victims to that frightful state of affairs which now besets other countries of a democratic character.

We ought, by all means, to do everything in our power to bring about a new regime, a new order in America which will enable us to maintain a democratic form of government. If we neglect to do this in these critical days, I tremble for the result. I can not see how we Americans can maintain a condition in which such a vast number of our people wonder if they have anything to fight for in preserving our form of government. That is our situation today.

Is it any wonder that we are faced with this problem of unemployment? Take fifty or sixty millions of people; reduce them to a state of living in which all they can have is a bare existence; and you are going to ruin our market permanently. Moreover you breed the kind of discontent which has been the downfall of the democratic peoples abroad and which has made possible the "fifth column," now so often spoken of in the press. The citizens in those small countries were hesitant about doing anything to preserve and maintain governments under which they felt they had suffered unnecessarily and too long.

This situation, gentlemen, faces us in America. A great number of our people are wondering whether from their point of view we have anything which is worth preserving. And, as you know, the "fifth column" has already been planted very extensively throughout the citizenship of America. We shall let it exist only at our national peril.

Now, I believe there is one safeguard we can adopt. If America will adapt her economic policies to the age upon which we have entered, an age which makes possible the creation of such abundant wealth; if we would just consider how to build that which will result in industry's seeking laborers rather than laborers seeking jobs, then, gentlemen, we will have solved not only the problem of want and distress, but we will have built a country for which every citizen of the United States will gladly sacrifice and die.

Let us have this. Let us have justice. Let us have a government adapted to the new order of things. To do this, we must establish a national policy which will divert a certain portion of the profits of enterprise into the hands of the common people. The Brookings Institution and other fact finding agencies, have demonstrated beyond all doubt that America is equipped to produce at least one hundred and ten billion dollars in wealth annually. Instead of doing so we are struggling in poverty, and the reason is clear. We can't use such wealth until we make it possible for more people to buy it. The only conceivable way to do that, and to do justice to all types of citizens, is for us to adopt a system of economics which will permit a steady stream of wealth to flow back to the people. And, I think you will agree with me, that we ought not to have any useless or idle classes of people in America. Yet, our national policy has taken no cognizance of the fact that we are continually taking people out of industry through modern machine methods of production and setting them adrift. The coal mines and their modern machinery are but one of many strong examples of how labor has been displaced by science.

Now we should adopt a system which will permit a steady flow of money and purchasing power back to the grass roots, back to the common people. There is an easy way to do this. There is a certain class of people that industry doesn't want, and can't use. I speak, of course, of the old folks. We could create of this indigent and idle class, a producing class. We could permit the old folks to buy liberally, and the money they spent would turn over four or five times in every community during a single month, and thereby stimulate the business of each community. I believe that in such a way, we could easily and quickly produce one hundred per cent more wealth than we are producing today.

That is the problem ahead of America. I think you will concede that America is in dire danger today. If Germany succeeds in her tremendous effort to conquer Europe, then Germany is going to demand the possessions of Europe. She will demand that the West Indies, Canada, Australia, and all parts of the British and the French Empires come under her domination. If she does, our Monroe Doctrine will apply automatically and we shall be in a serious predicament. But we are in a poor position now, gentlemen, to maintain even a defensive war against such national wealth and equipment as Germany will have if she conquers.

Let us not take this risk. Let us immediately, if possible, provide every citizen in this land with absolute proof that we have a government here that he would rather die for than see abandoned. I am sorry to say that our country today is not in that happy state. Millions of people today would hesitate to risk their lives to save that which compels them to live a life of poverty and neglect.

Within a short time, we are going to raise our public debt limit of forty-five billion dollars. There is evidence that we will even double that limit. How in the world are we going to settle such a debt with virtually half of our people living in want and need? It can not be done. The only way is to create wealth fast enough to offset this debt, by seeing that every family in America steps out of conditions of want and distress and into comfort and security. We have offered a means of doing this through the cooperation of the elderly people of the land. Retire from gainful employment those past sixty on liberal pensions from the national government. Let the pensions be related to the national income, to increase as our national income increases, or to decrease accordingly. Let this extra purchasing power be used every month as a steady and dependable basis for market improvement, and, gentlemen, our business and commerce will develop at a pace never before seen.

In order to accomplish this end, we suggest that a tax be imposed upon the gross incomes of all institutions and all individuals receiving more than $250 per month, or $3,000 per year. This is a fair tax and a just tax to be imposed upon those well able to bear it. It is a tax that will not only assist the people in the lower income groups, but will enhance the ability of those in the upper brackets to increase their wealth. A study of our proposal will convince anyone of its fairness and justice.

If you gentlemen acquiesce in this, we ask you to offer a resolution to the National Government that this system be adopted. It may have to be changed somewhat; we can only tell by giving it a trial. But at least here is a tangible thing and the only thing offered since the depression hit us in 1929. I ask you in all earnestness to give this petition and this resolution that will be introduced into your august body, serious consideration. I thank you most sincerely.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 23.

Protesting the proposed attack upon the title of the State of California to its tide, submerged and overflowed lands.

WHEREAS, More than ninety years ago the State of California as one of the United States, by virtue of its sovereignty and the act of its admission to the Union, became the owner, in perpetual trust for its people, of all lands within its boundaries submerged by the waters along its shore, of all lands covered by the ebb and flow of its tides, and of all the lands beneath its navigable streams and lakes; and

WHEREAS, For over ninety years the sovereign State of California has maintained uninterrupted jurisdiction over said lands; and, during said years has expended vast sums of moneys of its citizens in building structures thereon, and in dredging and improving its ports and harbors and in building bulkheads and breakwaters therein and thereon, and in doing all and every of the things that a free people find essential to be done to make its sovereign lands available for the beneficial uses of its citizens in commerce, education and recreation; and in aid of the United States in the exercise of its functions in fishing and navigation, as specified in the Constitution; and

WHEREAS, Minerals have been found beneath certain of said lands, and the State of California, in the interest of conservation thereof and for the benefit of its people, has caused said minerals to be produced, thereby obtaining for the State and its people an income exceeding $900,000 per annum, thus lightening the enormous tax burden now resting upon the citizens of California; and

WHEREAS, The title of the sovereign State of California to these lands and privileges over which it has for so long maintained unquestioned jurisdiction and expended so much of the treasure of its citizens, has been sustained by numerous decisions of the Supreme Court of the State of California and by the Supreme Court of the United States, in cases in which the principles involved were clearly at issue; and

WHEREAS, Certain officials of the Government of the United States have for two years or more endeavored, and are now endeavoring to obtain the sanction of the President of the United States and of the Congress of the United States for the filing of court proceedings on behalf of the United States against the State of California and those holding under and subservient to the State of California, with the object of wresting from the State of California, and those holdings under said State, said sovereign rights so long maintained and exercised; now, therefore, be it

Resolved jointly by the Assembly and the Senate of the State of California. That the Legislature of the State of California protests the said proposal to attack the title of the sovereign State of California in and to said lands, and asserts as a free State within the Union, subject to and under the protection of the Constitution, that it condemns said attempt, and will oppose the same by all lawful means; be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of State of the State of California shall certify to the passage of this joint resolution, and shall forward a certified copy thereof to the President of the United States, to the Vice President of the United States, to the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, to the Secretary of State, to the Secretary of the Navy, and to each of the members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives representing the State of California or any district thereof in the said Congress.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

Legislation was inadvertently enacted at the 1939 session of the Legislature depriving motor vehicle dealers of the privilege of obtaining funds upon the security of their used car stock through the medium of trust receipt financing. As a result, dealers now find themselves loaded with more than twenty-five million dollars worth of frozen assets and in a position in which they are becoming less and less able to accommodate persons in moderate circumstances who desire to purchase new vehicles and pay for the same by "turning in" vehicles already owned by them.

One of the major industries in this State, the motor vehicle industry, is the sole means of livelihood for a large percentage of our population, and, through payment of taxes, fees and assessments, plays an important role in keeping the wheels of government in action. It is an industry woven integrally into our economic and social life and one whose services and progress are vitally necessary for the entire community.

This bill will enable the motor vehicle industry to continue to function in a manner most favorable to the general welfare by removing the garroting effect of the 1939 legislation previously mentioned. It is therefore highly imperative that it become effective at the earliest possible date as provided in this act.

PART III

The recommendations and findings in Parts I and II result from evidence obtained at hearings conducted throughout the State. Significant sections of the testimony are contained in Part III. These, together with data available in the complete transcript, and other material in the State Controller's files are offered in support of the committee's recommendations and conclusions.

SECTION 1

POLICIES

Relief, social welfare and all their kindred problems will remain so long as a large percentage of the people remain unemployed. There can be only one effective policy and that is the placing of emphasis on reemployment.

W-2 page 11—

PATTERSON: "We have studied this problem from every angle and we feel the biggest mistake they make is the fact they are dealing with it as a social problem. We don't feel it is a social problem,—it is an unemployment problem. I think that ninety per cent of all our trouble is the fact some of the people try to deal strictly on the basis of a social problem, and it is not,—it is a problem of unemployment, and if it was approached from that angle, I think this thing would be so,—there would never be any necessity to have a grievance from any organization. Our organization has always contended the most serious charge we have against the relief administration, either locally or in the State, is the fact it is necessary for the unemployed to have representatives. We feel that if the administration was fair and efficient and there wasn't so many different interpretations of the law, that it wouldn't be necessary for the unemployed to have a grievance committee, and the most serious charge that we have is that charge."

H-1 pages 105
& 106—

HOUSER: "Mr. Legg indicated that the quota had been kept about the same during the year 1939, but that the WPA had funds available and a quota available to take care of about from five to seven thousand more people on WPA rolls than were actually taken care of due to lack of local sponsorship, and when we asked him what was meant by local sponsorship, he said, that included sponsorship by cities and by counties and by State Relief Administration. Now my question is, those positions were available on WPA jobs, why didn't the State Relief Administration do something about creating sponsorship projects?"

REESE: "Well, for lack of funds mainly, the primary responsibility for the sponsorship of projects is not on the State Relief Administration. In some instances it is good business for us to take the sponsorship of these projects over because by contribution to the WPA we are able to save a certain amount of relief funds."

W-11 page 240—McLAUGHLIN: "Until the last special session of the Legislature in February of this year, the State Relief Administration, as an organization to administer unemployment relief, deteriorated constantly, and that deterioration was due largely to the desire to put on to the administrative staff unnecessary and inexperienced people, and by merely a change in attitude at the Intake, which is all that is necessary, the same method of procedure could be used as was used in the prior administration, but if the attitude at Intake was changed and was relaxed as it was, it results in abnormal and unduly increased case loads."

Further: WOLLENBERG: "You feel from your observation that there was a direct relaxing on the eligibility rules?" McLAUGHLIN: "There was, there was a relaxing of vigilance."

"Liberalization" and "the new philosophy" placed many thousands on the relief rolls with a consequent increase in costs.

H-12 page 153—MRS. DALEY: "Have you noticed any liberalization of the policies, budgets, and so forth, since you have been in the office over here that would lead you to believe that under the present administration that they were giving bigger and better budgets or care?"

PHILLIPS: "Yes, there has been a distinct liberalization in the time I have been here since last June."

HOUSER: "That has been a liberalization in the amounts of the budget and types of aid given?"

PHILLIPS: "Not in the amounts of the budget, that is stationary, that is fixed; but, in the—you might say in the excesses which are allowed, and possibly some of the medical care, and very much so in the matter of shoes.—We issued many many shoe orders here—and also in the—I believe in the types of cases that have been accepted. I believe there has been a liberalization in the class of cases that have been accepted. For instance, a case that was accepted now, previously would have been rejected."

WOLLENBERG: "Have you seen any evidence of any change in Alameda County in the general philosophy in the administration of relief, interpretations of eligibility, and so forth?" MRS. PITTO: "I think your whole concept of relief has been changing, both from the administration side, and from the relief recipient. I mean, when I first started in, the average person coming in was very unhappy, to say the least, in making application, and felt degraded to a certain extent; it was the general feeling. I know I had an East Oakland district when I first started with the Alameda County Charities and I happened to have a small, bright car, and they used to ask me to let them out a block away, so they could walk, and nobody would know they were going on relief. I mean, that is changed by the circumstances; I mean, relief itself is no longer on the old basis; it is a general problem and has been recognized as such." WOLLENBERG: "That has continued right on, that is, it has ever since you have been here?" MRS. PITTO: "It would be my feeling that the average person comes,—maybe not the average, but I guess it would be, at least the average person comes in, demanding or asking relief perfectly freely, as if it were their right, and within the last year or year and a half, or maybe longer, instead of the applicants more or less having to prove their eligibility, they do not have to prove it, but you, more or less, have to prove they aren't eligible."

Further:

WOLLENBERG: ". . . in other words, have you ever had the feeling it is not what the law is, or what the manual says, but it is rather certain definite social background and reasons that should govern in the cases?" MRS. PITTO: "No, not entirely that, because, I mean, your Manual, your rules for eligibility as such, but there is a difference if you come in and make application and you say, 'I am in need,'—then you have to establish absolutely how you are in need; it is just a slight difference in interpretation,—it is rather difficult to put into words,—your tendency has been to accept an application and it is up to you to establish whether or not the person is eligible, rather than that they aren't eligible if they applied."

H-3 pages 491,
492, 493, 494,
495, 496

FREDERICK F. HOUSER: "Did you find any change of policy and procedure evidenced immediately upon the change of administration, or was the identical policy continued over into the first part of the Anderson administration." MRS. COPLAND: "I think by and large the policy was continued. However, there was a policy of liberalization so that the people expected a liberal program and I think that may have led to a matter of duplication but I think at that time it was considered a liberalized program. However, there was a slight change in policy evidenced." HOUSER: "Was there much careful scrutiny to see whether they had been here 12 months or not?" MRS. COPLAND: "Yes, I think in Los Angeles that was carried out rather faithfully."

HOUSER: "This is relating back to the first part of ----" MRS. COPLAND: "The early days in 1939."

HOUSER: "Well, now, you spoke of this liberalization psychology, from where did that proceed, down through the whole organization— the liberalization policy?" MRS. COPLAND: "Yes, I think it did, and I think it is a little easy to understand, it did so in a rather informal and possibly insidious way, not carefully planned. But individual decisions were being given on cases of a client who might or might not be eligible and would not get in, refusing to accept the case workers' plan or the district's version of eligibility. Very often those cases were changed at headquarters and my point in it being insidious is that the next day or the next week or the next time such a case came up it could hardly be expected that that intake would hold tight on a policy, which on an individual case only a few days they had been reversed on, so I feel that it was a rather informal weakening of policy and one which possibly couldn't be measured and one which wasn't always evident."

HOUSER: "In other words, once you began to break down or relax in one case on the interpretation of the manual, why it was pretty hard to refuse aid to another person where that relaxation or liberalization had already taken place?" MRS. COPLAND: "Very definitely." HOUSER: "Well, now, as I understand it from your testimony, there wasn't—there was practically no change or very little change in the manual itself and there was no change in the statute, of course, at that time, but this was simply a psychological change or a loosening in the interpretation of the manual and the statutes." MRS. COPLAND: "That's true and occasionally on the specific case if we would write the state office for an answer or guidance on a particular problem the answer which, after all we should have been privileged to use as a precedent, which came back, would sometimes show a liberalization. There were no changes in the manual that I can think of off-hand which could be charged to a liberalized program, certainly no change in the statute."

HOUSER: "Do you think that with the same manual and the same statutes that there can be different interpretations placed on those same rules though?"

MRS. COPLAND: "Yes, I think that is possible. I think when you have as many people using any policy it is pretty hard to make a policy that fits well every case that comes up and it is pretty hard to get all people thinking exactly alike on all situations, when you get a daily variation in each situation."

HOUSER: "So that you think that with exactly the same manual regulations prevailing in or exactly the same laws prevailing that the same person with a different psychological approach could either tighten up or loosen up on intake?" MRS. COPLAND: "I think that might be somewhat possible. We always felt we guarded against that, of course, by the sort of supervision we had and by direct and close connection with the administration, field service, meetings, staff training and that sort of thing. I think that is as close as you can come to uniform procedure when we handle the number of workers that an SRA office handles."

HOUSER: "Well, did this liberalization continue to increase as time went on? For example, during the time that Mrs. Kilbourne and Mrs. Orrins were in?"

MRS. COPLAND: "Yes, I think that it could be said that it did." HOUSER: "Were there any written instructions at that time or was it again purely a matter of psychology?" MRS. COPLAND: "I think it was a matter of precedents. You see Mrs. Kilbourne would not have the authority to make manual changes, for instance, those came from the state office. Mrs. Kilbourne in her position would have the authority to make individual decisions on cases as they came to her attention." HOUSER: "Well, now, we have heard a good deal in the Legislature of the so-called new philosophy which was injected into the SRA during the early part of the Anderson administration. Can you tell us something about that so-called new philosophy? Have you ever heard of that?" MRS. COPLAND: "Well, yes, I have heard the phrase and seen it in quotation marks, all over the place. I can't say that I could define it and in my presence Mr. Plunkett was once asked to define his new philosophy, and he rather shrugged his shoulders and said he wasn't sure what it meant and he thought it was an unfortunate day when he had used the phrase."

HOUSER: "In what connection had he used that? Have you any idea?" MRS. COPLAND: "The only connections I knew in which he had used it were in the dismissal or demotions of persons, when he told them that he felt with the 'new philosophy' that they possibly wouldn't gear into the administration and, therefore, changes were necessary."

W-11 page 206— LORE: "Then some time early in 1939 there was a definite change toward liberalization?" MRS. REINHARDT: "I think it was within our own office, and from the state office, both. It was very definitely a liberalization from both sources, a different philosophy."

M-1 page 133— MIXTER: "When you took over your duties—let's see, your duties include those of intake supervisor?" MISS MONTGOMERY: "Yes." MIXTER: "Were cases being accepted in which eligibility had not been established, so far as you know?" MISS MONTGOMERY: "I felt that there were cases that were accepted that eligibility was not established, yes."

M-1 page 135— (Continuing: MIXTER: "Do you believe that all cases of eligibility are clearly established before they are confirmed or approved?" MISS MONTGOMERY: "Before we give them relief?" MIXTER: "Do you believe they are?" MISS MONTGOMERY: "No, I don't."

Inefficiency of the SRA has allowed "the case-load" to climb steadily with a resultant reduction in the amount available for each deserving unemployed person.

H-11 page 7-B— HOUSER: "Can you explain the increase in case-load in 1939 as compared with 1938?" HOERGER: "I am not directly in contact with the figures. We did have more activity than in 1938." HOUSER: "Have you heard some explanations given?" HOERGER: "I cannot agree that WPA layoffs are the full cause." HOUSER: "What do you think the other causes are?" HOERGER: "I think unquestionably the change in administration from Merriam to Olson caused a general feeling that there would be a liberal interpretation of relief." HOUSER: "So that borderline cases would be admitted to the rolls? You make the statement based on your long association with the organization?" HOERGER: "Yes."

Further:
H-11 page 12— HOUSER: "The increase has been over 125%—how about that?" HOERGER: "I think undoubtedly there has been a loosening of interpretations and restrictions put on over what there used to be." HOUSER: "In other words, it is easier to get on?" HOERGER: "Definitely."

W-11-206—Mrs. Beryl Reinhardt, Intake Supervisor, Public Welfare Department, San Francisco.

M-1-133—Miss Dorothy Montgomery, SRA Case Supervisor, Stockton.

H-11-7B—Myron E. Hoerger, SRA employee, San Diego.

- W-14 page 47— MRS. LYTLE: "Well, I think that we were given the very definite impression, in the early part of 1939, that the rigid following of rules of eligibility was not to be as rigid, and that we were to relax our rules of eligibility and give service to clients in many instances when the actual need, or the actual need for relief was not always there. However, I do not think that was true in this county, and it has not been true since I came to this county."
- M-1 page 228— MRS. SMITH: "It's—there has been a growing attitude, after a case once becomes active, that once they are getting relief, that it's up to the case worker to prove them ineligible rather than for the client to prove himself eligible."
- H-9 page 192— MRS. KENNEDY: "I think that we should have directors who know conditions in the county and who are able to analyze situations. If we have a family in verifying their employment, (and) it's a large family, and in private employment they make around $75.00 a month and their standard of living does not change from year to year then I don't believe that we should give them more while they're on relief than what they receive when they're in private employment. I don't believe in encouraging people to stay on relief."
- H-4 page 681— HOUSER: "Do you think it has been any easier to get on the relief rolls during 1939 than it was before?"
MRS. RETTIG: "I certainly do, much easier."
HOUSER: "Well, how did they make it easier?"
MRS. RETTIG: "Well, for instance, just take the single men that I talked about, and then you take the transients, transients were no longer forced to sign a statement that they would return to their legal residence. If they were forced to do that at the point of intake it automatically cuts out a great many of them, because they will refuse at that point, therefore no aid is ever set up."
- H-7 page 9— FITZER: "When the new administration came in in January of 1939, and shortly thereafter, there was some change in the interpretation there, and we were less strict in demanding that a single man accept camp care or no relief. In other words, we accepted a greater proportion of them for residential care than we had during the preceding three, or four, or five months."

P-7 page 264—

PHILLIPS: "It has been suggested in other hearings that it was—what shall I say, Mr. Lore—compulsory residence in the camp was not a social service viewpoint." LORE: "That is right. It was the social service division that changed the policy."

P-7 pages 260
& 261—

WAKEFIELD: On January 5, 1939, there were 2,631 single men receiving camp relief, the cash dole, as we often speak of it. On February 15, 1939, a new policy was inaugurated making camp referables voluntary instead of mandatory, with some few exceptions. That is referred to on page 17 of the Resident Projects Report. As a result of that new policy one year later, on February 15, 1940, the number of single men on cash dole were 20,502, or practically 8 to 1 to what it was before that policy went into effect. That was the result of that policy, as far as single men on the cash dole is concerned, but it didn't have a great deal of effect on the camps. The approximate population of the camps on January 5, 1939 was 8,000—I don't have the exact figures—we had the figures before and after, but not on this particular date. On February 15, at the time the single men's dole was up to its peak of 20,502, the camp population of SRA men was only 7,187. While the single men's dole was increasing something over 600 per cent the camp population only decreased, probably as a result of that policy, about 800.

Federal and State administration policies have lured thousands of families into an army of needy migrants.

M-6 page 184—

GIFFEN: "They (migrants) are coming simply because the movement started, not three or four years ago, as most people think, but years back, in 1923 and 1924 and their relatives have sent back; the relatives who are here have sent back attractive reports of conditions in California and this migration is going on, not for a few months, but it is going on for years to come and I think that the natural, normal solution is to go ahead and develop the State of California and take care of them. Now, in 1937 we had something over 700,000 acres of cotton in the San Joaquin Valley, because of the Federal reduction program in 1938 that was cut to 404,000. There was an actual reduction of over 300,000 acres of planted cotton in the State and that was the thing that caused the extremely acute situation that developed. There simply was more labor than any of us knew how to take care of. We are overrun every day but it seems to me the perfectly reasonable thing to do is for the State to ask that the allotments, the crop allotments that those people, or these people have left in their other states should be passed along and permit the State of California to at least plant a like number of acres under the Federal program and if that were done then I think that this situation would be behind us and most of the things that are troublesome now would take care of themselves."

M-2 page 39—

HODGE: "Our board has been consistently opposed to giving direct relief to able-bodied men and women. It is only since Mr. Hunt became the director of the SRA that we have had an actual work-relief program and that is eminently satisfactory to the members of the board and I think to the public at large."

M-9 page 118—

MIXTER: "Is the Committee to understand from the latter comment that you feel that the matter of relief to the needy worthy should be made less attractive than employment in private enterprise?" CAMP: "Yes, I should think it should be made available only as a necessity instead of as a vocation, as some people have come to look at it."

H-2 pages 239
& 240—

WILSON: "Well, there are so many cases of that that it is hard to pick out any one because a lot of that is due to the fact of changing policies. A policy may be in effect one day and out the next. For instance, the question of identification for relief funds. That policy has been changed, oh, I don't know how many times. One card had all the physical description on and another card had none. Another card had male and female on it. And another card was used as a commissary card. There were a half a dozen different groups of cards instead of under a unified set-up having one card that was carefully thought out and followed through consistently, keeping in mind all the time all the things that you were driving at."

HAYHURST: "All I can say is if you take every bit of the surplus commodities from our schools, none of our students will go hungry. They never have, and I don't think they ever will."

"And at all times in all conversations, we wanted it understood that this was not for needy students; it was not to build up a free lunch."

"Yes, I feel that some of those budgets are far more than the parent ever earned in his life. It seems to me that the way the standards are put down, maybe they are only the minimum standards of what is decent to maintain the American standard, but the point is, that California has liberalized relief, and that is doing nothing more than to direct this type of case to California, because they can get more here."

O'DAY: "Well, if we should then become very 'hard-boiled' about relief do you think that our unemployment problem would diminish?" PREISKER: "Well, I think it would drop down to a maximum of $2,000,000 a month."

SERAFINO: "I am not defending the rate of spending in the Relief Administration that it has had in the past. That is my personal opinion."

GIGLIOTTI: "If the proper legislation were written this whole thing could be cleared up where the case-load will decrease. Since the last law there has been a decrease of 16,000 cases. A lot of people are going off the rolls who don't want to be investigated. While I was on the board as chairman, a story came out that there were a lot of chiselers receiving old age assistance. The following week I had someone tell me that 14 or 15 people came in and didn't cash their checks; that they were afraid of investigations. There should be periodical investigations to make it definitely understood that the state will take care of legitimate people in need. People are getting more on relief than they ever earned in their lives."

Further:

HOUSER: "Do you think if the chiselers were taken off and those not willing to work, would it be cut down?" GIGLIOTTI: "Yes. Those who don't want to work and those with other resources. The load would be cut 30 to 40%. There is a group that has no business on there and don't need it and there is the group that wouldn't work any way if you found work for them."

must be honest,—a disinterested function of administering assistance to needy people in California,—not the building up of a political organization, not the building up of unions,—not the taking of people who came from the same school or the same train of thought.”

GIGLIOTTI: “We must work out a program of rehabilitation. You have a number of farms that at one time were producing farms. There is sufficient water, and children could be taken care of. During my investigation on the relief commission I found 70,000 such farms now owned by the state for taxes,—not because they wouldn’t produce, but the War came and there was no one left but the old people. (In Europe, under similar circumstances,) “The governments took these people and said we will give you so many acres of land. You are given it primarily to produce sufficient food for yourself and family. You pay no taxes for the first five years. The government will lend you enough money so you won’t have to start paying back for five years. We will grant you so much money—the amount of money you would get on relief. We will grant you a full budget, the second year 40%, third year 30%. You have two years with no taxes or interest and you don’t have to pay the money back you borrowed for five years. So many could be rehabilitated on that basis. With a good program of mental, physical and economic rehabilitation, I believe thousands of these families could be taken care of.”

“THE CLIENT”

In the pseudo-professional jargon of the SRA the unemployed citizen has become “the client.” He, his wife and his children are “a case” and bear a number. A generous State has provided many millions to help him, but too much has been squandered on chiselers, needless job-holders, and fantastic theories of social uplift.

Senate Journal,
Jan. 30, 1940,
pages 41-52—

Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State Relief Administration: “A dangerous condition indicated is the increasing number of people who think in terms of guaranteed support by the State; people who have lost pride and independence and demand they be permitted to live in idleness. Many may be termed ‘Professional Relievers’ who successfully adopt every possible means of remaining on relief. Partly, if not largely at fault is the ‘liberalizing’ policy adopted by the SRA. Another factor is the failure of field workers to properly investigate cases; to the sympathetic attitude of many of these workers who aid ineligible in getting on and in continuing on relief; to the alleged policy of the SRA to increase case-load that increased personnel may follow and finally to the persuasive teaching and influence of the Workers Alliance."

Senate Journal,
Feb. 6, 1940,

Report and Recommendations of the Legislative Committee of SRA Los Angeles Chapter No. 65, of the California State Employees' Association. "As regards the relief recipients—known as 'clients' of the SRA—it must first be stated that no differentiation is made because of citizenship, previous standard of living, race, color, or creed. All are supposedly treated alike.

"After years of daily contact with these people, we, as employees of the SRA, have made the following personal analysis of the clients:

"A. They fall into three nearly numerically equal groups:

"(a) Those undoubtedly deserving. This group consists of the very people the program was set up to help and THEY ARE NOT GETTING ENOUGH. Most of them fall into the white American small family group formerly of adequate means.

"(b) Those doubtfully deserving. This group contains many ignorant, semiskilled or laborer families who have always lived more or less precariously and their resources are extremely difficult to check. Furthermore, they are usually of larger than average families and their present 'dole' constitutes to them a 'security wage' comparable with past earnings.

"(c) Those undoubtedly NOT deserving to be supported by the American taxpayer. This group is composed of alien (or part alien) families (who constitute a very large percentage of the entire relief load), 'bums' both masculine and feminine, habitual drunkards and dope users, and just plain 'chiselers.' The average citizen must realize that while all the people on relief are by no means or in any sense PROFESSIONAL RELIEFERS, nevertheless, EVERY REAL 'BUM' IN CALIFORNIA IS ON RELIEF.

"B. Besides our own citizens (and aliens) we have been supporting or partially supporting citizens of other States of the Union, known as 'transients.' As is well known, these people have flocked to California by the tens of thousands since 1932. Once they get here, if they can remain in the State one year, no matter how, they become a permanent part of our relief clientele. In the meantime, we must arrange (if we can) to send them home, again partially or wholly at our taxpayers' expense. Many have been sent home only to return time and time again."

& 156—

COOLEY: "The prognostications were that at the end of March we would have 119,000 cases in the State. At the end of March in the state we will have approximately 102,000."

Continuing:
(giving reasons)

"Number one was that we have an all-time high of production and a great deal of employment, as high employment as we have had since 1929, which provided more jobs for unemployed persons; number two was that the WPA has kept up its quota. The reductions have not taken effect yet. For instance, in San Francisco we have got about 12,700 people employed on WPA, and as long as that keeps up the SRA will go down. The third thing was this, that in California there was an earlier crop in agriculture than heretofore, caused by the heavy rains, which took people from the SRA rolls. The fourth thing, I think, was that the State took steps with regard to relief administration in line with the new bill, which reduced the intake and cut the cases. Then, in addition I think there were psychological reactions, as far as relief clients were concerned, in our intake districts, as a result of the 40 per cent and 30 per cent cuts and the provisions of the new bill and the publicity on it."

Further:

"That is right. The average applications in San Francisco have been around 1,200 a week for the last three years. In March, for the first three weeks they have dropped down to about 800."

W-11 page 244—

McLAUGHLIN: "The purpose of explaining this is this: If, when Senate Bill 81 was enacted into law, the State Relief Administration sat down and calmly looked the situation over, and projected their case-loads for the last half of February, and all of March, April and May, they would have encountered what they have actually encountered during the month of March, namely, a substantial reduction in case-load, and they would know that that case-load would be still further reduced by the normal, seasonal decline in April, and still further reduced in May. It is reasonable to suppose that, having projected the normal seasonable decline from February 15th to May 31st, they would not have said immediately that with a case-load of 114,500 they must reduce the payments by 40 per cent. I think that by the time we get around to May 15th the record will show that the normal seasonal decline in case-load would permit of practically no cuts at all in relief budgets."

HOUSER: "Now, in your opinion, you haven't been able to account at all definitely for this looseness of intake here in Los Angeles County. Do you think it could have been due to a changed outlook on the part of the district case supervisors and the case aides and the case workers as to when and when not they should admit someone to the rolls, change in philosophy along that line?" REESE: "Just a very general statement, to be put in the form of a question. It might also have been in the lack of experience of certain people or the lack of certain supervision. We find that the matter of ineligibility here varies all the way from 2.2 per cent in the Harbor District Office which is better than any other place in the state, generally speaking, up to 12 per cent in the Hollywood District, which is very high."

Further:
H-1 page 32—

HOUSER: "Now, referring to this audit again, I find only 17% of the budgets could be verified as correct, doesn't that rather surprise you?" REESE: "It definitely did, yes." HOUSER: "How do you account for that?" REESE: "Well, it is accountable on the basis that the persons preparing the budgets didn't do an accurate job."

H-1 page 42—

HOUSER: "So that in Los Angeles County during the week of—the week ending January 18th on the basis of the statistical reports from four districts which were sampled for this . . . purpose, we find that approximately 75.5% of those making applications were admitted to the relief rolls, is that correct?"

Continuing:
H-1 page 44—

REESE: "That is correct. You might as well use the figures that are here. Now, the five weeks ending December 1938, 47 per cent accepted and 53 per cent rejected, and 1939, 65 per cent accepted and 35 per cent rejected."

H-1 page 91—

HOUSER: "How long since you have made an audit of Los Angeles County, before this audit was made?" REESE: "I don't know, but it was over a year or two years ago."

REESE: "You will note in this letter that—this page here, that audits have been made in twenty-eight counties of the State and that the ineligibility averaged over a three year period of 3.2." HOUSER: "Well, would you say that this audit showed any need for improvement in Los Angeles County?" REESE: "It definitely showed a need for tightening up the intake."

H-1 page 33—

REESE: "You will notice that most of the budgets in Los Angeles County were under-budgeted rather than over-budgeted. Thirty-three per cent were under budgeted while 2½% were over-budgeted, and then the various breakdown will show you on what item they were over or under. Of course, the major item is rent, 35% were under-budgeted for rent." O'DAY: "May I ask a question?" O'DAY: "Do you mean under-budgeted according to value, or according to the way the budget was set up?" REESE: "The clients were paying more rent than they were actually allowed."

H-2 pages 379
& 380—

RYMARCZICK: "In the five years that I have been with SRA there have been audits made. And I imagine in some cases the audits were considered to be a rather good audit. I have never yet seen such an audit as I think a business, I mean, the State of California, would require of a series of 58 branch houses to see that the policy of the central office was being carried out according to their instructions. The social audit crew that used to exist did go out and make audits. They made audits of office procedure and so forth. But as an actual fact there are hardly two counties in California today who in procedure or in finance as far as they have anything to do with finance in the district offices, carry out all of their procedure and plans identically. One would have one standard of accuracy, one would have one standard of office procedure and another will have sometimes slightly different and sometimes different to a large degree."

M-6 page 260—

LAWLER: "As I said, at that time the Department of Welfare showed a case-load of 678 cases." MIXTER: "Was that Fresno County?" LAWLER: "Fresno County. The SERA hadn't been in operation for three months before we had on our case-load over 5,378 cases which, with the average family, would make it well over 20,000 people in Fresno County that were in need of relief."

CAPPS: "In March, 1938, 2 months prior to the opening of the SRA office in Modesto, there were 268 employable indigent families receiving aid from the welfare department. In May, 1938, 2 months later, when the SRA office opened, the welfare department transferred 38 employable families, indigent families; that is, that it had depreciated from 268 to 38 in that length of time, to the SRA office. Two months later, July, 1938, the SRA office had 365 indigent families and in March, 1939, the SRA had 1059 families. The relief rolls went up, the cases went up at the time when it looked to us like it should have gone down. The time when the farmer was doing work, it went from 38 to 365 families, in practically 2 months, at the time when the welfare was depleting the list, and as soon as it was turned over to the SRA office, no work was required, it increased." MIXTER: "Would you say that the receiving of direct relief through the SRA, for example, became more attractive for some people than their continuing in private employment for compensation?" CAPPS: "Most assuredly." MIXTER: "Do you feel that what took place in the period mentioned was largely the result of the policy adopted by the SRA of the State?" CAPPS: "Yes, sir."

M-3 page 69—

MIXTER: "Would you be in a position to have an opinion that you could express as to the administration of relief, that is, the administration of so-called direct relief in a general way, as between the system now in use and the system that was employed a few years back when the counties had control of the administration of such relief?" FERGUSON: "I could give you figures that probably would express that. In 1937, the highest number of persons receiving employable assistance, for employables, that is, had work cards, was 360 in March. In March 1939 after the SRA came into the county, it was 1059, and this year, I believe the case load for SRA for February is 1209."

LANE: "Now, then, as I say, about a year ago or prior thereto, any family that we received permission to send to any other county or state, unless there was some extenuating circumstance, they were required to accept transportation and go or be stricken from the records. However, about a year ago it was changed that any family who had been here one day more than a year was welcome to remain. We sent them only if they wished to go. I can't give you any figures or percentage, but it is conceivable that a tremendous difference was made in the number of people that remained as against those that went, because, in other words, if they could manage by hook or crook, either on or off relief, to remain here for one day more than a year, whether they had residence or not, they were entitled to remain and receive aid."

W-12 pages 94 & 95— BROWN: "They have thirty days to qualify that person or determine whether he is eligible, or not. In other words, he can get away with about that amount of relief, if he is a chiseler, he can get away with thirty days on the State. If intake was more careful, and the qualifying of these people for eligibility,—I think that is where a big saving could be made." LORE: "How do you find the case workers generally through the State? Do you find them fairly competent investigators on this kind of work? I mean, in regard to opening cases and checking eligibility?" BROWN: "No, I think there's a great laxity there. They are lacking in observation, it seems to me, as I can clearly show by cases I have in my brief case for your observation, for you to look over. One case in particular, we have a man paying us $35.00 a month over in Hayward, where he is milking twenty-eight cows, and that cow barn of his is within about a half block,—just half way across the street, and if you can't smell cows half a block, there's something wrong with the case workers. That man got away with $1491.00. I think they practice too much theory. In fact, they are inserting social practices into a problem which is purely an unemployment program."

Relief became "so easy" it was an inducement to dishonesty and indolence.

H-12 page 54— WORCESTER: "There were two orders given the man right after the other, although he had been paid in advance, the first was a deductible grocery order and the second a non-deductible. This man received a deductible order and a week later he received a non-deductible order, which I had never heard before. I am quite certain he shouldn't have had them—at least my interpretation of our manual provisions was that he was not entitled to them, and I was a bonded person."

They were referred to the budget department and it was the basis on which relief orders were issued. They had to have a certified budget in order to issue emergency orders. I felt it was a waste; that a large number of them could have been avoided. HOUSER: "In what respect?" HOERGER: "I felt a good many were issued merely on the statement of the client that they needed relief or without actual checking."

PHILLIPS: "How about the ERO's? Will you explain that?" GOOCH: "Oh, the ERO's; emergency relief orders. Now those orders are issued, and quite rightly, where an emergency arises and the people are destitute and have no money. But there is a very bad practice in so much that people have a habit of taking these ERO's to stores and then getting something else other than food and clothing,—liquor, for instance. And I have had several cases of that."

"The spot pay" method by which representatives of the Controller's office distribute relief checks to recipients protects the State.

W-12 pages 57

FALLON: "First thing, it gives us a closer contact with the people. It assures the Controller there is such a person existing, because we get a signed receipt from these warrants when paid through the spot pay system. It gives the SRA a last-minute check with the paymaster, and even during the payoff, if they receive information too late to get it into my office here, the day before pay day, it enables them to spot any warrants they wish to stop during the payoff and on the premises. The third thing, I don't think we have ever had a spot pay where we haven't had unclaimed warrants from the spot pays. Those warrants that are unclaimed from the spot pay, we hold them seven days after the pay day, and give a list to the SRA and give them seven days to give us a satisfactory disposition. If they do not give us disposition, they are automatically redeposited to the general fund. I have a report for the ninetieth fiscal year and the first six months of the ninety-first fiscal year. During that period we redeposited to the general fund SRA and unclaimed warrants, 23,948 of them, in the amount of $360,271.65."

FIELD: "I am trying to get hold of some plan or get a suggestion that might impress upon these people that they are committing a crime if they sign (for a check) when they are not entitled to it." FALLON: "I think that would be the best place to impress upon them that what they really have to sign when they do get these warrants, is at the time the case-aide or the visitor makes the home call. It would only take a few minutes of her time to explain that, and what is expected of them, and what actually they are signing for." WOLLENBERG: "Also, at intake, when they first come in."

Further:

FALLON: "I will take, for example, Alameda County, District 3, for the pay day of March 15, 1940. We were presented with a certified claim from the SRA for 3,340 warrants, in the amount of $34,245.69. 168 warrants for the sum of $1,807.44 were canceled in my office the day before pay day, upon the request of SRA; the balance of 182 warrants in the amount of $1,584.41 were unclaimed from the spot pay." WOLLENBERG: "Now, of that total number, 108 people were completely silent on the subject of their warrants?" FALLON: "Yes." LORE: "On its face, therefore, that record indicates that 108 people, at least, out of the group didn't care to, or felt they didn't need their relief check on that pay day?" FALLON: "That is true."

W-11 page 159—

LORE: "Are those people that just didn't come to pick up their checks, is that it?" Well, I have got data where those men have laid off those days and went down and drawed SRA checks and been working right along. Another case where a man was working right along and drawing his check and he quit the man when he was busy, right in his busy season, took a trip to New Mexico. Seems like he got money enough out of the SRA and what he was working for, he took a pleasure trip, went off down to New Mexico with it."

MIXTER: "Do you know of any instances where any such relief being drawn in this county is also being drawn by members of the same family from any other additional county, any other county?" PARKS: "I had occasion in the case Mr. Crow was speaking about, had occasion with a deputy from the sheriff's office to go out and investigate some petit theft charges, and in fact we picked one of the people up, the son of one of the clients of the SRA, and during the time, why, this same party was—reports in they were selling shoes, flour, different things like that around. Well, it was a question—they were questionable characters. During the investigation I called the SRA office and asked them if this certain party was on relief and they said, 'Well, we can't give you information with regard to our clients.' I said, 'All right, I'll put it this way: Is it possible that any of your clients could have six or seven pairs of shoes or seven or eight sacks of flour at one time?' The gentleman that talked to me said, 'Yes, it might be possible.' And during the check-up with the young fellow that we had in the sheriff's office, it developed that part of the family was getting relief in Stockton and part was receiving relief here in Modesto." I think that people are taking advantage of the laws in a lot of respects. I feel personally it is not so much that the actual relief itself that is causing so much hardship upon the taxpayers, as it is the abuse of the set-up as it was intended for as being given." ASSEM-

BROTHERS: "We have one man that has been known to relief since last August. When the home call visitor case-aide went to the home there were the man, woman and children in the home and they didn't have anything. Well, that man was eligible for relief after we established his eligibility and residence and so forth, and when the case-aide made the next home call she found out this man had some hogs in the back yard. She asked him who they belonged to; he said somebody else, another man that lived away some place, said he was just keeping them; the next time she goes out she found out he had one calf and a cow, and she asked him who that belonged to, and he said 'well Mr. So-and-so has gone back East and left them here for me to keep,' and when she made three or four home calls and this woman was never home, this man said she was over to a relative's to take care of a sick woman, or something that way; and after it was about six or seven months old it didn't look good to her so she gave it over to my department and I went out there to find out this woman has been working for a year and nine months straight in private employment making $50.00 a month, and in the meantime the husband has argued and told lies to the case-aide and all kinds of misrepresentation and she has been making an honest effort to find out. She told me she went out there at five o'clock in the morning to see where this lady worked, but couldn't find out, but she had been making a very earnest effort to find out. This afternoon when I visited the ranch he had 48 hogs, 3 cows and a calf, 3 men boarding there and six horses." MIXTER: "And he will still be drawing State aid?" BROTHERS: "He was drawing relief. And of the remainder over and above those who voluntarily furnish us with the closing information, the facts are brought to us by landlords, our rate taxpayers, employers, etc., and only a very small percentage of cases are closed as the result of case-workers making the scheduled home call of which the chiseler is forewarned."

PREISKER: "The controversy that we have had with the State Relief Administration has been that we attempted—they contended that we attempted to be too hard on the relief recipient. That our work wasn't suitable, that the people were sick, that they were—well, I don't know, but it was always some excuse or other, or else we were interfering with some of their state plans; with the result, as I say, we never were able to get more than about 65% at work and those that we did get to work were usually the deserving and those that didn't work were the chiselers and were the very ones that we were after. In other words, the state plan always favored the chiselers on relief."

Further:

"We would eliminate these known chiselers. We have the records on them here, we know who they are. We would eliminate a certain percentage of them right away. They wouldn't enter our program, they wouldn't draw any kind of relief and those that are holding other jobs, we can find them. We have coordinators, we have men in the state reemployment service that are working right along with them, we know who the chiselers are in this county. But your state rules don't get them."

Additional examples of chiseling are to be found in P-2 pages 20 to 30, H-2 pages 212 to 219, and in W-11 pages 47 to 53.

Recovery of money improperly paid by the SRA to chiselers, or as over-payments to deserving recipients, is a difficult and nonproductive procedure.

BROWN: "It might total twice $216,000.00, or it might total one-third, due to the policing which has been done since this thing first started."

I personally turned over to the SRA in Alameda County certain conditions that existed in the family which, without question, make him ineligible for relief. This man was able to purchase a brand new 1939 Oldsmobile sedan, paid $1180 for it. The monthly payments stipulated $30 per month. It was found two or three times there were other sources of income in the family, during the period they were on relief. Mrs. Linge was able to take an airplane trip back East, which she did. Social worker was aware of this but neglected to make a note of it."

A bridge toll charge for the passage of these men is included in the charges against the operations of the camp." WOLLENBERG: "Would all the men always come back?" VEST: "No. It can be safely said that about twenty-five per cent of the men going on one of these liberty parties would fail to be on the return truck,—they knowing that it was a very simple matter to check into the intake office in San Francisco and be assigned out to Sharps Park for distribution to some other camp. A general motto of the clients and one well followed is: 'Join the SRA and see California by truck.' There did not seem to be any control in the matter of clients. # OLSON OFFERS WELCOME TO MIGRANTS

"Says State Has Room For All But Must

Have Federal Aid

"By Millard Browne

"First big gun in a drive for a comprehensive federal program to rehabilitate migratory laborers was fired by Governor Olson last night as a 10-man congressional delegation was entertained at the annual banquet of the Sacramento chamber of commerce.

"We're going to present to congress at the next session some very definite requests for federal action in helping California rehabilitate migrant laborers,' the governor declared in an address of welcome to the senate and house appropriations and military affairs committeemen who had arrived in three army transport planes for an inspection of the Sacramento army air depot.

"Wants Federal Help

"California is ready to receive these migrants and help them in becoming self-sustaining and self-supporting citizens,' Olson told the congressional delegation and 500 chamber of commerce members in a banquet at Hotel Senator.

"We have resources that will support many times our present population, but while we are assimilating these people we ask the federal government to give us aid.' " (The remainder of the article has no additional quotations from Governor Olson.)

- M-6 page 187— STONE: "I omitted the fact that I considered the fact of fingerprinting these individuals one of the ways in which many of them could be kept out—could be kept out. It is my belief that many of the criminal class have immigrated, or migrated to California, and they could be picked up on the border and that furthermore, if it was known that they were to be fingerprinted at the border, that a great diminution in number of migrants would be noted. These people object very seriously to fingerprinting both from the standpoint of fear of detection of previous crimes, and also there is a superstitious dread of such a practice."
- H-6 page 11— STANFIELD: "During certain seasons of the year there will be anywhere from 65 to 75 a day coming to California (through) Indio (in Riverside) county." O'DAY: "Has this condition prevailed for long?" STANFIELD: "For three or four years." O'DAY: "You think it should be handled by the federal government?" STANFIELD: "I do."
- H-6 page 79— JONES: "Every county has its problem. Migratory labor comes in and works for 15 or 20¢ an hour—they come from Oklahoma and other places by the thousands every year—they go back five and six times and then they come back again."
- M-7 page 33— WAGY: "Do you have any more migrants on your rolls today?" COSGRAVE: "Yes, there are quite a number of migrants, I should say. I couldn't tell you the exact percentage, I haven't gotten that far yet, but judging from the comparison of number of clients on our rolls now as of the year or two years ago, it would seem that more than sixty per cent." WAGY: "More than sixty per cent today are migrants?" COSGRAVE: "That is what I would say."
- M-7 page 86— STONE: "If I may offer this as an exhibit for your attention. We have primarily shown on this map, drawn up by the State Chamber of Commerce, the places where all of the migrants are coming from. We have here the basis of wages that are paid here, yonder and there over the United States. Arkansas is paying an average of a dollar a day for farm labor. Texas is paying a dollar and a quarter. Oklahoma pays about a dollar forty-five. The United States averages about a dollar and a half and California pays two dollars and eighty cents."

BRITTON: "That is right. And in most cases if they needed help we would help them ourselves, but in the last two or three years there has been such a large volume of labor that it was just impossible for us to take care of all of them during those seasons." MIXTER: "I feel that we have more labor in the state than we can digest and if these people can't find work it is a Federal problem. I can't see why the State should continue taking care of thousands and thousands of people who are coming in here from other states when there just simply isn't work enough to go around, and as far as agitation goes, in every case that I know of it has been outside influences, and they could be traced back to subversive organizations."

M-6 page 139—

WATSON: "Did they promise any of these employees of yours relief if they would go on strike, that you know of?" STEINDORF: "Yes, they did. They held meetings at night down at Los Deltas, which is a little community about an eighth of a mile from the camp and said that if they went on strike they would be given relief and asked them not to work until they would get their demand and that they would later—Lillian Monroe said that she would see that they all got on relief."

M-6 page 151—

PALOMARES: "We can not go to the SRA and ask for help. We must ask through the State employment office who in turn, requisitions the relief agency. If they want to come they come and if they don't want to come they don't come. In the late years the question of wages has been quite prominent in the picture and many of them have been told that the wages that the farmers paid were not satisfactory; consequently, they are to stay on relief and they did stay on relief regardless. Yet, many of those who were on relief, rather than to be taken off of relief have taken private employment."

"The statement was made by a number of representatives of the State Relief Administration appearing before our Social Service and Welfare Committee at Sacramento that in their opinion a tremendous increase in case-load was largely attributable to WPA lay-offs, but they told us nothing about the fact in Sacramento that at the same time the WPA workers were being laid off and put on SRA, the WPA was taking on from the SRA rolls an equal number of people." LEGG: "Well, it has been more aggravated in the last five months, and we have had a quota in seven or eight thousand in excess of the number we could employ, ranging down to about three thousand at the present time. Today we can employ three thousand more, only if we had enough projects."

EMPLOYMENT

Although unemployment has been the major problem of the decade, the California State Employment Service—the agency for finding jobs for men and women—has been subordinated to dole-paying activities. No small part of the difficulty arises from the effort to coordinate the State service with a Federal plan which lays emphasis on relief rather than on putting men and women to work.

M-6 page 162—

PALOMARES: "Another suggestion that I would like to make without any criticism of the local officers of the employment service, the trouble is with the employment service up in Sacramento, that it has got too many generals, lieutenant-generals, brigadiers, colonels, and lieutenant-colonels. Years ago when you had only ten offices in the State of California, agriculture used to get better service because there wasn't so much red tape."

MIXTER: "Have you any idea as to the causes of the difference in placements in those two years in these two fields?" MARSH: "Last year, of course, at practically the inception of the cotton harvest your strike situation occurred, and the orders, as we received them just as others received them I believe, with some exceptions, and we also received from the CIO agricultural workers' union notice of a labor dispute with these growers and in accordance with our bulletins, we had to stop providing men pending investigation. And here is what happened: by the time we investigated and had determined the existence of a labor dispute or not, the migratory worker had moved in and taken the jobs over and the jobs weren't available. Consequently, the placements were filled from other sources." MIXTER: "Then the migratory workers to whom you refer came in and made direct application?" MARSH: "Yes."

MIXTER: "For employment, to the grower?"

MARSH: "Yes." MIXTER: "And that, to a considerable degree would be the reason for it?" MARSH: "That is the total reason for it. The harvest of cotton last year was just about the same as the previous year of '38, and not much difference in the labor demand."

MIXTER: "Do you have any instructions that forbid sending labor to places where strike conditions prevail?" MARSH: "That is correct. We have a bulletin to that effect that was issued as of July 7, 1939."

MIXTER: "You mean—" MARSH: "Bulletin 26 from the Department of Employment, the Unemployment Reserve Commission; this bulletin refers to a ruling by Secretary Perkins of the Department of Labor which at that time we were affiliated with, and a ruling from the United States Employment Service, of Section 21.12 which very definitely states that each employment office under its supervision shall refrain from referring any person to any position at any place of employment where there exists a labor dispute, and for the purpose of this rule, the term 'labor dispute' shall include any controversy concerning terms or conditions of employment concerning the organization or representation of persons, negotiating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or condition of employment, regardless of whether or not the dispute is then in the relationship of employer and employee. That is the clause we, of course, are still operating under."

Continuing:
M-5 pages 87, 88,

"Our policies are all set up by the administrative headquarters and we handle the administrating as it is set up. However, I do believe that the strike regulation could be more definitely defined. Our feeling in the actual application is that it is so loose that sometimes we can not definitely find out whether there is a labor dispute or not because of the fact that the regulations state that the dispute does not have to be in the relationship of the employee to the employer. It may be a third party who has no direct relationship. That leads to the possible occurrence where an individual who desires to enter into a labor dispute with some employer, having no connection other than the desire, serves notice upon us and following our regulations, then we have for the time being at least, a labor dispute until we have investigated it. If this could be worded to state 'bonafide labor dispute directly between employer and employee' we would have a much more conclusive basis than we have at the present time. Secondly, in regard to referrals of workers on SRA on requisition from our office, I have no criticism with the local SRA because their cooperation has been splendid. However, the system itself lends to a lag in the actual separation in this point: Where you refer individuals, that individual, of course, may refuse the job and in the meantime the opening still exists in agriculture, and other workers then have to be referred to make up the deficiency. Sometimes that constant filling up the gap takes so much time that by the time you actually get enough referred the job has been filled by another source." MIXTER: "There is lots of lost motion there?" MARSH: "Yes. If there was only some way that could be expedited, whether it would be mass separation or what it would be—I don't know the answer—but I do know that occurs and I am also of the opinion that a good deal of the building up of our slowness in getting these workers to the jobs as they exist and the job being filled by outsiders. And that pyramiding may be quite a reason for the heavy residual load, plus new workers coming in. In other words, I feel that we are going to have to develop some method of clearance that will be faster than it is at the present time."

M-10 page 56—

MIXTER: "In the event that a complaint of this nature is registered or filed with you in your office, and under the operation of existing statutes, you are forbidden to supply any labor while the situation alleged in the complaint continues, what is the procedure by your office, do you report the circumstances to—" FISHER: "Headquarters." MIXTER: "The State headquarters at Sacramento?" FISHER: "Sacramento." MIXTER: "And are you permitted to, or do you make any investigation on your own account?" FISHER: "We make no investigation." MIXTER: "These investigations, if and when they are made, they are made by the State office?" FISHER: "I presume that to be true. At least this local field office has made none." WATSON: "Do you know whether the State office ever made any?" Fisher: "I know of none, Mr. Watson."

M-3 page 47—

PARKS: "Last year at Patterson there was considerable labor agitation over there." MIXTER: "What was the nature of that, was it farm labor trouble or industrial?" PARKS: "It was mostly union, unionizing, Workers' Alliance, mostly caused by agitators; wasn't caused by workers. The trouble was caused by fellows who wouldn't work if you would give them a job, they were just trying to create trouble to force the farmers into paying a larger wage than what was the going wage." MIXTER: "In your observation, was there any attempt on the part of these people, these agitators and others to whom you refer, to intimidate, coerce the farmers into paying wages at rates other than they were offering?" PARKS: "Yes, sir."

M-3 page 94—

STOKES: "More or less in case of these meetings is all that I say, the Workers' Alliance meeting." The purpose of that project is to keep the SRA addresses up to date on clients, with their telephone numbers, and also to keep a proper occupational classification of them. Then this $80 administrative worker, her job is to contact the CSES placement officers and get preference in placements for relief clients, and thus in that way we get a constant stream of about 100 jobs a month for SRA relief clients. This project which we set up, which is manned mostly by relief clients, means simply that they just get their budget, or they work for it, and get 15 per cent additional. They are not administrative employees. There is only one administrative employee at $80 a month. The cost of the project is far exceeded by the money saved in getting 100 people off relief in a month."

While we were cooperating with them or rather they were cooperating with us, our placements were 4%. Later in the summer, when that cooperation was withdrawn—I will say we still are very friendly and try to help each other as much as possible—that the mechanics that we had for cooperation were discontinued, the placements dropped to less than 1%, showing that it was our work in cooperation with them that was placing most of the relief clients in private employment here, because, when that work was withdrawn from their office, they were not able to further place the relief clients, it dropped from 4 to less than 1%.”

people off our rolls and find employment for them. I really believe it, they'd pay for themselves 100 times over."

H-13 page 113— HOUSER: "As I understand it, you don't make any real effort at the present time to locate jobs for these people, you pass the word on if any word comes in to you, to the California Employment Service." PLATT: "Yes, sir." HOUSER: "But, you went further and said that the California Employment Service devotes most of its time to Social Security and not to getting jobs." PLATT: Yeah, that's true."

M-9 page 150— FRICK: "On this unemployment insurance, we do pay a portion of that, but we sometimes get men who have been employed industrially, and I have known of cases where they have drawn the unemployment insurance and also been employed steadily, all the work they wanted." WATSON: "You have personal knowledge of some cases of that sort?" FRICK: "Yes, well I have personal knowledge, it comes rather direct. Right in my own camp, and in one place I received the notice because he lived there, that they were contemplating paying him this insurance. I know that they contemplated paying him this insurance because I received notice of it."

H-5 page 26— O'DAY: "Do you think the Legislature should make it part of their business to attempt to see that these people are reemployed?" GRIER: "The reemployment service is that. They have devoted too much time to securing jobs for those who are here in California and ineligible for relief. If their whole activity were devoted to ridding relief rolls, their reemployment activities would be much better than they have operated in the past."

H-9 page 197— MRS. KENNEDY: "Mr. O'Day, I feel that when a family apply to us for relief they only come with one thought or one problem and that is unemployment. The only thing that can solve that problem is getting the person back into private employment."

SECTION 4 PERSONNEL

The SRA has been over-staffed, many executives and employees being untrained for their duties while experienced workers have been released or demoted to make places for political appointees. SRA social service workers have too little regard for the taxpayer's problem of paying increased relief costs.

Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State Relief Administration: "There is evidence indicating the breaking down of morale. This appears to be due largely to internal dissensions and jealousies; to constant changes in personnel and in policy; to the appointing in supervisory and key positions of inexperienced persons, lacking the necessary qualifications to direct a business of the importance and magnitude of the SRA."

P-1 pages 111,

PHILLIPS: "I am just bringing up as a matter of record that, although in April and May and June of last year there was constant discussion between the Senate and the Assembly and representatives of the State Relief Administration that it was absolutely necessary to cut the cost, that one thousand additional people were added to the administrative staff of the SRA in that time; and that in setting up this encumbrance of money there was no contemplation of reducing the load whatever." SERAFINO: "As to that, Senator, may I say again that that is not my function. In other words, that is not my responsibility." PHILLIPS: "I am not asking you about that. I am asking you: Is that a fact?" SERAFINO: "Well—" PHILLIPS: "You were at these conferences—many of them. You know what the discussion was." SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "I am not asking you as a matter of policy; I am asking you as a matter of fact. Isn't it a fact that the discussion through all those conferences was the necessity of keeping down the cost of the SRA?" SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "Then, also, that the constant repetition of the fact that the SRA Administrative cost was not only high but was rising?" SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "That is a fact. All right, isn't it a fact that the estimate you gave under this House Resolution 42 is the highest administrative cost in the monthly history of the SRA?" SERAFINO: "Not entirely right, Senator. I would say it is the highest payroll in the history of the SRA."

SERAFINO: "I would like to indicate to you that the reason that this figure of salaries outstanding was so large during the month of February is this, that we file our budget statement as of February 1st." PHILLIPS: "You filed your budget statement with Mr. Richards. Is that right?" SERAFINO: "That is right, and—" . . . PHILLIPS: "You might say Mr. Richards was startled; am I right?" SERAFINO: "I don't know whether he was or not. I imagine he was."

W-11 page 59— SPEARES: "There seems to be a big difference in this administration and the last administration in the way those men are handled. I have noticed there is a tendency on the part of this administration to create as many new administrative jobs as they can. In other words, there have been no restrictions. We haven't been held down."

Generally the SRA has been over-staffed with unqualified executives and employees.

H-6 page 88— HOUSER: "Do you think he (Mr. Berkowitz) is qualified?" MACK: "I don't think he is qualified at all." HOUSER: "To what do you think he owes his appointment?" MACK: "The same thing I did." HOUSER: "What was that?" MACK: "I was county manager for the Governor for Riverside county."

W-16 page 34— WOLLENBERG: "Other than the experience you have shown us as a man with a certain business and working experience and a man who apparently, as you have put it yourself and as Mr. Chambers has aptly put it, is 'an honest and forthright individual'—" GALLAGHER: "I hope so." WOLLENBERG: "—you have had no particular experience or qualifications for that type of work, is that correct?" GALLAGHER: "That is correct."

W-16 page 104— JOHNSON: "So that within eleven months after you first entered the service you had become the chief of the personnel division of this county office?" MISS LOUGHREY: "Yes," JOHNSON: "Who are the three people who work under you in personnel now?" MISS LOUGHREY: "Miss Maretta de Sallier. She is classified as intermediate stenographer-clerk. Mrs. Elizabeth Gallagher, classified as intermediate accounting clerk." JOHNSON: "That is Mr. Gallagher's daughter-in-law?" MISS LOUGHREY: "That's right. And Miss Amelia Scalzo, classified as junior stenographer-clerk."

W-9 page 47— WOLLENBERG: "Was there any period there that you might have felt that you were over-staffed?" COOLEY: "Yes. I was over-staffed in—I was over-staffed in this county during October, November. I was over-staffed in this county both professionally and clerically, to a very considerable extent. I had asked Alexander in writing on several occasions to tell the State office to reduce the staff to yardstick. He refused to do so because he didn't want to remove these political appointees."

WOLLENBERG: "Do you know how many people are employed in the warehouse?" MISS McFADDEN: "Approximately 78, including truck drivers." WOLLENBERG: "How many stenographers were there in the place?" MISS McFADDEN: "There were seven including myself." WOLLENBERG: "And was there plenty of work for seven girls?" MISS McFADDEN: "No." WOLLENBERG: "What would you say about the volume of the work you had to do as a stenographer over there?" MISS McFADDEN: "The amount of work I had to do over there could have been done by a girl coming in half a day for three days a week."

Further:
W-7 page 9—

WOLLENBERG: "What about the men, aren't the other employees there busy all the time?" MISS McFADDEN: "No." WOLLENBERG: "And was there work there that they should be doing?" MISS McFADDEN: "There wasn't any work to do. They were willing to do the work, anxious to do the work, if it is there to do."

W-7 page 19—

WOLLENBERG: "How many men were there around there in the administrative force; how many men and women?" KEITH: "At the inception, the starting of the warehouse, there was, I would say, around fifteen." WOLLENBERG: "That would include what type of help?" KEITH: "I did not include the garage in that,—around 35." WOLLENBERG: "Around 35, including all departments?" KEITH: "Including all departments." WOLLENBERG: "And that was what month?" KEITH: "That was in August." WOLLENBERG: "August, 1939?" KEITH: "Yes." WOLLENBERG: "And how many are there now, do you know?" KEITH: "To the best of my knowledge, about 78." WOLLENBERG: "And is there any increased work or duties requiring over double the number of men?" KEITH: "There is less work."

I could say that this job, in my estimation, was superfluous for the simple reason we had a regular inspector from Camps Department who took up all departments and who would have taken this up when he came through." addition to the three regular inspectors who had always been there and watched everything about the camps there appeared an inspector of cooks?" VEST: "Appeared an inspector of cooks." WOLLENBERG: "Any other inspector?" VEST: "Yes,—meat and vegetable inspectors, but did not co-operate at all times with the superintendent."

MRS. RETTIG: "Well, there were a great many new people put on, who made no bones about the fact that they were political appointees. We had an ambulatory receptionist, for instance, put out in each district. And our ambulatory receptionist didn't ambulate, so I don't know just why she had that name, but that was her name." HOUSER: "What do they do, these ambulatory receptionists?" MRS. RETTIG: "Well, ours stood behind the desk and took the name of the client for the purpose of finding out what they wanted—whether it was a new application or what. But in some districts I understood at the beginning they were just supposed to wander around and make the clients comfortable and happy. That was the original philosophy I was told." HOUSER: "And were they needed in your opinion, or were they superfluous?" MRS. RETTIG: "We lived for five years without them. And they are gone now and we are surviving."

Procedure in handling SRA personnel is complicated and inefficient.

W-9 page 45—

WOLLENBERG: "Did you have any breakdown in employment procedure while Harry Miller was State Director of Personnel?" COOLEY: "Yes, a very serious one. For a period of three and a half to four months, or over, over a hundred employees or more in this county did not receive their pay-checks." WOLLENBERG: "Do you know the cause of that?" COOLEY: "It was the failure of the SRA State Personnel Division under Miller to follow through on the necessary mechanics to clear with the Personnel Board, the Division of Finance and our Payroll Division and accounting in Miller's office in order to get the warrants executed."

H-1 page 78—

HOUSER: "But it was felt in addition to your district case supervisors and in addition to your office managers you needed a new appointee in each of these fourteen districts?"

putting more responsibility on to the district offices than previously had in breaking down the centralized control which doesn't always result in efficient operation."

KEITH: "It was taken by Mr. Crossen and Walter Mall and someone else,—men that weren't qualified at all to take an inventory, due to the fact that they didn't—couldn't discern or discriminate between the different articles. They didn't know the trade names of them."

VEST: "After the incoming administration, during 1939, assistant superintendents were appointed to camps; men of absolutely no experience in that line of work."

W-1 page 30—

SPEARES: "His men (Serafino's) that came were men who were thoroughly familiar with what they were doing; in other words, there was no trouble whatsoever in taking the record. The men that were sent to Camp Stockton after the 15th of September when I started there this last year—1939. The record which they took wouldn't have been worth anything at all if it had been left up to them to take it. In other words, they didn't know the nomenclature of anything they were taking. They didn't know anything. They had to get out a rule and measure every stick of lumber—they couldn't tell if they were undercharging a desk."

Many women whose husbands are employed hold SRA positions.

H-7 page 87—

HOUSER: "There are about 30 out of this local office, out of the 114, whose respective husbands or wives are employed by some public body?" EVERETTS: "Well, public or commercial." HOUSER: "And you think that when the lay-off is made that the married spouses ought to be laid off first?" EVERETTS: "I think so, yes, sir; I don't see why not."

M-5 page 94—

MRS. HUGHES: "Well, I might say this: that in speaking on the observations I have made, I have been quite opposed to the practice of so many married women being employed in the SRA due to the fact that that is a relief program and these women have a substantial income from their husbands and still they are employed in positions that are of much interest. That might be one."

Evaluations of employees' services are ignored in handling the SRA staff.

H-10 page 41— HOUSER: "Was there any definite procedure followed in the layoff?" MRS. WORCESTER: "Most of the layoffs were of people with the highest evaluations; none from the lower group." HOUSER: "What was the reason for it?" MRS. WORCESTER: "Mr. Roe felt very strongly about these people put on since he had been put on the staff. Many single people are going to be laid off. The people on the staff a few months can not be as competent. Mr. Roe said not one of his people would be laid off." HOUSER: "Are his people all Democrats?" MRS. WORCESTER: "He said his people would not be laid off. Some of these people are good, although they are recent additions to the staff; some ought to be retained."

M-6 page 285— MIXTER: "Will you state briefly to the committee what you desire to present at this time." FORS: "Well, just in connection with the laying off. I read in the paper that the lay-offs were based on seniority. However, I know that was not so and I personally believe it wasn't based on efficiency."

H-12 pages 38 & 39— HOUSER: "And what was the basis for laying these people off, do you know?" MRS. SHIRLEY: "No, I really don't, I am at a loss to know because not only I but many of the most efficient people who worked for me were laid off. I do know one-fourth of the staff, who had lower evaluations, have not been laid off, they are also the least experienced people. I know they weren't made on efficiency. I have here a letter,—It's a lay-off letter of one of the women who worked for me, and I think it will be interesting—and, by the way, I am a union member, and she was not a union member, she was however a very good worker, and I gave her an evaluation of 89 per cent. She asks Mrs. Worcester to give her—since she wasn't given a copy of her evaluation—to give her a copy of what her evaluation was. And there is Mrs. Worcester's statement as to what it was. She is a person experienced in social work and had a very fine attitude toward clients, and was an efficient person. Then on March 22 she received this letter. As you will notice here, the evaluation that I gave her was 89. 'Your over-all efficiency rating as a case worker is .778; seniority rating is 2 points; grand total .788. We wish at this time to thank you'—and so forth. There is that letter." HOUSER: "When was that? What is the date of that letter?" MRS. SHIRLEY: "That's the 22d. She went into Mr. Roe on March 26, and asked Mr. Roe if she might be allowed to resign, since if she ever wanted to get employment anywhere else or return to school a letter of that kind would be very damaging. She asked if she might have the efficiency rating I gave her, and this is the letter she received: 'Dear Mrs. Davis: We regretfully accept your resignation from our staff effective March 23, 1940. Your over-all efficiency rating is 89 points with 2 points for seniority making a total of 91 points as a case-worker.'"

PHILLIPS: "What grounds were given when you were separated?" DUNKELBERGER: "Economy reasons. In other words, because the relief bill was only twelve million two hundred, that they had to cut on account of economy reasons, and then they put two men in my position, after they fired me, three days later. That is economy; that is what we mean by this report, and it comes right down to it. In other words they transfer people around to hide them out some place."

H-3 page 540—

HOUSER: "Did that go on to any great extent?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "Yes, there were quite a few of the evaluations that were changed." HOUSER: "What was the purpose of making those changes?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "First they picked out those that they thought should be in the upper five per cent, and then they just raised or lowered other percentages accordingly, so that they would fall in line." HOUSER: "In other words, whoever was running the office made up his mind, made up her mind as to who they wanted to go and who they wanted to stay, and only shuffled the evaluations around so as to meet their desires, is that it?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "I suppose it could be interpreted that way."

H-11 page 9—

Continuing: “She called me over on March 15, and told me that Mr. Platt said that I was on the layoff list effective March 16, and she referred me to him and when I went in his office I asked him the reason for my dismissal and he said that he didn’t have to give me one. I asked him if my seniority shouldn’t count something and he said, ‘There’s no such damn thing as seniority.’” KUCHEL: “Did he say anything else to you?” MISS THOMPSON: “I asked him if my efficiency rating shouldn’t count anything, I said that Mrs. Cox had told me that my efficiency rating was the highest of all of the intermediate clerks in the office, and he says, ‘As far as those damned efficiency ratings are concerned,’ he says, ‘I’m changing those.’”

Political appointees of the SRA enjoy unusual privileges.

SPEARES: “When I was on this relief job in the summer, relieved Mr. Amundsen, who is the superintendent of Camp El Dorado at Placerville. His assistant superintendent was Mr. Gordon See, who is a brother of Harry See who holds some political job with the State. Just what it is I don’t know, but anyway he was not there. He appeared on the roll but he wasn’t present. So I inquired from the men there as to where the assistant superintendent was and they said, ‘Well, he doesn’t come out to camp; he lives in town.’ I said, ‘How can he be assistant superintendent?’ And they said, ‘He says he was told when he was sent here they had some political job for him, but to come out every other day and sign the camp payroll,’—which he did. I called up Mr. Baumgartner, my chief, 182 Montgomery Street, and told him the story. He said, ‘Bill, you are the superintendent, you certainly know how to run the camp.’ So I sent for him and I informed him that he should stay in camp, and he said that he had been told when he was given the job he didn’t have to stay in camp and his only job was pertaining to Saturday night and Sunday, when the men came in for week-ends, and it was his job to see that they were kept behaving themselves. I said, ‘Why not leave that to the authorities in Placerville, when the men misbehave themselves?’ He said, ‘I’m a deputy sheriff.’ Anyway, I made him stay in camp. But I only stayed there two weeks when I was sent to Hurleton, out of Oroville, as camp superintendent.”

ARATA: "I believe his title was a watchman, I believe that was what they called him." WOLLENBERG: "What was he supposed to do?" ARATA: "He was the constable in the town of Auburn." WOLLENBERG: "How far from Auburn is the camp?" ARATA: "Twenty-three miles." WOLLENBERG: "When would he be in camp?" ARATA: "Well, he usually come up in the afternoon around three or four o'clock, signed the payroll one or twice a week, and that was the only time you would ever see him."

PHILLIPS: "Did you have the same instructions from the director on him?" SERAFINO: "Yes, the director—the administrator approved advances to Voshell and also advances to Bamrick." PHILLIPS: "Well, I think it might be interesting for the record to show it, I wasn't looking for this. This just turned up accidentally; but it's very interesting that on August 23, 1939 Mr. Edward J. Bamrick started his career with an advance of $200 and that he had subsequent advances up to and including April 15, as shown by the ledger, that the unpaid balance, that is, the balance of money owed the revolving fund went as high as $335.35 on the 30th of December, but was reduced by taking both his pay checks for the 16th of February and the 7th of March which reduced his balance as of the 7th of March to $30.37, since when it has risen again to a present balance of $269.70 and that this treatment is an exemption from the regulations of the administrator."

any economy or streamlining was considered, offered voluntarily to cut their expenses and keep them down to $3 a day, which I am happy to state that they have done."

The foregoing, regarding the reduction being sanctioned in "free will and accord," is contradicted by the following:

P-4 page 47—

SERAFINO: "Well, are you familiar, Mr. Heffner, with any agreement in the Transportation Division on a $3 a day basis instead of $5 a day basis?" HEFFNER: "No, the only thing that I know about that agreement was that two or three of the truck drivers who are really intelligent boys came over here and told me that they had been instructed that while they were on the road to only turn in their expenses at the basis of $3 a day." SERAFINO: "Instructed by whom?" HEFFNER: "Mr. Bauer."

Social service workers of the SRA disregard the taxpayer in their zeal to assist the relief recipient.

H-2 page 205—

WILSON: "There are about 40 per cent of the social service that are solicitous not only of the client, but of the taxpayer. About 60 per cent of them, and I use that figure because of a division in a particular district that I know of, I would say their sole interest is the welfare of the client."

Continuing:
H-2 page 240—

"Well, gentlemen, you have had testified here yesterday a means whereby the Social Service Division padded their rejections. Now, you perhaps wonder why that padding took place. Well, there was never any rule laid down in the yardstick that somebody didn't figure out some way to beat the yardstick, and your padding of your rejections and so on is just another way of adding to your required personnel."

W-12 pages 88
& 89—

FALLON: "Well, my personal viewpoint would be the understanding of the Social Service Division, that we are actually spending money, instead of just figures on paper; we realize the value of the dollar, and every time they make a mistake or certify a wrong person to relief, they are spending the taxpayers' money,—the sooner they realize that, the longer our money will last. That has been my experience in my connections with some of the social service people. In fact, I have had some of them make statements they don't care anything about the money end; that's my job. They are merely interested in seeing the people get the amount of relief they are entitled to; they are not interested in the money end of it. I think, as long as they are

HOUSER: "You don't think that the State should employ a number of social workers to go around and discuss the marriage relationships of these people—"
PREISKER: "I think that there is only one thing for them to discuss and that is, what the family needs to carry on a decent standard of living, to look into it to see whether there is another employable that should support them. I do believe in trained workers for the case work, but I believe we need a business man and not a social worker at the head of it, and I believe that the present thing that is wrong and the thing that has always been wrong with it is your relief commission. There's where we have struck our trouble, has been the relief commission and not the administrator."

Continuing: WATSON: "What is your salary?" MRS. ROBINSON: "$260." WATSON: "You said that the State furnished you with a car?" MRS. ROBINSON: "Yes." WATSON: "What is the make of that car?" MRS. ROBINSON: "A Plymouth." WATSON: "Are you married now?" MRS. ROBINSON: "Yes, sir." WATSON: "Husband employed?" MRS. ROBINSON: "Yes, sir."

Additional: WATSON: "You are a secretary of the Democratic Central Committee, are you not?" MRS. ROBINSON: "I hold that title now." WATSON: "Do you receive any salary from that?" MRS. ROBINSON: "I don't." WATSON: "Do you do any politics on the side?" MRS. ROBINSON: "I don't. Not since this little bill was passed by your legislators I haven't participated in or attended a meeting."

SECTION 5

WASTE AND INEFFICIENCY

Study of the business methods and practices of SRA has developed an amazing record of duplication, "red-tape," waste and inefficiency.

W-11 page 244—McLAUGHLIN: "When Mr. Cooley appeared before the Board of Supervisors on March 6th he had a set of figures that showed there was only $2,425,000 available for direct relief payments."

W-11 page 245—Further: "Three days later that had been increased by almost $500,000, and it was $2,908,000 available. Three days later the figures I received from the office of the Director of Finance showed that the $2,908,000 became $3,021,000, and I have a letter in there from the State Relief Administration that shows that the total amount of money available for March, instead of being $4,200,000, is $4,500,000, and that the costs other than direct relief will not greatly exceed 20 per cent."

The SRA revolving fund demonstrates how SRA business has increased.

P-4 page 33—COMBES: "Going back to '36 and '37 I think the amount of the revolving fund was $15,000 at that time to the best of my recollection."

PHILLIPS: "What is the amount today?" COMBES: "The amount in the current revolving fund is $65,000 consisting of two sources. There was no provision in the $35,000,000 appropriation for a revolving fund and consequently we were permitted to continue to use the revolving fund which originally came from the 90th fiscal year consisting of $40,000 and we obtained a loan from the State Emergency Fund totaling $25,000 for this particular revolving fund and this revolving fund is exclusive of the one that was maintained for the food stamp distribution which is a new item just recently."

Further:

COMBES: "In addition to that then is the food stamp revolving fund which at the present time totals $275,000, $75,000 being for the North and $200,000 for the South." (The stamp fund has since been increased to $350,000.)

Advances to SRA employees accounts for the increased size of the revolving fund.

P-4 page 41—

SERAFINO: "Before this bulletin went out we tried to keep a person's advance down below his salary and wherever possible is accumulated or a percentage of his accumulated salary. We generally tried to keep it within a half or three-quarters of his salary, is that right?" COMBES: "Yes." PHILLIPS: "Of his month's salary?" SERAFINO: "Of his month's salary." PHILLIPS: "But you weren't very successful?" SERAFINO: "No, we weren't very successful."

Absence of close control of SRA property is shown by testimony regarding inventories:

W-9 pages 8
& 9—

COOLEY: "Decentralized accounting is a much more effective type of administration. Why we don't adopt it in all counties I don't know."

W-14 page 30—

WOLLENBERG: "How do your inventories check out, are they all right, or is there a shortage shown at any time?" SCHUMANN: "Well, at the present time we are over and we have submitted that list to Serafino's office." WOLLENBERG: "In other words, you have more physical property on hand than you are charged with?" SCHUMANN: "That is right."

P-1 pages 6 & 7—

PHILLIPS: "From 1936 to the present time in 1940 there has been no physical inventory taken?" SERAFINO: "No complete physical inventory. There have been periodical inventories taken at various times of various locations." PHILLIPS: "And in 1940, as of the moment, the value of the assets—the physical assets of the SRA are three and one-half million?" SERAFINO: "Approximately that." PHILLIPS: "What would you say they were four years ago?" SERAFINO: "Oh, I would say about half that figure."

P-4-41—E. A. Serafino, SRA Chief Accounting Officer, Los Angeles.

W-14-30—Louis Schumann, SRA Office Manager, Santa Clara County, San Jose.

H-7 pages 57
& 58—

HOUUSER: "Mr. Serafino testified before the Committee that there had not been any actual physical inventory taken for over three years." FITZER: "I cannot understand that because we have taken them ever since I can remember."

W-5 page 3—

BLACK: "There were instances such as deliberate removal of tags, holding of State property in a private home, deliberately defacing State property, gross negligence in storing State property, where the location and manner of storing State property, where the location and manner of storing ruins the property and damages other private property, to be paid for out of relief funds."

W-6 page 11—

BURNETT: "If articles were missing, which a number were from camps, apparently no effort was made to find them. It was a write-off. As far as I know there has never been an attempt to locate missing articles in camps."

P-7 page 356—

WOLLENBERG: "Do you keep an inventory of those stores?" GRAY: "We have tried to. We never had a true inventory."

Further:
P-7 page 357—

PHILLIPS: "When you signed the sheet was an inventory made, or a sheet laid before you and you just signed it?" GRAY: "I have never signed an inventory." WOLLENBERG: "Has one been presented to you for signature?" GRAY: "Yes; inventories have been taken and presented for signature, but I never signed one." WOLLENBERG: "Why haven't you signed one?" GRAY: "Because we never had a true physical inventory"

W-1 page 75—

SPEARES: "You take those fellows who were paid to come around to inspect and take inventory of property for Mr. Serafino, they were the most laughable thing,—they come to your place, and they are simply being paid off because there wasn't any place to put them and they had to pay them off, and so they sent them to take inventory,—that is the thing that raises Cain with the morale and everything else."

W-12 pages 151
& 152—

WOLLENBERG: "How often did you make those inventories?" LANTHEAUME: "Every three months." WOLLENBERG: "Do they balance, as to the equipment that had been purchased and assigned to the departments?" LANTHEAUME: "No they didn't."

WOLLENBERG: "Recite to us the cases where they didn't. —in what instance?" LANTHEAUME: "For instance, we had about twelve typewriters missing, and four or five desks, and numerous other equipment." WOLLENBERG: "Well, was there any effort made to determine where those typewriters might be, or the desks might be?" LANTHEAUME: "Well, I don't think there was." WOLLENBERG: "Do you mean, not by you or your department?" LANTHEAUME: "I mean, by my superiors." FIELD: "Did you report to your superiors the typewriters and desks were missing?" LANTHEAUME: "Yes." FIELD: "What did he say. —that is, Mr. Maitre?" LANTHEAUME: "Mr. Maitre says, I'll show you how to write off inventory", so he wrote it off." FIELD: "What do you mean by writing it off?" LANTHEAUME: "Which meant that he took, for instance, we might have a, —well, for instance, a oak file cabinet, with the number so-and-so,—so we tack a number on that, and that would be it."

Exactness of SRA records is placed in question by testimony heard by the committee.

W-12 page 124— WOLLENBERG: "You know there were changes made in the actual record, in that regard?" LANTHEAUME: "There was. As far as my records are concerned, that is, the timekeeping records, they still remained the same, as far as I know." WOLLENBERG: "And the changes were made in the cost accounting records?" LANTHEAUME: "In the accounting department records, the change was made."

W-15 pages 117
& 118— COOLEY: "I would like to say for the record, this San Francisco office of the SRA suffers deep embarrassment in this case, because of the inability of the administration to produce work order No. 1. I want to say further, for myself and for the staff, that I have examined on it, no one of them has been able to indicate what happened to work order No. 1. Assuming as I do assume, it was issued, for the rest of the case, it seems to me there is an adequate explanation on the record, even though we all may differ as to interpretations."

W-12 pages 213
& 214— WOLLENBERG: "This morning we had testimony from Mr. Lantheaume and Mr. Dewey Lee, the cost accountant, to the effect that in that project, there was work done on high chairs, that the actual cost of both labor and materials was so excessive, that the supervisor, Mr. Maitre, instructed them not to put either the time or the materials of record; that they had made it of record previous to his instructions and that when Mr. Maitre saw the record, that Mr.

Maitre, on inspection of this record, stated that that record should be changed; that the excessive cost that went into that record should be charged to general maintenance, and the record was changed. Mr. Lee testified he personally had changed and altered the record, in accordance with the instructions of his superior."

W-12 page 133—

FIELD: "Now the actual cost of prevailing wages of cabinet men and carpenters,—and, you heard what Mr. Lee said, that prevailing wage would be around 80¢ to 90¢ an hour. If that were true, what would be your best recollection as to the actual cost to repair these two high chairs?" LEE: "Under prevailing wage?" FIELD: "Yes." LEE: "It would be around $190 to $200."

In selling salvage materials the SRA did not receive full value.

W-1 page 71—

WOLLENBERG: "We had in the meeting at Los Angeles a statement from Mr. Serafino that they had gathered together a great deal of material in Camp Stockton and had a survey and then sold it as salvage material and worthless material, and I think they had gotten $30 for the whole lot." SPEARES: "Yes, I would like to have bought it for $150,—I was there when it was moved."

Purchase of supplies by the SRA may be a cumbersome process.

P-1 pages 88,
89 & 90—

SERAFINO: "The original requisition for the purchase of those tomatoes came from our cannery unit—one of our co-op cannery units, and this unit had specified a certain type of tomatoes. I believe they were specified as Santa Clara Valley tomatoes. And they claimed that this was a superior canning tomato. My procurement department upon receiving the requisition immediately questioned whether that explanation was a reasonable one, and they doubted very much whether the purchase would ever even get through the State Bureau of Purchases, let alone our own procurement department. And there was quite an argument about it. However, the technical advisers in the co-op canning unit claimed from their own expert—supposedly expert knowledge that they knew what they were talking about." PHILLIPS: "Well, now, when you come in with this purchase order and you buy the material, who is responsible? Who has the final say as to whether an item should or should not be bought?" SERAFINO: "I would say that the Administrator has the final say. In other words, as head of the procurement office,—” PHIL.

W-1-71—Willard Speares, former SRA Camp Superintendent, Oakland.

LIPS: "Do you mean to say that if you wanted to buy a hammer or a hundred tons of food and there was a question as to whether or not you needed them, it would have to go to Mr. Chambers?" SERAFINO: "Not necessarily to Mr. Chambers. I act in an advisory capacity to Mr. Chambers in that respect. PHILLIPS: But you say that you advised against these purchases, and still they were made." SERAFINO: "They were made for the reason that the technical experts in the canning unit convinced the Administrator that that purchase should have been made, over my objections."

& 91—

POULSON: "The day that I put out this information, when you gave us this statement, I went over to the purchasing agent and there was an order for $2200 worth of jam, and they had written to your office wondering why you were ordering jam when you were supposed to be having it manufactured." PHILLIPS: "What we are trying to get at is just where responsibility rests on this matter of purchases, and also why, say, the SRA puts out statements that the money is all gone and there isn't any money for these people who are on relief, and buys in $2200 worth of jam when they don't need it."

An indication of the volume of and difficulties with SRA purchases is also furnished by the following:

PHILLIPS: "Now, then, you have Item 4, purchase orders food for the camps, for which claims are not yet filed with the State Controller, $433,877.61. SERAFINO: "That may best be explained by telling you that we purchase for camp use approximately $150,000 a month in perishables alone, plus possibly another hundred thousand dollars in various other materials and supplies."

W-10 pages 4
& 5—

W. C. VEST: "The question of the inspection and receipt of fresh fruits and vegetables and meats from the various vendors was always a troublesome item. The specifications under which a camp superintendent operates are those furnished from the main office, and in the case of fruits and vegetables provide that those products shall be U. S. No. 1, as far as the inspection and receipt was concerned. The receipts of these things were not up to standards. Complaints to the State Bureau of Purchases would meet with a rebuff, and instead of having the support of the Purchasing Department we would incur their enmity."

An indication of the variety of SRA expenditures is given by the following:

W-10-4—W. C. Vest, former SRA Camp Superintendent, San Francisco.

- P-1 page 158— PHILLIPS: "You have even set up a $170,000 backlog for emergency orders for dental work."
- P-1 page 218— SERAFINO: "Fifteen thousand dollars for telephone for the month of February. Now, that is ample to cover our needs, statewide, to our best estimates; and there is no doubt a certain amount of surplus in there that will never be expended. But we have got to have that. In other words, we have got to budget more than we intend to spend."
- W-3 page 17— MORGAN: "They went to Mr. Harris to get some lumber, and it was shipped to Sacramento (from Santa Cruz in 1938) and the next day or two they shipped it back—over night the lumber came back within a mile of where they had bought it. We know, because Mr. Harris had his mark upon it, and they built the camp out of some of this lumber."
- P-1 page 127— SERAFINO: "We spend approximately between twelve and fifteen thousand dollars a month on rentals, but I can tell you how many of those for previous months might not have been paid that are included in this figure; and the same for every other item that appears in that figure."
- W-12 page 18— KENNEY: "There are approximately 300 existing leases as affecting the State Relief Administration in California; that includes leases for camps, leases for the surplus commodities, and if we get into food stamps, we will have both, and county administrative offices in the fifty-eight counties of the State."

The SRA spent $7650 for office space for a program rejected by the Legislature.

- W-12 pages 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 & 24— WOLLENBERG: "What is paid for the area here?" (180 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco). KENNEY: "We are paying $1000 per month for this building for the third floor, and in addition, we are paying for our own janitor; we are receiving no utilities outside of water and lavatories." WOLLENBERG: "What about the garage?" KENNEY: "That is a separate lease." WOLLENBERG: "You have a separate lease on the garage?" KENNEY: "Yes, we have. It has nothing to do with this building at all. That lease is probably $150 or $175 per month." WOLLENBERG: "What area is covered over there?" KENNEY: "I don't remember the exact area." WOLLENBERG: "Is it the whole garage or the upper floor?" KENNEY: "Just a portion of the upper floor." FIELD: "What did it cost to fix up these offices?" KENNEY: "It cost approximately to fix up the second and this floor here, about $18,000 per floor, and on June 1st of last year we took over half of the fourth floor upstairs, in anticipation of the Richards program being enacted." FIELD: The production for use?" KENNEY: "The production for use, and all the other things that were programmed at that time, and this being a State office, and we had no thought at that time the State office would later be moved to Los Angeles, and we were rather crowded—" WOLLENBERG: "You mean, you had no thought in your mind?" KENNEY: "Well—" WOLLENBERG: "I mean, you don't know what was in the mind of any one else?" KENNEY: "Oh, no. In anticipation of the enlargement of the relief program, one-half of the fourth floor was taken over." WOLLENBERG: "That was on June 1st?" KENNEY: "June 1st, 1939, at the rental of $550 per month. The State office was moved to Los Angeles on October 1st 1939." WOLLENBERG: "The announcement of that move, do you remember when that was made?" KENNEY: "The announcement?" WOLLENBERG: "As a recall, it came from the Governor's office direct in Sacramento?" KENNEY: "The announcement I recall, I happened to be walking along the street and looking at a headline in the newspaper that said that Governor Olson states that the SRA office is to be moved to Los Angeles,—that was the first week in July of last year." WOLLENBERG: "Then you had entered, or the Administrator, or whoever the responsible party is, had taken over a half floor at the rate of $550 a little over a month prior to that?" KENNEY: "Yes. I myself, nor any one associated with me, knew there was any move contemplated at all. In fact, there was rumor the State office would be moved in toto to the Ferry Building, because of the ample facilities in the Ferry Building, and the vacant space caused by the State Chamber of Commerce having moved, and the proposition we would enjoy free rental there." FIELD: "Who was the man who authorized the rental of the fourth floor?" KENNEY: "The rental—" WOLLENBERG: "Who requisitioned it?" KENNEY: "Mr. Grant Friel,—he was the Acting Director of the Division of Operations, at that time." WOLLENBERG: "How much money was spent on that floor?" KENNEY: "ABOUT $6,000." WOLLENBERG: "In preparation of the State offices?" KENNEY: "That is right." WOLLENBERG: "What was done with the lease." KENNEY: "The lease was canceled as of September 30th, at midnight, 1939." FIELD: "Getting back to the fourth floor, do I understand you paid $6,000,—it cost you $6,000 to get the fourth floor in shape?" KENNEY: "That is correct." FIELD: "In addition, you paid four months' rent at $550?" KENNEY: "That is correct." FIELD: "A total cost of about,—$8,200, to be exact?" KENNEY: "That is approximately correct." FIELD: "Isn't that assuming a lot on the part of the State Relief Administration, to take it for granted a certain program is going to be in effect and spend a lot of money on that assumption?" KENNEY: "Well, of course, that isn't for me to answer." FIELD: "What I was trying to ask,—who gave you orders, or who actually had the say to fixing up the fourth floor and running up more charges?" KENNEY: "It probably emanated from Mr. Friel; he was acting directly under Mr. Chambers, and I received instructions that Mr. Grant Friel was acting Director of Operations, as I indicated a few moments ago, the fourth floor was taken over because of a crowded personnel condition existing on the second and third floors, and also in anticipation of an enlargement of the program pursuant to the program which was being prepared at that time by the Governor's—" FIELD: "The Richards committee?" KENNEY: "The Richards committee,—that is correct." FIELD: "Do you think any one of the State relief had any idea what the Richards report would contain?" KENNEY: "No. Personally I don't know; I couldn't answer that question." FIELD: "Do you know any one in the administration that did?" KENNEY: "No, I do not."

SERAFINO: "This building at 155 Washington." PHILLIPS: "And how much did you actually spend? Around twenty thousand?" SERAFINO: "We spent about twenty thousand for alterations to the building."

W-7 pages 13

WOLLENBERG: "Now, in connection with Camp Natoma, did you have anything to do there with the construction of a warehouse?" KEITH: "Completely designed and built it." WOLLENBERG: "And that was a large warehouse, was it?" KEITH: "Yes. I would say around 30,000 square feet." WOLLENBERG: "And was it designed to be adequate to do warehousing for the Camps Department of the SRA in the Northern Area of the State?" KEITH: "Yes." WOLLENBERG: "How much was spent on that warehouse for construction, approximately?" KEITH: "Approximately $12,000." WOLLENBERG: "Was it ever used for the purpose for which it was built?" KEITH: "Not to my knowledge."

PHILLIPS: "Do you send somebody out from your department to look at the building?" SERAFINO: "On the major locations we do. In the past, however, we have only hit the major locations." PHILLIPS: "Generally speaking, outside of Los Angeles or San Francisco, you simply take the word of the local director?" SERAFINO: "That is right." * * * PHILLIPS: "And then you would transmit that request to the Department of Finance?" SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "Would the Department of Finance then make any check upon it?" SERAFINO: "They have the privilege, Senator, of making the check, and in certain instances they have. However, they generally follow the same policy that—" PHILLIPS: "Have you ever known your office to send, we will say, a teletype request to the Department of Finance for the approval of a lease and to get another teletype approval back that it is all right to take the lease?" SERAFINO: "That is done quite often, Senator." PHILLIPS: "That is the common procedure?" SERAFINO: "I think you are about right. That is about what we have been following." PHILLIPS: "Then, if we follow your trail backwards—that is, if we follow your statement backwards, we find that in practice the local director rents a building at his own desire and at his own rent?" SERAFINO: "Well, I don't know as I have a right to answer you to that or not." PHILLIPS: "Can you answer anything else?" SERAFINO: "I am afraid not."

Removal of SRA headquarters from San Francisco to Los Angeles was expensive.

PHILLIPS: "It cost around $50,000 to bring the personnel down. Did you include transportation in that?" SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "By what authority was that allowance paid? By what state law or state regulation?" SERAFINO: "As far as I know there is no authority for it, other than the administration's action." PHILLIPS: "Was it an order of the administration or was it passed upon by the State Relief Commissioner?" SERAFINO: "It was an order of the state administrator."

HOUSER: "You think they (E.R.O.'s) were given where not needed?" HOERGER: "Yes; I was told by relief clients they found it an advantage to demand EROs because the case would be opened quicker." HOUSER: "Did many demand who were not entitled to them?" HOERGER: "It happened quite often."

Now where is the emergency in the payment of an ERO in what amounts to back taxes on—" MRS. COPLAND: "I would say that that was an effort to make use of the ERO."
- W-16 page 96— JOHNSON: "Isn't it also true where your case workers or people out in the field are lax in the original investigation, you have a heavy percentage of non-collectibles where overpayment is made?" GJERDRUM: "That is right." JOHNSON: "And even if the people cooperate in the administrative office it won't be much help unless the individual workers in making their periodic check-ups are imbued with the same spirit of cooperation?" GJERDRUM: "That is absolutely true. That's right."
- M-6 page 243— WATSON: "Do you think these shoes that the SRA has been giving them were cheap shoes?" ANDERSON: "Unquestionably they were. As I understand it they merely give them a shoe order and they can go and buy them where they want to. In fact, I had one of our local merchants tell me not so long ago that a man came in to him and wanted to trade him two shoe orders for women's shoes that he had for a nice $6 pair of tan and white ones that he had in the window, men's shoes. There is no control over it. There is nothing you can do."
- M-5 page 115— WATSON: "How would they decide as to how many sheets or pillow cases that a family should have? How would they decide that? The number that was in the family?" MISS KEMPF: "That was left up to the case-aides." WATSON: "How many did you usually issue to a family?" MISS KEMPF: "Sometimes as high as six with request and sometimes more than that."
- W-10 page 6— VEST: "The camp superintendent was directed to issue such necessary clothing as the man needed. This clothing had a small sales value, and under the social service set-up a man after leaving one project could dispose of that clothing and draw out necessary clothing to replace that he disposed of." WOLLENBERG: "And you know that a lot of clothing, shoes, and things like that, were sold right along?" VEST: "Yes, —even those branded not to be sold."

Paper-work, or "red-tape" procedure abounds in the SRA.

W-9 page 56—

COOLEY: "Well, I think the thing that is basic with us as a need is a simplification of our paper work and better relations with the Comptroller. That is number one. . . . "Number two is, we haven't ever worked out satisfactorily the right kind of coordination between the SRA and WPA. The paper work moves too slowly. It doesn't come over fast enough and our paper work doesn't get over there fast enough and we are not close enough together in our paper work. That is the main trouble."

H-2 pages 346,
347 & 373—

RYMARCZICK: "In other words, by the time you get through running a check that has been written and delivered to the paymaster and carried out in the field for delivery and returned, transferred to social service for disposition, returned to the paymaster, cancelled and sent back to Sacramento for redeposit, it costs approximately the same amount. We usually estimate around 75 cents."

Further:

"At the present time, there are about 5000 or 6000 checks being cancelled in the Los Angeles office." (each month) "The amount of waste that is involved in the administration of relief, it runs into hundreds of thousands and possibly larger sums than that in the course of a year."

LORE: "There has been testimony, not only in this county yesterday, but in several counties we have been in, of overworked SRA employees, of long hours to do the work, many hours overtime in order to keep up with the work." THOMPSON: "Yes, I talked with one out here in the corridor yesterday who gave me a story about an error made by the case-aide and how many people it went on up through until it got to the higher-uppers, then the error was passed all the way back down through all the hands, and it was just a little error—and then it was fixed. And I think some of those separated from the service will give you a pretty good idea where the 'red tape' tangle messes SRA up. I think they will back me up in my statement, and if the administrative tangle of 'red tape' given them is finally cut it would be 2.25 instead of maybe 4%. I don't claim we have any particular abilities, but we do get quick decisions and quick answers on legal decisions on all questions without holding up two days' work and without the encumbering tie-ups of the State office O.K."

Transportation of SRA supplies is an extensive, statewide enterprise.

BAUER: "That's correct. That's my understanding."

WOLLENBERG: "How many State trucks would you guess were standing idle day in and day out—standing idle around the yard there?" MISS McFADDEN: "I would say at least five, possibly more." WOLLENBERG: "During that time the rented trucks were in operation?" MISS McFADDEN: "Yes, sir." WOLLENBERG: "Do you know whether or not those idle State trucks were in good repair, able to run?" MISS McFADDEN: "They were apparently operated up until the day the rented trucks came in and then immediately parked in the yard and left."

WOLLENBERG: "What did he say, what was the delivery he made?" ARATA: "Well, he delivered a six-bit Christmas tree from Oakland to Los Angeles." WOLLENBERG: "Was there anything else on the truck?" Los Angeles?" ARATA: "Yes." WOLLENBERG: "And what year was that?" ARATA: "It was sometime in 1938." WOLLENBERG: "In the Christmas of 1938; when was it?" ARATA: "Well, I am not positive; it was a week before Christmas—it may have been 1937 or '38." WOLLENBERG: "But the Oakland warehouse wasn't open then?" ARATA: "Oh, yes. They had the warehouse in Oakland for years, but not the warehouse they have now." WOLLENBERG: "He drove a 1½ ton truck with a seventy-five cent Christmas tree—what did the truck bring back." ARATA: "Nothing."

ARATA: "Well, usually, if the truck driver wants to have his truck greased, he'll go into the service station and have it serviced and greased there." WOLLENBERG: "The greasing isn't done in the camps by the driver?" ARATA: "No, you see they have no way of paying. Some of the larger camps, like Natoma and Sharps Park, would have a man to grease, but you take the smaller camps—they go into the service station and have the service station attendant grease the truck. The only way he can pay him for the job is by charging it out in gasoline; that's the way they do." WOLLENBERG: "Do they do the same thing in repairing tires, and changing tires?" ARATA: "Yes."

But we were operating under the basis down there, which our superior told us: the minute we received an order, to make a delivery, regardless of whether it was a hundred pounds or fifty pounds. And in one instance, why, we ran a truck into Baldwin Park out here four times in one day with about a hundred pounds on it each trip. That is one reason why your trucking costs are going up."

WOLLENBERG: "Do you know any other instances of Mr. Dunne's having financial transactions with other employees?" MISS McFADDEN: "Yes. He dispatched a State car to Madera and back, and this man picked up postal savings of his own and they were loaned or transferred to Mr. Dunne in amount of $100."

MISS DOUGLAS: "There is one thing I don't want to forget. You see, SRA was going to sponsor the project and the county was its co-sponsor, which meant the county would spend about $4,500. PREISKER: "Mr. Chambers ordered immediately that the work should start. That is, that the county would be furnished with all the relief clients and they would be certified to the co-ordinator that the county maintains and to the road department to work out their relief. It had taken about two weeks, I imagine, to get a form of a contract—or I might say that two or three days following Mr. Chambers—after Mr. Chambers was here, that the project was authorized to start and then stopped, and authorized to start and then stopped. at least four changes were made in one day."

HOUSER: "When was he here?" PREISKER: "Well, it was about a month ago, it was somewhere along a month ago, and within two days after that we got word to start, we got our—you know you can't just put on three or four hundred men right now, you have to build your project up a little bit, get your foremen and your trucks and your machinery and everything of that kind ready to go, and the particular day that we were to start the orders were changed about four times from Los Angeles and finally the fifth order was that we would have to wait for a contract."

The provision of excess quantities of surplus commodities resulted in inefficient distribution of thousands of pounds of articles in outlying areas and to schools.

O'DAY: "And that was the first time that you had been told about building—to go out and build up those quotas?" DUNKELBERGER: "No, that was the general meeting—and telling us to go out and more or less liberalize the program. I was told by Mr. Olmstead around the first of the year that I had charge of the lunch program in Los Angeles County. And he at that time had the position that Mr. Lubin holds now." O'DAY: "But the first time you were informed that the policy was to be liberalized was on February the 8th, is that correct?" DUNKELBERGER: "That is correct."

certifying it to 600. I think that Assemblyman Fields knows that there is probably not 600 needy children around Herbert Hoover High School, but that is what they certified for."

Further:

"A cafeteria will use, say, 600 pounds of flour. In other words, all the flour they use is given to them by the—by our division. They don't go out and buy flour because we give them more than they need. And the same thing holds true on butter and eggs. For instance, Herbert Hoover High School is using about 15 pounds of butter a week. On the advent of Federal Surplus Commodities coming in, they jumped up and started using about 60 pounds of butter a week."

P-2 pages 30

GOOCH: "They (relief recipients) are supposed to get all sorts of surplus commodities, as a matter of fact, flour, vegetables, and a few of those sort of things, which it is pretty hard to use a great deal of, are the ones that are given out. I will give you this: On April 13th I made a careful survey throughout the territory to ascertain whether vegetables were being distributed correctly. A check was made to cover the whole of one route. Temple Street: clients were being given more than their requirements, to get rid of vegetables. Some threw them on the way after leaving the commissary. South Central Avenue: generally okay, but some surplus. Bellflower: surplus. Long Beach: no deliveries for a week; previous delivery very intermittent. Torrance: okay. Wilmington: surplus. And so on. 2174 Washington Boulevard had never received any; one week later, no vegetables; one week later, just being received. I believe these conditions are being corrected."

WILSON: "There is one other suggestion on procedure that I want to offer for the consideration of the committee. Under your Unemployment California Benefits, a person who is unemployed has to report once a week at the office of the employment agency or the UCB office. Under our system the case-aide is supposed to chase the client down and ask him a lot of questions and take his answers and then go on to another client's home until she makes the rounds. In the first place, that is costing a lot of money, that could be better used for relief. Why wouldn't it be just as practical to ask the client to twice a month to come in and make a new certification each time and then have your flying squads to go out and hunt the 'hot spots'. I believe that—I leave that to you as a thought."

And gentlemen, I don't know why they call them selective clothing stores because there is not over half a dozen items that a relief client can select from." SPEARES: "They certainly weren't going to breed them; they were bought to fatten and kill for the use of the camps." WOLLENBERG: "They were pretty fat when they were bought?" Alameda County can tell us what it costs to administer relief." WOLLENBERG: "You don't know?" GALLAGHER: "No. And we have tried to get it from the State office, but we couldn't get it from the State office. That is one of the things we were deeply interested in when I went into the position first, was the cost. They went to work when there were no jobs for them and the jobs had to be created after they went to work."

SECTION 6

PRESSURE

The cost of relief to California has been higher than necessary because of the activities of the SCMWA among SRA employees and of the Workers Alliance among relief recipients. These unions have coerced employees and needy alike to obtain preferment for their members.

Senate Journal,
Jan. 30, 1940,
pages 41-52

Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State Relief Administration: "Information has been obtained indicating that unions and politicians exert a strong voice in the control of SRA; that certain of these from without which have been termed as 'radical' are able to dictate appointments to the SRA of persons without fitness or experience, apparently the only qualification required being loyalty to their sponsors. The SCMWA (State, County and Municipal Workers Association), a CIO union, whose membership consists of SRA employees, not only usurps an unwarranted influence in establishing the policy of the SRA but also intimidates the personnel into joining the union; that another CIO union, the Workers Alliance, which works closely with the SCMWA, and which appears to be more or less closely connected with the politicians or political factions, apparently wields sufficient power to have its members placed in key positions, thus enabling the Workers Alliance to persuade relief clients to join their unions by promising preferred attention in securing relief; that many employees of the SRA are reported to have extremely liberal, if not radical, ideas, which they discuss with relief clients, attempting to and often converting them to their cause."

W-9 page 81—

STANSFIELD: "They were only as strong as the administration allowed them to be. They have no power to strike, and until recently I couldn't think that they had the power to picket. The constitution, as I read it, never provided for that. I was president of this when it began." WOLLENBERG: "You were president of the SCMWA?" STANSFIELD: "Yes. Please don't hold that against me. I later resigned. It didn't take me very long. I resigned after attending a few executive meetings."

Further:

"With the coming of the new administration they were given a free hand. There is no question about it."

H-10 pages 24
& 25—

HOUSER: "What is your opinion of the SCMWA?" ROE: "I don't think they benefit the workers or the State." HOUSER: "Why not the State?" ROE: "They take too much time off running union business." HOUSER: "Do they exert much pressure?" ROE: "They are absolutely a pressure group. They put pressure on the director, who works for the State. There must have been pressure on Mr. Chambers. I think there is pressure by them all over the State, wherever they are. They told me unless I laid off personnel the way they read No. 7, they were going to bring charges against me of misuse of state funds. The demand was given verbally. I said if I have misused state funds I should be fired; if I haven't, those people should remove that charge. It sounded like blackmail to me."

Employees of the SRA are subjected to pressure by the SCMWA.

H-3 page 549—

HOUSER: "How do they exert that pressure?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "In some instances they continually are asking people to join, to go to their meetings, to read their literature and their books, even to the extent that they had to have an excuse for not joining—that they couldn't afford it at the time." HOUSER: "Did they get any results from their practices?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "Yes. Some people were afraid of losing their jobs if they didn't join it." HOUSER: "They had sufficient influence among the appointive powers so that people were afraid of losing their jobs." MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "Yes."

HOUSER: "And you are a member of SCMWA?"
MRS. RETTIG: "Never." HOUSER: "Do you think that your lack of membership in that organization might have had anything to do with—" MRS. RETTIG: "I am sure that it had a lot to do with it. That, and the fact that they told me that I knew the wrong people. After I went to Pasadena I kept asking the district supervisor there if any evaluation had ever been sent on me and it hadn't been. And while I was acting supervisor Mr. Kievits was at that time district director and he thought I was efficient and tried to get me reclassified back to a supervisor. And Mrs. Orans told him that no evaluation had ever been sent through and she didn't know why I had been demoted. She suggested that he go down-town and find out and he came back and her statement to me was that Mrs. Orans told him that nothing could be done for Mrs. Rettig, that she knew the wrong people."

H-13 pages 107
& 108—

HOUSER: "What do you think about the SCMWA?"
PLATT: "I'm not in sympathy with their tactics."
HOUSER: "You aren't." PLATT: "Absolutely not." HOUSER: "Why not?" PLATT: "Well, I think they're a pressure group. I don't believe that social workers should be registered like coal miners and they may need some protection against their boss, but most of them are professional people, well educated people and I don't see any need for pressure groups or anything like that; like they've treated the administration, most of the SCMWA are the old social workers of Los Angeles and in different parts."

P-1 page 307—

DUNKELBERGER: "I was told that I had better join that organization (SCMWA)—well, that was about six or eight weeks prior to this report coming out. Of course, then, after that report coming out, why, they come around to me and they says, 'Oh, so you belong to the company union, is that the idea? Well, we will get you.' They did threaten me."

H-2 pages 236

WILSON: "Well, I will give you an example: There was a young lady by the name of Louise Lake who was employed at the Hollywood office and she was one of the group that hadn't been there six months and under the administrative letter number 21 she was cut off. But the question came up as to her evaluation on the basis of possible future employment and she was—I don't happen to have one of those evaluation forms here but perhaps you are familiar with it. She was evaluated at the time at five which is the highest evaluation on all except one item and that item was co-operativeness toward her fellow workers and she very promptly questioned her superior on the why of that. She said, 'There hasn't been a single time in the course of my duty that I have ever failed to co-operate with any other members of the staff,' and this supervisor told her very frankly that it was her attitude toward SCMWA was the reason for her two point cut on that."

Continuing: "Now, it happens that this supervisor is a member of CSEA. And it happens that the case workers in the district were members of another organization. It is especially significant that her workers rated Mrs. Blank the lowest of the nine case supervisors in this district office. The other eight case supervisors were all members of the other organization." HOUSER: "What was the other organization?" WILSON: "The SCMWA."

H-2 page 283— HOUSER: "What do you class in that new philosophy group, do you have any specific organization in mind?" WILSON: "Yes. The SCMWA is decidedly a new philosophy group organization." HOUSER: "What other organizations?" WILSON: "The Workers Alliance is another new philosophy group organization, very decidedly."

W-9 page 22— PHILLIPS: "You mean, they asked you to put back all of the SCMWA employees?" COOLEY: "That's right." FIELD: "And reclassify the others that he had bumped down." PHILLIPS: "Was it their idea that you should generally remove from your rolls an equal number of people to make a place for them?" COOLEY: "I raised that question with them, and they said it was the administration's business. That is what I would have been obliged to do. I couldn't have reinstated union members without firing some other people to make room for them because I have to cut my staff in accordance with my declining case load."

The SCMWA is dominated by leaders who are radical and inclined toward Communism.

H-12 page 124— HOUSER: "Just how strong do you think the Communist Party is in the SCMWA?" FISHER: "I would say it was the dominant force." HOUSER: "You think it is the leadership?" FISHER: "It is the leadership. It is not the rank and file, no. The rank and file in all organizations Communistically dominated are all right, but the leadership is dis-

SPEARES: "'The (SCMWA) dues,' they said, 'are one dollar for the dues, and for the good of the organization in this State all money stays here.' Well, now, they had a little argument as to just where that money did go, and finally they admitted 75% of the money was sent East and 25% of it was used in the State of California. Someone wanted to know if any of the money was used in the Mooney defense, and they admitted that it was used on the Mooney defense and also that it was used on the Harry Bridges defense."

H-3 page 546—

HOUSER: "To what do you attribute that attitude?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "It has been my personal opinion that that has been an effect upon the workers by the SCMWA. They have issued bulletins in the lobbies of the buildings setting forth their demands."

HOUSER: "It has been reported that during the time that Mr. Maben occupied the position of County Director, I guess it was, that a so-called purge list of employees to be removed from office and a list of new appointees to be made to the vacant positions was submitted by the SCMWA and the Workers Alliance. Have you any knowledge of that matter?" MRS. COPENLAND: "Yes, I have heard that a great deal and understood that I had the dubious honor of being on the purge list and had asked Mr. Anderson about that. He admitted that there were only three that were definitely on the list naming two others and myself. He inferred that that list had been presented by the groups mentioned."

WATSON: "We have asked several people that question here, people who were in this organization in Bakersfield. They have all avoided the question just as you have avoided it. It looks to me like it is mighty poor bookkeeping in your organization or else there is something wrong there." WHALEY: "What do you want, a black list or something?" WATSON: "Black list of what?" WHALEY: "People who are in the union." WATSON: "No, we do not want a black list of the people who are in the union. We have asked you for a list of people in your organization who are employed in the SRA." WHALEY: "I wouldn't give it to you."

W-15 pages 234
& 235—

FIELD: "I would like to ask you one or two questions: When the Workers Alliance picket line was picketing the headquarters, when you made the 40% cut—" COOLEY: "They never picketed." FIELD: "You had no picket line here at all?" COOLEY: "No." FIELD: "Didn't the SCMWA picket?" COOLEY: "That's right; they did what they called a street demonstration." FIELD: "They had a street demonstration,—how long did it go on there?" COOLEY: "Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday." FIELD: "It was quite a long demonstration, without calling it a picket line?" COOLEY: "They called it a street demonstration; that was their term for it." FIELD: "All right. I am willing that they might call it anything they want to, but during that demonstration, how many of your employees would get in it and participate in it?" COOLEY: "During their noon hour, the employees that belonged to the SCMWA participated in this demonstration. I believe it was compulsory service." FIELD: "On the part of the SCMWA members?" COOLEY: "Yes, I believe it was."

M-1 page 143—

MRS. SMITH: "Again it depends upon what you term 'pressure.' The Workers Alliance, I have known the Workers Alliance to come back into the office and re-litigate the same case three times in an effort to get a different decision."

W-11 page 201—

MISS DOUGLAS: "Mr. Cadey called a meeting of the Workers Alliance with the people at Central Medical so that the Workers Alliance could air all their troubles and grievances there. Mr. Bessenik, who seems to be the man who represents the Workers Alliance group here in San Francisco, is the one that always calls up and puts the pressure on."

M-9 page 78—

MIXTER: "Does the Committee understand from your remark that the Workers Alliance came in and occupied the office of the SRA in Wasco?" MISS MADISON: "Yes, the Workers Alliance, sometime last month, occupied the office for approximately a week as a demonstration." MIXTER: "How many of them, about?" MISS MADISON: "Oh, it varied from twenty, I would say, to around 175."

Sit-down and farm strikes are fostered by the Workers Alliance.

& 85—

WILBUR: "Well, the Workers Alliance came to my office and told me they were going to pull a sit-down strike about a week before they did. I called the Los Angeles office and talked to Mr. Ruderman who was the man under Mr. Reese at that time and Mr. Ruderman said 'So long as they don't interfere with local operations and bother your help, let them stay, but when five o'clock comes, put them out.' About a week later, the Workers Alliance and the CIO group came into my office. It was not only a Workers Alliance sit-down strike but also a CIO and UCAPAWA. So when the people moved in on me, I again called Los Angeles office. Mr. Reese was in Sacramento and Mr. Robert Rumsey was the only one in the office at that time to give me any information. Mr. Rumsey informed me that the Labor Relations Commission had ruled that if the people came into my office on a sit-down strike I was supposed to let them stay as long

So far as we are concerned, we feel that our troubles would be minimized if we didn't have this outside interference."

M-6 pages 192 & 193— CARDWELL: "But these relief workers would go out in these caravans and they would try to prevail on the pickers. They would tell them 'Why do you want to pick unless you get a $1.25 per hundred. If you will stop picking and join the picket line, we will see that you get on relief.'"

Further: "Most were of this particular type, that they were being investigated by an official from the State Comptroller's Office in Sacramento at that time." MIXTER: "Do you know what for?" CARDWELL: "Yes, for chiseling." MIXTER: "Chiseling on relief?" CARDWELL: "Chiseling on relief."

H-12 page 121— FISHER: "Well, there is no—I don't believe there is any question but that the Workers Alliance is a Communistically directed organization. In San Diego it is made up of known Communists. For instance, at the sit-down strike here the other day—I don't recall the date because I have since been out of town—Dan Taylor was one of the members of the sit-down strike, as was also his wife. Both of those are acknowledged Communists, and are members of the Workers Alliance. There are a great many other known Communists who are members of that organization."

HOUSER: "You think they are a pressure group?" NELSON: "Definitely so."

H-12 page 156— PHILLIPS: "Well, it may be and I wouldn't be surprised but what it has been caused—some of it, at least, by pressure by the Workers Alliance. Now, it is a very common thing for a budget to come to my desk—my office, rather, and the worker say, 'Now, the Workers Alliance is in on this, this will have to go through.' That is rather, you might say, a big stick kept in reserve, and that case is supposed to get preference. Now that, I don't think, can be traced to any individual in the organization, that is just a general feeling."

From the Herald

Monday, May

columns 6 & 7—

“Editor Banning Record:

“Some time ago when I appeared before the legislative sub-committee in Riverside as a witness, I was asked by the chairman if there was any Communist in the Workers Alliance, to which question I answered that there was none that I knew of. I also stated that if I found my organization was dominated by Communists I would offer my resignation to the local immediately. I also stated to the committee that I had refused to accept an application for membership of a confessed Communist in our local.

“At last night’s meeting one of our members stated that he read in the papers that our state president had admitted he was a Communist. Immediately two visiting members from the Hemet and San Jacinto local, both officers of their organization, took the floor and said they would back our state chairman even if he was a Communist, and both took me to task for refusing to accept a confessed Communist into our local, and threatened to bring charges against me for doing so, and when our member stated that our local should go on record against Communism and ask our State President to resign, these two members became very angry and raved for almost an hour, calling my attention to the article in the Los Angeles Times which quoted me as saying that the Legislature did a good job in the economy legislation which was contrary to the Workers Alliance and its set-up.

“When these two gentlemen had finished their Communist argument I was fully convinced that I was chairman of a Communist organization and offered my resignation to the local, effective immediately, just as I promised the legislative sub-committee I would when I learned the truth. My resignation was accepted, and I am no longer chairman of this organization, neither am I a member any more, as I also turned in my membership book and union button.

“I hope my many friends will forgive me for getting mixed up with this Un-American organization, and I want to apologize to the Hon. Senator John Phillips and Nelson S. Dilworth for the strongly worded resolution adopted by our local, and a copy mailed to each one of them protesting their action in the state legislature which was signed by myself and our secretary, John R. Carter.

“I also want to go on record as being opposed to Communism and any other Un-American activity, such as the German-American Bund which Fritz Kuhn thought was safely hid behind the Christian Front until the FBI showed him up for what he really was, and I hope our Senators and Congressmen keep an eye on all Un-American activities and foreign isms until every leader of such organizations has been brought to justice and proper punishment meted out to them.

"Foreign agents are attacking our country from every angle trying to break down our American form of government. One of these could be excessive appropriations such as was asked for by the Workers Alliance and the Olson Administration in the special session of the legislature, which would cause a breakdown in our financial structure and place a tax burden upon the people greater than they can bear.

"California is now staggering under a tremendous tax burden caused by the daily horde of migratory workers coming into California from other states, which problem is now almost too big for the State to handle.

"Yours for a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, free from any foreign isms.

"Sincerely yours,

"JAMES F. JONES,

"1235 East Williams Street."

MIXTER: "Have you had any evidence of any so-called labor trouble?" BAKER: "Yes, I have. Well, it's the CIO, it has been organized in our county and they affiliated with them . . . and our trouble started from that source. They have affiliated with the CIO and they have organized in here and they are trying to organize the farm workers of our county."

M-9 page 143—

STOCKTON: "In regard to the relief being offered to the people who go on strike, to my personal knowledge last year when they first started to picketing the place, a young man who lives in Arvin, who claimed to be Secretary of the Workers Alliance, told our pickers that if they picked cotton that they would not be allowed to get relief, even when the picking was over, but if they didn't pick cotton, that they could go directly on relief."

Numerous cases are added to relief rolls by the Workers Alliance which coaches applicants on how to answer questions asked by SRA case-workers.

H-4 page 688—

MRS. RETTIG: "Well, the Workers Alliance spend a great deal of time in the district office. They are in there every Monday and every Thursday in our particular office. They come in during the interviews with the clients and the case-worker at the point of qualify. They have told them all the answers, for instance, a man gets a WPA check on one day, he spends it immediately and he comes in and he brings the Workers Alliance and his receipts and the case has to be accepted, because he has receipts showing what he did with it."

H-12 page 28—

MRS. DALEY: "Do you mean you know more about the set-up of relief than the director?" WAHLENMEIER: "Not necessarily, but very often we know quite a lot about the rules as they apply to our relief clients, their contact with the client himself. It is no reflection on the director if he doesn't know every little detail because after all directors are not social workers. And, we have the manual in regard to relief, and before we go down there we have more time to put in on the case than the social workers have."

H-1 page 96—

HOUSER: "You called our attention today, Mr. Reese, that within the last few days some of your district directors and social service case-supervisors and I guess some of your case-aides and case-workers have been advising people not to pay rent. Is that their own advice or did that go out from headquarters?" REESE: "Well, I think you are perhaps a bit confused with the workers alliance." HOUSER: "I wouldn't be surprised." REESE: "I believe the Workers Alliance is quoted as having recommended to the relief clients that they not pay their rent."

H-11 page 18—

GIGLIOTTI: "I have felt that EROS were being issued on occasions just because of demands and pressure being brought to bear and the plea made that people were destitute, whereas I felt that they were not."

M-6 page 174—

MYER: "Lillian Monroe was able to issue an order on a piece of paper to the SRA and those individuals got relief. There is a question in my mind, it has been there for some time, wondering what means or power or pressure that individual had."

WILSON: "For instance there was a case only recently out in Hollywood which a family by the name of Speakus asked for relief. The worker on the case decided that the party did not have—There was a letter accompanying the application, apparently, signed by the official of the Workers Alliance insisting that the client was eligible. The case-aide took it to her supervisor. Her supervisor said, 'Oh, my God. Better pass it because we don't want any trouble with the Workers Alliance.' The case-aide was still not satisfied and took it to the social service supervisor of the district, and that social service supervisor OKed it. The case was ultimately turned down by finance, but I don't believe until after there had been some assistance rendered in the case. It has happened not once, but many times in the entire set-up. You'll probably find that a good part of the 7½ per cent of your ineligibles are included in your Workers Alliance membership."

Continuing: "There was another case of Workers Alliance organizer in northern California who was removed from the relief rolls when an investigator discovered that he was drawing considerably more than $100 a month as an organizer from his union."

Relief recipients pay part of dole to keep membership in Workers Alliance.

O'DAY: "How much a month do the members pay in the Workers Alliance?" WAHLENMEIER: "Thirty-five cents." O'DAY: "Thirty-five cents. And you have a thousand members here. What happens to that money, about $350 a month, isn't it?" WAHLENMEIER: "Well, there is a division of that money that goes to the—from the local to the county, from the county to the state, and the national office, all get a per capita." O'DAY: "Do you know what the division is?" WAHLENMEIER: "Approximately, the local gets—let's see, the county office gets 22 cents out of that." O'DAY: "Yes." WAHLENMEIER: "And the state office gets 11 cents out of it, and the national—I don't know what the breakdown is there."

PENNEBAKER: "I feel that the Workers Alliance has been subsidized to a certain extent, those members of the Workers Alliance have been subsidized to a certain extent in their activities through relief payments, and otherwise, I mean this, that they are getting relief payments and can carry on this work at no expense to themselves, they appear not to have any responsibilities or obligations to meet, and feel that their living is being taken care of, and they do put in a considerable amount of time on this sort of thing."

I was instructed to go out there and call the people, call them off the farms and tell them to come in there, they had places for them to live and to get a dollar for picking cotton, wanted to raise this cotton to a dollar and a dollar and a half a hundred for picking, so I made three trips into the field and that is what I told them. CHAIRMAN YORTY: "Did everybody go through that procedure?" FULLER: "No." YORTY: "Well, which people didn't go through that procedure?" FULLER: "Workers Alliance members and Unemployed Council members." YORTY: "Unemployed Council and Workers Alliance. How were they handled?" FULLER: "They called up, and the appointments were made for them." YORTY: "Well, suppose there were 50 people waiting there with these regular appointment slips or numbers and somebody came in with one of these Workers Alliance or Unemployed Council slips, then what happened?" FULLER: "These people took preference over them." YORTY: "And yet, they were all just applying for relief?" FULLER: "Yes." YORTY: "Well, now, were you given any special instructions as to the handling of the Workers Alliance and Unemployed Council applicants?" FULLER: "The instructions I received lots of times were to bring them right in immediately after the hours of closing. Sometimes on Saturdays, sometimes after two o'clock." YORTY: "The appointment was made by the Workers Alliance, though?" FULLER: "Yes." YORTY: "Or by this Unemployed Council?" FULLER: "Yes." YORTY: "Now, were there any occasions while you were there where people were waiting in line to apply, where they were forced to wait longer because of these slips that others had?" FULLER: "Every week; many days they had to." YORTY: "You mean, some people waited days?" FULLER: "Some people were there from nine in the morning till five in the afternoon to get an appointment the next day or the day after. Instead of getting Friday's appointment, they were lucky to get one by Monday or Tuesday. Sometimes it would be six or eight or ten or twelve or fifteen of these come in. Those people got all the appointments." YORTY: "Well, now are there any marks on these Form 5's that could distinguish between these clients, whether they came from the Workers Alliance or Unemployed Council, whether they didn't have any such person to recommend them?" FULLER: "Yes; lots of times there was a cross put up in this corner." YORTY: "Will you look at those and see if they have that mark?" FULLER: "(Examining papers) This one has Unemployed Council, UC; the other one is WC, Workers Alliance." YORTY: "And you are referring to those crosses up in the upper right-hand corner with the initials WC and UC?" FULLER: "Yes, sir." YORTY: "That is the way these people were picked out so that a qualifier or anybody else could tell where they came from?" FULLER: "Yes, sir." YORTY: "To your knowledge, were these people whose Form 5's had that mark on put on relief any quicker than the others?" FULLER: "Oh, yes. They were bound to get the qualifying appointments ahead of other people; that meant an extra day or two, a nice two or three days." "Lots of them were treated like honored guests." YORTY: "What would happen if you didn't let one of them right in?" FULLER: "The door closed at two o'clock, and pretty soon they would call up—call the office to show so and so in from the Unemployed Council or the Workers Alliance. Other people couldn't get in." YORTY: "Now, were you ever asked to join the CIO union, the SCMWA, by any one when you were employed at SRA?" FULLER: "Yes, sir. By dozens of people." YORTY: "Were you approached during office hours?" FULLER: "Yes." "I should say a half dozen times." YORTY: "Did you have any difficulty keeping order at any time among those who were applying for relief?" FULLER: "Plenty." YORTY: "What was the nature of your difficulty?" FULLER: "Well, the difficulty was there were drunkards."

SECTION 7

POLITICS IN RELIEF

Politics permeates the SRA and is an important factor in contributing to its inefficiency and extravagance.

H-2 pages 230
& 231—

WILSON: "There have been different kinds of politics in SRA. There has been Republican politics, Democratic politics, new philosophy politics, just as well as you might say group politics, personal politics within groups. Under the Republican administration from my observation the politics was held to a minimum. It was used, if any, in the administrative heads. And a good many of the people on the administrative payroll under the heads of departments were actually taken from the relief rolls. I know that in our own department there are three or four that were taken from the relief rolls. However, since the advent of the new administration there has been a definite tendency to replace some of the holdovers with party workers."

H-12 page 4—

HOUSER: "Do you think the governor was involved in this playing of politics?" WAHLENMEIER: "I think he was. If he hadn't been he would have ordered the relief administrator not to cut the budgets until the money run out."

H-2 pages 265,
266 & 267—

PHILLIPS: "You mean to say that after the new administration came in, the new administration checked the political registration." MRS. KREINBRING: "Yes. I believe that was done in May of this year. Well, I presume they checked my registration and found out what it was. In fact, I filed an application in the state office, and I was told because of the political set-up and because they had checked my registration I couldn't get the position." PHILLIPS: "Who told you that?" MRS. KREINBRING: "The message was sent to me by Mr. Chambers." PHILLIPS: "Directly from him?" MRS. KREINBRING: "Yes."

H-3 pages 488
& 489—

HOUSER: "I noticed a moment ago in your testimony a statement to the effect that a good many of the personnel now was serving for purposes other than good service along social service lines. Do you want to enlarge on that?" MRS. COPLAND: "Yes. I feel very seriously that the people that have been replaced by people for purely political purposes, not because of their qualifications or their training, or their general experience qualifies them for the position but because for political purposes they were put in the positions that they now hold. I think that explains the situation more than anything else for the present conditions in the relief administration."

H-12 page 86—

HOUSER: "You have been in the State Relief Administration for a long time. Have you noticed as much political bias as in this particular case? Has it ever entered into the picture before?" MRS. TILLER: "No, it has never entered into the picture before, in any of the times that I have become employed by the State Relief Administration, and I have had three re-employments, as it were, with the administration."

H-4 page 692—

HOUSER: "Well, have there been any replacements of capable employees by political appointees to your knowledge?" MRS. RETTIG: "Oh, yes, I think, that has been very true all along the line. For instance, my own demotion was certainly done according to no standards of personnel that had ever been set before."

H-10 pages 34
& 35—

HOUSER: "The appointments that have been made—are they political?" MRS. WORCESTER: "In a sense they are all political appointments. Mr. Roe made the statement he would not appoint anyone who was not a Democrat. When I sent in the list I was interested in the qualifications. I presume those rejected probably were not Democrats."

H-6 page 26—

BERKOWITZ: "The campaign was on in California, I got very busy on that. I quit the WPA and took part in the campaign." HOUSER: "Whose campaign?" BERKOWITZ: "Governor Olson's." HOUSER: "How long were you active in the campaign?" BERKOWITZ: "From the 1st of September until after election was over in November." HOUSER: "What did you do?" BERKOWITZ: "I was one of the campaign committee for the Democratic party appointed by the central committee, and had charge of all literature in the whole county—distributing it."

HOUSER: "Were you demoted on Mr. Roe's appointment?" MISS COUTS: "Yes; I was demoted to Grade 1 Supervisor. I was demoted still further." HOUSER: "How many demotions have you had?" MISS COUTS: "In August, 1939, I was acting director. I was demoted to Grade 1 supervisor; from there I was demoted to case-worker." HOUSER: "When was the last demotion?" MISS COUTS: "The end of last week. I questioned my seniority rating. I was told that my seniority rating as grade 1 was only so much, whereas my seniority rating as a case-worker was more; if I cared to put in an application as a case-worker, he would like to have it in writing." HOUSER: "Were you reappointed?" MISS COUTS: "Yes, as a case-worker. It took effect last week."

MISS DOUGLAS: "Another experience which brings out the fact that political endorsement was necessary, when we were closing the project, we had a number of very excellent clerical workers, girls who definitely needed their jobs, and the job was gone as far as the project was concerned, so I sent them down to the Personnel Office at 1000 Geary, suggesting that they apply for a job. In every instance those girls were told that they would have to get the endorsement of two people in the political group, preferably their Democratic assemblyman and one other."

PHILLIPS: "Apparently Mr. Ballou had something to do with the selection for men for camps?" SPEARES: "Every one of these ex-army men,—veterans, who have been assigned, all tell the same story, that they got their jobs through Mr. Ballou, and Mr. Sullivan who seems very close to Mr. Ballou,—Mr. Sullivan at the present time is a work camp superintendent under Mr. Smiley, who is the base camp superintendent at Camp Natoma, and he is very active in veterans' and political work. In fact, he advised me that I had better join this Democratic Veterans' Action Committee if I wanted to retain my job,—I guess he was right, because I didn't retain it."

POULSON: "What does Mr. Ballou do in the SRA?" CHAMBERS: "At what period? Now?" POULSON: "In the last year or so." CHAMBERS: "He was definitely an employee of the Relief Administration up until the day I was appointed." POULSON: "What day was that?" CHAMBERS: "August 14th." POULSON: "Well, Mr. Ballou has some calls here in October and November of 1939; one of them is $7.90, another is $8.50, $6.80, and $13.40." DEUEL: "He was not an employee?" CHAMBERS: "He made the calls and charged them to us?" POULSON: "He called Estell. What does Mr. Estell do?" CHAMBERS: "At that time he was in the personnel department." POULSON: "$7.90. He called Mosher, $8.50; he called Miller, $6.80 in San Francisco, and then he called him when he went to Los Angeles and that was $13.40." PHILLIPS: "Do you think there is anything significant in the fact that he only called people who are in the personnel department?" CHAMBERS: "Has he made any lately?" POULSON: "We don't have these lately." CHAMBERS: "I don't think you will find it." POULSON: "They are all personnel men, aren't they?" and his pay was to start,—I don't recall exactly, I think the first day of October. In questioning Mr. Garoutte, I had to know exactly how much experience he had, so I would know how much confidence to place in him, and what duties to turn over to him, and I asked where he had worked before in camps, and he told me he had not worked before in camps, that he had organized the Veterans Democratic Action Committee and that they had promised him a job for the good work which he had done, and he was told to report to Mr. Walter Ballou in the Governor's office in Sacramento, and Mr. Ballou had given him this position. I asked him if he had any experience in handling men at all. He said only in the Army; he was a non-commissioned officer in the Army, and he was told to report he had a lot of experience and he was to say he was trained, and eventually he was to get a camp. Mr. Garoutte, within two days after his arrival in camp, informed me he had received a message from Mr. Ballou, of the Governor's office, and Mr. Ballou wanted him to do some political work for him, and he would have to be excused for the time it would take to handle the job. . . . Mr. Garoutte was gone on an average, I would say, of four days out of each week, working for the Governor's office."

It didn't mean anything anyway." HOUSER: "In spite of those facts, you don't think your appointment was political in nature?" CALLIS: "Well, I suppose it was. Yes." FIELD: "When did you sever your connections?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "You mean, from the SRA? It was November, 1939." WOLLENBERG: "At the time of your severance of your connections, was it a voluntary resignation on your part?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "I wouldn't call it exactly voluntary. I was asked to accept a transfer to Monterey County to take a position as a Grade Two supervisor in charge of the other supervisors. Since I was told the thing was political I simply resigned in protest of the politics." WOLLENBERG: "What were the circumstances that led up to that?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "If I can start from the beginning, I think, I can qualify it. About last April when the time came to reduce because the case load was falling, the Field Representative came and said the procedure would be changed though I would continue to be responsible for the work of the people in the office. If I wanted to release anyone I would have to get approval from the State office." FIELD: "Who was the Field Representative?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "Mrs. Irene Leeper. So I was suspicious that the thing was political and it didn't seem administratively very strong. I asked her, but she was evasive. About two weeks later at the conference of the social workers I talked with a friend of mine who was a District Administrative Supervisor in San Francisco and she asked me if I had had difficulty in releasing people. * * *

So in the course of the discussion I asked why if we were responsible for the work of the people we had been denied the right to dismiss. He seemed embarrassed and he evaded and he said it was a difficult question to answer, but in two or three weeks he could answer it. And when the meeting was over he came up to me and said, 'You asked me a hard question.' He said,—I remember his exact words, and I am sure his exact words were, 'You are particularly obtuse politically, if you know what that means.' He went on rather frankly and said, used a generality, that certain forces or some group—something like that, wanted to turn the SRA into a complete spoils system. He said he was fighting the thing and that if he couldn't stop it he would resign and if he did resign that would be the only reason and then I would know the answer to my question."

WYCKOFF: "Where situations arise where the local individuals in the counties don't have the full story of what happens to certain cases, I send to the State office for the information, so we can have it to give the complete picture. For instance, today in that man's paycheck—the answer is obviously in the State office. They have gone on record in that resolution as asking for his removal." State Relief Administration had been shattered, the people were not working, that the quickest way to do it would be to employ a qualified professional public welfare administrator as the assistant to Mr. Anderson, and to give that person the authority which the State Relief Administrator, and the State Relief Administration could develop sound public welfare policies, and to carry on with a qualified public welfare staff. He stated that he would not do that, that he was having pressure brought to bear upon him from all of the Districts in the State because they were not getting appointments that they had anticipated, and secondly he said he would not appoint such persons, and that we could expect immediately from fifty to sixty political appointments in the social welfare department under the SRA."

Further, "It is my profound conviction that the introduction of the political spoils system into the SRA will have far-reaching damaging effects on Federal co-operation and assistance, to the great detriment of the people needing relief, and resulting in greater financial burden for the State." Report by Edwin N. ## SECTION 8

SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES

Radical SRA employees have used their positions to spread subversive doctrines among other employees and among the recipients of relief. Communists and fellow-travelers have received little discouragement from the State Administration.

Senate Journal, Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State

Further: "'The Executive Council is composed of powerful CIO leaders, representatives of the Communist Party, and presidents of local chapters of CIO and SCMWA. At these meetings, instead of discussion and effort being put forth to improve working conditions of the workers, time is spent in determining to whom telegrams and letters should be sent regarding any bills in any way affecting the Communist Party, either in the State Legislature or Congress.' 'Every indication of these council meetings is that the objectives of the Communist Party and the interests of the Union are first.'"

H-2 page 235— WILSON: "Now, it is no longer a question of partisan politics, gentlemen, at all, it is a question of whether or not we are going to permit people within the State Relief Administration to tear down the ideals of American Democracy under this guise of freedom of speech and call it a form of political belief in which they are entitled not to express their opinion."

Further: "As a consequence you have very few people who are now in the heads of the departments who believe in the American philosophy and you have quite a few who believe in the totalitarian philosophy. That is what I mean by your relaxation of vigilance."

We also have an affidavit from a communist by the name of Ledweiss, William T. Ledweiss who was a state Communist organizer and who attended a meeting in Stockton in August of 1936. The meeting was also attended, and I will produce the papers, the editor of the Communist newspaper which is now the Peoples’ World, and at that time I believe was called the Daily Worker. At that meeting, according to the affidavit of Mr. Ledweiss, it was stated that the Communists should join the Democratic party in as large a group as possible and that by January 1st, 1940 through the Workers Alliance, the Communist party would have political control of the State Relief Administration. That affidavit can be made available for your committee, if you wish.”

ASSEMBLYMAN YORTY: "Was there any discussion at that time as to the strategy of the Communist Party and its work within the Democratic Party?" MORTON: "Yes, there was. At that time I was a member of the Socialist group. They needed me there as—well, I would call it the spy system. Their strategy is to get as many political members in all the parties and undermine the Government. There are as many Communists in the Republican Party as in the Democratic and Socialist Parties. When I suggested that I leave the Socialist Party and become a full-fledged Communist they said, 'No; you stay in the Socialist Party and let us know what is going on.' I didn't like that stuff. It ended up in a fist fight there in Berkeley one night that involved about fourteen Trotskyites, including Jack London's daughter Joanne; I read a scandal about it in the papers this morning. After that I got out of the Socialist Party."

MIXTER: "During your operations as a newspaper man, have you had occasion to carry on any investigation as to subversive activities and control within the SRA and other similar state organizations?" W-11 page 119— GERAGHTY: "Well, I looked up to see who were known Communists, and on this list I found two names." WOLLENBERG: "That were registered, you mean?" GERAGHTY: "As Communists." WOLLENBERG: "You mean, registered politically?" GERAGHTY: "Registered politically as Communists. One was Dr. L. R. French, and the other was Mario Casaroli."

W-11 page 182— MISS DOUGLAS: "The project is running under the general supervision of WPA, and WPA put Mr. Percy Frye in as supervisor, and Mr. Percy Frye has all the Workers Alliance support and, Labor's Non-Partisan League."

Further: "Well, of course, we objected professionally to a man with Mr. Frye's background of support of that particular radical group going in where there was contact in the homes of relief clients, and where there was an increase in the budget."

H-2 page 290— WILSON: "Only when stirred up by agitators and galled by red propaganda does any appreciable part of them (recipients) get the 'world owes me a living' complex, and there is a lot of that red propaganda delivered at every pay station and every depot almost every payday or every gathering day."

Y-2 page 138— ASSEMBLYMAN TENNEY: "Was it generally known among the people in this community and in the SRA office that the Workers Alliance and SCMW and Laborers Non-partisan League were Communist controlled organizations?" MRS. HUBER: "I'm afraid the people didn't realize it as a whole. The laymen didn't." TENNEY: "How about the employees of the SRA office?" MRS. HUBER: "We knew it."

SECTION 9

COUNTY ADMINISTRATION

Payment of relief to the unemployed must be continued until reemployment has been accomplished. To continue relief, every economy must be made and inequities which have developed under the SRA must be eliminated. No plan has demonstrated that it can function as economically as has a plan of local supervision, under State direction.

W-11-119—T. P. Geraghty, SRA Executive Secretary, Board of Personnel Standard and Appeals, San Francisco.

W-11-182—Miss Helen Douglas, nutrition worker, San Francisco.

H-2-290—A. M. Wilson, Paymaster, State Controller's office, Los Angeles.

Y-2-138—Mrs. Adele Huber, SRA Case Worker, Visalia, Tulare County.

- W-2 pages 57
& 58— LEACH: "There were 109,000 SRA clients; they had to divide up the money among those clients, taking the average per case which was estimated at $36 at that time—$36 by 109,000 should bring you well under the mark of $4,000,000 allowed for the month of March, Mr. Lore, just by simple arithmetic in its simplest form, after allowing for camps, the commodities, and administration, and that is the basis why I believe the forty per cent cut was not necessary."
- W-14 page 7— BLAKE: "Well, we closed over 300 cases around the first of April. About half of them were due to the effects of Senate Bill 81."
- W-14 page 46— MRS. LYTLE: "Well, I would say that my own immediate experience is that there probably has been some lessening of eligibility. However, I think we have certainly tightened up on eligibility as the result of Senate Bill 81."
- H-1 pages 18
& 19— REESE: "Fortunately we have never had a fixed manual until the recent Legislature practically wrote us one in the Senate Bill 81. The Legislature has defined eligibility to such a point that our manual is practically obsolete."
- H-5 page 2— GRIER: "I think we all feel that your Legislature at the special session did a very fine job under the circumstances with the Senate Bill 81. I think events have subsequently absolutely upheld you in your contention that was a sufficient appropriation and not necessary to cut budgets because now we know the budget cuts that were made are being reinstated."
- H-9 pages 90
& 91— PREISKER: "But during this month when 12,000 were supposedly cut off their relief checks, of course, with the change it didn't amount to that much, and although we set up $5,000 with the expectation there might be a rush and they probably would use it up within a week or two weeks anyhow, they have actually worked out during this month $897 worth of the $5,000."
- P-1 page 318— LANE: "I would like to pass on to you gentlemen what I attribute to your action as a very noticeable and direct result: The fact that these transients now—the workers convey to me that they are anxious—not only

W-14-7—Frank J. Blake, SRA Director Santa Clara County, Santa Clara.

W-14-46—Myrtle C. Lytle, SRA Social Service Supervisor, San Jose.

H-1-18—James B. Reese, Administrative Assistant to SRA Administrator, Los Angeles.

H-5-2—C. E. Grier, Chairman Board of Supervisors, San Bernardino County, Upland.

P-1-318—George Lane, SRA Supervisor, Los Angeles.

ready, willing and able, but anxious to go (back to their home states), which is just the contrary of what has been the policy in the past."

H-13 page 39—

PLATT: "Well, we had 116 people when this bill went into effect and the cut came and we have, now, fifty-six people."

H-6 page 50—

BERKOWITZ: "When I took office in September the percentage was 59.4 increase over the year previous. There has been a consistent drop until it was 17 per cent last time I saw it, about a week ago." HOUSER: "After the Legislature passed Senate Bill 81?" BERKOWITZ: "Yes. Our peak season is the first of March. There is a definite decline in this county."

H-12 page 2—

WAHLENMEIER: "To start with, the budgets were slashed 40% and persons couldn't meet their bills on that budget slash. And, the Workers Alliance, being an organization of the unemployed, called upon by the unemployed to try to do something about it. Any way that we could figure this budget slash we couldn't justify it. I don't think that the 40% cut was necessary, especially at the time that it was made."

W-14 pages 46
& 47—

WOLLENBERG: "That there was a decided lessening or relaxing of eligibility rules in the early part of 1939?" MRS. LYTLE: "Yes, sir." WOLLENBERG: "And a tightening up again since the passing of Senate Bill 81, is that your feeling?" MRS. LYTLE: "Yes, sir." LORE: "Was there any tightening up prior to the enactment of Senate Bill 81, or do you think that the relaxation continued from early in 1939 until its passage?" MRS. LYTLE: "Do you mean, did the relaxation continue to relax?" LORE: "Put it that way." WOLLENBERG: "Or stay relaxed?" MRS. LYTLE: "Or stay relaxed, or what?" LORE: "What did happen, in your opinion?" MRS. LYTLE: "Well, I think that we were given the very definite impression, in the early part of 1939, that the rigid following of rules of eligibility was not to be as rigid, and that we were to relax our rules of eligibility and give service to clients in many instances when the actual need, or the actual need for relief was not always there. However, I do not think that was true in this county, and it has not been true since I came to this county."

H-13-39—Lawrence Platt, SRA Director, Orange County, Santa Ana.

H-6-50—Charles Berkowitz, SRA Director, Riverside County, Riverside.

H-12-2—Vernon Wahlenmeier, Workers' Alliance leader, San Diego.

M-7 page 88—

STONE: "At the present time there is a very interesting thing going on that I learned about a little while ago, that Mr. McWilliams of the Division of Immigration, of Housing, is gathering information for the SRA on aliens in the State of California, for the purpose of proving their, they are legally in the United States. Now, what I can't see, just exactly, where the authority comes for a thing of that kind. There are reported to be in the employ of the Division of Immigration and Housing four individuals who are known agitators."

P-1 page 245—

PALOMARES: "I think we all draw our own conclusions. I have tried to compare the SRA set-up, for instance, with the county. Now, I never have to supplement a county case. If anything happens to the case, that is, you might say is on the border line, I can get on the 'phone or drop up to the county office and in five minutes we will have the thing settled; but with the SRA for instance, I can go over to any one of the boys over there and talk to them, well, they have got to write to Los Angeles, or teletype them, then we have to wait until it comes back and in the meantime our problem is still on our hands. I have asked them 'What would you do in a community where you didn't have a Chest or a private agency to alleviate the situation or take up this slack?' I have often wondered. They said they just couldn't do anything. I am of the opinion that if we put the SRA on the same basis as you have orphan aid and blind aid, old-age security, and handle it through the counties that you are going to effect economy and also efficiency."

M-1 page 148—

MIXTER: "Do you believe the administration of relief is handled efficiently in the several counties of the state?" STUART: "You mean the entire program?" MIXTER: "Yes." STUART: "On a decentralized basis." MIXTER: "Including that which is now being handled under the SRA?" STUART: "I believe that it could be handled efficiently by the counties under state supervision." MIXTER: "And financed by the state?" STUART: "Financed by the state." MIXTER: "Do you believe that there would be a savings effected in the administration of relief in that manner which should result in either benefit, added benefit, to the relief recipient or in the reduction of the relief load generally?" STUART: "Both."

M-7-88—Dr. Lee A. Stone, Health Officer, Madera County, Madera.

M-1-148—C. A. Stuart, Superintendent, Welfare Department, San Joaquin County, Stockton.

- W-11 page 242— McLAUGHLIN: "I think the administration should lie in the welfare departments of the counties, as at present for the administration of the Social Security program."
- H-9 page 62— FUNDERBURGH: "I would see no objection to county administration, were there a state wide, uniform, policy, so far as eligibility is concerned and administration."
- H-9 pages 92 & 93— PREISKER: "In other words, my opinion is that if it is returned to the counties and the relief is apportioned between the county and the state, the county should participate clear to the top." HOUSER: "In other words, you would integrate the program and then apportion it in the same manner that the categorical aids are apportioned today. I don't mean on the same percentage basis but on some percentage basis where the county would contribute, say, $10 and the state $10." PREISKER: "Yes, either fifty-fifty or a forty-sixty, or a thirty-five-sixty-five, some basis like that."
